THE NEW TEMPLE.

The Place Where Peterborough Freemasons Will Meet.

The new Masonic Temple is completed, and will be dedicated with due ceremony on Thursday afternoon.

On Water street, after passing the Bank of Montreal, the new Dunsford block of buildings is reached. A staircase, brightly lighted at night with gas jets, leads, after a landing and a turn, to the outer rooms of the new temple, which has been in course of construction for some months past. That the abode of the Masons is found is certain, for under the feet the tapestry carpet tells of the fact, being ornamented with the well-known insignia of Masonry, the square and compass. At the head of the stairs, and right in front is the kitchen, fitted with all necessary utensils, and off to the right is the dining room. This apartment is also carpeted with tapestry, illuminated with the square and compass. It has cherry dining tables, comfortable chairs and all requisites for comfort and convenience. To the left, after ascending the stairs, a doorway leads to the waiting room. This is plainly and neatly furnished. A sheet of oilcloth covers the floor, with borders of carpet. Blue upholstered settees are provided, and a lavatory is situated at the end of the room, being a separate apartment These rooms are only accessory to the temple, which is approached from the waiting room in three different ways. It may be entered by going down either of two long halls, carpeted with lengths of cocoa matting, or by passing through a suite of ante-rooms, situated in the rear of the "red" room. When the ante-rooms are passed through the whole length of the temple is made visible by means of folding doors being thrown open between the "red" and the "blue" room beyond.

The "red" room is the meeting place of the Royal Arch Chapter and of the Knight Templars. The seat of honour is situated at the north end of the room, standing out from a pannel of red upholstery. It is placed above the level of the floor about four inches. A platform running around the room three inches from the floor bears the settees, with walnut frames and all richly upholstered in red. The ceiling is handsomely finished in pannelling and the walls are tinted a delicate terra cotta. A gasalier designed specially for use in such halls, and beautifully finished in polished bronze, supplies the light.

The "blue" room is entered by the two halls, before referred to, and by the folding doors separating it from the "red" room. It is about one half larger than the "red" room. Here the Masonic Lodges are convened. All around the walls, except on the north end, runs a platform. Red upholstered settees, with ash frames ornamented with walnut, strung along it, interrupted at intervals by the fanteuils where the officers sit in authority. These are very handsome pieces of furniture. The woodwork of white ash contrasts strongly with the black walnut ornamentation and the brilliant color of the upholstery. The carpet is an enigma to the uninitiated. It was designed by Hughes, the carpet manufacturer of Huddersford, England, and contains emblems of masonry from the lowest to the highest orders. The ceiling exhibits the art of the paper hanger, when fine materials are placed in his hand. The walls here as in the "red" room are tinted in terra cotta.

The temple occupies the whole flat in the Dunsford building. Its plan is excellent, giving, as it does, spacious halls of meeting and leaving the other apartments in convenient situations. The furnishings combine art and comfort.

EVERYTHING New, Rich and Rare in Millinery Goods will be on display at TURNBULL'S Millinery Opening.

PETERBORO EXHIBITION

OPENING DAY OF THE MIDLAND FAIR.

Busy Day at the Grounds—Dull Weather—Large Number of Exhibitors.

To-day is the opening day of the Peterborough Central Exhibition. All day to day the vehicles conveying multifarious articles for exhibition have been moving south to the grounds.

The Secretary's office has been crowded all day, and Secretary Gallelly and his assistants have kept their pens flying in issuing tickets to exhibitors and keeping an account of them. The dull weather has not impeded the progress of making ready at the grounds.

The dining-room and booths at the west side are in running order; tents are being erected all over the grounds; flags are flying and everything has a go-aheadativeness appearance.

The exhibition building is a scene of busy tumit. Everything from the inevitable big pumpkin to the show of drugs, from fruits, flowers and fine arts to a clothing exhibit, is finding suitable places in the building.

Live stock of all kinds are rapidly filling up the stalls which now line nearly three entire sides of the grounds.

To-morrow the exhibits will be all in order. The gate will be opened at 9 a. m. and remain open till 6 p.m. Speeding in the ring will commence at 2 p.m. sharp. There will be three events, the stallion trot, the trot for the farmers' purse, and the trot for the Jubille purse. A special event for to-morrow will be the baby show.

KNIGHTS OF LABOUR

Opening of the General Assembly at Minneapolis—Mr. Powderly's Address.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 3.—The General Assembly of the Knights of Labour was called to order this morning in the rink, about three thousand people being present. After an address of welcome from Mayor Ames, which was replied to by General Worth Foreman Richard Griffiths, and a short speech from Mr. Richard Trevelly, the convention adjourned till 8 p. m. to await the arrival of Mr. Powderly, and other delayed delegates.

The great hall was crowded at the time of opening of the evening exercises. Mr. Powderly, on rising, was given an ovation. After referring to the principles of the Knights of Labour he said: "I want to say a few things on immigration. It has been charged that I do not favor immigration. It is a mistake. I am of foreign birth myself. I have no objection to foreign immigration; I favor it. Every land grant company has its immigration agents. They bring in all manner of foreigners. If one of these poor creatures raises his hand, not against law—for he knows none—but against what he sees just before him, he is called an Anarchist and is punished, while the men who loaded the poor creatures on this country go scott free (Thunderous applause.) I hate Anarchy and I hate Anarchists. How can the child reared in poverty, squalor, ignorance and vice grow up to respect the institutions of this country? When I say stop the agent of the steamship company; take home the agent of the land company, stop importing foreign paupers, let only those come to our free America who come of their own free will to make their homes here, is that saying anything against the foreigner? (Cries of "No, no!") This is why I am called a crank on the immigration question. I am also called a crank on the temperance question. I may be a crank on this question, but I am not ashamed to say that I would far rather see a man a sober man than a drunkard. It is better to educate our children to be temperate than to be drunkards. There is not a man living who will say that it is right to bring into the home that which damns the head of the family. There are those who have threatened to leave the order because of my position on this question. I say to all who would withdraw for such a cause, 'Go!' I'll trust the fate of this nation with sober men and women. I'll never take back one word of what I have said on the temperance question. The time will come when the workers of all kinds and classes will be banded together for a common purpose."

The Next Meet.

A paragraph in last week's issue brings the Packet a letter from an enthusiastic canoeist in Lindsay, who heartily approves of the suggestion that Lake Couchiching be the place of the next annual meet of the Northern Division of the A. C. A., and he strongly urges, as a preliminary step, the formation of a Canoe Club in Orillia. Such a club would give its members advantages in the way of low rates of travel, free freight for canoes, etc., and would at once afford the organization necessary for the management of the details in connection with the proposed gathering. It would be a grand advertisement for Orillia to bring four hundred canoeists, with all the excursionists they would attract, to Orillia next summer, and we again express the hope that steps will at once be taken to press Orillia's claims. —Orillia Packet.

Cable Car Accident.

CINCINNATI, October 3.—Last evening the Walnut street cable car grip became fouled with the cable, and the car rushed into the city with lightning speed. Every car on the track clear up to the Walnut hills was derailed. Thirty or forty people were bruised, and three or four hundred badly scared. Out of the injured, Lewis Kolb is probably fatally hurt, and Mrs. Blockman, of Covington, Ky., seriously injured. The others escaped with slight injuries.

Neglected Colds, Pain in the Chest, and all diseases of the Lungs, are cured by using Allen's Lung Balsam.

It will take one thousand trains of twenty cars each to transport this year's surplus crop from Manitoba.

O'BRIEN AND HARRINGTON.

The Irish Leaders Give Their Version of the Reasons of Their Arrest.

DUBLIN, Oct. 3.—William O'Brien has written a public letter in which he says: "On the day of my conviction at Mitchelstown the Solicitor-General telegraphed in cipher to the Crown Counsel: 'Mistake; O'Brien will beat us; Harrington will be debarred at our next meeting.' This explains why I received three separate summonses. The plot for ruining Mr. Harrington is here disclosed with brutal candor." In an interview Mr. Harrington says; "Perhaps some of my words at the Mitchelstown inquest were strong for some of our English friends, but nothing else could elicit the facts from the police. It was only by breaking down the evidence of the earlier witnesses that I could change the story arranged by the police. I was informed that the policy had previously been determined upon to give me all the insolence possible in the witness' chair. Sergt. Ryder pledged himself to his companions to strike me. This was borne out by his demeanor in the witness' chair. The inspectors, however, restrained him. Regarding Mr. O'Brien's letter, I would be surprised if the benchers were all such fools as the solicitor-general thinks. I would not be surprised if Dublin Castle finds itself in an awkward fix when all the facts regarding the refusal to permit Constable Sullivan's report in evidence are placed before the English people. I attribute the serving of the summons upon Mr. O'Brien and Mayor Sullivan to a desire on the part of the Castle authorities to suppress the evidences of their defeat by the proclaimed branches of the National League, whose meetings continue as before. The Government will doubtless prosecute other journalists than those named. Should Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Sullivan be thrown into prison it will be a strong plank in our platform through its effect in England, where the greatest jealousy is felt regarding the rights of the press."

DUBLIN, Oct. 3.—Lord Mayor Sullivan will proceed in state to the Police Court on Thursday when his trial comes off. The members of the corporations in their robes will accompany him.

BRUTAL MURDERS.

Two Indians Killed Near Peninsula, on the Canadian Pacific.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Oct. 3.—The residents in the vicinity of Peninsula, a C. P. R. railway station on the north shore of Lake Superior, about 180 miles east of here, have been thrown into a state of great excitement over the brutal murder of two Indians near that place a few days ago. A violent quarrel occurred among the Indians at the camps, in the course of which two brothers, named Louis Moses and Joe Moses, attacked Isaiah David with clubs, smashing in his skull, and after he was dead, clubbed his head till it was reduced to a complete pulp. The two murderers, not satisfied with having wreaked their vengeance upon their unfortunate victim, followed David's son William, 23 years old, for seven miles over the C. P. R. track, and on overtaking him stoned him to death and threw his body down on to the rocks. The assassins then rounded the camps, whence they fled into the woods and have not been seen since.

THE PEACE DEPUTATION.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The Bishop of London writes regretting his inability to join the American Peace Deputation, and expressing sympathy with the object of their visit to Washington. Mr. John Bright, in a letter states, that he will watch the movement in which the deputation are engaged with great interest.

REVIEWS.

ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.—We have received the number for Sept. 17th of the edition for Canada and the United States of the Illustrated London News. It is printed from duplicate plates and is in every respect a facsimile of the original London edition, so well known and highly appreciated. The double page illustration of an episode of the Thames boating season is excellent, and some of the other principal illustrations are scenes in Burmah, the United States, Lindisfarre, (the pilgrimage) New Zealand, Bulgaria, Morocco, etc. Krupp's latest big gun is depicted on its railway journey towards Italy. Beside the attractive illustrations, the letter press gives in a compact readable form the current news of Great Britain and the rest of the old world. The office of publication is at 237 Potter Building, New York.

HARPER'S MONTHLY.—The October number of Harper has for its frontispiece one of a series of charming illustrations by Abbey of an old love song by George Wither. Mrs. Davis continues her lively sketch, "Here and There in the South," the scene being this time laid among the Bayoux. Under the title, "The Smallest of American Republics," W. E. Curtis gives an interesting account of Costa Rica. Very different is the scene of the Rev. Dr. Hurst's description of "A Dead Portuguese City in India," ruined and picturesque Goa. Henry James contributes an appreciative criticism of the paintings of John S. Sargent. In "The Curative Uses of Water," Dr. T. M. Coan gives the latest conclusions of science in popular language. The serial novels, "April Hopes," by W. D. Howells, and "Narka," by Miss Kathleen O'Meara, are progressing with increased interest, and the light novelette, "Tony, the Maid," is concluded by Miss Blanche Howard. There are several other short tales of merit, and some very pleasing poetry. The editorial miscellanies are, as ever, full of interest. This number is even more profusely illustrated than usual.

THE CANADIAN METHODIST MAGAZINE.—The first article in the October number, "Our railway to the Pacific," has a number of full-page, handsome engravings of the magnificent scenery of the Rocky Mountains. Lady Brassey has a charmingly illustrated paper, "In the Bermudas," giving a graphic account of those beatiful islands. Another illustrated article describes the remarkable Lick Observatory in California, which is mounting the largest telescope in the world. The Rev. Henry Lewis contributes a lively paper on Welsh Preachers and Preaching. A touching story by Mark Guy Pearse record "Simon Jasper's Conversion." The Rev. R. Owen Davis describes with considerable humor the shadows cast on a preacher's life by the impostures of which he is made the victim. In view of the recent Prison Congress in Toronto, the graphic paper of prison life, "Jottings from Jail," will be read with much interest. A reprint article on the Millennium, by the Rev. G. A. Cleveland, presents a novel and ingenious interpretation. Mrs. Barr's story of Yorkshire Methodism increases in interest as it reaches its denouement. The Editor describes Aggressive Methodism in Great Britain, and his observations during his recent visit to the Maritime Provinces.

The brief has created a sensation.

THE T. V. C. AND MONTREAL.

We are surprised to find the following editorial assertion in the Montreal Witness. It says:—

"A good deal of Federal money is being spent on the Trent Valley Canal, an enterprise the only value of which is that it gives an opportunity of spending money freely in half a dozen Ontario counties."

It is astonishing to find a Montreal journal so ignorant in regard to an important public work, which, though for the good of the Dominion as a whole, is more directly beneficial to Montreal than to any other locality in Canada. We cannot suppose that even the Witness, if it knew what it was writing about would condemn a work so advantageous to Montreal, for the mere purpose of making a point in its attack upon the Dominion Government.

The Erie canal by its cheap and safe barge navigation, does much towards building up the export trade of New York. It conveys thither far more grain than all the railways combined. What the Erie canal does for New York the Trent Valley canal would do for Montreal by affording a similar cheap and safe barge navigation. If the Witness would look at the map it would perceive at once the great saving of distance and the avoidance of dangers between Lake Huron and the lower St. Lawrence. If it has a good map it would also be enabled to perceive that the Trent Valley route lies chiefly through fine lakes and rivers and that the summit level, Balsam Lake, is fed by an immense network of streams and lakes. Thus it has two great advantages over the Erie with its soft artificial banks that would not stand the wash of fast towing, and with its short supply of water for the high levels obstructive navigation in the dry season. In fact the more the Witness makes itself acquainted with the Trent Valley route the more convinced it will be of the advantages it offers, and it will support instead of condemning the construction of a valuable feeder for the export trade of Montreal.

THE Grand Rapids, Dakota, Plaindealer says:—

"We want what Canada produces and she wants what we produce. The taxes we exact from her she in return secures from us, and the whole business reminds one of Paddy and his blanket when he cut a yard off the top and sewed it on the bottom to make it longer."

Well, we would like to know what there is that Dakota produces that Manitoba greatly needs or what there is that Manitoba produces that Dakota greatly needs. Dakota wants one thing, namely, a free market for its wheat or the flour made from it, in our Maritime Provinces, but the Maritime Provinces do not need it as Manitoba can supply them just as well. In fact Canada produces very few things that the United States really need, and the United States very few things that Canada really needs. Our barley and eggs on the one hand and their cotton on the other hand almost exhaust the lists. What they really want is a free market for their manufactures to oust ours and free access to our raw materials to make them up at their profit for us, but Canada certainly neither wants nor needs such an arrangement.

THE Kingston Whig declines to give us information regarding the Addington election deposit, though, according to it, the the Reform candidature seems to have been a sort of joint stock affair, Mr. Shibley doing the running and Mr. Britton the depositing. This is the evasion of the law of which we complain, for thereby the right of the electors not to be put to cost and trouble by a candidate who does not believe he can get even a third of the votes, is taken from them. Our contemporary just touches upon this point and wisely shrinks from discussing it, turning aside abruptly to the question of corruption at elections, a subject as to which it can obtain information from Messrs. H. H. Cook, M. C. Cameron, Col. Walker and other pets of its party.

THE payment of the tax on commercial companies is now being enforced in the Province of Quebec. How oppressive is this burden may be judged from the fact that with the five years arrears the whole capital of some of the companies will be almost wiped out, in one case it will be reduced to $50 and in two or three others to $250 each.

THE WAR CLOUD BUSTED!

Victory has Perched on the Banner of PETERBOROUGH'S GREAT CHEAPSIDE.

And SHEPPARD, by common consent, will get $1,000 for being the Cheapest Clothier in Peterborough, having knocked the Wonderful Cheap Man completely out. "Business is business; dirt is dirt, and when it comes to throwing dirt, then count" the only original teddy out, and he will hand over that $1,000 like a little man, for the following reasons:—

SHEPPARD sells a full size Man's suit for $2.95, and better goods than a suit to fit a child about nine years old sold by the Wonderful Cheap Man on Saturday for $3.00; but marked $3.50. This is how it was.—A lady purchased a child's suit on Saturday last, Sept. 17th, 1887, at the store of the Wonderful Cheap Man. It was marked thusly:—Lot 5375, Breast 27, Waist 26½, Age 9, Price $3.50. It was pure shoddy, being held together by cotton threads, and Sheppard is free to say that that was the dearest suit sold in the Town of Peterborough for the last two years. Full particulars are given because of the $1,000 involved, and, further, that this decides who is selling the Cheapest Clothing in Peterborough. SHEPPARD would have sold that lady a suit, pure wool, for that money, and worth two of the one she got.

$1,000 to Go to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

I had first decided to give the agencies a chance of jumping up my rating that $1,000, but after considering the matter and finding that never in any case have I been asked for an endorser to my paper, and that no relative or any other persons have ever endorsed my paper to the extent of one cent, I have come to the conclusion my credit is as good as yours, and will ask you to hand over the $1,000 to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

Now, Sir, there is a good story told, the truth of which can be vouched for, but for the honor of at least making an effort to keep up your self-styled name—The Terror of High Priced Clothiers—do not allow the same to be said of you in the case above. A man purchased a suit for $15.00 at the store of one of the largest advertisers in that section of country. It was guaranteed pure wool; but after examining it carefully at home, he came to the conclusion that he had been dealing with some one sharper than himself. Finding a make of wool, differing some from anything he had ever seen, it dawned upon him that he had heard of wool of that kind, so the suit was returned. The merchant bet $25 00 that it was all wool, and the bet was accepted, the decision being left to a neighboring merchant. He found that the $15.00 suit was wool faced and shoddy back, pure unadulterated shoddy; but what of the $25.00 bet? was it paid? Not much—muchly—as it were.

In Brief, and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver s misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents

To Save Life

Frequently requires prompt action. An hour's delay waiting for the doctor may be attended with serious consequences, especially in cases of Croup, Pneumonia, and other throat and lung troubles. Hence, no family should be without a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which has proved itself, in thousands of cases, the best Emergency Medicine ever discovered. It gives prompt relief and prepares the way for a thorough cure, which is certain to be effected by its continued use.

S. H. Latimer, M. D., Mt. Vernon, Ga., says: "I have found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a perfect cure for Croup in all cases. I have known the worst cases relieved in a very short time by its use; and I advise all families to use it in sudden emergencies, for coughs, croup, &c."

A. J. Eidson, M. D., Middletown, Tenn., says: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."

"I cannot say enough in praise of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral," writes E. Bragdon, of Palestine, Texas, "believing as I do that, but for its use, I should long since have died."

ALL THE WORLD AT WAR.

By WALTER BESANT.

Author of "Shepherds All and Maidens Fair," "By Celia's Arbor," "The Golden Butterfly," etc., etc.

"They are gone?" he asked, sitting on Dan's settle, with a sort of groan.

"Yes," I replied, fearing he was come for no good. "They put out at 8. Now, Joshua, if you have anything to say have done with it at once and go."

"I've got this to say," he replied hoarsely. "I've been trying to put you out of my mind and I can't. Who's Mr. Campion, that he's to come here and take away my girl?"

"I never was your girl, Joshua."

"You should have been. I'd set my heart on it. And you shall be yet. There never was a thing that I wanted as I did not get. I've always looked to marry you and nobody but you, and I will yet."

"Will you?" I laughed. "Never!"

"Don't think I shall be an unkind husband, my pretty!" he said with a sudden change of voice and manner. "I love you too well. I shall wrap you up warm and give you nothing to do only to make yourself happy."

"Now, Joshua," I said, "go! This is enough foolishness for one night. I am going to marry Mr. Campion. Do you hear? I am going to be his wife."

"If you won't listen to fair words," he said, springing to his feet, "listen to foul. I've given you one more chance. It's your last. Will you give up that young popinjay?"

"No, I will not. Go!"

"I've warned you," he said, "and I'm desperate. Whatever happens, mind, it will be all on your own head. Whatever happens, you done it."

I had no suspicion, not the least shadow of suspicion, of what he meant. If Joshua's anger made me fear anything, it was that he might attempt some desperate deed of personal violence. At the same time I was disquieted, and I longed for the return of the boat.

They sailed at 8, as I have said. If the breeze continued steady, they might reach the coast of France in the morning. Supposing that all went well, they would receive their cargo in a few hours, and should be back in the early morning of the following day—say from 1 to 3 o'clock, before daybreak. But that depended entirely on the wind.

What a long and dreary day that was! I, who had never before minded being solitary, thought each hour dragged itself along more slowly than its predecessor. I went out in the little boat, but it was only to strain longing eyes across the water to see if haply I could discern the white sails of the Dancing Polly. But there was nothing on the ocean, and presently I rowed languidly home again, and tried to think out somehow the life that was before me. But that was difficult, because I did not know what a lady was like.

Only 5 in the afternoon! the whole evening and half the night before me yet! I went into the yard and talked to Isaac Agus. He said the wind was favorable, but it would freshen in the night; and then I went back to the house, as it was getting dark and chilly, lit the fire and sat down before it, thinking.

At 8 I could bear it no longer and went to bed. The wind had freshened by this time, and was blowing freely among the boughs and branches. But it came from the right quarter, and it would have to be a big breeze to keep the Dancing Polly out of port when Dan wanted to make it.

Tired with the anxiety and solitude, I fell asleep the moment my head touched the pillow. That was partly from habit. I always did. It was the last night that I should ever fall into the sweet, childish custom.

When I awoke from confused dreams of trouble, which took no intelligible shape, it was still in the depth of night. There was no such thing in those days as matches, and the strike of a light by means of the tinder box was no easy matter. Yet I could not sleep any more. My nerves were like quicksilver. I sprang from my bed, dressed hurriedly in the dark, tied a thick shawl round my head and neck, and felt my way down stairs into the open air in front of the house.

The night was absolutely black. Clouds had come up over the sky, and there was not a ray of starlight, not a glimmer on the sea. It was only possible to make out on the left the steep outline of Pinhay cliff, and on the right a little of the long line of rock—nothing else. But the wind blew fresh into my face, and I heard the roar of the waves dragging down the shingle and rolling it up again, and that was companionship to me.

I sat there in front of the house, watching the darkness and thinking. It was better to be out in the open, listening to the voice of the waves, than boxed up in a bedroom, a prey to every sort of fear.

Presently I arose and went out in the dark, down the steep path that led to the beach. I knew every step, and needed no light to guide me over the rough way. But about half way down I heard another step on the path below me—the step of one person. It was too dark to see anything, but I thought of Joshua. It must be Joshua come to help unload the cargo. Natural that he should come to look after the venture in which he had a share. I had no desire to speak with him, so I stayed where I was, stepping off the path, and sat down on the hillside to wait. And then—good heavens! what did it mean?—there came more steps; steps in the distance, steps in the road above, the confused tramp of many feet upon the stones of the rough lane which led from Axemouth to Rousdon. Whose could these be? And what could they want, coming to Rousdon bay at 3 in the morning?

I was standing on a ledge of rock overhanging the path from the house to the beach. By laying along the ledge I could look over the heads of these men as they came down the hill, and almost touch them. I waited while they passed by the silent house. They did not stop there; evidently they had no business with its occupants; and, then a pang of terror struck my heart, for I reflected that I was the only occupant; and although they might have no business with me, they might have with those who ought to have been there that night. I lay down on the rock and cautiously looked over through the branches of a bramble.

It was not so dark but I could distinguish the figures of the men as they came down the zigzag path, and slowly felt their way along the steep and narrow way beneath me. It was not so dark but I could count that there were sixteen of them, and I could hear the clash of arms. Then I knew, without being told or wanting to see any more, what they were and what was their errand.

They were the revenue men; they had got the intelligence of Dan's run; they were come to catch him at the moment of landing—in the very act of running his cargo ashore.

I thought, by the feel of the air and the look of the sky, that it must be near upon 3 o'clock—say an hour and a half before daybreak. That is to say, it was the very time which Dan would choose, had he a favorable wind, for landing. And the wind was favorable—a steady, strong south-wester, before which the Dancing Polly would fly. There could be no doubt that he was off the coast already.

It seemed to me there was just one chance—and only one. The revenue men were all down on the beach at the west side of the bay, under the rocks which were carried away afterward in the great landslip. Suppose I could get, unseen, to the point of land which ran out—just a little point—on the east, and shout an alarm at the moment when the Dancing Polly neared the mouth of the bay.

It was the only chance. I knew every rock, and ledge, and stone about the place. I had no need to get down by the path. I slid, jumped and crept, working my way round the bay, so as to get to the point unnoticed.

Difficulty of Convicting Bribers.

"I had an opportunity once," said Johnston Beggs to a St. Louis reporter recently, "to find out how hard it was to convict a legislator of bribe taking, or another man of bribe giving. I was foreman of a grand jury three years ago which was investigating reports that a railroad bill had passed the house of delegates by bribery. We had a large number of witnesses before us, and when we got through with our work every man of us was firmly convinced that at least twelve of these delegates had taken bribes. But we didn't indict a single one of them, because we knew that a petit jury would not convict on the evidence we had. The delegates and the corporation agents who did the bribing managed their transactions so cunningly that all the evidence we could obtain was purely circumstantial, as long as the bribers and the legislators kept their mouths shut.

"We found that in all the cases of bribery the negotiations were conducted in the same way. First the man who was managing the bill got a lobbyist and intimated to him that he wanted the delegate's vote. The lobbyist made his own bargain with the legislator, and on a certain day, at a certain hour, both would be seated together in a private office with two entrances. When a peculiar knock sounded on the door the two would leave the room and go into the other. The railroad man entered, put a bundle of money in the pocket of a coat hanging on the wall, gave a signal rap on the table and went out. The lobbyist and legislator returned, got the money and made their divide. The legislator and the railroad man hadn't seen each other and possibly never knew each other by sight, but the delegate had his money and the other had the vote he wanted. Of course, any delegate mixed up in this sort of a transaction would be convicted of bribe taking in any honest man's mind, but an incident like this couldn't be conclusive evidence against a legislator in a court, and that is why our grand jury didn't give the public then a big scandal."—Chicago Times.

A LECTURE

On the Habits of Chinese, Indians, Miners and Gamblers.

The anniversary services of Mark Street Church were continued on Monday evening. After the tea-meeting the people assembled in the church, filling it to the doors. The Rev. J. C. Wilson, pastor, occupied the chair. On the platform were the Rev. A. Bell and the Rev. A. Browning.

The meeting was opened with singing and prayer.

The Rev. J. C. WILSON said that he was glad to see so many this evening, and also that the anniversary services had been so successful.

The choir gave a selection of music.

The Rev. A. BROWNING then gave his lecture on "An Hour with Miners, Indians, Gamblers and Chinamen." He hoped that all people here were Canadian—that is Canadian in instinct, for what he had to say to-night was purely about Canada. He spoke of his first interview with miners. He had been riding all day and at evening when he came to a village in the valley he saw a strange procession. Soon he was accosted, and he told them he was a minister. "Just what we want," they said. There had been a murder and they wanted him for the magistrates' chair. An inquest was held. A verdict of murder was returned; the murderers were found and hung to a tree. A miner, he said, was a queer man. One peculiarity was that he never washes his face. They were open-hearted and generous as any people that lived. He described the strange, wild life of the miners, and their wonderful vicissitudes—now rich and now poor. But they were fine people to preach to. He liked to preach to a congregation of miners, though it was dangerous at times. Once pistols were drawn upon him and his life stood in imminent danger, on account of a remark that he had made. But just in the nick of time a sturdy miner stood by him and defied the others. He related some remarkable incidents in connection with his mission among the miners of British Columbia, some amusing and some very touching. He spoke of once when he had had to sleep in a gambling hell. And he would say here that the worst and most diabolical gamblers were the sons of Methodists, and when he heard of fathers' and mothers' playing progressive euchre, he shook his head and said that their boys would wind up with poker. In the morning he found that one of the leading gamblers was the son of a methodist minister. A few days after he preached in the gambling hall. A strange thing happened. During the sermon they commenced to cheer and when the sermon was finished they gave three cheers and a "tiger." He would rather hear cheers in church than see the people going to sleep. A collection was taken up and the offer was $100. Once he was sent up the coast to preach to the Indians. He and Mr. Duncan went together, when they went there the Indians were the worst savages that ever lived. Mr. Duncan actually wept at their wickedness. Under Mr. Duncan's ministration, however, these Indians were christianized and civilized. Mr. Duncan was not of his church; he was an Episcopalian. Since then the Indians and Mr. Duncan had left their native land and gone to Alaska. Some had blamed the Government. He did not make political speeches, but he could say that the real cause of this exodus was the High Church tyranny of the Bishop. He spoke of a difficulty he got into while in the discharge of his duty as a Christian minister, when a British man-of-war appeared on the coast. The captain stood by him and he never knew the value of the protection of the British flag till then. And he could say that if any political movement arose to do away with that old flag he would set his face against it. (Applause )

Commercial Union or any other union that tended to sever them from the old land should meet with the opposition of all good citizens. England forever! Ireland forever! Scotland forever! Grand triumvirate forever! (Applause.)

Speaking of Chinamen, he said that he did not believe in shutting our gates against the Chinese. He would like to see the Chinamen treated well. The Chinese were a religious people and very earnest. He never knew a Chinaman converted but that he was converted down to his heart. Chinamen were the best Christians he knew. Another good trait of the Chinese was their faithfulness in their domestic relations. In connection with this he gave some very good advice to the Ashburnham boys.

He concluded with a peroration on patriotism, and was frequently interrupted with murmurs of applause.

The usual votes of thanks were passed, and the meeting closed in the usual manner.

THAT R. J. KIDD has a larger stock of the BEST ready-made Boots in Peterborough is beyond a doubt.

PETERBOROUG CRICKET CLUB.

A Successful Season—Batting and Bowling Averages.

The season just closed has been a most successful one. Out of thirteen foreign matches, only three have been lost, two with Toronto, and that with the Belmonts. Nine matches were won, viz:—the last with Toronto, two with Campbellford and one each with East Toronto, Parkdale, Colborne, Lakefield, Lindsay and Whitby. The first match with Whitby was drawn on account of rain.

W. A. Stratton heads the averages both in batting and bowling, closely followed in batting by Sam Ray and Rutherford, and in bowling by Logan, and his brother Edwy. No fewer than nine players have a double figure average; and judging from the form displayed by the young players of the club, there should be no difficulty in keeping up the reputation of the club.

The following are the batting and bowling averages of those who have played in three or more matches. Peterborough scored during the season 1,947 runs for 147 wickets, or 13¼ runs per wicket; their opponents scored 1,587 for 182 wickets, or 8⅝ runs per wicket:—

THIEVES.

Shanty Supplies Stolen—Efforts to Bring the Guilty Parties to Justice.

About the middle of September a quantity of supplies were stolen from Mr. J. M Irwin's lumber shanty, in the township of Anstruther, whilst the watchman was away to Apsley on business. Mr. Irwin was apprized of the theft on September 25th, and at once proceeded to discover the thieves and reclaim his property. He reported to Acting Chief Adams of what had been done, and requested him to take the case in hand. Chief Adams replied that it would be no use for him to do so, as the people there knew him and would of course be on their guard. He recommended Mr. Irwin to get a detective. This advice Mr Irwin acted on and Detective McPherson, of Toronto, was engaged. The latter went up to the back country and boarded at the house of one of the suspected parties, but was unable to detect anything of any importance. He was satisfied, however, from the lavish use of pork, that it came from Mr. Irwin's supplies. After eight days sojourn he came to town, reported to Mr. Irwin, and handed Acting Chief Adams a sketch of one of the houses and the surrounding country. A search warrant was then sworn out and placed in the hands of Acting Chief Adams.

On Monday morning at 2 o'clock Acting Chief Adams, accompanied by Constables Cochrane, Nicholls, and Messrs. T. Lytle and Wm. Henry, left town to proceed to make a thorough search of the premises.

Buckhorn was the first stopping place. The house of Jas. Montgomery was searched, young Gus Montgomery being one of the suspected. There a barrel and a half of pork was found. The inmates of the house gave very unsatisfactory replies as to the mode of their coming into the ownership of it, and young Gus was arrested. The pork was left in the house. The prisoner was taken and the police posse proceeded ten miles farther, to the house of one Windover, father of other suspected parties. On the way thither Elijah Windover, was met on the road. He was arrested and taken back. There three pairs of blankets were found. These were identified as belonging to Mr. Irwin. The yarn in which the letters I. B. (Irwin & Boyd) were worked was picked out, but the holes plainly showed the letters. Another place was searched, where the spoils were supposed to have been divided.

The two prisoners were brought to town and placed in the cells. At the Court this morning Mayor Stevenson remanded the prisoners till to-morrow morning.

Two more suspected parties are still at large.

CENTRAL EXHIBITION!

The Grounds and Buildings Open to the Public.

FINE WEATHER FOR THE FAIR

AN IMMENSE SHOW OF HORSES, CATTLE,

And Other Stock—Special Events for To-morrow—Races in Saddle and Sulky—The Bird-Miller Pedestrian Contest.

The exhibition building was opened for public inspection at nine o clock this morning, the exhibitors having got all their goods placed.

To the right of the main entrance is a ten foot square of black velvet upon which are circles and fans, made of brooms, whisks etc., manufactured at Sherwood's broom factory. A large variety of brooms is exhibited, some strong and serviceable, and others artistically finished. Brushes of different kinds are shown also. To the right from Sherwood Bros.' exhibit is the dairy produce, canned fruits and part of the grain exhibit. The samples of cheese and butter are very fine, and the grain also, notwithstanding the unfavorable year for farming. Alongside the butter some tempting samples of home-made bread are shown. Farther down the right side are rows of oags filled with wheat, and two special exhibits of potatoes, one by Mr. Daubez, of Lakefield, and one by Mr. A. R. Kidd, of Dummer. Mr. Daubez's exhibit numbers about seventy varieties, and Mr. Kidd's about thirty. In the centre of the building there is a novel feature—a drug store and stationery store, the first kept by Mr. J. D. Tully and the second by Messrs. A. L. Davis & Co. Messrs. Davis & Co. show some very fine samples of wall paper. Opposite this establishment Gough, the clothier, has an immense display of clothing. Mr. R Gough and Mr. James A. Tully are in charge. Gough's store is carpeted with tapestry carpet, upon which several figures stand to show off the goods. The place from floor to ceiling is filled with all sorts of clothing. A card in the centre says: "Gough's aggregate sales this year will reach $200,000.00." To the left of the southern entrance the Empress Sewing Machine Co. have a space in which the machines are placed. Operators are busy turning out all sorts of plain and fancy sewing. Some elegant work on these machines is displayed. Mr. R. E. Smart is the agent for these machines in Peterborough. North and east of Gough's clothing store are the agricultural products exhibits. The show is about the same size as that of last year. It attracts much attention. At the left side of the main entrance Mr. J. W. Crosby makes an elaborate exhibit of musical instruments. He is agent for the Uxbridge Organ Works. The Singer sewing machines are spread out to view next to the show of musical instruments. Mr. H. Laishley, the agent, shows six kinds of these machines, including one for sewing patches on shoes. The capabilities of the machines are also shown in an attractive manner.

On the second flat, at the head of the staircase, Mr. Frank Mason has made a fine exhibit of flowers and plants. Opposite from it is an extensive display of apples. The ladies' work department is situated this year on the east side of the gallery. The display is considered ahead of that exhibited last year. Crazy patchwork and embroidery are specialties. Miss P. Allen has a calico quilt on exhibition in which there are 12,755 pieces. Mrs. McKibbon shows a comprehensive collection of pressed leaves. At the north end of the gallery Messrs. A. Blade and Percy Hamilton make an extensive display of ferns, flowers, cut flowers, and so forth. The west side of the gallery is given up to horticultural products, with the exhibit of pen art by Mr. Bannel Sawyer. Mr. Sawyer shows many kinds of penmanship, among which is his now celebrated picture of progress, which took him 179 hours to do. It is illustrative of Canada's progress, especially since confederation.

The grounds are alive with exhibition buildings and tents, erected by exhibitors themselves. Agricultural implements, machinery and so forth are exhibited in the open air and occupy a large space.

Messrs. Porter Bros. make a great display of carriages, buggies, sleighs, and so forth. Their building is filled, there being twenty-four different kinds of vehicles. The back room is made up of carriages and buggies, special prominence being given to cutters and sleighs by their being placed in the front. The O'B. & S. road cart, which has attained such a reputation during the last few months, is shown. It is really a neat little vehicle—just the thing for running, travel with, or for breaking in colts. The village cart is another handy, as well as handsome, rig. It is a two wheeled vehicle, nicely trimmed and carries a top. Messrs. Porter Bros. show what they can do in the delivery waggon line. One they manufactured for Messrs. W. J. Morrow & Co. is among the rest of the rigs. It has good gearing and sports a covering both for the driver and the goods. There is an extensive variety of buggies and carriages, among which, by way of speciality, may be mentioned the rain-bowed top buggy. In cutters and sleighs the show made would be hard to beat. The Saratoga Portland, the Syracuse spring back, the Lansdowne pleasure sleigh, are all vehicles worth the while of purchasers to see. The Bremster folding back double or single sleigh is a well designed vehicle. The Peterborough sleigh is another worth seeing. Porter Bros., though giving much attention to the manufacture of fine goods, do not forget the requirements of heavier work. A fine substantial waggon is shown as a sample of what can be done.

A word can, with justice, be added of the trimming. The trimming on the different rigs is done in a masterly manner, as is all the work done under the superintendence of Mr. H. H. Wright. The exhibit is in charge of Mr. Chas. Porter, senior member of the firm, and Messrs. S. Fitzgerald and H. H. Wright.

Mr. J. J. Turner, the sail, tent and awning maker, has a quarter acre space ablaze with flags, tents, and the like. Garden tents, sleeping tents, fancy lawn tents, lumbermen's tents, hunters' tents, camping furniture, and flags of different kinds are attractively set forth to public view. A large number of the tents on the grounds are supplied from Mr. Turner's factory.

Next door to Turner's, Messrs. Curtis, the brick makers, have a fine display (under tent) of brick and tile. Curtis' wares have won a high reputation, and justly so. The work is all first-class. Pressed white and red brick and tile of different sizes are shown here.

NOTES.

All of the horse and cattle stables are taken and a considerable quantity of stock has to do without stalls or shed room.

The grounds will not be open to the public to-night.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union has a dining room on the grounds.

Speeding in the ring is taking place this afternoon.

The race between Bird and Miller will take place to-morrow afternoon. There will also be speeding in the ring.

ANOTHER GAS WELL.

A Natural Light in a Well on the Dummer-Douro Boundary.

Another gas well is exciting a neighborhood in East Peterborough. Mr. David Forsyth, who lives on the boundary line between the townships of Dummer and Douro was sinking a well for water. When the drill reached the depth of sixty feet, through rock, gas began to escape from the hole. The pressure of the gas at once aroused interest, especially in view of the gas well that was discovered a short time ago at Jermyn. A light was applied to the orifice and the result was a blue flame. The blue tinge gradually faded from the flame and left a clear white light, a light as clear as could be desired.

The flow of gas is not strong and the flame goes out after it burns for a time. It can, however, again be lighted, when the blue flame followed by the white again appears to gradually fade away.

The discovery has caused not a little comment and excitement in the neighborhood, because it indicates the presence of natural gas under the farms. The possibility of securing a larger flow and more light and heat by sinking deeper presents itself and the owner and neighbors would be interested in knowing what volume of gas could be obtained.

The "Royal Canadians,"

The present to Canada of the old war-worn colors of the 100th Royal Canadian Regiment recalls to mind the connection of Peterborough with this truly imperial regiment. Major C. A. Boulton, a former resident of our county and member of the County Council held a commission in the 100th, and there acquired that military training which he turned to such good service in the Northwest. Col. Dunn, another officer of the Royal Canadians, who was distinguished with the Victoria Cross for his share in the Crimean War, was an extensive property owner in the County of Peterborough.

Lecture on Evolution.

The celebrated lecturer, Rev. Dr. Sexton, of England, is to discuss the profoundly interesting subject: "Man not a product of Evolution," in the George Street Church, on Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock. A silver collection at the close of the lecture.

"THE ROYAL CANADIANS."

Arrival of the Colours of the old "Hundredth.

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—A box was received on Thursday at the Department of the Secretary of State which on being opened proved to contain the colours for the "Royal Canadians" which had been sent from India. Two long staffs and two tattered pieces of silk were found to be all that remained of the beautiful colours which 30 years ago had been presented to the 1,300 Canadians forming the old 100th which paraded before the Prince of Wales at Shorncliff in England. Then they consisted of silken Union Jacks four feet square with the name of the regiment worked in letters of gold. Now the colours present a sadly worn appearance and scarcely contain half a yard of silk apiece and are barely larger than a handkerchief. The paint on the poles is almost entirely worn off and the golden crowns topped by figures of minature lions are bent and twisted almost out of shape. In the faded silk here and there can, with difficulty, be made out the faint outline of the cross of St. George. The colours were sent to Canada at the suggestion of Lord Dufferin and their final resting place is not yet decided on.

The Browning Injunction Case.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 4.—Chief Justice Wallbridge delivered judgment this morning in the Browning injunction case. He held that work would not be carried on legally under the public works act. He held, however, that Browning was clearly the puppet of the C. P. R. and had no rights in cours. He expatiated at great length on Browning's evidence and dealt with him with gloves off. He said he would have been committed for contempt of Court if he had been in Court. He makes no order on the matter, leaving the matter to be decided at the hearing. The injunction is, however, not continued.

Wiman's Telegraph Ring.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The Sun says it was announced on excellent authority last night that the terms by which the Western Union Company is to absorb the Baltimore and Ohio Telegraph Company have been agreed upon. It was stated that Mr. Gould had directed Dr. Green, as President of the Western Union, to sign the contracts with Mr. J. Pierrepont Morgan, representing the syndicate having in view the welfare and ultimated recuperation of the Baltimore and Ohio property.

Clamoring For Their Pay.

KINGSTON, Oct. 4.—The navvies employed on the work of double tracking the G. T. R, from Gananoque to Mallorytown are clamoring for their pay. The contractors are in difficulty. They had arranged with a bank to pay a debt at Smith's Falls out of the last instalment on the contract, but the bank had managed to appropriate their pay out of the first instalment, leaving the firm out of funds. And as the men quit work, leaving the job unfinished, the balance due from the G. T. R. cannot be obtained.

Hazed to Death.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Oct. 4.—Young George Choate, son of Joseph B. Choate, the New York lawyer, is seriously ill at his father's summer residence at Stockbridge. The illness is caused by the violent hazing he received at the hands of sophomores at Williams College, Williamstown, where young Choate entered as a Freshman last month. His brain is affected and his condition critical. The young man is twenty years old, of slim physique, and in poor health.

F. Company.

The annual target practice of F. Company (formerly No. 6), was held on Tuesday. Capt. Brennan offered a silver cup for the man making the highest score. Pte. Bert. Cameron led with a score of 56 out of a possible 80, and Corp. Fairbairn made 50. This was the highest score made so far under similar circumstances.

New Canadian Steamer.

MILITARY EDUCATION.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Next week an enquiry is to be opened by order of the Secretary of War into the subject of professional education in the British army.

SIGNOR CRISPI.

FRANKFORT, Oct. 4.—Signor Crispi, in an interview here to-day with the editor of the Frankfurther Zeitung, said that the invitation to the interview at Friedrichsruhe came from Prince Bismarck. The negotiations did not include the Roman question, which Prince Bismarck regards as a matter for the consideration of Italy herself. Italy demands, he continued, the maintenance of the European balance of power and of peaceful allies like Germany and Austria. Signor Crispi left at noon to-day for Milan.

MR. HARRIGTON AGAIN.

DUBLIN, Oct. 4.—During the inquest today into the case of the victims who were shot by the police at Mitchellstown, Mr. Harrington caused a scene by declaring that the police who had testified had committed perjury. Head Constable Brownrigg declared that he valued the lives of the police more than he did the lives of the rioters.

ITALY AND BULGARIA.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 4.—Italy is opposed to the sending of an interstate commission to Bulgaria headed by Turkey, and the interview between Prince Bismarck and Signor Crispi will strengthen Italy's opposition. Russian statesmen express great resentment against Italy on account of the Bismarck-Crispi interview.

EARTHQUAKE IN GREECE.

ATHENS, Oct. 4.—A shock of earthquake was felt throughout Greece at one o'clock this morning. The disturbance was stronzest in the northern and southern shores of the Gulf of Corinth.

INTERVENTION ABANDONED.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The Odessa garrison has been reduced to its normal strength. The reduction has caused surprised and is regardad as proof that Russia has abandoned the idea of armed intervention in the Balkans.

AN AVOWED REBEL.

DUBLIN, Oct. 4.—Father O'Leary, of St. Louis, in delivering an oration on Patrick Sarsfield at Limerick yesterday, avowed that he was a Socialist and rebel at heart, as was every Irishman. He denounced the police as the vermin of Ireland, and said they ceased to be Irishmen when they donned the Government uniform.

THE TRIPLE ALLIANCE.

PESTH, Oct. 4.—The Pesther Lloyd says: The interview between Prince Bismarck and Signor Crispi is with the full knowledge and sanction of Austria. The triple alliance thus cemented cannot fail to have a startling effect on those powers which appear anxious to disturb the peace of Europe.

NOT WITH RUSSIA.

BERLIN, Oct. 4.—The Tagblatt says: Germany has definitely abandoned all idea of an alliance with Russia, concluding that no co-operation or assistance can be expected from the Czar.

WHAT ITALY WANTS.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—The Temps' correspondent at Rome says than in addition to discussing the relations between the Vatican and the Quirinal Signor Crispi, in his interview with Prince Bismarck, raised the question of the development of Italian influence of the Mediterranean, claiming that as a recompense for Italy's faithful adherence to the German alliance Germany should support the Italian policy of expansion towards Egypt, Tripoli and Albania.

SPAIN AND MOROCCO.

MADRID, Oct. 4.—Eight battallons of infantry besides cavalry add artillery, have been concentrated at Cadiz and Malaga in readiness to cross over to Morocco immediately. This force is under command of General Lasso. Several warships are also in readiness for active service.

CANADIAN CHEESE.

Two events have just now occurred in England which testify unmistakably to the high appreciation which our Canadian cheese has secured in the mother country.

At the annual meeting of the Co-operative Wholesale Society, of Manchester, a proposal was brought forward to build or rent a cheese factory in Ontario to supply the Manchester market. Though a decision on the subject was postponed for a time the idea was very favorably received.

At the annual dairy show at Frome, Somersetshire, in the midst of a district celebrated for its cheese, two exhibits of Canadian cheese were highly commended by the judges, thus being preferred to fifty lots of West of England cheese.

The excellence of our cheese, its evenness of quality, and its trustworthiness have secured it this high standing and the more practical advantage of large consumption combined with good prices. Thus for one of the most important of their products our farmers have obtained a ready and remunerative sale in a convenient market with a large and steady demand. Though prices may not always be quite so satisfactory as they have been this year, the success of this great industry and its continued prosperity are assured, to the great benefit of our farmers, if the position thus obtained is not forfeited by any injudicious steps.

Our agricultural community would do well to consider whether their reputation for superiority in cheese making would not be endangered by commercial annexation. At present our Canadian cheese, though of the same general character as that exported from the United States, is preferred to it in Great Britain with its large population of habitual cheese consumers. If our Canadian cheese were confounded there with the general import of North American Zollverein cheese, would it continue to be assured of this preference? We might again see it, as before, all classed as "American" cheese, and its reputation would be reduced to the level of the product of our neighbors. Our farmers and cheesefactors have attained a position in Great Britain in this respect which they should be careful not to endanger lightly. There would be little compensation in "a free market" in a country which also produces more cheese than it consumes.

HAVING been driven to relinquish its false statement that Sir John Macdonald said the Dominion Government could not check Manitoba, the Kingston Whig is not honest enough to own that its assertion was incorrect. It proceeds to a fresh invention that Parliament checked Manitoba by its "disallowance act." There was no such act as the Whig must very well know. The disallowance was pronounced by the Executive as our constitution provides, and is approved by the people of Canada through their chosen representatives. Otherwise the people of one Province would be able to nullify the general policy of Canada, a usurpation which can be no more tolerated in the Dominion than it was in the United States.

PROTECTION IN GREAT BRITAIN.

The Change in Public Opinion—The Working Man's Views.

That Great Britain is growing tired of so-called free trade there is constantly fresh evidence. After a visit to this side of the Atlantic, Mr. J. H. Pettifer, secretary of the British Workman's Association, thus reports:—

"I have once more returned home from the United States, this being my third visit, and I must confess that if I had been there this time on my own hook, so to speak, or in other words, on my own responsibility, and with my own money, I should have stayed there altogether, for it seems to me that we have got a very long and uphill fight before we shall be able to obtain such alterations in our fiscal policy as will place the working people of this country in the advantageous position of their fellow toilers across the Atlantic—in fact, I have come to the conclusion that there are only two courses left open to the laboring classes of Great Britain. One is to get protection at home; the other is to go to some English-speaking country where they have protection. In other words, if the mountain will not come to Mahomet, Mahomet must go to the mountain."

MOUNT PLEASANT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

LECTURE.—The Rev. Mr. Langford, who has been converted from the Roman Catholic to the Protestant faith, will lecture in the C. M. Church of this place on the evening of the 10th of October. His subject will be "How I became a Protestant."

A BEMEANING ACT.—On Sunday night last, after the Union Prayer Meeting was dismissed, a crowd of partly grown young men went through the village pelting a number of buildings with stones. The names of some of the perpetrators of the despicable act have been ascertained, but are withheld from the public as it is the first time such a cowardly act has been done in our village, but if it is ever repeated the names will be given to the public, so that every person of the surrounding country may know who are the young men of this locality that will stoop to such acts.

Fall Fairs.

The following dates of autumn exhibitions have been announced:—

Central Exhibition, at Peterborough, Oct. 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th.

East Peterborough, at Norwood, Oct. 11th and 12th.

South Monaghan, at Centreville, on Oct. 3th and 14th

Minden, Snowden, etc., at Minden, Tuesay, October 4th.

Otonabee, at Keene, on Oct. 14th.

It is an old game for a competitor who cannot compete to cry shoddy, poor fellows, they must get up some excuse, but Gough has lots of confidence in the public's judgment, therefore I say to intending buyers, look them all through and then come to Gough and if you are not convinced that he has ten times more goods, 50 per cent. better goods and at prices at least 25 per cent. lower than the cheapest of them, he will give you a suit or an overcoat for nothing.*

In Brief, and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver s misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy,

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents

It is Absurd

For people to expect a cure for Indigestion, unless they refrain from eating what is unwholesome; but if anything will sharpen the appetite and give tone to the digestive organs, it is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Thousands all over the land testify to the merits of this medicine.

Mrs. Sarah Burroughs, of 248 Eighth street, South Boston, writes: "My husband has taken Ayer's Sarsaparilla, for Dyspepsia and torpid liver, and has been greatly benefited"

A Confirmed Dyspeptic.

C. Canterbury, of 141 Franklin st., Boston, Mass., writes, that, suffering for years from Indigestion, he was at last induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla and, by its use, was entirely cured.

Mrs. Joseph Aubin, of High street, Holyoke, Mass., suffered for over a year from Dyspepsia, so that she could not eat substantial food, became very weak, and was unable to care for her family. Neither the medicines prescribed by physicians, nor any of the remedies advertised for the cure of Dyspepsia, helped her, until she commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "Three bottles of this medicine," she writes, "cured me."

ALL THE WORLD AT WAR.

By WALTER BESANT.

Author of "Shepherds All and Maidens Fair," "By Celia's Arbor," "The Golden Butterfly," etc., etc.

That was easy. I dare say the men were all half asleep; the night was very dark, and my figure could hardly be made out against the black masses of rock and overhanging brambles. I arrived at the point, and, crouched behind a stone, I sat watching intently the black waves close at my feet and the black sky above me.

It grew cold, as it always does before the dawn, but I felt nothing; in the intense moments of life one does not think of such things. I prayed that Dan might be late, and that the day might break, so that he should be able to see me before he made his port. For, once in the bay, which was, as I have said, but a tiny creek, there was no room to turn, and the opportunity would be lost.

Alas! that hope failed.

While I sat watching, and almost before I had time to make her out, the Dancing Polly came up out of the blackness of the night, steering straight for the mouth of the bay.

I sprang up, and shrieked, and waved my arms.

"Back, Dan, back! hard a port!"

It was no use. Dan saw me on the point, but her bows were already in the creek. Job and Jephthah ran down the canvas, and the boat grounded on the beach.

The Dancing Polly had made her last run.

I ran round the bay for my life, springing from stone to stone in the dark, crying, "Dan, Dan! they are waiting for you! Run! oh, run, run! Will, run!"

There was a shout, a rush, the sudden flashing of dark lanterns. "In the king's name," shouted a rough voice, "surrender!"

When I got round they had secured their prisoners. All four were handcuffed, and the men were standing round them in a ring. I broke through them, still shrieking my useless warning, and fell crying upon Dan's neck.

"I heard you, my pretty," said the poor old man, "but it was too late. You done your best, but it was too late."

I hugged him and kissed him, crying and weeping. Then I remembered Will.

"He is a passenger," I said to the officer; "let him go. He only went to look on. He a stranger here. He is not a smuggler, he is a gentleman."

"He is my prisoner," said the officer, "and must go with the rest. Fall in, men! Ready! March!"

The men had their cutlasses drawn, but there was no bloodshed, as there was no resistance. Dan was not one of the desperadoes who carried pistols, and arranged beforehand for an armed band of villagers to help him in landing the cargo. Moreover, resistance to the king's officers, in those days, meant death.

I followed the procession up the path. When we arrived in front of the house—poor, deserted house, never again to receive all its occupants!—Dan asked permission for a halt.

"Pleasance, my pretty," said Dan, "go and bring out a glass of brandy for this gentleman, and one all round for these brave lads and for us prisoners. 'Tis brandy, your honor, as never"——

"I know, I know," said the officer, laughing—it was Capt. Pollard, R. N. "Well, we will halt for the brandy."

I served them all, beginning with the officer, and going from him to the prisoners. It was now daybreak, and, in the cold gray light, I recognized all their faces. I knew every one of them. I had seen them at Bridport, at Seaton, and elsewhere, when I went to look out for the revenue cutter. One of them was a Lyme man, a cousin of John Beer, the barber.

"There," said Dan, when the brandy had gone round, "now go in, my pretty, and get to sleep, and don't fret. Where are we going, sir?"

"To Lyme first, then to Bridport. After that I suppose you will be sent up to Dorchester to take your trial."

"I shall walk to Lyme with you," I said.

No opposition was made. Arrived at the high road, the prisoners were made to walk together in the middle, all handcuffed and guarded by the men with drawn cutlasses. I noticed that they all tried to march next to Dan and to whisper in his ear. The whispers were friendly expressions of sympathy and regret.

"How did they know I should run into Ronsdon bay?" asked Dan of one of them.

The man shook his head. He knew nothing about it. "Some informer," he supposed, with a muttered curse against all informers.

I walked beside Will. He was trying to face the situation, which was very serious.

"I shall be committed for trial with the rest, Pleasance. Be brave, my girl; it will only be a term of imprisonment, no doubt. We shall fight it through. But my mother must not know."

"Oh, Will, they won't send you to prison?"

"I doubt they must, my dear. I must think what is best to be done for all of us as well as for myself. You would not like me to escape at the expense of the poor old man, would you?"

There was no reply possible to this. Of course I would not in my right mind. Just then, however, it seemed as if even Dan might go provided my Will could be got out of the scrape.

We marched down the steep hill which leads into Lyme at about 5:30. The little town was sound asleep. When we reached the house of Mr. Mallock, justice of the peace, a halt was called and the officer began to knock lustily at the door.

His worship was not dressed. Could we come later on?

We could not; the case was imperative. His worship must be good enough to get out of bed and receive us at once.

We all trooped into the narrow hall, and stood there together waiting for about ten minutes, when the magistrate came slowly down stairs, wrapped in a dressing gown, wearing a night cap instead of a wig, and grumbling as he slowly descended the stairs. He was a portly old gentleman with purple cheeks, eyes which might be described as goggle, and full lips. I knew him for one of Dan's best customers. The hue of those cheeks was not due to fresh air and exercise, but to port and old French brandy.

The narrow hall was nearly dark, lit only by a single tallow candle, carried by the maid who admitted us. The worthy justice looked round him with angry wonder.

"Now, gentlemen," he said, "what is this? Why is a gentleman to be pulled out of his bed on a cold morning before daybreak? Is Bonaparte landed? Have you got a French spy? Well, who is in command of you?"

"I am, Mr. Mallock, if you will allow me to speak," said Capt. Pollard.

"Allow you, sir—I am waiting for you. I am up at this ungodly hour on purpose to hear you speak. Mary, go bring a pair of candles to the dining room. Now, sir, speak."

"I am Lieut. Pollard, Mr. Mallock, and"——

"Oh, Pollard—I am sorry I did not recognize you. What with the darkness here—Mary, do fetch those lights!—and the confusion of one's wits at this disturbance—pray excuse. What does it mean, Pollard? We were wishing for you last night, over as good a glass of brandy as ever Dan"——

Here the captain interrupted him with great alacrity.

"I am here, Mr. Mallock, officially, as officer in command of his majesty's revenue cutter the Teaser. These are my men; these four are my prisoners. Prisoners, step forward!"

COLLEGE FEDERATION.

A Meeting in the Interest of Victoria College and Federation.

A meeting in the interests of Victoria College in connection with the college federation scheme was held in the George Street Methodist Church on Tuesday evening. The attendance was not large Mr. James Stevenson, M.P., occupied the chair, and the Rev. J. Potts, D.D., Secretary of the Educational Society, the Rev. E H. Dewart, D.D., editor of the Christian Guardian, the Rev. I. Tovell and the Rev. F. H. Wallace, B.D., occupied seats on the platform. The meeting was opened with devotional exercises.

The CHAIRMAN regretted the small attendance. He said that it was of vital importance to the church to have an educated ministry, and Peterborough should contribute towards the fitting up of a first-class college in Toronto. If the scheme was carried out and they sent their children to Toronto to be educated, they would be under the direction of their own church.

The Rev. D. H. DEWART expressed his pleasure in finding Mr. Stevenson in the chair, and referred to their long acquaintanceship. He was sorry that the attendance was small, but often the quality was of more importance than the quantity, and they might have present those who felt an interest in education. He proceeded to explain how college federation would effect them. It meant the creation of a teaching department in connection with Toronto University, where they would have the benefit of the advantages that the state had provided. It would involve three changes for Victoria College. It would be removed to Toronto. There were advantages in that, and a central place such as Toronto was, could not be of less advantage than another place. Part of the teaching in the arts course would be taken by the University. The third change was holding in obeyance its degree conferring power except for theological degrees. He did not see why they should not take advantage of the facilities which had been provided by the Province. If the Methodists were shut out from them by law there would be a stir, yet they would be shutting themselves out if they did not take advantage of them. He then dwelt on some of the advantages of the scheme. It implied the building up and strengthening of the Provincial University and throwing around it moral and religious influences that it had not now. It meant greater thoroughness in the education of the country and greater moral safeguards around it. Why should they be limited to sectional ideas or sectarian motives? Any policy that was so narrow as not to include any patriotism was too narrow for the Methodist Church. In Toronto the young men would be educated together, and the college association would soften the asperity of sectarian and political feeling and have an effect in the future. Their professions of Christian union were of little value if there was not enough principle in them to allow them to work together. Federation would greatly enlarge and increase their religious influence. A large number of Methodist students would go to Toronto anyway and they would be like sheep without a shepherd. By planting the College beside the University the teachers and students would bring under the influence of the church many now out of their reach. It would increase their influence in the educational life of the country. If the young men took their degrees from the Provincial University they would be better known and it would help them. There were other advantages, but these were a few of weight and unanswerable. Most of the objections were of the nature of assertions as to what would happen if they removed to Toronto. He could not see any mischief in going in on equal terms and taking advantage of the facilities provided. The most common objection was that state education had not religious guarantees, and that the state institutions across the lines were leavened with scepticism. If this were true, they did not want their Provincial University to have that tendency, and they should throw the influence of the church around it. If Toronto University was not a fit place for Methodists to go to and was not fit for anyone to attend, it should be blotted out. They had an interest in it, for the Methodists were one-third of the population of the Province, and they should have a hand in moulding the educational life of the country and would be recreant to their duty if they did not embrace the opportunity. Another objection was the cost of the scheme. Any other scheme would be more costly and would not bring so many advantages. In view of the large McMaster endowment, and of what Queen's and Trinity Colleges were doing, the amount that would have to be raised on any other line would be much larger. There was no cheap way to fall back upon, and if they were raising the money it was because the chose to do so in order to have a thoroughly equipped college. He believed that they could raise the money. God had given the people the means, and they only wanted to have their hearts warmed by the love of Christ and the sentiment of loyalty to church institutions to cause it to flow into the right channel. If they failed it would be disastrous, for the people were convinced that the federated college was what was necessary. The scheme as embodied in the Federation Act was more favorable to them than it was when it was adopted by the General Conference. The church was committed to the scheme as being on the whole the best course, and it had become a connectional interest. The connectional principle was the strength of Methodism. Being a connectional enterprise it was designed by the whole church for the whole church, and they should rise above local interests. They were laying the foundation of a great work that would remain after they had passed from duty to reward. The fact that they were influencing the future should inspire them to do their part. They were stewards of God's gifts, which were given to them that they might use them for the benefit of humanity and for God's glory. The most important thing in life was to put those gifts to the right use. One grand feature of this movement was that they would be able to make ample provision for the education of the ministry. It had been deficient and by no means creditable to a church of their wealth and numbers. It was important to all, because the men to be educated were those who would teach and preach to their children and the rising generation. This was not any ordinary occasion, but was a great effort. Nothing of the kind was likely to occur again in a lifetime, and they should do something worthy of themselves and of the church. Sentimental and kindly feelings which clung around things of the past were not substantial reasons for not taking a step in advance. Failure would be disastrous; it would weaken and paralyze their efforts in other directions. He asked them to consider what God's will was and to ask Him to enable them to do as they were able.

The Rev. Dr. POTTS said that they had met with marked success in the Guelph Conference. That Conference had undertaken to raise $32,000, and every district had accepted its allotment and every circuit had admitted its share and had pledged itself to raise the amount. Guelph Conference would raise from $32,000 to $40,000. He would make a special effort in the London, Niagara and Toronto Conferences this fall and winter, and later would visit this and the Montreal Conferences. He had evening to spare and accepted an invitation to come here to-night. He was not particular about subscriptions this time, but hoped the meeting would have an educational effect. He gave a history of the federation movement from its inception to its endorsation by the General Conference and the passing of the Federation Act. They had been given a site in Queen's Park which they were allowed to choose. They had chosen a beautiful site, five acres in extent, which was said to be worth $60,000. They would receive a lease of it for the nominal rent of $1 a year so long as they remained in the federation. At any time in the future they could buy it at a price fixed now by arbitration. If they desired an independent university at any time they could withdraw from the federation and purchase the site at its present value. The Government and the Opposition favored the federation bill, the only remarks against it being from Mr Field, of Cobourg, and Dr. Chamberlain, from the east, who was probably under the influence of Queen's College. The bill could hardly have been better than it was and the Ontario Government had done all that a government could do. It was not a political question, as he had had subscriptions from the Hon. E. Blake and the Hon. A. Mackenzie, and had that day handed in to the Bursar a cheque from Sir John Macdonald. One reason for the proposal to go into this scheme was economy. After a careful examination of the matter by Dr. Nelles and himself, Dr. Nelles rose, remarking that by it they would save $20,000 a year. University College and Victoria College would be on equal terms, teaching the same subjects, and the students of both would come together for the advantages of the university professoriate. Victoria would be as free in Queen's Park as in Cobourg. It would pay the church to invest half a million dollars to have the direction of the Methodist young men who were not theological students. Victoria had made a grand record, and yet its graduates, if they wished to follow the teaching profession, were at a disadvantage, for the school boards preferred men from the Provincial University to graduates of a denominational university. Methodists had not had a proper share of the influential positions in the country. There was only one Methodist judge on the bench above the grade of county judges; there were only a handful in the Senate, not a member of the church in the Dominion Cabinet, though there were two adherents, and there was not one in the Ontario Cabinet who even leaned to Methodism. He believed that this scheme would give a better opportunity for their people occupying influential positions. Toronto University had established a new medical faculty, and they would be foolish not to place themselves in a position to exercise a controlling influence on the education of the Province. The scheme had been adopted and it depended on the people to carry it out. After his appointment the figures $450,000 stared him in the face and bothered him, but the scheme of equitable distribution had solved the difficulty, and he believed that they would make such a record this winter that they would be justified in turning the first sod in Queen's Park in the spring. Toronto would be good for the building. Without organization $100,000 had already been subscribed there. The ministers had met and would carry it forward, and he believed that from $170,000 to $200,000 would be raised Toronto. The question was, what would Peterborough do? He was struck by a remark made to him by their minister that Peterborough would stand next to Toronto. When he thought of Mr. Cox's subscription of $30,000, and of other figures which he had in his mind's eye, he believed that Peterborough would stand next to Toronto. He would not make a personal appeal to-night, but at the close he would be pleased to receive subscriptions.

Mr. GEO. A. COX moved a vote of thanks to the speakers. He believed this was one of the most important, if not the most important, movement in the church. If he, to apply business terms, was general manager of the Methodist church and had a million dollars to invest for it, he would put it in a college in Queen's Park, as he believed it would be the best investment the church could make. Up to the present time the Methodist church had maintained an honorable position in comparison with other churches, and if it wished to maintain that position it would have to improve its educational facilities, as the other churches were doing. They required twice $450,000 before they could take the position that they should occupy, but the amount named would establish the scheme and contributions could be added. The whole Methodist church was only asked to do a little more than half what one man had done for the Baptist College. Peterborough would do its duty, and he believed that it would do better than any town outside of Toronto, and why should it not, when it was the best town outside of Toronto? He eulogized the staff of Victoria College and would like to see them have less difficulty on account of the small endowment.

Mr. J. R. STRATTON seconded the motion for the vote of thanks. He endorsed the federation scheme, but it was not necessary to add anything to what had been so ably and pleasantly said by the speakers.

The motion was carried.

The Rev. I. TOVELL moved a vote of thanks to the chairman, which was seconded by Mr. Geo. A. Cox, and on being put to the meeting by the Rev. Mr. Wallace was carried amid applause.

The meeting concluded with the doxology and benediction.

SPEEDING IN THE RING

A LIST OF EXHIBITORS WHO CARRIED OFF PRIZES OFFERED.

Wet Weather Interferes with the Attendance—Descriptive Notes—A Protest Entered in the Farmers' Trot.

The trotting commenced at the fair grounds on Wednesday afternoon.

The stallion trot, farmers' trot and jubilee purse race (team of horses) were called. The judges were Messrs. J. J. Daly, of Lindsay, and E. Thompson, of Peterborough, Mr. W. Clancy being time-keeper. The first one was the stallion trot, and in that James Beatty's Tariff, Jr., had it all his own way. He trotted the first heat in 2.42. In the second heat E. Thompson's Indian Billy went with him and made the exhibition of speed more interesting. The time was 2.50.

For the farmers' trot there were eight entries, the horses being owned by John Kerr, South Monaghan; James Elmhirst, Otonabee; John Holmes, Cavan; John Tate, Cavan; Jas. Barnard, North Monaghan; A. Moffatt, Otonabee; and Mr. Wilson, of Manvers, entered two, Dolly and the Clarke Colt. There was trouble in giving so many a good start, and when they were finally told to go, the Clarke Colt was in the rear. The horses immediately began a procession, but Clarke Colt forged ahead, passed all and came in the winner, with Dolly second and James Elmhirst a good third. The others were left behind. Time, 3.01½. In the second heat two horses were drawn. The three winners of the previous heat came in in the same order, the other three having a close race among themselves further back. Time, 2.52. The third heat was also won by the same three horses, the others not trotting, and it was close, Dolly crowding close on the Clarke Colt, and James Elmhirst holding the leaders tight. Time, 2.57. After the second heat James Elmhirst put in a protest against Wilson's two horses on the ground that they were not bona fide farmers' horses, and therefore not eligible for that race.

For the jubilee purse two teams were entered, one by T. Pettit, Lakefield, and the other being Wilson's Dolly and Clarke Colt. One heat was trotted. They had a good start, and Pettit's team drew out ahead and took a good lead at once. At the finish of the half mile Wilson's drew up to Pettit's and they went neck and neck for some distance, but Wilson's again fell behind. On the last quarter Wilson's again made a fast spurt and came in a little ahead, winning the first heat. Time, 3.02. The other two heats were postponed, as the hour was getting late.

The following is a continuation of exhibition notices:—

Mr. A. Gillespie has charge of the implement show made by the Peter Hamilton factory. It is a large one, embracing reapers, ploughs, gang ploughs, scufflers, hay rakes, mowers, seeders, sulky ploughs and straw cutters. A new feature is the new tubular steel binder. A thorough test of this binder has been made during the past season, and it has been found to work admirably. The great thing sought after in binders is lightness, without the loss of strength. This disideratum has been secured. A single team can handle the new binder with the greatest ease. A good deal of weight has been saved by doing away with the intermediate gearing and the adoption of shafts and two pair of bevel wheels. An advantage this binder possesses over all others is the power of lifting the grain wheel from the seat. A saving of time will be effected by this improvement, which farmers appreciate. The deck is of steel instead of wood, commonly used. The vibrating butter, used with so much success in the Hamilton these last few seasons, is a feature in the new binder. It is made of steel on the new binder. This new machine will be placed in the market next season, and without a doubt it will meet with a large sale.

Messrs. Fitzgerald & Stanger's display of stylish buggies, carriages, sleighs, etc., is situated to the right on passing up the grounds from the main entrance. It has attracted the attention of a constant crowd and certainly the elegance of the exhibit is exceptional. The buggies shown are built after the latest models which fashion has prescribed and with the best materials. The finish is very finely done, so much so, that the passing people can see their figures in the gloss. The Surrey buggy, the top Surrey, the piano box buggy, the Gladstone sleigh, the Peterborough sleigh are all stylish and handsome. The Couilland driving cart is light and easily handled. Strength and capacity for doing its work is set forth in the lumber waggon shown. Messrs. Fitzgerald & Stanger have made an exceedingly creditable display, though they might have made a much larger one had space been put at their disposal.

J. Johnston, of Monaghan, shows an automatic hay fork. It claims for itself the following advantages:—It has no springs nor clutches liable to break or wear out; no climbing is required to change the car; it has few joints to wear out; it possesses solidity and strength, though weighing but 20 pounds; it has never failed to carry the largest loads; it takes up little room, and it is very easily managed. Practical tests are made on the grounds.

T. Cochrane, implement agent, shows Coulhard, Scott & Co.'s goods and also a novelty in Fleury's grain crusher. It will crush from 25 to 50 bushels of grain per hour. Mr. Cochrane also shows ploughs, reapers, mowers and other kinds of agricultural implements.

J. Whyte & Co. show a line of their well-known ploughs.

W. Forsyth's I X L fanning mills are in operation in a building in the centre of the grounds. These mills are somewhat novel The grain is placed in the hopper and is conveyed to the bag without any extraneous help. Two bags may be placed on the "filler" at one time. Mr. Forsyth has pumps in different parts of the grounds for the benefit of exhibitors of stock. He also shows a quilting frame which is a great improvement on the old style.

H. Owens has an extensive display at the west of the exhibition building. The Brantford light steel binder, the Wisner seeder, the Wisner cultivator, and the wisner horse rake are all shown.

The Chatham fanning-mill is shown by Owens & McDonald. This mill has the following advantages: It is fast cleaning, light running, it has superior separation qualities, it effectually removes cockle, and is low and handy to get the grain in. Mr. Owens' model force and cone lift pumps which are in operation, recommend themselves, and selling them to persons wanting that kind of goods is easy.

NOTES.

The attendance to-day was considerably larger than that of yesterday, though the wet weather was an unfavorable feature.

In J. J. Turner's exhibition notice the fact that he shows a fine line of oilskin goods was omitted.

The track in the park is very heavy, and if the matched bicycle race comes off it will show slow time.

RIOT IN RUSSIA.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Some workmen in a cotton factory at Klime, Russia, raised a riot to-day and set fire to the factory, which was destroyed. Many persons were killed. Troops have been sent to restore order. The cause of the riot is not stated.

NOT DEAD YET.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The report sent from Tangier on the 2nd inst., that the Sultan of Morocco was dead, was incorrect. A despatch from there to-day states that his majesty is still alive, but his death is momentarily expected.

ITALY AND ABYSSINIA.

CAIRO, Oct. 5.—Advices from Massowah say King John of Abyssinia has ordered General Rasalouia to attack the Italians as soon as they emerge from Massowah. Native spies employed by the Italians report that the Abyssinians disagree as to the advisability of re-opening hostilities. A few influential Greeks in King John's entourage advise the maintenance of peace. The Negus has, however, determined upon war and has issued a proclamation in which he seeks to justify his action. Several skirmishes have occurred between Italian outposts and natives.

A FRUITLESS EVICTION.

DUBLIN, Oct. 5.—Crowds of people assembled at Gweedore, yesterday, to witness the eviction of widow Boyle. After a desperate struggle between the bailiffs and tenants, in which the former were badly used, the officers succeeded in entering the house and dragged the inmates out. After the police had left the scene the crowd reinstated the tenants.

STAMPING OUT SOCIALISM.

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—A decree has been issued under the Socialist law declaring a minor state of siege here, and prohibiting the sale on the streets of special editions to papers.

THE TRIPLE ALLIANCE.

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—The Bismarck-Crispi interview resulted in a definite written arrangement between Italy, Germany and Austria. Italy has full power to take independent action on the Mediterranean, and should Italian interests conflict with those of France or Russia, Italy will rely upon the support of Germany and Austria.

THE MELBOURNE EXHIBITION.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The Government has appointed a commission, headed by the Prince of Wales, Lord Rosebery and Lord Hartington, to promote English and Colonial exhibits at the Melbourne exposition.

READY FOR TRAITORS.

SOFIA, Oct. 5.—The Government has discovered a Zankovist plot for a revolutionary rising on Sunday next on the opening of the elections for members of the Sobranje. Refugees have been preparing to act on the frontiers in concert with Zankovists in the interior. Troops have been sent to suspected districts with orders to rigorously suppress any attempt at outbreak.

WAR PROBABLE.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The Standard's correspondent at Tamatave says: The rupture of diplomatic relations between the Hovas and France was caused by a dispute with reference to the exequatur of the American consul. It is believed war between the French and the Hovas will soon be renewed.

GERMAN SOCIALISTS.

Secret Session Held in Switzerland—Hoodwinking the Police.

BERLIN, Oct. 4.—A secret conference of German Socialists, lasting three days, has been held at St. Gall, Switzerland. Eighty delegates were present. The police were completely hoodwinked and had no knowledge of the meeting until after its adjournment. The Socialists leaders, Singer and Hasenclave, acted as presidents at the different sessions. The speakers bitterly denounced the course pursued by the Socialist deputies in the Reichstag, and a resolution was adopted condemning the Opportunist policy of the deputies under the lead of Herren Bebel and Liebknecht who were charged with coquetting with the other parties and with compromising the independence and revolutionary character of the Socialist movement. Reports were read showing that since the previous conference the Socialists of Germany have spent 170,000 marks, of which 100,000 marks were used for election expenses and 50,000 marks for defending members who have been prosecuted.

NO "RE-ACTION."

ALREADY we begin to hear Opposition assertions that the Macdonald cabinet no longer represents the views of the people of Canada who have changed their minds in the few months since the general election Well, according to our system of Government, we have some means of judging whether or not there has been such a change in public opinion, that is by the results of the bye-elections. There have so far been six bye-elections. In every one of them a supporter of the Government has been returned, not one Opposition candidate having been elected. In two of them Opposition members have been replaced by Ministerialists, thus increasing the majority for the Administration by four on a division. These six elections took place in each of the four old Provinces of the Dominion, in Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, so if there had been any widespread "re-action," as pretended, there was every opportunity for its manifestation. Even if there had been some slight gain by the Opposition it would have been by no means conclusive as to there being a general change of opinion, for an Administration by doing its duty to the whole country always runs the risk of alienating some small section or clique. A large Ministerial majority has almost invariably been somewhat reduced by the bye-elections both in the Mother Country and in our Dominion. The Macdonald Administration had an almost unprecedented expression of popular approval by gaining strength in the bye-elections, and in this Parliament it is following its own precedent.

REAPING HIS REWARD.

MR. Norquay, the Premier of Manitoba, is now being abused by the whole of the agitators for the construction of an illegal railway from Winnipeg, and by their partizan supporters in the Ontario press. It seems that he has not done their dirty work quite so effectually as they desired. We cannot pretend to feel much sympathy for Mr. Norquay. He has brought this torrent of abuse upon himself. Being mislead by the artificial clamour raised by a few political adventurers, speculators and agents of foreign organizations, he allowed himself to be scared by the local hubbub into neglecting his duty to the whole Province, the interests of which were very different from those of the city, and defying the laws of his country. If Sir Hector Langevin, Sir A. Caron and Mr. Chapleau had yielded to similar irrational clamour from the enemies of law in the Province of Quebec they might have been applauded at the moment but soon they would have been despised and abused by those who had made tools of them. They would have forfeited their self-respect and the good opinion of their fellowcountrymen. Mr. Norquay will see that it would have been better in the end to do his duty and respect the law, than to yield to a passing gust of sectional public opinion stirred up by agitators who made use of him and now mock at him for being thus deluded.

IT is reiterated by the Anti-Canadian press that the establishment of the iron industry in Canada by means of protective duties will increase the price of iron. They revive the exploded theory that the amount of the duty is added to the cost. In the United States where their duties on iron are far higher than ours, the price has been reduced, not raised. In Great Britain while it was building up its iron industry the duties were enormously greater than either in Canada or the United States, yet prices steadily decreased. There will be the same result in Canada if the slanderers of their own country would only desist from their constant efforts to frighten capitalists from investing their money in the Dominion.

And SHEPPARD, by common consent, will get $1,000 for being the Cheapest Clothier in Peterborough, having knocked the Wonderful Cheap Man completely out. "Business is business; dirt is dirt, and when it comes to throwing dirt, then count" the only original teddy out, and he will hand over that $1,000 like a little man, for the following reasons :—

SHEPPARD sells a full size Man's suit for $2.95, and better goods than a suit to fit a child about nine years old sold by the Wonderful Cheap Man on Saturday for $3.00; but marked $3.50. This is how it was.—A lady purchased a child's suit on Saturday last, Sept. 17th, 1887, at the store of the Wonderful Cheap Man. It was marked thusly :—Lot 5375, Breast 27, Waist 26½, Age 9, Price $3.50. It was pure shoddy being held together by cotton threads, and Sheppard is free to say that that was the dearest suit sold in the Town of Peterborough for the last two years. Full particulars are given because of the $1,000 involved, and, further, that this decides who is selling the Cheapest Clothing in Peterborough. SHEPPARD would have sold that lady a suit, pure wool, for that money, and worth two of the one she got.

$1,000 to Go to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

I had first decided to give the agencies a chance of jumping up my rating that $1,000, but after considering the matter and finding that never in any case have I been asked for an endorser to my paper, and that no relative or any other persons have ever endorsed my paper to the extent of one cent, I have come to the conclusion my credit is as good as yours, and will ask you to hand over the $1,000 to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

Now, Sir, there is a good story told, the truth of which can be vouched for, but for the honor of at least making an effort to keep up your self-styled name—The Terror of High Priced Clothiers—do not allow the same to be said of you in the case above. A man purchased a suit for $15.00 at the store of one of the largest advertisers in that section of country. It was guaranteed pure wool; but after examining it carefully at home, he came to the conclusion that he had been dealing with some one sharper than himself. Finding a make of wool, differing some from anything he had ever seen, it dawned upon him that he had heard of wool of that kind, so the suit was returned. The merchant bet $25 00 that it was all wool, and the bet was accepted, the decision being left to a neighboring merchant. He found that the $15.00 suit was wool faced and shoddy back, pure unadulterated shoddy; but what of the $25.00 bet? was it paid? Not much—muchly—as it were.

In Brief, and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents

It is Absurd

For people to expect a cure for Indigestion, unless they refrain from eating what is unwholesome; but if anything will sharpen the appetite and give tone to the digestive organs, it is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Thousands all over the land testify to the merits of this medicine.

Mrs. Sarah Burroughs, of 248 Eighth street, South Boston, writes: "My husband has taken Ayer's Sarsaparilla, for Dyspepsia and torpid liver, and has been greatly benefited."

A Confirmed Dyspeptic.

C. Canterbury, of 141 Franklin st., Boston, Mass., writes, that, suffering for years from Indigestion, he was at last induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla and, by its use, was entirely cured.

Mrs. Joseph Aubin, of High street, Holyoke, Mass., suffered for over a year from Dyspepsia, so that she could not eat substantial food, became very weak, and was unable to care for her family. Neither the medicines prescribed by physicians, nor any of the remedies advertised for the cure of Dyspepsia, helped her, until she commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "Three bottles of this medicine," she writes, "cured me."

ALL THE WORLD AT WAR.

By WALTER BESANT.

Author of "Shepherds All and Maidens Fair," "By Celia's Arbor," "The Golden Butterfly," etc., etc.

"Dan Gulliver!" cried the magistrate, as the lights were brought, and he could see our faces, "you are a prisoner? Dear me! dear me!"

"I asked for the prisoner to be committed for trial at the next Dorchester assizes, on a charge of smuggling. We caught him in the act."

"Ta—ta—ta! Fair and easy?" said the magistrate. "You forget, sir, that I am to hear the case. This way—this way. Oh, Dan Gulliver! what a blow! what a blow for all of us!"

He led the way into the dining room, where was his great chair of justice, in which he placed himself.

"Caught, sir, landing a cargo of brandy in Rousdon bay," said the officer. "Do you wish to hear evidence?"

"Evidence, sir? Of course I wish to hear evidence, and all the evidence you have to offer, I can assure you. Do you think that respectable people—yeomen—substantial farmers, like my friend Dan Gulliver and his sons—are to be haled off to prison on your ipse dixit? Ta—ta—ta! Call your evidence."

There was a general smile at the mention of Dan's occupation. Everybody, of course, knew exactly what his calling was. Even the officer, Lieut. Pollard, drank no branky except what came from Dan's secret cellars.

One after the other, the men were called forward by the lieutenant. Each deposed the same thing. They had marched to Rousdon bay by order of the captain, meaning Lieut. Pollard; they waited under shelter of the cliff from 2 o'clock till 4 or thereabouts; then the Dancing Polly sailed into the bay, and they captured the crew, consisting of the four prisoners.

When the lieutenant had called half a dozen witnesses, the justice asked him if he had anything else to depose.

"Nothing more," replied the officer. "Isn't that enough? You can hear the same story from the whole sixteen."

"No, sir," said the magistrate—and I thought I saw a twinkle in his eye as he raised the important objection—"no, sir; it is not enough. You have proved to me that Dan Gulliver and the three other prisoners were on board a boat which you believe to be, and which, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, we may assume to be, the Dancing Polly. You had an undoubted right, as an officer of his majesty's revenue, to board that vessel. Where, in my opinion, you exceeded your duty was in seizing the prisoners; for you have not proved that there was anything on board to justify that violent measure. Prove smuggling, sir, or I shall let the prisoners go and dismiss the case."

There was a sensation in the court. The officer looked down abashed. He had actually, in his zeal to seize a well known and notorious smuggler, omitted the most necessary portion of his case—proof of the contraband carriage. He was actually so eager to bring his prisoners to the magistrate that he forgot to carry with him his pieces de conviction.

"Under the circumstances, therefore," said the justice, with a great sigh of relief, "I shall dismiss the prisoners, unless you can at once produce evidence of smuggling."

Dan smiled. Will laughed aloud. Job and Jephthah nudged each other with their elbows, and became solemn beyond what is natural in young men. Lieut. Pollard looked, in fact—if one can say so of a gallant officer who afterward fell fighting the battles of his country—foolish.

"I could send back to Rousdon bay," he said, "and cause to be brought kegs from the cargo of the Dancing Polly."

"Tush, man!" said the justice. "Who is to prove that those kegs were there when you boarded the craft?"

The revenue men looked at each other and laughed, glad to find that Dan Gulliver was going to escape. Only the captain looked disconcerted.

"And now," said Mr. Mallock, rising from his judicial throne, "we may dismiss the case. I hope, Pollard, that next time you drag me out of bed in the middle of the night it will be with a better case than this. Dan Gulliver, the next time you go fishing in the Dancing Polly, you had better ask Capt. Pollard to go with you. And now I think I shall go up stairs and have my sleep out."

We all thought the case was over and the cause won, when a young fellow, one of the sixteen, Skirling by name—he was a Weymouth man; no man nearer than Weymouth would have willingly testified against Dan—stepped forward and spoke, with many stammers and with much hesitation.

"Beg your honor's pardon. I broached one of they kegs in the dark. I filled this here bottle"—he held out a flat bottle, two-thirds emptied—"with John Beer there"—everybody looked reproachfully at John Beer, the cousin of our Lyme barber—"and we drank it together."

"Swear this man," said the justice, sitting down again.

They gave him the oath, and he repeated the evidence. The worthy magistrate tried to cross examine him; but it was useless. The presence of the brandy could not otherwise be accounted for.

Then they called on John Beer, and that young fellow, with blushes and much unwillingness, was—fain to confirm the statement.

The justice of the peace made no further opposition.

"It must be," he said, with a choke in his voice. "It is in the hope, Dan Gulliver, and you others—Job Gulliver, Jephthah Gulliver and William Campion, all described as common mariners—that you will have a speedy deliverance and quickly return to your—your farming and the rest of it, that I sign this document. The law is uncertain. Times are hard. Honest men cannot be spared. Ah, it is a terrible misfortune! And at this juncture, too, when good brandy is almost not to be had and my own cellar, I regret to say, entirely empty."

So they were all committed to trial and bail refused.

Early as it was the whole population of Lyme was in the streets to witness, in sympathy and sorrow, the departure of Dan Gulliver and his sons—caught at last—for Dorchester jail. Loud were the lamentations and deep were the curses which were uttered on the unknown informer who had wrought this evil. They put us in a wagon and we drove off—no one refusing to let me go too—to Bridport and Dorchester, the dreariest journey I ever made in my life, except one even more sorrowful, which was to come later.

There happened, after the reluctant justice had granted his warrant, a very strange thing, and one which caused the sides of all Lyme Regis to shake with laughing. We heard the news ourselves two days afterward.

Capt. Pollard, ashamed of his own haste which was almost the cause of a miscarriage of justice, dispatched four of his men to seize the cargo and the boat and to bring them round to the cove at Lyme. Both boat and cargo were the prize of the captors, and a very tidy haul the prize would prove.

The men, by their own account, lost no time in marching back to Rousdon. It was about 8 o'clock when they got to the farm. Here they found Isaac Agus at work in the yard and his wife in the dairy and no one else about the place. Unsuspiciously they descended the hill and boarded their prize.

The Dancing Polly was empty!

The whole of her cargo was gone. Not one keg left; not a single trace of any brandy at all; the prize snatched from under their very eyes.

The men looked at each other aghast. It had been grief to most of them to arrest old Dan at all; he had ever been a good friend to all who wanted a little cheap spirit; but this laudable repugnance to perform the more ungrateful portion of their duties was moderated by the prospect of a prize. The Dancing Polly, as she stood with all her gear, was worth something, no doubt. And then there was the brandy.

They looked at each other in dismay. Where was it? Without a word they turned and climbed the hill to the farm. Here Isaac Agus was placidly engaged among the pigs.

He was hard of hearing and slow of speech, but at length he was made to comprehend that unknown persons had been at work in the bay since daybreak, and that he was waited to say who they were.

He knew nothing. At the usual hour—that is, before daybreak—he had left his bed, and since then had been busy in the farm yard. The absence of Dan and the boys gave him no concern, because it frequently happened; and he was, in his slow way, amazed to learn that they were all then, with the stranger, on their road to Dorchester prison.

Peculiar Potatoes.

Mr. Charles Reynolds, of Ennismore, brought to the REVIEW office this morning two peculiar potatoes. One was made up of seven tubers grown together and weighing over two pounds. The other showed the shape of three potatoes, one a large and long one and the other two growing to it near the end, forming a cross. Mr. Reynolds has been fortunate in having a good crop of potatoes this season.

A Serious Charge.

Joseph Valois, who lives on Union street was before the Police Court this morning on the grave charge of having assaulted his daughter, Isabella Valois with criminal intent. The charge was laid by Elizabeth Valois, Joseph's third wife, on Wednesday, and Valois was arrested at noon by Acting Chief Adams when he was returning home from work. The offence is alleged to have been committed on Saturday, October 1st. The girl is about thirteen years of age. Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. C. W. Sawers for the prisoner. The crown was not ready to proceed and the prisoner was remanded until Tuesday next at 9 o'clock. Valois was charged with a similar crime some years ago and served a term for it.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK.

TUESDAY, Oct. 4.—Frank Hope was charged with having been drunk and disorderly on Sunday. The charge was proven and a fine of $5 or ten days was imposed, the Magistrate remarking that it cost twice as much to get drunk on Sunday, as on any other day.

REMANDED.

Elijah Windover and Augustus Montgomery, charged with purloining lumbermen's supplies, were remanded for one week, on the application of County Attorney Wood. Mr. C. W. Sawers appeared for the prisoners.

D & D.

THURSDAY, Oct. 6.—Thos. Ritchie and J. Wilson, jr., were charged with being drunk and disorderly. They had been with John Rierdan at his mother's house, and Rierdan's mother objected to the visit. The defendants said that they left and were not disorderly, but the evidence of Acting-Chief Adams was against them. They were fined $1 each.

NON-PAYMENT OF WAGES.

Wm. Course brought an action for wages against E. Welsh for $4.60 which he claimed was due him as wages. The defendant did not appear and judgment was given for the amount claimed.

VICIOUS DOG.

Edward Ward was charged by John Irving with keeping a vicious dog. Irving's daughter, a little girl, was called and said that the dog bit her on the leg. Another witness was called whose leg the dog had nipped.

Mr. W. A. Stratton, who appeared for the defendant, said that they had offered to allow Irving to kill the dog. The Magistrate ordered the dog to be disposed of.

Spies and Vanzandt Quarrel.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The World's Chicago special says that Miss Vanzandt and August Spies, her alleged proxy husband, had a bitter quarrel in the country yesterday. She had heard that he had written affectionately to the young women to whom he was engaged before Mina fastened her affections on him. She upbraided him, and Spies said with much spirit that he would write to whoever he pleased, at which there was a grand upheaval of tears and sobs. The Anarchist's heart softened then and he promised to leave his former love alone.

The Telegraph Ring.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The Sun says that negotiations looking to the purchase of the Baltimore & Ohio telegraph system have progressed to a point where it has been substantially agreed by all concerned that the Western Union shall take the the Baltimore & Ohio in exchange for $5 000,000 of its stock. The increase of the Western Union stock from $81,000,000 to $86,000,000 will doubtless be arranged for at the regular annual meeting of the stockholders on October 12.

Train Wreckers.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 5.—An unsuccessful attempt was made yesterday to wreck an excursion train on the Illinois and St. Louis Railway near Belleville, Ill. August Franze and Joe Gahr, now in the gaol under indictment for taking out the spikes from the rails on the same road near this spot, have confessed their guilt, and claim that it was the result of a drunken debauch. The officers are satisfied that there are others associated with them.

The Cholera Ship.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The steamship "Alter" which brought the cholera-stricken passengers, to day came up from quarantine to her Brooklyn pier. Two more death occurred this morning on Swinburne Island, and two more will die before night. No new cases are reported.

Canadians Suffocated.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Edward and Thos. Moran were found dead in bed at their hotel, this morning, suffocated by gas. They came from Dakota, and were en route to Canada. The two were brothers.

Fish, Fish.

White Fish, Trout, Lunge and Bass at Ostrom's.

EVERYBODY cordially invited to look through TURNBULL'S Magnificent Stock of Millinery, Mantles, Dress Cloth and General Dry Goods on the 4th, 5th, and 6th of October.

Robbed.

James Montgomery, from the north, who was in town as a friend of one of the young men who are under arrest charged with stealing lumbering supplies, had with him a sum of money and carried a silver watch. On Wednesday he informed the police that he had been relieved of the money and the watch. He had been drinking the previous evening and when he sobered he found that his watch and his money were gone. He says that he had $25. The watch was a silver one, open faced, and was worth about $25

THE MATCHED HORSE RACE WON BY PETTIT'S PACERS.

The Foot Race Won by M. Bird—The Belleville Bicyclist Backs Out—Continuation of the Prize List.

On Thursday afternoon the first event on the Driving Park was the judging of the carriage horses. There was a fine lot driving around the ring. Messrs. J. McKee and C. Fairburn acted as judges. The result will be seen in the prize list.

MATCHED RACE.

The next event was a matched mile race best three in five, between a team of trotters owned by R. Hicks, of Nassau, and a team of pacers owned by T. Petitt, of Lakefield. Mr. J. Simpson, Hastings, was judge for Mr. Hicks, and Mr. J. Durin, of Hamilton, for Mr. Petitt. The interest was keen as was manifested by the enthusiastic cheering. It soon became apparent that the pacers would win. They went along at a great pace with their tails up and never made a break. Hick's team broke frequently. Petitt's team won easily. In the second heat Hick's put his team to it and galloped away from the other. When he obtained a good lead he drew up and trotted the horses, but on Petitt's pulling up again away the trotters went at a run again.

The crowd cheered and laughed themselves hoarse. Hicks maintained his lead till near the finish when he trotted his team under the pole. The heat was, of course, awarded to Petitt. The third heat was much the same as the second. Petitt's team won easily.

The result was:—

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Hick's team | 2 | 2 | 2 |

Time, 3.10, 3.05, 3.04.

SPRINTING.

In the meantime the matched foot race between Bird and Miller was being run on the award enclosed by the track. The police formed a vista of the crowd one hundred and twenty-five yards long. Bird appeared in a blue suit and Millar in a dark yellow suit. The signal was then given and both went up the stretch even, till at the final ten yards Millar spurted and won. The next two heats was won by Bird. The result was:—

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Bird | 2 | 1 | 1 |
| Millar | 1 | 2 | 2 |

Time, 19, 18¼ and 18¼ seconds.

BICYCLE.

For some time the director of sports was engaged in trying to get off the matched bicycle race which was to be contested between Greatrix, of Peterborough, and Cooper, of Belleville, for a $50 cup. All effort was in vain, owing to a dispute that occurred between the contestants. Greatrix came to the track in the best shape possible. He was trained down fine and had a light wheel—a 25-pounder. Cooper came with a 40-pounder, and when he found that Greatrix had a light wheel he demurred and finally objected to enter for the race on the ground that Greatrix had an advantage in wheels. Greatrix replied that disparity of wheels was taken into account in "green" races only—not in a matched race of this kind. It would be like a professional oarsman asking his opponent to row in a punt because he was provided with such a craft. Cooper then objected to the track. It cannot be denied that the track was not in good condition. The rain had made it rather soft except on the outside. Cooper's objection to the track did not hold good, however, when he offered to have the matched race declared off and to run a mile exhibition race with Greatrix. Greatrix refused to do this, but was prepared to go on with the matched race. Cooper and his friends left the grounds. To-day Greatrix went over the track and claimed the race.

THE INFANTS.

The baby show came off in the Exhibition building with great eclat. The happy mothers sat at the right of the main entrance with their noisy offsprings on their knees. They were the centre of interest for two whole hours, and many were dissappointed that they did not see the exhibit on account of the exceeding anxiety of everybody to see it. Messrs. Wm. Fair, L. F. Carpenter and J. J. Turner acted as judges, those previously appointed backing out. The prize was, after much comparison and discrimination, awarded to Mrs. T. Welsh's baby. Mrs. Welsh comes from Keene. When a gentleman from Omemee heard of the result he declared that the judges were incompetent, and waxing indignant announced his intention of challenging the whole four counties to produce a baby to compare with his. Mrs. Welsh's husband will wear a suit of clothes, herself will get a pair of blankets and the baby will get a silver cup. The prize was given by Gough, the clothier.

NOTES.

There were about four thousand people on the grounds yesterday.

Mr. J. A. Baptie carried off over $68 worth of prizes.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors, held this morning, Mr. Platt Hinman made an address in reference to holding the meeting of the Eastern Ontaria Diarymen's Association in Peterborough next spring. It was resolved to invite the association to hold its meeting here and the Board constituted itself a committee, with power to add to its numbers, to give the association a suitable reception.

The Board of Directors have to deal this year with only five protests,—a very small number considering that the entries numbered about two thousand.

The Fire Brigade Band have been present on the grounds on Wednesday and Thursday. The music is much appreciated.

Mr. E. C. Hill is busily engaged in distributing the REVIEW Exhibition number.

The following is the continuation of the prize lists:—

MR. O'BRIEN'S CHARGES.

He Reiterates His Accusations Against Solicitor-General Gibson.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Mr. William O'Brien reiterates his accusation that Solicitor-General Gibson sent on the day of Mr O'Brien's conviction a telegram to th Crown counsel saying that the Government would lose their case and that Mr. Harrington, Mr. O'Brien's counsel, would be disbarred. Despite the denials of the Solicitor-General and the Crown counsel that such a message passed between them, Mr. O'Brien alleges that the despatch was sent in cipher, and challenges the accused officials to bring an action for libel against him, intimating that they dare not do so, lest the facts should be exposed. In support of his charge, Mr. O'Brien says that the present case is by no means the first of its kind that has occurred, the former attorney-general, now Justice Holmes, having exhibited his duplicity in a precisely similar case not long before it was decided to reward him for his questionable services to the Crown by raising him to the bench.

GENERAL BULLER'S SUCCESSOR.

Sir J. W. Ridgeway Assumes the Under Secretaryship for Ireland.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The final departure of Gen. Sir Redvers H. Buller from the office of permanent under secretary for Ireland, and the induction into office of his successor, Col. Sir Joseph West Ridgeway, which took place yesterday, severs the last official link between the Tory Government and the people of Ireland, and the former's policy of force in ruling the Emerald Isle will henceforth meet with no hindrance from within the precincts of Dublin Castle. Gen Buller carries away with him more kindly wishes and a greater share of popular respect than he enjoyed when he went to Ireland as the Government's instrument to subjugate the turbulence then prevailing to Kerry, and the change of feeling in his favor was due to the discovery that he possessed in a marked degree a sense of fairness and justice.

POLICE COURT.

D. & D.

FRIDAY, Oct. 7.—John Reardon appeared this morning as a continuation of the case which was up yesterday when the three young men displeased Mrs. Reardan. The Magistrate informed him that the case was disposed off on Thursday and that he could go.

Foot Ball.

The following team will play with the Kingston City Club to-morrow:—Back—Kirby; half-backs—G. Smith, W. D. Parker; quarter-backs—Brennan, Morris, (Capt.,) K. Kincaid; forwards—Stevens, A. St. A. Smith, Schofield, Forbes, Peplow, Strickland, Halliday, Scott, W. Orde. The game will commence at 3.30 sharp.

Heating Contract.

Messrs. McAndrew & Noble have secured the contract for putting in the heating apparus in the new Government building, in which they have just finished the plumbing. With the contract for Hall, Innes & Co.'s building and other work they have a good business on their hands.

Perry Davis' Pain-Killer as a Diarrhœa and Dysentery remedy seldom ever fails.

Surprised by Indians.

TAHLEQUAH, Ind., Oct. 6.—On Tuesday night Deputy United States Marshal Phillips with three assistants, arrested Henry M. Kizoit, a Chicasaw 18 years of age. The party camped on the prairie with the exception of Phillips who rode on ahead. After waiting until noon yesterday for the arrival of the guards with the prisoner, Phillips rode back and found the entire posse killed, their heads having been cut off while they slept.

Sufferers from the effects of quinine, used as a remedy for chills and fever, should try Ayer's Ague Cure. This preparation is a powerful tonic, wholly vegetable, and without a particle of any noxious drug. Warranted a sure cure.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

LORD ROSEBERY.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Lord Rosebery spoke at Ipswich this evening. In the course of his speech he said that the ghastly scene at Mitchelstown illustrated to the English people the system of misgovernment in Ireland which provoked civil war. The Government, by suppressing the National League, had turned a legitimate society into a secret one. The whole policy of the Government was a humiliating one in the eyes of the world.

FEMALE CIGAR-MAKERS.

MADRID, Oct. 6.—Several thousand female cigar-makers gathered at one end of the factories yesterday and engaged in a riot. The civil guard surrounded the factory and the women took possession of the building and barricaded it. The women still hold the building.

WAR IN AFGHANISTAN.

LAHORE, Oct. 6.—The fighting between the forces of the Ameer of Afghanistan and the rebels is continuous. The warfare is carried on with varied success. The salient features of the situation are Omra Khan's success in Bajaur and Snal and Russian activity on the Badakshan frontier.

AN UNRULY ARCHDUKE.

VIENNA, Oct. 6.—Archduke John in a letter to the Austro-Hungrry army from London indicates that his retirement from the army was compulsory. It is believed the Archduke is the author of an anonymous pamphlet criticising the army, and this fact, in addition to his outspoken criticism, was the reason for his suspension from military command.

DEFIANCE OF THE GOVERNMENT.

DUBLIN, Oct. 6.—The Freman's Journal publishes to-day four columns of reports of the National League meetings held on Sunday in the counties of Clare, Cork, Kerry and Wexford. At all the meetings resolutions were passed denouncing the attempts of the Government to suppress the League and the prosecution of Mr. O'Brien and Lord Mayor Sullivan of Dublin.

A RUSSIAN'S OPINION.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 6.—M de Giers, Minister of Foreign Affairs, declares that the Turkish proposals looking to the appointment of a Russo-Turkish Commission to temporarily govern Bulgaria cannot assume substantial form until the Sultan summons Prince Ferdinand to leave Bulgaria. The advice of England, Austria and Italy to the Sultan to abstain from violence in Bulgaria paralyzes his action.

FRANCE AND MADAGASCAR.

Conflicting Despatches from Tamatave Regarding the Difficulty.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The despatches received from Tamatave anent the diplomatic difficulty between France and the Hovas are conflicting and incomprehensible. The demand of Consul Campbell for an exequatur undoubtedly caused no overbearing action on the part of the French representatives, and it is not easy to understand why it should have provoked the Malagasy authorities to ill-feeling. Some other reason for the trouble must be the true one, and the general belief is that the entire affair was the result of a personal dispute that had no official significance whatever, this conviction being deepened by later despatches stating that the matter had been smoothed over to the satisfaction of all concerned.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1887.

CANADA'S CREDIT.

WHEN some unpatriotic Canadians are crying down Canada's credit, it is satisfactory to find that it is more highly estimated by impartial and competent judges elsewhere. Sir John Gorst, who is of high repute as a financial authority, while dealing as Under Secretary of State for India with the Indian Budget spoke as follows:—

"Incidently he had worked out the value of the securities of different countries of the world in the London money market. England in the London money market could sell her consols at a price which yielded £2 19s. per cent. Next came the United States £3-9d., and in order the following: India, whose securities yielded £3 9s; Canada £3 9s 6d; New South Wales, £3 13s 6d; Victoria, £3 13s 9d; France, £3 14s 9d; Cape of Good Hope, £3 19s; New Zealand, £4 2s; Austria, £4 10s 6d; Italy, £4 10s 9d; and Russia, £5 3s 9d.

It will be seen that Canada stands absolutely fourth in the credit list of the countries of the world. Practically with India and the United States she may be said to stand in the second place, for the difference is only the infinitismal fraction of one fortieth of one per cent.—sixpence in the £100 sterling. The only other borrowing communities that come near her are British colonies and she is far in advance of such great countries as France, Austria, Italy and Russia.

This is a very creditable position for a comparatively young country like Canada to hold, and afford a very forcibly and practical answer to those unworthy Canadians who delight in decrying their country before the whole civilized world.

METHODS OF PROTECTION.

It is pretended by the advocates of Commercial Annexation that the United States and especially the Democratic party, with President Cleveland at their head, are preparing to make their tariff less protective.

Now there are two ways of effecting protection by means of the custom tariff.

One is by increasing the duties on manufactured articles.

The other is by diminishing the duties on raw materials, including food.

In their willingness to reduce the revenue, while unwilling to abandon protection of their home industries, the people of the United States are proposing to adopt this second method which really means increased protection. No political party there dares openly advocate a cessation of protection, for to do so would be to court an overwhelming defeat from the vast majority of the electors.

If the United States adopt this method they will be less hostile to the old restricted reciprocity, and it would be folly for us to attempt to purchase such a concession by a present of our fisheries or by sacrificing our Canadian industries to their desire to manufacture for us as well as for themselves.

THE fact that Chief Justice Wallbridge has declared that Manitoba has no power to construct the Red River Valley Railway, is received by that portion of the Ontario press which has been advocating lawlessness and rebellion, with the assertion that of course they knew all along that it was illegal. They continue, however, to advise persistance in this admitted illegality, even if it results in rebellion and disruption. Their theory seems to be that if a certain number of people do not like a law they have a right to set it at nought. As the dissentients are to be the sole judges, we do not see where these advocates of lawbreaking are to draw the line short of thieves and murderers.

IN some editorial remarks on the answer made by the Winnipeg Board of Trade to Sir George Stephens' circular regarding disallowance, the Toronto Mail argues that Manitoba is placed at such a disadvantage by the use of the veto that probably neither the Parliament nor the people of Canada would have approved of it as a condition precedent. Of course what was probable at at a particular date is a matter of opinion but the fact remain that the Parliament of Canada and the people of Canada by their constitutional representatives have approved of the use of the veto in this instance.

THE Montreal Herald is grieved because in England Canada is lightly spoken of, and especially because the Canadian Parliament has been described as venal. It is lamentable, but still more lamentable is it that it should be caused by the slanders circulated against the leading men of Canada, the majority of the representatives of the people and the majority of the people themselves, by the Herald and other unpatriotic journals who are enraged because they and their friends are not in office, and who therefore vent their anger on their country.

In Brief, and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

It is Absurd

For people to expect a cure for Indigestion, unless they refrain from eating what is unwholesome; but if anything will sharpen the appetite and give tone to the digestive organs, it is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Thousands all over the land testify to the merits of this medicine.

Mrs. Sarah Burroughs, of 248 Eighth street, South Boston, writes: "My husband has taken Ayer's Sarsaparilla, for Dyspepsia and torpid liver, and has been greatly benefited."

A Confirmed Dyspeptic.

C. Canterbury, of 141 Franklin st., Boston, Mass., writes, that, suffering for years from Indigestion, he was at last induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla and, by its use, was entirely cured.

Mrs. Joseph Aubin, of High street, Holyoke, Mass., suffered for over a year from Dyspepsia, so that she could not eat substantial food, became very weak, and was unable to care for her family. Neither the medicines prescribed by physicians, nor any of the remedies advertised for the cure of Dyspepsia, helped her, until she commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "Three bottles of this medicine," she writes, "cured me."

By WALTER BESANT.

Author of "Shepherds All and Maidens Fair," "By Celia's Arbor," "The Golden Butterfly," etc., etc.

But he knew nothing. The simple look of the old man, his deafness, his slowness of comprehension, convinced the men that he knew nothing. Then they returned to the bay and stood sadly contemplating their empty prize. "Sure for certain," said one, "folks'll laugh at us!"

"Well they may," said another.

Then ature, which brings relief in different ways, gave these honest fellows theirs in a volley of oaths, a broadside of oaths, fired by all together. They swore at the unknown informer, in the first instance, for causing them to meddle with Dan Gulliver at all; and then at the unknown brigands who had robbed the cargo; and then at the captain for being in such a mighty hurry; and then at things in general.

Before they had anything like finished swearing—so, that is, as to feel easy and comfortable in their minds about the past and philosophic as to the future—the thought occurred to one of them that one of the thieves may have been the fourth partner in the firm, Joshua Meech, of Up Lyme Mill.

It would be an excellent conclusion to the business to find that heroic smuggler in the act of carting the kegs, or stowing them away in the mill. They lost no time in marching over the fields to the mill.

It was 10 o'clock when they got there; the wheel was slowly turning, grumbling and grunting as it went round; the water plashed into the deep, dark hole below; the grinding of the upper and the nether stone were heard within; an empty wagon was standing by the door, ready to be loaded; and at the door was Joshua Meech himself.

His coat and flat cap, his boots, his face, were covered with flour. He asked them roughly what they wanted.

When he heard that Dan was arrested, he seemed to reel and catch at the doorway.

When he heard that the cargo had all disappeared, he laughed, but without merriment. And then he invited the men to search the mill.

There was nothing there.

"And so my uncle is caught," he said, "and the boys with him?"

"Ay, ay, all of them."

"Life is uncertain," said the Methody; "we are like the grass. Poor Job and Jephthah! And there was a young man with them? Was he, too, caught?"

"All caught."

"Was there any resistance?"

"The old man and his son, they were quiet enough," replied one of the men. "The other young fellow—he kicked and fought a bit."

"Did he now?" cried Joshua, with much interest. "Did he? That was rash. Because resistance to the king's officers is death. That's a hanging matter. The other three will get off with seven years' transportation. But he'll be hanged. Dear me! How very sad!"

He smacked his lips as if he liked the thought. Some people do like to dwell on melancholy subjects.

CHAPTER IV.

THE KING'S CLEMENCY.

It was late in the evening when we got to Dorchester. The prison gates—above them hung, as a warning to evil doers, a set of rusty fetters and handcuffs—closed upon all that I called dear, and I was left outside.

The young man, John Beer, the same whose appetite for brandy had done us so much mischief, found me a lodging with respectable people, and I waited in trouble of soul for the morning.

At 9, after waiting outside for two long hours, I obtained admission to the prison. I went in trembling, and expected to see the prisoners jangling their chains in despair. I looked for sighs and prayers, for the tears of repentance and the groans of remorse. I found nothing of the kind. The courtyard was half full of men who were all laughing, talking, drinking and singing.

My own party were not in the courtyard. Dan Gulliver and his sons were no common criminals. They had obtained, on payment of certain fees, the use of a ward all to themselves, where I found them. It was a large and cheerful room, but disfigured by the odious bars over the windows. Dan was pacing backward and forward; Job and Jephthah were sitting side by side in one corner, their hands folded in silence and resignation; Will was at the table writing.

"We must be very clear and precise about this statement, Dan," he was saying. "There must be no possible misunderstanding. They must be made to see that this is no cock and bull story, got up by us to help us out of our scrape."

Dan nodded reflectively.

"Now this is what I have written—Pleasance, you are come to see us in our temporary home. Limited the accommodation, but we must make the best of it. Sit down, child, while we finish our business. Now Dan:

"'This is the statement of me, Daniel Gulliver, of Rousdon farm, parish of Rousdon, near the town of Lyme Regis.

"'On Wednesday evening, Oct. 21, in this year 1803, I was on board my boat, the Dancing Polly, off the coast of France, homeward bound. I was running a cargo of brandy, in the landing of which I was caught and arrested by the revenue officers, and am now, with my two sons and a young man who was staying in my house, committed for trial for that offense.

"'We took in our cargo at Barfleur, on Wednesday morning. We started, the wind being then light, but afterward freshening, and southeast by south—a favorable wind for us, but bad for the ships we met later on in the channel.

"'Ten miles, or thereabouts, due north from Point Barfleur they were—three men o' war, eight frigates and small craft. They were beating up channel, apparently west by north, though the wind was dead against them, and they was flying French colors.

THE TEMPEST STILLED.

EXPLANATORY NOTES BY REV. GEO. P. HAYES, D. D., LL. D.

Lesson II of the International Series (Fourth Quarter) for Sunday, Oct. 9. Text of the Lesson, Matt. viii, 18-27. Golden Text, Matt. viii, 26.

Vs. 18-22. Excited professions.—The multitudes which were above Christ would seem to have made it very important that he should stay, instead of departing to the other side; but he had already given abundant instruction to those in this region of Capernaum, at least for present uses. His voyage to the other side took him to a region of comparative heathendom. Their employment showed that they were not strict Jews. As Jesus was departing, seemingly under the pressure of his past discourses, and probably with some heedlessness and impulsiveness, one who had already professed, as is indicated by the word "another," and who was himself a scholar, came to Christ with the recognition of authority involved in the word "Master," and said, "I will follow thee withersoever thou goest." This was an excellent profession of consecration. If it was uttered by Judas, Christ's warning to him to count well the cost was exceedingly pertinent. In contrast with his desire for ease, Christ cites his own homelessness.

If any excuse would seem to be good for postponing the following of Christ, that suggested in v. 21 should be so counted. It is the utterance of filial affection, and filial duty was very highly esteemed among the Jews. No doubt spiritual death is here contrasted with physical death, and let the dead (spiritually) bury their dead (physically) brings out the Saviour's instruction. Even if this was a case of the actual death of his father, it is only the stronger type of all the excuses which grow out of worldly action and friendly relationship. Whether kindred are dead in body or only dead in sin, even though they be parents or nearest of kin, nothing can excuse us from the immediate service of Christ. What seem to be duties will often conflict, but no real duty can be a necessary hindrance to serving Christ. He is first and always first.

V. 23-27. The departure.—Mark says that more ships were present than this one into which Christ and his disciples entered. As the fleet set sail, nearly the whole leadership of the incipient church was on that sea. It is not wonderful then that the prince of the power of the air should stir up all nature to wreck the whole fleet, but especially the particular ship on which were found Christ and his disciples. Probably all of the twelve were present and heard the strictness required in Christ's reply to the three with whom he had just spoken. If, after that standard of service was set up, they still followed him, Satan might well suppose that their courage would hold out to the last. How far the prince of darkness is able to affect the forces of nature we are not required here to determine. It is certain that he cannot go beyond the permission of the head of the church, and this trip across the sea is proof of that. Sudden gusts of wind frequently break in upon the sea of Tiberias from the surrounding mountains.

When this ship and its companions were out upon the sea one of these sudden tempests broke upon them. The very sea seemed to be in convulsions. In the midst of all this Christ was in a quiet place fast asleep. This is the only place in his life in which it is recorded that he slept. Nothing else which he could have done would have indicated his perfect faith and confidence in his power to save. His disciples had not yet learned his power so well as to share in this sense of security. They were not cowards, but they were terribly scared when they saw him asleep. They supposed his protection was also asleep. Their cry of "Lord, save us: we perish" (Luke viii, 24) is very expressive. V. 26. The waves stilled.—And it is to be noticed that Christ rebuked not merely the winds, but the sea also (Mark iv, 39; Luke viii, 24). If he had only rebuked the wind the sea would have become still by and by, but under these circumstances the proof of the manifestation of a miracle would not have been so perfect. The winds often come up suddenly, and often as suddenly cease; but when he stilled the sea and its waves, that was not merely the stilling of the wind.

V. 27. Who is this?—If we can thoroughly represent to ourselves this scene, we shall understand the strong meaning involved in the expression, "What manner of man is this?" Herein is raised the whole question of his nature. Sleight of hand and trickery were as certainly excluded in this manifestation of his power as they are in his modern manifestations of omnipotence in the fulfillment of prophecy. Omnipotence is no more required to still the sea and the winds than it is required to bring to pass the fulfillment of his word amidst the wars and migrations and discussions and distresses of the nations. Alas that these disciples should after this have ever lost their perfect faith in him, and much more that after 1,800 years of the experience of Christ's power to protect his church and bring its work to his destined end and glory, we should ever, with like unbelief and fear, cry as if the Saviour was asleep, Master, Master! save thy kingdom, or it will perish.

SUCCESSIVE APPLICATIONS.

The Son of man hath not where to lay his head, v. 20. Few things touch us more quickly and deeply than a feeling of utter homelessness; yet this was the thought that was filling the mind of Jesus when he made the reply to the Jewish scribe. It is easy to sing of being a "pilgrim and a stranger;" but to face the real fact is serious and sorrowful business. And it would certainly be that when one like the scribe and many of the disciples of old expected to find not only a home by following Jesus, but a share in a kingdom which would be more glorious than any on the earth. They were looking not merely to the spiritual glories and advantages which would come to the subjects of that kingdom; the world has not yet got beyond this thought. Some are willing enough to serve the church if they can possess the temporal honors and the temporal comforts which church and home bring. And yet there is but one true home, a mansion which Christ has gone to prepare: and those who have no place in that home are the most abject and wretchedly homeless of all human beings.

Lord, save us; we perish, v. 25. In the voyage of life, with a calm sea and sunny skies, good health, and food, and comfort, men sail on regardless of the future, as they are regardless of the God above them. But when the sky is beclouded and the sea roughened and the storm comes on, and there is danger on the wave, then man begins to think. When the storm deepens and the waves heighten, in alarm he cries out. There are other storms than those on the sea; there are other dangers than those which beset our physical life; there are some positions and storms which sweep our characters and try our strength and threaten wreck to our spiritual natures. Happy is it for us if we cry out then like the disciples of old, "Lord, save us; we perish."

HINTS FOR PRIMARY CLASSES.

The lesson for the little folks may commence with v. 23, but this one should be connected with the last by a brief review and a mention of some of the intervening facts.

The questions for today must recall the healing of the centurion's servant at Capernaum, the centurion's faith and the teachings of Jesus. Then state the fact that Simon Peter's mother-in-law was cured of a fever by the touch of Jesus' hand and the command of his words.

Give an idea of the multitude that thronged Jesus for the cure of diseases, many of which were incurable by ordinary means. At length the order was given to depart to the other side of the lake, and the weary healer went to the stern of the boat to lie down quietly and take some rest. The sea of Galilee is subject to sudden and severe storms. One arose this night, and the waves dashed over the boat to such an extent that the ship was in danger of sinking.

In terror the disciples called their Master, who not only rebuked the winds and the sea, but he rebuked the disciples for their want of faith.

Teach from this that Jesus is almighty. He has all power. At the close of the Lord's Prayer it is said, Thine is the kingdom, and the power: the power to heal the sick; the power to quiet the winds and waves. He made all things and can control all things.

Little folks are often very timid in storms, or fires, or great disasters of any kind. If they could learn from this lesson to trust in God as one able to protect and defend them, much suffering might be averted. Let them recite the Golden Text, "Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith?" and then teach them from Ps. lvi, 3, "What time I am afraid, I will trust in thee."

Teach the little ones to believe that they may claim the promises; teach them to trust in the Almighty One who is able to deliver from all trouble. Tell this story so that they will never forget it. Fasten upon their minds the details of the story so as to make it real to them. Be animated, and so truly in earnest that they will believe you; make yourself so interesting that every one will listen attentively to your story and to the practical lessons the story teaches.—Sunday School World

Committed for Trial.

The Toronto Mail of Thursday says:—"Sufficient evidence was given before the Police Magistrate yesterday to warrant the commitment of Henry Prax for trial on the charge of bigamy. From the testimony given it appears that Prax was married to Margaret Wilson on Dec. 27th, 1881, by Rev. D. J. Macdonnell, in this city. After living five years with his wife Prax went east and obtained a situation as cook in a Peterborough hotel. There he met Maggie Revia and was married to her on Aug. 24th, 1887, by Rev. Mr. McFarlane, in Lakefield. The defence is that the second marriage was illegal, as Maggie Revia had a husband then living. In committing the prisoner to trial the Magistrate refused bail."

THE NEW MASONIC HALL

THE LODGE ROOM OF CORINTHIAN AND PETERBOROUGH LODGES.

Consecration and Dedication by Grand Lodge—The Friends of the Members Entertained at a Conversazione.

On Thursday the handsome new Masonic Hall was opened with the usual ceremonies by the Deputy Grand Master R. W. Bro. R. T. Walkem, Q.C., of Kingston, and other grand officers.

At three o'clock W. Bros. R. E. Wood and W. Thompson, opened Corinthian and Peterborough Lodges in the great hall which was thronged with their members and visiting brethren from the neighbourhood.

The Grand Lodge was opened in the lesser hall with the following officers:—

The Grand Lodge having been received with the usual honours, the impressive ceremonies of the consecration and dedication of the new hall were performed.

The Grand Master then congratulated the fraternity in Peterborough on their very handsome and commodious lodge room and evidently flourishing condition. He addressed the officers and brethren in an impressive manner on their duties and privileges.

R. W. Bro. the Rev. V. Clementi, Past Grand Chaplain, as one of the oldest Masons in Peterborough, moved, in an appropriate speech, a vote of thanks to R. W. Bro. Walkem for presiding at the ceremony and for his interesting address.

W. Bro. the Rev. Dr. Smithett, another veteran Mason, seconded the motion, which was carried by acclamation.

R. W. Bro. Walkem acknowledged the cordial reception that had been given to him and expressed the great pleasuse his visit had afforded him.

The Lodge was then closed and the brethren dispersed for a time.

THE CONVERSAZIONE.

In the evening the members of the fraternity and their friends assembled in the new rooms for a conversazione, between four and five hundred being present. The folding doors between the two large lodge rooms were thrown open, forming a magnificent hall, in which the seats were arranged informally, so as to allow for free circulation.

After the guests had assembled, the brethren, in the regalia of the Blue Lodges, the Royal Arch Chapter, &c., formed in procession without, and marched up the whole length of the hall, and then opening, formed double lines, through which the Deputy Grand Master, R. W. Bro. Wilkem, advanced to the dais and was received with Masonic grand honours. He was welcomed by W. Bros. R. E. Wood and W. Thompson, who, as Masters of Corinthian and Peterborough Lodges, were presiding.

The Deputy Grand Master then addressed those present, and especially the lady guests, in a speech in which he described the origin, the objects and the methods of Masonry as far as it was lawful to divulge them, dwelling particularly on the association of Masonry with religion and morality He renewed his expressions of gratification at his visit and his reception.

Messrs. Parker and Jaques played a duet on the piano, and then followed at intervals vocal duets by Miss Vair and Miss Strickland, Miss Vair and Mr. Baguley, and solos by Mrs. H. Lamb, Miss Brundrett, and Messrs. Galletly, Baguley, Davis and Jaques, and a humorous reading by Mr C. Brown. The singing of Auld Lang Syne and God Save the Queen by the brethren closed the musical part of the entertainment.

In the intermissions of the music guests and hosts promenaded through the rooms, which were greatly admired. Among the pictures which decorate the walls were several presented to the lodge by members. A fine photograph of Past High Priest Robert Salter, of Hamilton Chapter, Rochester, N. Y., was a gift from him to Corinthian R. A. Chapter, Peterborough.

Refreshments were obtainable throughout the evening in the large ante-room.

Many visited the goat in his pen, much curiosity being expressed regarding him.

It was not till a late hour that the party broke up, after an evening which appeared to be thoroughly enjoyed by all who participated in this very successful entertainment.

The Conclusion of the Annual Fair.

REMAINDER OF PRIZE LIST.

THE OPEN TROT, JUBILEE PURSE AND OTHER RACES.

Notes on the Splendid Exhibit of Horses—Cattle and Other Outside Departments—The Prize Winners in These Classes.

BREWERY CUP.

The first event for the day on the speeding track was the trot for the Brewery Cup given by H. Calcutt, to be contested between two year olds. There were two entries: Geo. Fitzgerald's colt and —Weston's colt. Fitzgerald's colt won both heats. Time, 3.57 and 3.55.

OPEN TROT.

The interest centred in the open trot. At two o'clock the race was called and the following entries were booked:—Clancy's Royal Jim, Beatty's Tariff, Daly's Billy W., Curtis' Valentine, Smith & Co.'s Maud S., Wilson's Dolly, Appleby's Honest Paddy, and Thompson's Indian Billy. Before the race began Indian Billy and Wilson's Dolly withdrew. The places were announced as follows:—Royal Jim next the pole, Billy W. 2, Honest Paddy 3, Tariff 4, Valentine 5 and Maud S 6. In the first heat Royal Jim took the lead and the others well behind for the first three hundred yards. Tariff came out from the field, overhauling both Valentine and Royal Jim. The other three were in the rear, and all were off their feet in turn. Tariff trotted magnificently, driven by Bob. Reid, finishing the mile in 2.38.

CHEESEBUYERS PURSE.

The purse of $10 (1st $7, 2nd $3) offered for the fastest trotting horse owned by a cheese buyer or cheese manufacturer was contested by horses owned by Geo. Fitzgerald and D. Pilkey. The terms were; twice round the track, best two in three. Pilkey's horse won both heats; time, 3.40 and 3.32.

GENTLEMEN'S PURSE.

The purse of $45 (1st $30, 2nd $15) for saddle horses, speed to be considered, was contested between Job Dickenson's Young Thunder and a horse belonging to Mr. Lowes, of Cavan.

Dickenson's horse won both heats easily. The time was slow.

OPEN TROT.

The second heat of the open trot was won by Maud Bartlett. She got a good start, never made a skip, and finished the mile in exactly the same time as Tariff trotted the last—2.38. It was a close race between Tariff and and Valentine for second place. Coming up the home stretch Tariff gained a few inches lead, but nearing the wire he broke and ran under it. Valentine was given second. Billy W. came in fourth, and Royal Jim fifth. Paddy was flagged.

Five heats were trotted with success varying. The record is as follows:—

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Maud S. | 2 | 1 | 1 | 1 |
| Tariff | 1 | 3 | 3 | 2 |
| Billy W. | 4 | 4 | 2 | 3 |
| Valentine | 3 | 2 | 4 | 4 |
| Royal Jim | 5 | 5 | 5 | 5 |
| Honest Paddy | 6 | 0 | 0 | |

The fourth heat was counted no go the horses being set back for running.

CONSOLATION RACE.

The consolation race was won by "Indian Billy" owned by E. Thompson.

JUBILEE PURSE.

The concluding heat in the trot for the jubilee purse was trotted between teams owned by Messrs. Wilson and Pettit. The former won easily; time 2.57.

The exhibits of swine, sheep and poultry were comprehensive and creditable. The sheep pens have been extended along the north side of the grounds so as to give more room for other stock.

The show of stallions, agricultural horses, heavy draught horses, carriage horses, saddle horses, and thoroughbreds were all extensive and very attractive. The names of those who won prizes will be found in the published list of prizes.

The exhibit of live stock was superior to any ever made here. An idea of its extent is had from the fact that considerably over half a mile of stalls were filled and still there was not sufficient room. If improvement continues in this feature of the exhibition, as it has, it will before long equal or surpass the similar feature of the Provincial show.

A noticeable feature in the cattle exhibit was the number of Holsteins and their fine appearance. Messrs. Staddart Bros. showed a fine herd; Mr. S. Curtis, of Alnwick, showed a herd of eleven animals, and Messrs. E. Machiln & Sons, Fennela, also showed a numerous herd. In Jerseys, Mr. B. Hinman, Grafton, and Mr. R. Walton, Smith, were the principal exhibitors. Durhams were stalled by the dozens, and magnificent specimens they were. Joseph Redmond, Otonabee; A. Cox, Smith; (the latter showed a herd of fifteen herd) and R. J. Storey, Millbrook, were prominent exhibitors.

CLASS 39—CARRIAGES, WAGGONS, BUGGIES, ETC.

A diploma was given for the best exhibit in this class, confined to five articles: 1 waggon, 1 covered buggy, 1 open buggy, 1 phaeton, 1 cutter.

The judge's decision is as follows:—

The exhibit of Porter Bros. is entitled to the diploma awarded in above class; and if I were permitted to go outside of the five articles as above, then I should say that their very large and excellent display of fine finished vehicles should receive the favorable consideration of the Board of Directors by awarding them a gold medal.

I would also wish to say that the exhibit of Messrs. Fitzgerald & Stanger is highly commended.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

JAMES ST. CHARLES, Judge.

THE QUEEN AT BALMORAL.

Unveiling of a Statue of Her Majesty—The Queen's Thanks.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—At Balmoral yesterday the Prince of Wales unveiled Boehm's statue of the Queen presented by the district tenantry. The Queen expressed her thanks for the loyal and kind address presented to her. She said: "This statue will be a lasting memorial of the affection I always bear for my Highland Home. I am deeply touched by the grateful terms in which you have alluded to my residence amongst you. The great devotion you have shown me and mine while here has been added to the joys, and lightened the sorrows of my life. I miss many kind faces of old friends no longer with us who would have rejoiced equally with me. I heartily reciprocate your good wishes, and I trust we may still look forward to spending many happy days together." Her Majesty was heartily cheered.

FRANCE AND RUSSIA.

Remarkable Speech by the Russian Grand Duke Nicholas at Paris.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—There is much comment over a speech made by the Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia on his arrival here on Wednesday. He declares that France was preparing for revenge and was right in doing so. Russia was also working to destroy the influence of Germany. Russia loved France, and was weeding out Germany influence at Court, so that soon the Russian Government would consist wholly of men who sympathize with France. He expected to some day draw his sword, standing shoulder to shoulder with the soldiers of France.

THE SULLIVAN TRIAL.

What the London Press Says of the Failure to Obtain a Conviction.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The Chronicle (a Government organ), referring to the trial of Lord Mayor Sullivan, of Dublin says: "It is impossible to deny that the break down of the first prosecution under the Crimes' Act must seriously damage the prestige of the Government. The whole case against him seems to have been prepared by Dublin Castle as if they were stage managing one of the farcical scenes in an Opera Bouffe. What makes matters worse is that in this instance we cannot blame a partisan jury for such an untoward failure of justice. The acquittal of the Lord Mayor was ordered by a paid magistrate of the Crown, whose professional interests could not possibly tempt him to be lenient to the prisoner against whom the Crown was proceeding."

The Post, another Government organ, says: "The Counsel for the defence very properly insisted upon every part of the case being strictly proved, and through what we cannot helpthinking was inexcusable mismanagement, the case of the Crown broke down."

The Times says: "It remains to be seen whether the legal advisers of the Government hove left themselves equally unprovided with evidence which would settle the issue in their favour in the case of the meeting illegally reported in this week's Parnellite journals. If so it cannot be denied that a grave error of judgment has been committed."

The Standard says: "The Nationalists and their friends have a perfect right to rejoice at the ridiculous collapse of the proceedings against Mr. Sullivan."

The News says: "The dismissal was because the legal talent of Dublin Castle was unable to comply with the requirements of the law."

DUBLIN, Oct. 7.—The Express (Conservative) states that the magistrate who heard and dismissed the case of the Government against Lord Mayor Sullivan was fastidious in his interpretation of the law. The paper deprecates yesterday's proceedings, and characterizes the result as a fiasco.

DUBLIN, Oct. 7.—The Lord Mayor on returning to the Mansion House yesterday, made a speech. Referring to the result of his trial, he said: "The national press had been victorious in its first tussel with a coercive Government, and the news would gladden the hearts of Parnell and Gladstone. The only way to defeat the infamous coercion law was to defy it. As for himself the plank upon which he was to sleep in gaol had not yet been sawn."

New Election in Haldimand.

CAYUGA, Ont., Oct. 7.—At the conclusion of the proceedings last night in the Haldimand contested election case, which proceedings opened here on Tuesday, it was agreed, after consultation between counsel, to drop the proceedings and have a new election.

"I have taken, within the past year, several bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and find it admirably adapted to the needs of an impoverished system. I am convinced that this preparation, as a blood purifier, is unequaled."—C. C. Dame, Pastor Congregation church, Andover, Me.

LEARN FROM HISTORY.

SPEAKING of the proposed interprovincial conference the Picton Times, a Reform journal, says:—

"It will probably prove to be the first authoritative if not official step towards the formal assertion of Provincial Rights. Progress in that direction is inevitable; but it cannot be otherwise than dangerous. Read the history of the United States."

This is a warning that should be heeded by some Canadians who are rashly urging that Canada should follow in the same disastrous course from which our neighbours suffered so severely. Whether inevitable or not, the exaggeration of the doctrine of Provincial Rights is certainly shown by the history of the United States to be dangerous. Just a hundred years ago the States unwillingly agreed to the present constitution in sheer dispair of being able to work the previous system of each State acting as seemed right in its own eyes without the least regard to the general intesests or any control from the whole body. In fact the several states were acting then just as some Canadians would have our Provinces act now.

Even under the constitution thus framed some of the States would not desist from setting up their own sectional ideas against the general will of the country. There were threats of secession or rebellion at intervals, and efforts to nullify the general laws. The attempts at sectional dictation culminated when the slaveholding States found they were out voted for the Presidency and were likely to have their aggressions repressed with a firm hand.

The exhaustive history of President Lincoln in the Century Magazine reaches in the October number the epoch of Lincoln's presidential election and the incipient stages of the secession or rebellion movement. No one can read the account of what then took place without seeing a resemblance in the incipient stages to the situation in our Dominion. With them as with us there were to be seen people under the plea of sovereign State rights setting at defiance the will of the country and encouraged to do so by their then leading State officials. With them as with us there were to be seen politicians rejected by the people of the country at large fomenting these local usurpations. There was the difference indeed under the United States constitution that these rejected politicians still retained office and power, while under our more popular system they would have been sent to the opposition benches. They were, like our politicians who favour disintegration and sectional outcries, the party rejected by the country. Hence in both cases the hostility to the will of the majority of the people of the whole country.

In the United States, as we all know, this claim of the several States to do what they liked with their own, was pushed to the extremity of a disastrous civil war, which settled permanently the question whether the United States were one great country, or a mere coalition of discordant sovereignties each going its own way.

There is no reason why Canada should determine the same question by such a costly effort. We have the example of the United States and from that we can learn the needful lesson without undergoing a similar experience. Our Provinces while guarding their rights to manage their own local affairs, must if they would prosper be content to yield in matters of general policy to the decision of the majority for the good of the whole country. Communities must give way sometime, just as individuals have to resign a portion of their personal freedom in the general interest. Some demagogues are forever inciting the people of one Province or the other to look upon the Dominion as a hostile power. It would be as reasonable for the people of our town to look upon the municipal authorities as enemies because they enforce the by-laws preventing individuals from piling their goods or hanging their signs where they like, driving at a pace they prefer, making disturbing noises when they feel inclined, selling their wares in any spot they choose, and so forth. In both cases it is the majority of the people by their chosen agents controlling the minority or individuals for the general welfare. There may, of course, be encroachments on either side, stretches of authority or manifestations of lawlessness. But these can be settled calmly, and to incite feelings of hostility is the evil work of disappointed mischief makers. No good can come from following such guidance.

"Read the history of the United States."

THE Toronto Globe speaks of "The miserable Canadian ringsters who malign their fellow-countrymen by whining that Americans are too smart and industrious for Canadians to compete with in an open continental market!" Yet the Globe is asking Canadians to join with the United States is whining against, and preventing competition from Great Britain. At the same time it is asking us to give property valued at $500,000 a year to induce the manufacturers of the United States to compete with us, while we shut out Great Britain with which the United States are afraid to compete. Why under such circumstances should the Globe reserve all its vile insults for its own countrymen

Victory has Perched on the Banner of PETERBOROUGH'S GREAT CHEAPSIDE.

And SHEPPARD, by common consent, will get $1,000 for being the Cheapest Clothier in Peterborough, having knocked the Wonderful Cheap Man completely out. "Business is business; dirt is dirt, and when it comes to throwing dirt, then count" the only original teddy out, and he will hand over that $1,000 like a little man, for the following reasons:—

SHEPPARD sells a full size Man's suit for $2.95, and better goods than a suit to fit a child about nine years old sold by the Wonderful Cheap Man on Saturday for $3.00; but marked $3.50. This is how it was.—A lady purchased a child's suit on Saturday last, Sept. 17th, 1887, at the store of the Wonderful Cheap Man. It was marked thusly:—Lot 5375, Breast 27, Waist 26½, Age 9, Price $3.50. It was pure shoddy, being held together by cotton threads, and Sheppard is free to say that that was the dearest suit sold in the Town of Peterborough for the last two years. Full particulars are given because of the $1,000 involved, and, further, that this decides who is selling the Cheapest Clothing in Peterborough. SHEPPARD would have sold that lady a suit, pure wool, for that money, and worth two of the one she got.

$1,000 to Go to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

I had first decided to give the agencies a chance of jumping up my rating that $1,000, but after considering the matter and finding that never in any case have I been asked for an endorser to my paper, and that no relative or any other persons have ever endorsed my paper to the extent of one cent, I have come to the conclusion my credit is as good as yours, and will ask you to hand over the $1,000 to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

Now, Sir, there is a good story told, the truth of which can be vouched for, but for the honor of at least making an effort to keep up your self-styled name—The Terror of High Priced Clothiers—do not allow the same to be said of you in the case above. A man purchased a suit for $15.00 at the store of one of the largest advertisers in that section of country. It was guaranteed pure wool; but after examining it carefully at home, he came to the conclusion that he had been dealing with some one sharper than himself. Finding a make of wool, differing some from anything he had ever seen, it dawned upon him that he had heard of wool of that kind, so the suit was returned. The merchant bet $25.00 that it was all wool, and the bet was accepted, the decision being left to a neighboring merchant. He found that the $15.00 suit was wool faced and shoddy back, pure unadulterated shoddy; but what of the $25.00 bet? was it paid? Not much—muchly—as it were.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Is sold all over the world. It is far superior to plain Cod Liver Oil, palatable and easily digested. Dr. Martin Miles Stanton, Bury Bucks, London, England, says: "I have prescribed Scott's Emulsion, and taken it myself. It is palatable, efficient, and can be tolerated by anyone, especially where cod liver oil itself cannot be borne. Put upin 50c. and $1 size.

THAT R. J. KIDD has a larger stock of the BEST ready-made Boots in Peterborough is beyond a doubt.

Want of Sleep

Is sending thousands annually to the insane asylum; and the doctors say this trouble is alarmingly on the increase. The usual remedies, while they may give temporary relief, are likely to do more harm than good. What is needed is an Alterative and Blood-purifier. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is incomparably the best. It corrects those disturbances in the circulation which cause sleeplessness, gives increased vitality, and restores the nervous system to a healthful condition.

Rev. T. G. A. Coté, agent of the Mass. Home Missionary Society, writes that his stomach was out of order, his sleep very often disturbed, and some impurity of the blood manifest; but that a perfect cure was obtained by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Frederick W. Pratt, 424 Washington street, Boston, writes: "My daughter was prostrated with nervous debility. Ayer's Sarsaparilla restored her to health."

William F. Bowker, Erie, Pa., was cured of nervousness and sleeplessness by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for about two months, during which time his weight increased over twenty pounds.

ALL THE WORLD AT WAR.

By WALTER BESANT.

"'On the Dancing Polly we was about half a mile to starboard of the enemy's fleet. One of the ships hailed us to haul down and lay to; but we held on, seeing the breeze was freshening and all in our favor.

"'At 3 o'clock or so we made Rousdon bay, intending to send on news of the enemy's fleet as soon as we could. Unfortunately we were caught by the officers and arrested. So I have lost no time in putting on paper the observations we made as to the whereabouts of the enemy.

"'I am in the hope that this intelligence may prove of use to his majesty's government, and that the diligence I have used in forwarding it immediately may be taken into account against the fact of my having broken the law in my venture to the French coast.'"

"I don't think, Dan," said Will, after carefully reading the whole, "that we can do much more good to the document. There is the information, fresh and valuable and trustworthy. Nelson would like it if the officials do not; but they would not dare to shelve it. And now, Dan, you must sign."

Dan Gulliver, after making the careful preparations for writing common to people of that time unaccustomed to sign their names, perpetrated a form which he meant to stand for Daniel Gulliver, while Job and Jephthah looked on in silent admiration. Anything their father did was great and beautiful. For that parental respect I honor their memory.

That done, "Now, Pleasance," said Will, who had taken the entire command of the business, "please go into the town, ascertain who is the best lawyer in the town—the gentlefolk's lawyer. Go, call at his office, and bring him here without a moment's delay."

"Tell him not to fear about money, for there is plenty under the hearthstone," said Dan.

It was not difficult to find the best lawyer in Dorchester. Everybody sent me to Mr. Copas. I found him an elderly gentleman who wore a large wig and looked like a dignitary of the church.

"This sort of case does not lie in the ordinary course of my practice," he said; "I recommend you to go to Mr. Ferret, whose clients chiefly consist of"——

"I think, sir," I said, "that when you know who one of the smugglers is you will not refuse to act for us. Pray, pray come and see him! And, oh! if it is the money you are thinking of, Dan says there is plenty of money under the hearthstone."

Mr. Copas smiled.

"It had better be in the bank, child. Well, I will go with you. But I do not promise anything."

We found Will alone in the ward, still busy with paper and pen. He was graver than usual, as was only natural, but when his eyes met mine he smiled in his quiet and sympathetic way.

"Now, my good fellow," said Mr. Copas, in a patronizing and friendly tone, "tell me what you have to say, but do not waste time, and tell the truth."

"What I have to say is, Mr. Copas," said Will, "that I am a gentleman who has got into a scrape with three most worthy smugglers."

"A gentleman! Well, you do not look like a sailor. But go on."

"My name is Campion. I am the only son of the late Sir Godfrey Campion, and the chief partner in the firm of"——

"Good heavens! And you a smuggler!"

"Well, not exactly. But I went for a venture with Dan Gulliver, and we were all caught. That is the story."

"But you—you, my dear sir—the influence of your family must be brought to bear. Your case must be separated."

Here Will interposed.

"I cannot separate my case from the poor fellows with me," he said. "I cannot have any family interest employed, because, above all, my mother must not know of this—this disgrace. I shall stand my trial with the others. Fortunately"—he took up the papers which he had written and Dan had signed—"I have something here which ought to procure us an absolute pardon. It is secret intelligence for the admiralty. We sighted the French fleet on our way back, and we can report on the enemy's course. Now, Mr. Copas, can you find me a trusty messenger? You can? Then let him ride as hard as horses can carry him. Let him ride without stopping; let him get to London before midnight. He must be armed with a letter from you and one from the mayor."

HOT WORK FOR THE BEAR

HE BREAKS UP A PARTY AND SMASHES A KEROSENE LAMP.

His Fur Sops Up the Blazing Oil and He Becomes an Astonishing and Frenzied Firework—Almost a Tragic Conclusion.

Mark Farney, George Squiers, Ramon Arguello, Noisy Smith and Ah Suey left with an elaborate outfit to camp for a month somewhere in the Santa Lucia range. They had a wagon, drawn by two balky, half tamed broncos, a wall tent and poles, plenty of grub, an adequate supply of antidote for snake bites, guns, fishing tackle and a poker deck. Mark Farney said he didn't believe it was a good thing for a man to upset all his ways of living when on a vacation, and he was opposed to roughing it in a literal sense. So he piled into the wagon a six gallon can of kerosene oil and carefully packed a large lamp. He had been accustomed to sitting up nights and playing a little game of draw when so disposed, and he didn't think the light of a camp fire would be sufficient.

All four of the white men agreed that they were not going out on the range to work, and that is why they took Ah Suey along. Suey is a good cook, knows how to chop wood and in an emergency can play a hand of cards without making any very bad breaks. Squiers went along to fish for trout principally, as he considers himself a fly sharp. Arguello had the responsibility of driving and looking after the broncos, because he knew more about horses than the others, having been a vaquero. There were some of the elements of work about that, but it couldn't be helped, because a Chinaman is no good around a horse. Noisy Smith had nothing particular to do, but he is a good all round camper, hunter and poker player, and the quietest man that ever lived. His habit of always speaking in a whisper and moving as softly as an Indian on the trail of a deer gave him his sobriquet.

The crowd went out to have a month's fun, and, judging by their appearance when they returned last night, they had it all in less than two weeks, with a large margin to spare. They brought back nothing but the two broncos, their frying pan and the barrels of their guns. Ah Suey and Squiers came across the Salinas river on the horses, and the rest of the party swam the stream.

Noisy Smith explained, in a whisper, to the crowd in the saloon the reason of their return in that shape. During the first week they were busy getting their camp comfortably established on the bank of a creek in the mountains, and in hunting and fishing. Having convinced Ah Suey that at least a pint of beans must be reserved from the commissary for use as chips, they got the kerosene lamp rigged up in the tent, and resumed civilized customs in camp, sitting up until after midnight with the cards and the snake medicine, and sleeping sweetly all the forenoon. They quit hunting because it involved exertion, and that was just what they proposed to avoid. It was agreed that Ah Suey was the only one who came out to work, and that nobody should encroach upon his prerogative.

One night a very interesting game was in progress. Mark Farney held a king full against Squiers' flush, and Noisy Smith stayed in with a bobtail straight and placid smile. There was a double handful of beans on the top of the oil can. Ah Suey had gone to sleep at the back of the tent, and was chopping wood in his dreams. Just as Noisy Smith was about to raise Ah Suey sprang up with a yell and bounded out of the tent, upsetting the oil can and two of the players en route. Arguello looked up in anger, and drew his revolver to take a shot at the fleeing Chinaman, but changed his mind when he saw the head of a grizzly poked through the rear flap of the tent. The bear was surveying the scene with evident astonishment and some interest. Arguello's anger was diverted toward the bear.

"Ah! you breaka up such a pot as that!" he cried. "Carajo!" And he blazed away at the shaggy head.

There was a howl, a charge and a rush of the players out of the tent. They did not wait to seize their guns.

The bear knocked down a tent pole at one end, and Farney carried away the other as he plunged out headlong. The tent came down on the bear and enveloped him. For an instant there was a young earthquake under the canvas. Then it became a volcanic disturbance. The lamp exploded and set fire to the whole mass. The plug must have been knocked out of the big oil can by the bear's vigorous antics. All the oil was ablaze in an instant, and tent, blanket and bear were enveloped in flames. Arguello, Smith and Farney happened to have their revolvers on them, and they stood around and added to the bear's discomfiture by plugging bullets into him. Squiers had no pistol, and prudently got up into a tall tree and yelled "Fire!" Ah Suey had crawled into a hollow log and kept very still.

The bear wailed and yelled with pain and rage, and rolled over in the burning canvas. It was not much more than half a minute before he broke out of the mass with a howl and rushed blindly about, sticking furiously at trees and everything in his way. Pieces of the tent clung to him, and he tore them off with his claws and teeth and sent blazing fragments flying in all directions. His shaggy hair had become saturated with oil here and there, and was blazing and snapping merrily in patches. His fury was something frightful, and his general aspect decidedly demoniac. At first he did not see any of the party, but in one of his mad whirls he caught sight of Smith, who had just fired at him. The bear charged on Smith, who turned and ran like a deer, with the blazing bear in literally hot pursuit. Smith did not notice the direction he took until, in half a dozen jumps, he saw the bank of the creek before him. There was no time to turn. He put all his energy into his legs and leaped as far into the stream as he could, falling feet foremost with a "chug." The illuminated bear followed, falling with a prodigious splash and a distinct sizzle. Then Noisy Smith dived under water, turned up stream and swam silently back to the bank from which he had leaped. The bear drifted down stream and swam to the opposite bank, Farney and Arguello peppering at him with their revolvers. He reached the other side and disappeared in the chaparal wailing and moaning with pain, and that was the last seen of him.

When Noisy Smith got back into the light of the burning camp he whispered to the other boys: "See what a hand I had to draw to," and exhibited the bobtailed straight which he had kept in his left hand all the time. The camp was a total wreck, even the wagon that stood near the tent being burned beyond hope of further usefulness. Ah Suey was hauled out of his log half dead, a few relics were gathered from the ruins, the broncos were caught, and the party tramped home, living en route on rabbits and other small game until they struck a ranch at the foot of the range.—New York Sun.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

THE CREATION OF MAN

THE HUMAN RACE NOT A PRODUCT OF EVOLUTION.

A Lecture in the George Street Church by the Rev Dr. Sexton—Combatting the Evolution Theory.

On Thursday evening the Rev. G. Sexton M.A., M.D., LL.D., Ph. D., and Fellow of a number of Societies, delivered an address in the lecture room of the George Street Methodist Church on "Man's Special Creation: Not a Product of Evolution." The meeting was opened with devotional exercises.

The Rev. F. H. WALLACE, B.D., occupied the chair and introduced the lecturer.

Dr. SEXTON commenced by remarking that there were two difficulties in the way in dealing with his subject on an occasion of this kind. One was that the subject was a large one; he had delivered twenty, thirty and as many as seventy lectures on the one subject; and he could, in the short time at their disposal, glance only at some of the principal features that stood out in relief, leaving to the audience considerable filling in. The second difficulty was that he must necessarily refer to facts in in several sciences which probably were not generally known. They could, however, depend upon the facts being correct, though the inferences drawn from them might be a matter of opinion. Prof. Huxley said that the

was, what was the position of man in the universe? What were the influences he exercised over external objects and what influence did they exert over him? What was the origin of man and to what goal was he tending? The questions some answered by the theory of evolution. As to the goal of the race evolutionists were not so clear, and they had several theories. The first theory was that man was evolved out of the lower animals and was still developing, and the process would go on until another higher being appeared. That theory had been modified. Prof. Fiske gave satisfactory reasons for saying that natural selection had taken a different course, as the struggle for existence no longer depended on physical but on mental powers, and the result, Prof. Fiske said, would be that man would develop into a higher intellectual animal. The question arose as to what his physical character would be, as physical powers would be necessary. One writer told them that man would have a large brain and would be destitute of some members, such as the toes, his legs would be short, abdomen large, and he would be without hair and teeth. Some of them, Dr. Sexton facetiously remarked, had reached the bald and toothless condition already. Other writers took a different view. One writer in England said that they had reached and even passed the culminating point in development, and the proof he gave was that the people were so emotional. They showed that they were emotional because they cried and screamed when a person died, and he quoted a poem which he said was written by Homer looking calmly on death and alleged that it could not be written by anyone now. It turned out, though, that the poem was written by a minister in the Established Church, who was still living. This writer further says that the race will degenerate to savagery, then to the monkey and the lower animals and finally go to smash. So the evolutionists differed. What was evolution? They could not get a definition of the word from evolutionists. This was an age when words were freely used without a definite meaning. Ask an evolutionist what was the origin of man and he answer "evolution." Ask him to explain various matters connected with the origin and the answer still was "evolution." If they asked him

WHAT IS EVOLUTION,

his answer would be "Evolution is—ah—er—evolution." The word really meant to unfold and it explained nothing. It might develop something, but could not produce it. Even if the theory were true it accounted for nothing, because evolution could not unfold that which was not there. Two important questions were, how did life come on the earth at all, and how did the numerous varieties of life appear? Now, life cannot be produced except from a living thing. Prof. Huxley agreed that this was true. Two men said they had produced life, but their statements were not accepted. Even if it were true, one had used an infusion of hay and herbs and the other potted meats, and if would not help them, for these were organic matters. To help their theory they must produce life from inorganic matter. Some said that man came from a monkey, but they differed as to who he was. Others said he came from the missing link. No one had ever seen or heard of one, but they put it in to fill up the gap. Still others thought that man and the monkey descended from the same parents in different lands. According to one the monkey was their great-grandfather, and according to the other their cousin. There were three theories as to how man was evolved, namely classification, development and natural selection. Any or all of these might be false and yet evolution be true. The one generally accepted was that of

NATURAL SELECTION.

There was an enormous waste of life going on. Natural selection did occur, but the question was whether it was sufficient to account for bridging over a species. There must be some method of selecting those things which were preserved from those that were destroyed. It occurred in the struggle for life. The flowers and plants were all improvements of some vile originals. There were great varieties of animals from the same stock. Here was a power capable of producing variations, but it never went beyond a certain point. Prof. Huxley, in his elaborate work, did not give a single instance of species being bridged over. In nature the struggle for life went on, and certain animals survived and others died. If they planted one seed they would have one plant producing fifty seeds. If they planted all the seeds and went on repeating that, in nine years they would have more plants than would cover all the dry land on the earth. This did not occur because there was not room. They generally thinned out their vegetables, but if they did not those would grow which had some advantage over the rest and the others would be killed. Next year the seeds from the stronger plants would produce a stronger race, and so on till they got a plant different from the one they had started with, but it would be of the same species. No two things were exactly alike. If that variation could be considerably extended a different animal or plant, as the case might be, would be produced. They knew how very much alike were the domestic animals and their originals—how the domestic hog and the wild hog were similar. But the fact was overlooked that they could not make a permanent change. If vegetables were left alone they would go back to the original weed, and if they turned a hog out it would have to go back to the condition of the wild hog or die. There was always a tendency to return to the condition from which they came. In each of these cases there was directing them. No change could occur unless it would be to the advantage of the animal. All changes said to have taken place in the monkey to produce man would be to the disadvantage of a monkey, and the theory of evolution could not be true. One difference between a man and the monkey was in the attitude they assumed. The centre of gravity was different and the difference was suitable for their different attitudes. Evolutionists would have to account for the fact that man stood erect and for the change in his whole structure to adapt itself to that attitude. The explanation given was that a monkey found it gained an advantage by standing and that by doing so and leaning against a tree it could fight better. It lived and the others died out, and here they were. That explanation was on the supposition that the natural position of the animal was not the best for it, which was never true. The natural position always was the strongest and no such change as that described could have taken place. The bodies of all animals except man were covered with hair. It was said that the hair disappeared spontaneously. Darwin said that at one time women had beards and their disappearance was accounted for by the theory of sexual selection. This theory, Dr. Sexton argued, could not have produced the change, if beards were natural to both sexes. The differences in the hands and feet of men and the feet of monkeys was an argument against evolution. They had been told that the difference between the brain of man and the most lowest animals was not greater that between the highest and lowest men. The cubic capacity of the brain of the highest race of man was 94 inches, and that of the aborigines of Australia was 82 inches, a difference of 12 cubic inches, while the largest cubic capacity of the brain of the gorilla was 30 inches. The difference between the highes and lowest man was twelve inches, and between the lowest man and the next lower animal was 50 inches. If the condition of the savage was their original condition, they would not have that amount of brain, as it was not needed. The brain showed that the savage was not in his primitive condition and that he had degenerated. No race had the power to lift itself up. If the human race had ever all been savages, they would be savage still. If they took a savage and brought him into favorable conditions they could make him a tolerably civilized man, but a monkey would remain a monkey still. Language was universal with man and was peculiar to man. Language was an indication or expression of immaterial thought. A person cannot think, except in a language. Children learn to talk by hearing others talk, and children brought up without hearing talk were dumb. How did the first man learn to speak if he was evolved from a lower animal? He must have been taught by some supernatural agency. A showman brought to London little men from Africa whose language he said contained only forty words. But these creatures learned to talk English, what a monkey could not do. Man has that lower animals have not, though they can reason and compare. Man can deal with abstract questions, and has imagination, which leads to mathematical science and poetry. No lower animal has the mathematical factor and none can practice introspection. Man has a conception of the future—he is the only animal that fears death, and that cannot die. Man's intellectual powers took him into a region in which animals do not belong and into which no process of evolution or natural selection would bring them. So they came back to the old doctrine that "God created man in His own image, in the image of God created He him."

AN INTELLIGENCE

A vote of thanks was, on motion of Mr. H. S Griffin, tendered the lecturer, which he acknowledged.

A gentleman in the audience, in response to an invitation for questions, asked the lecturer's opinion on the fact that all vertibrate animals at some time had gill slits.

Dr. SEXTON answered that it was not worth much, as the correspondence was not sufficiently marked. Resemblances arose because they had similar organs. The stomach of man was a tube folded upon itself. In one lower animal the stomach was almost the whole animal, and it could be turned inside out and live. In passing up from the lower to the higher animals the development of the organs must at some time be similar, but the resemblance was given an importance it did not deserve.

The doxology was sung and Dr. Sexton pronounced the benediction.

FRANCE AND MOROCCO.

The French Grvernment Said to be Contemplating a Coup.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The Paris Debates' assertion that France has no desire to occupy any part of Morocco is entirely unofficial, and therefore has no weight with the powers that believe the French Republic is contemplating the very action the newspaper disavows in her behalf. Spain strongly suspects that France is meditating a coup on the frontier of Morocco, and is in consequence making preparations to prevent such a movement. The fact that the French government has uttered a semi-official denial of the statement that French troops are being massed on the Algerine frontier, suggests to Spain the possibility, at least, that such action is being taken, and the likelihood that trouble will ensue as the outcome of the new phases of the political situation in Morocco is growing stronger daily.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—M. Flourens, Minister of Foreign Affairs, in an interview with the Spanish Ambassador, said France would reserve complete liberty of action in defending her interests on the Eastern Frontier of Morocco, and that if Spain makes a military demonstration on the North coast a French fleet will be sent there

KNIGHTS AND ANARCHISTS.

Mr. Powderly Says Every Avowed Anarchist Should Withdraw.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., Oct. 7.—In the General Assembly of Knights of Labor yesterday, Mr. Powderly, referring to the seven condemned Chicago Anarchists, said: "If these men did not have a fair trial then they should be granted a new trial. If they have not been found guilty of murder they should not be hanged. If they are to be hanged for the actions of others it is not just. The man who threw the bomb in Chicago should be hanged and his accomplices should receive the punishment allotted to such offences by the laws of the State of Illinois." Mr. Powderly said that the assembly should pass a resolution demanding that every avowed Anarchist be obliged to withdraw from the order or be expelled Mr. Powderly condemned the practice of lobbying on the part of members of the order, and in conclusion stated his perfect willingness to withdraw from office if the assembly so desired.

Much Admired.

The Omemee Herald in its account of the fair held in that village says:—"Bannell Sawyer, the head of the Business College, Peterborough, showed some fine specimens of penmanship which were much admired. One piece of work exhibited by Mr. Sawyer took him 157 hours to complete. Mr. Sawyer has been very successful this season competing against nearly all the Business Colleges at the Provincial in Ottawa, and carrying off the highest diploma."

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 7.—A special from Tampa, dated ten o'clock this morning, says that physicians here this morning pronounced the existence of yellow fever. There are only two cases and they are of a mild character. There has been one death. The people are panic-stricken, and the city it being deserted. The fever will not likely become epidemic for several days, if at all. There is little cause for general alarm, as the weather is most favorable to health, and an early frost is anticipated.

THE GWEEDORE EVICTIONS.

Suspended by Order of the British Government.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The Government has ordered the suspension of the Gweedore evictions in consequence of the discovery that English public opinion is decidedly opposed to the manner in which they have been conducted. This feeling has been greatly strengthened by the fact that the police so unhesitatingly threw down their rifles and declared they would take no further part in the work of such an unnecessarily brutal nature, and the Government, besides wishing to avoid attempting to stem the strong current of popular opinion, became fearful that the defection in the ranks of the police might spread to proportions beyond control. The days of brutal evictions in Ireland would seem to be drawing very near to an end.

FOOT BALL.

Peterborough and Kingston City Clubs —The Visitors Win.

A football match was played on the P. A. A. grounds on Saturday by teams representing the Peterborough and Kingston City clubs. There was a fair attendance of spectators, including a number of ladies. The teams were composed as follows:—

PETERBOROUGH — Back — Kirby; halfbacks—G. Smith, W. D. Parker; quarterbacks — Brennan. Morris, (Capt.,) K. Kincaid; forwards—W. H. Stevens, A. St. A. Smith, Schofield, Forbes, Peplow, Strickland, Halliday, and Scott.

KINGSTON CITY—Back—J. Elliott; halfbacks—A. C. Darrell, T. Patterson; quarterbacks—A. Bureau, W. J. B. White (Capt.,); forwards—W. Fralick, R. Dupuis, A. Glidersleeve, C. F. Mitchell, E. B. Loucks, H. M. Mowatt, W. Skinner and H. Jack.

The match was played in two three-quarter hour games. From the first it was firmly contested, but the visitors were the most successful. The ball was at times dangerously near the Kingston goal line, but the greater part of the struggle was at the opposite end of the field. When time was called at the first three-quarters the visitors had a lead of 10 points to 0. In the second half the home team held the Limestone City boys better, though their lack of practice was apparent. Peterborough scored four in this half, principally through a brilliant piece of play by Brennan, who secured the ball well up field, ran down dodging opponents on the way and gave the ball a heavy toe lift. It was secured at the goal line and a touch down counted four for the home team. The try nearly added a goal to the score for the Peterboroughs, but the ball struck the side pole and fell under the cross one. The visitors also made four, running their score up to 14, and at the finish they had won by ten points—14 to 4. The game was played in a friendly spirit and was a keen test of strength and skill.

FENELON FALLS.

THE NEW FACTORIES.—The large building being erected by Mr. Sandford and Mr. Welsh as a carriage factory and woolen mill is being run up as fast as possible, and the first story will be nearly or quite finished by the end of this week. It faces the south-east, and is to be about 120 feet long and 24 feet high in front, with a tarred felt and gravel roof, sloping slightly towards the rear. The site is a most excellent one, as the building will be completely isolated, with the river at one side and the canal at the other, both within a few yards of it. The intention is to run the machinery by water power, if satisfactory arrangements can be made the Smith estate; but steam will probably be used for awhile, as the proprietors both have engines and boilers that will be transferred from the old premises to the new.—Gazette.

Lost and Found.

On the third day of the exhibition last week, Mr. T. Hooper lost a pocket book containing $22. On Saturday Mr. Dodds, of South Monaghan, found the purse in a stall and handed it over to Mr. W. Collins, superintendent of the grounds, who gave it to its owner. Mr. Hooper found his money all there.

The Baptist Church.

The Rev. P. Clifton Parker, of the town of Simcoe, Ont., has received and accepted a unanimous call from the congregation of the Peterborough Baptist Church to the pastorate of that Church. The new pastor will enter upon his duties next month and will occupy the pulpit on the first Sunday in November.

Members Attend.

Otonabee Lodge No. 13, I. O. O. F., will hold an important meeting this evening at 7.30. Every member should make a special effort to be present. 1p86

The Gun.

The Lindsay Gun Club is expected here to-morrow to have a shooting match with the marksmen of the Peterborough club.

Trade with Australia.

The Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company has received the following letter from Sydney, New South Wales:—

"The Peterborough Lock Mnfg. Co.,
"Peterborough, Canada:

"GENTS,—Will you be good enough to quote us your bottom prices for mineral rim knob lock furniture, similar to Russell & Erwin Mnfg. Co., of New Britain, Conn., No. 410, in mineral color, also white and black? We are probably the largest buyers of that furniture in the world, as should probably order 1,000 sets for a sample, if your prices are right.

"Yours faithfully,
"GEORGE FREDERICK VAUGHAN,
"Sydney, N.S.W."

The Lock Company are in communication with the Canadian Pacific as to freight rates over their lines from Peterborough to Sydney, and are confident of securing the order, which may be the forerunner of a large trade with our brothers at the antipodes.

A New Wrinkle in Farming

Mr. Geo. McWilliams, of Peterborough, has received a letter from his brother, Mr. Thos. E. McWilliams, of Moose Jaw, N.W.T. He reports the crops in that vicinity to be good this season. Mr. T. E. McWilliams also says that he cut this harvest five loads of oats—206 bushels—the seed of which was sown in 1886. The season was so dry last year that they did not grow, and this year they grew and were harvested.

Many forget that the hair and scalp need cleansing. Extensive use of Ayer's Hair Vigor has proven that it is the best cleansing agent for the hair—that it prevents dandruff and stimulates the hair to renewed growth.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

The Promised Commission Appointed—A Judge and Two Engineers.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Mail writing on Oct. 9th writes as follows in reference to the Trent Valley Canal Commission:—

A commission has been appointed, consisting of Judge Clarke, of Cobourg, Mr. Frank Turner, C. E., of Toronto, and Mr. John Kennedy, Secretary of the Montreal Harbour Commissioners, to report on the further prosecution of the Trent Valley Canal system. The scheme of utilizing the series of water stretches to which the term Trent River navigation is applied, for the purpose of through water communication between Lakes Huron and Ontario was projected many years ago. The series referred to, as many people doubtless are aware, is composed of a chain of lakes and rivers extending from Trenton, at the mouth of the Trent, on the Bay of Quinte, to the Georgian Bay. The course in contemplation was as follows:—Through the River Trent, Rice Lake, River Otonabee, and Lakes Clear, Buckhorn, Chemong, Pigeon, Sturgeon and Cameron to Lake Balsam, the summit water, about 166 miles from Trenton. From Lake Balsam by a canal and the River Talbot to Lake Simcoe, and thence by the Severn River to the Georgian Bay, the total distance being about 235 miles. The execution of this scheme, originally commenced in 1837, was subsequently deferred. By certain works, however, sections of these waters were made practicable for navigation and for the passage of timber. A branch of the main course, extending from Sturgeon Lake south, affords communication with the town of Lindsay and through Lake Scugog to Port Perry, a distance of 190 miles from Trenton. Of this distance 155 miles are navigable for vessels of light draught. Up to the end of the fiscal year, June 30th, 1886 $358,000 had been expended on the Trent canal, and last year's expenditure brings the total up to more than half a million. The local works already completed have proved of vast benefit to the communities directly affected, and two years ago a big delegation, numbering two or three hundred persons, came to Ottawa to urge the extension of the works. As, however, the carrying out of the complete system will entail an expenditure of a million or two the Government is exercising a wise discretion in appointing commissioners to make an unbiased and unprejudiced report in regard to it. The commissioners will have to travel over the proposed route, ascertain the nature of the work which would have to be done, prepare estimates of the cost and generally obtain all possible information to aid the Government in arriving at a final decision in regard to prosecuting the scheme.

LONDON'S UNEMPLOYED.

Procession of the Homeless Poor—They Demand Work or Bread.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Two hundred of the poor homeless unemployed persons who sleep at night in Trafalgar square paraded yesterday in a body through the principal streets in the West end. They carried a black banner bearing in white letters the inscription, "We will have work or bread." A large force of police mounted and on foot accompanied the procession, which eventually returned to Trafalgar square, and with followers attracted held a meeting. The orators described the hardships of those whose only resting place in London at night is in a public square, and declared that the only means they had of drawing the attention of the public to their condition was by such demonstrations as they had just made. The meeting adopted a resolution to reassemble in the same place to-morrow, and to continue to parade daily until relief is afforded.

A Strange Lake in Austria.

At Zirknitz in the Austrian Alps, there is an intermittent lake that is in a basin which at one season of the year is filled with water, at another is dried up and cultivated by the farmers of the neighborhood. The imperial forester, Wm Putick, has just examined the construction of that basin and found in one part of it, an immense cave called Karlovca, which, when the surface of the water in the basin has reached a certain height, begins sucking up the water until the basin is empty. This cave leads to a long series of underground lakes all connected with one another by a continuous current Putick navigated the first five of them. Large fields of sand gravel accumulate and alternately stop the current or are carried off by it. The roof of the caves in places comes down very low, almost touching the water, and in such cases the moving gravel-beds frequently close the passage and cause the waters to rise in the higher cave. Putick, with three companions, was in one of the lakes when the entrance was suddenly closed by a mass of rubbish tumbling down from the roof. For more than eight hours they worked as hard as they could until they succeeded in opening a passage by the side of the main entrance, which was happily still found dry, and they were enabled to reach the surface unharmed. But their boat and tools were left behind and will be recovered again after the water shall have subsided.

The Alaska Seizure.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—The case of the Sierra, one of the schooners seized in Alaska last year and owned in this city, comes up for trial in the Admiralty Court in Boston next month. This is the case which all the owners of sealing vessels have combined to make a test. The most eminent legal counsel has been engaged and the whole subject of the exclusion from Alaska waters has been considered and the rights of sealers defined. The case is regarded as a most important one.

Embargo on Cattle Removed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—An investigation made at the instance of the department of state shows that no infectious disease exists among animals in Nova Scotia. The treasury department has therefore revoked its instructions of the 10th, prohibiting the landing of animals and hides from that country.

The Annexation Movement.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 9.—There was a big celebration at Pembina over the completion of the Duluth and Manitoba road to the boundary. The line is 201 miles in length from the boundary to its junction with the Northern Pacific road.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

WAR ON KING JOHN.

ROME, Oct. 8.—Preparations for the African expedition are actively progressing. Lieut. Savoiroux, who was once a prisoner in Rasaloula's camp, will join the staff of the expedition. King Humbert will review the troops about the beginning of November.

BAKU OIL WELLS.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The petroleum flowing out of the wells at Baku is seriously inundating the town. It is impossible to store the oil.

A FALSE STATEMENT.

PARIS, Oct. 8.—The statement that the Grand Duke Nicholas had declared that under certain circumstances he and a number of other Russians would join the French army is false, and probably arose from the following incident: While going to Dunkirk in a French ship, the captain of the vessel toasted the Grand Duke as "a naval officer of whom French seamen are proud." A passenger cried "Vive La Russe," and the Grand Duke simply replied, "Vive La France."

CHINESE MUTINEERS.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—An emeute has occurred among the Chinese soldiers stationed in Dublascham, on the Russo Chinese frontier. Several officers were murdered. A quantity of ammunition and a sum of money belonging to the Government were seized by the mutineers. The Commander-in-Chief of the troops was panic stricken and fled.

KILLED BY WOLVES.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Twelve peasants who left Pilesti, 65 miles north west of Bucharest, to destroy the wolves which infest the district were overpowered by the beasts and seven of them were devoured. The remaining five escaped badly mangled.

STILL ALIVE.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The Sultan of Morocco is not dead, not withstanding that a despatch from Tangier reported his death and the accession of his son to the throne. A despatch received from Tangier says it is officially announced that the Sultan is not only alive, but that his condition is better than it has been for some days.

ARREST OF SPIES.

PARIS, Oct. 9.—In consequence of the arrest of many foreigners suspected of being spies, the France Government have instructed the department officials to exercise great caution in applying the espionage law and not to make arrests except upon serious evidence.

MILITARY ROUTE.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The Saturday Review says as far as the carriage of mails is concerned the advantages of the Canadian route are beyond question. Before long the mails now going through the States will be transferred to Canada, which is a gain from a national point of view The military advantages of possessing a quick overland route to the East wholly within the Empire are even more obvious.

RUSSIA AND GERMANY.

BERLIN, Oct. 9.—The social war against Germans resident in Russia still continues. An edict has been issued in St. Petersburg ordering the instant application of the prohibition of the use of the German language in schools, universities and leading gymnasia.

SUMMONS DISMISSED.

DUBLIN, Oct. 9.—The summons obtained by the Rev. P. D. O'Reagan, Dean of the Catholic Church at Mitchellstown, against Capt Plunkett for trespass for entering the Dean's grounds and dispersing a crowd which had assembled there on the occasion of the trial of William O'Brien, has been dismissed by the magistrate on the ground of irregularity.

THE NATIONAL PRESS.

DUBLIN, Oct. 8.—Lord Mayor Sullivan, in his paper, continues to publish reports of the proceedings of the suppressed branches of the League. The Nation mentions as an indication of the support upon which it can count in defence of the liberty of the press, that several influential English and Scotch newspaper proprietors have offered the use of their premises, machinery and staffs if the Government closes the Nation office in Dublin.

THE REASON WHY.

BERLIN, Oct. 8.—The Vossische Zeitung says: The Czar refrained from meeting Emperor William at Stettin because he saw documents which showed that Germany's policy regarding Bulgaria was inimical to Russia.

A BIGOT'S FEAR.

PARIS, Oct. 8.—The Siecle says:—General Caffarel was in constant communication with a Protestant nobleman, and it is feared that many war office secrets were sold to Germany.

A SULTAN'S PERIL.

TANGIERS, Oct. 8.—The attempt to poison the late Sultan was the result of a harem intrigue. Some time ago poison was discovered in some food prepared for the Sultan and after that he ate nothing unless the servant partook of it first.

A ROYAL GIFT.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The Queen has presented Madame Albani with a diamond jubilee medal.

OFFERS OF HELP.

DUBLIN, Oct. 9.—The Nation mentions, as an indication of the support upon which it can count in defence of the liberty of the press, that several influential English and Scotch newspaper proprietors have offered the use of their premises, machinery and staffs if the Government closes the Nation office in Dublin.

A LEAGUE MEETING.

DUBLIN, Oct. 9.—A League meeting was held at Longford to day. During the proceedings the platform collapsed and a Government reporter was injured. Mr. T. M. Healy, M. P., chaffed the reporter on his first trial of a plank bed. Continuing, Mr. Healy said that there would soon be no landlords left in Ireland. He would deal with the landlords in securing their rights as he would in driving rats from a haystack. The landlords were more bothered by the plan of campaign than they were by the killing of bailiffs. The deadliest place to hit them was their pockets. He hoped that the mortgages of Lord Granard would not leave him a brass farthing to bless himself with. The Irish were strong enough to subdue the paltry Loyalist crew.

Seizures of Sealing Schooners.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—The revenue cutter Richard Rush arrived to-day from the Artic sea. She reports that during the season she had seized twelve sealing schooners with a total of nearly 7,500 skins. The Russian authorities have seized three sealers on the Siberian Coast, one American, one British and the third nationality unknown.

ALEXANDER is selling about $15,000 worth of Dry Goods at cost, as he is retiing from the business

The Daily Review

MONDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1887.

THE SUGAR TRADE.

By the help of the enemies of Canadian industries, the agreement to sell sugar at a fair profit has been broken up. The dishonest minority of the trade has obtained a victory over the honest majority. The bad old practice is to be revived of retailing sugar at a less price than its cost wholesale and making up the loss by some fraudulent device or reckless trading at the risk of the wholesale firms. That an agreement binding even those not inclined to do so to sell at a fair profit should have terminated is a matter for regret not for triumph. That it was not the case of a ring to extort undue profits is plain from the two facts that the profit was barely remunerative and that sugar is far cheaper than it was under the old duties. The animus of the journals that have been pretending to oppose a ring is shown by the fact that they are clamouring to the consumers to use nothing but Scotch imported sugar. In their strange antipathy to Canadian industries and Canadian workingmen they are endeavouring to reduce the sugar refining trade in the Dominion to the same state of distress as in Great Britain. There many who had embarked their capital in the refining business are ruined, and the operatives are loudly appealing to the Government and the public on the ground that they have to work for starvation wages, or too often to lose their employment through the unfair competition of sugar bonused by the nations of the European continent. They are therefore loudly calling for protection at the time when the opponents of Canadian industries are urging the distruction of the Canadian refineries also.

MR. MERCIER'S AGITATION.

In reply to an invitation trom Mr. Mercier to attend the inter-provincial conference Sir John Macdonald has replied that it appeared to the Dominion Government that it would answer no good purpose to send representatives to this conference. Some of Mr. Mercier's political friends are describing this reply as "churlish." It is polite in its form, and as to the fact, no reasonable man would expect the Dominion Government to attend a conference, the avowed object of which is to agitate for a change in the constitution of our country, so as to reduce the central power of the Dominion to a shadow and promote sectional action in its several constituent parts. It is not for the Government of a country, sworn to observe its constitution, to plot against that constitution. The Washington authorities (then rejected by the people) certainly did thus conspire with the disloyal State authorities, while plotting to carry State rights to an unconstitutional extremity. But we doubt if such an invitation from the disloyal State authorities to Lincoln when he was elected President would have received so polite an answer as Sir John has sent to the Canadian advocates of disintegration.

Some of our contemporaries are advocating a discontinuance of the practice of the Canadian Parliament of sitting late at night or sometimes till morning hours. Considered by itself there is much to be said in favour of the change. But if it proposed to fix an hour for adjourning, it would be necessary to put some restriction upon talking against time to reach the fixed hour. Otherwise there would be a constant inducement for anyone opposed to the measure under consideration so to impede it, and thus organized obstruction would be facilitated. This would not be satisfactory to the people, and on the other hand any curtailment of freedom of speech is objectionable unless inevitable.

Snow Sheds in the Mountains.

There is nothing peculiar in the construction of these sheds, which have to support only the burden of snow. But on the line of the Canadian Pacific road, where the road crosses the Rocky Mountains, sheds of different construction are needed, Before the road was completed observations in the mountains showed that avalanches must be provided against. A single avalanche covered the track for a distance of 1,300 feet and to the depth of fifty feet. The result of these observations was that the company constructed four and a half miles of snow sheds at an enormous expense.

The sheds are constructed as follows:—On the high side of the mountain slope a timber crib, filled with stone, is constructed. Along the entire length of the sheds, and on the opposite side of the track, a timber trestle is erected; strong timber beams are laid from the top of the crib work to the top of the trestle, four feet apart and at an angle representing the slope of the mountain.

These are covered with four-inch planking, and the beams are braced on either side from the trestle and from the crib. The covering is placed at such a height as to give twenty one feet headway from the under side of the beam to the centre of the track. The longest of these sheds is 3,700 feet.

"For years I suffered from loss of appetite and indigestion, but failed to find relief until I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine entirely cured me. My appetite and digestion are now perfect."—Fred. G. Bower, 496 Seventh st., South Boston, Mass.

Want of Sleep

Is sending thousands annually to the insane asylum; and the doctors say this trouble is alarmingly on the increase. The usual remedies, while they may give temporary relief, are likely to do more harm than good. What is needed is an Alterative and Blood-purifier. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is incomparably the best. It corrects those disturbances in the circulation which cause sleeplessness, gives increased vitality, and restores the nervous system to a healthful condition.

Rev. T. G. A. Coté, agent of the Mass. Home Missionary Society, writes that his stomach was out of order, his sleep very often disturbed, and some impurity of the blood manifest; but that a perfect cure was obtained by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Frederick W. Pratt, 424 Washington street, Boston, writes: "My daughter was prostrated with nervous debility. Ayer's Sarsaparilla restored her to health."

William F. Bowker, Erie, Pa., was cured of nervousness and sleeplessness by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for about two months, during which time his weight increased over twenty pounds.

ALL THE WORLD AT WAR.

By WALTER BESANT.

"I am the mayor."

"Good! The letter must simply give the date of our capture, and state that the document is signed by a man well known in Lyme, perfectly trustworthy, although now in jail on a charge of smuggling."

Mr. Copas hastened away with the papers.

"They ought to let us go at once, without a trial," said Will, the sanguine. "Sit down and look cheerful, Pleasance dear. Why, we can make love as well in a prison ward as under Pinhay cliff. Let me kiss the tears from your pretty eyes, my peerless woodland nymph!"

We had a fortnight to wait for the assizes. No answer came from the admiralty; nor any sign that we were all to be acquitted without a trial. Meantime, Mr. Copas engaged the best counsel on the circuit—no less a man than the great Sergt. Jamblin, king's counsel—for our defense. As for Joshua Meech, he did not once come to see us—an act of prudence which, while Dan commended it, was surprising to him. To be sure, as Dan said, it was only by chance that he wasn't caught with the rest. And when I told him of the single step I had heard before the revenue men came down the hill, he surmised that it was Joshua, and divined the secret of the empty hold. Who but Joshua could have cleared out the cargo in so expeditious and crafty a manner? Who but Joshua knew the caches in the cliff? Who but Joshua would have been so thoughtful of the interests of the firm?

The court on the day of the trial was crowded with spectators, principally people from Lyme and Bridport who knew Dan Gulliver. I listened with dismay to their talk, for it was nothing but speculation as to what the punishment would be.

I came with Mr. Copas, who provided me with a seat below the dock, so that I could shake hands with the prisoners.

Presently our man, our advocate, the great Sergt. Jamblin, K. C., afterward Sir Peter Jamblin, one of his majesty's judges, came into court. He was followed by a clerk bearing a blue bag full of papers. I noticed that he nodded but did not shake hands with Mr. Copas. Yet he shook hands with every member of the bar in the court. I believe that in those days it was not considered right for a barrister to shake hands with an attorney.

Presently he left the table and came to me.

"I have heard of you, Miss Noel," he said. "Pray let me shake hands with you. Mr. Copas has told me the whole history. I am only sorry that your gallant attempt to warn Dan Gulliver did not succeed. I am not sure, but I am in great hopes that we shall get them off altogether—one and all, you know; they were in the same boat. But if we cannot then I may tell you that a little bird has whispered good news in my ear. A lord, high placed, has interested himself in the case. Courage, my dear young lady."

This was very kind of the sergeant. He was not, to look at, a man from whom such things were to be expected; for he had a harsh and strident voice, full projecting lips and staring eyes. Also, he had very red cheeks, and a way of pushing back his wig which showed that he was already quite bald. But when years afterward I heard people talk of the harsh and overbearing way of Judge Jamblin, I remembered that he had once taken pity on a poor girl in grevious trouble, and said words of comfort to her.

Then there was a blare of trumpets, and presently the whole court rose to greet the judge.

Now I firmly believe that if we had had any other judge in all England to try the case, or if this particular judge had not been attacked the day before with gout in his great toe, so signal was the service rendered by Dan to the government that we should have all got off with a free pardon. But the day was unlucky. Our judge, never the most kindly of men, was in a bad temper that morning. His face was pale, austere and gloomy. His eyes had a fishy stare in them, which was due to his thinking more of his great toe than of the arguments going on before him. He was very old; he had been a judge many years; he had sentenced so many people to death, to transportation, to imprisonment that he had got to regard crime as a sort of disease, and himself as a doctor who administered a remedy or declared the case hopeless.

He seated himself, and the preliminaries began.

The jury were all Dorchester men; no man of Lyme would have brought a verdict against Dan. As for the prisoners, Dan came first. He leaned over the bars of the dock to kiss me when he took his place. Nobody could have looked more innocent than he with his steadfast eyes, his gray locks and his calm face. Job and Jephthah, who followed, stood staring straight before them as if the court had nothing whatever to do with them; as if it were not there at all, in fact. Will came last. He passed his hand over the dock to press mine, and smiled in his old way; but he was flushed and his lip trembled as he stood before them all, a gentleman in the guise of a common sailor, about to be tried for breaking the laws of his country.

Then the counsel for the prosecution rose and opened the case. He began by saying that the jury had before them a gang of notorious and hitherto unpunished smugglers—men who lived by defying the laws of the land. He congratulated the court on being able at last to bring these men to justice. He should prove—and here set forth the whole facts, during which Sergt. Jamblin leaned back and occasionally whispered to one of the junior counsel with a depreciatory smile.

When the counsel for the prosecution had finished he called his witnesses.

Lieut. Pollard was the first. From information received, he stationed himself with a company of sixteen men in Rousdon bay at midnight on Thursday, Oct. 25. About 4 o'clock in the morning the Dancing Polly rounded the point and stood in for the creek. At the moment of landing he effected the arrest.

This was all substantially that he had to say. Then the sergeant rose and he began to tear him to pieces.

"Where did you get your information, Lieut. Pollard?"

"That, with his lordship's permission, I decline to state."

The court ruled that the question need not be asked.

"I was only anxious, my lord," said the sergeant smiling sweetly, "for the witness' own sake to prove that a British officer is incapable of employing any of those despicable persons who live by betraying the sins or follies of their fellow men."

Here the gallant officer reddened and looked uncomfortable.

"We will go on," said the sergeant. "What did this villainous informer tell you?"

"That the notorious smuggler, Dan Gulliver, would attempt a run over from the French coast on that particular night, laden with brandy."

"Ah! Remember, Lieut. Pollard, you are on oath. Every word that you say is on oath. Pray, why 'notorious smuggler?'"

The witness laughed.

"Everybody knows that he is a notorious smuggler."

"I care nothing about everybody knowing; do you know?"

"Of course I know."

"How do you know?"

"By general report."

"So, if general report proclaimed you a murderer, a thief, or anything else, you must of necessity be that kind of criminal?"

The witness was silent. Of course he could not be expected to state that he had often partaken of the Gulliver brandy, and had, indeed, purchased it.

"Has the elder prisoner, or any of the prisoners, indeed, ever been convicted of smuggling?"

"No."

"Have you ever seen them smuggling?"

"Never before."

"Do you, then, still persist in that expression, 'notorious smuggler?'"

The witness hesitated.

"I suppose I must withdraw it," he said.

"He withdraws it, gentlemen of the jury. Remark, if you please, that the witness has never, he says, known of any smuggling on the part of the prisoners. Let the injurious presumption raised in your minds by my learned brother's opening speech, and perhaps confirmed by the careless, baseless expressions of a prejudiced witness, be immediately dismissed. We have to do with one charge, and one alone. Now, sir, your best attention, if you please. You say you caught this man smuggling, do you?"

"I do."

"What was he smuggling?"

"Brandy."

"How do you know?"

"One of my men opened a keg."

What Jay Gould and Dr. Norvin Green say Regarding its Purchase.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Jay Gould left his office in the Western Union building at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon after a brief conference. When questioned about the Baltimore and Ohio Telegraph Company, he said: "We have bought the Baltimore and Ohio Telegraph. We have paid for it or arranged to do so, and the price is $5,000,000." Dr. Norvin Green said:

"We have bought the Baltimore and Ohio Telegraph. We own all its lines and properties. We have paid for it. It is ours. The terms are our own business; but we have got it and the new ownership takes effect to-day. It begins now though for the present the lines will be run under the present officers." Mr. Jay Gould, however, stated pointedly that the price, $5,000,000, was to be paid in Western Union Stock.

An Accident.

At the Driving Park on Friday afternoon a heat of the open trot was just finished. Bob Read, who drove the stallion, Tariff, drew up after passing the wire and a number of rigs gathered around. Daly's Billy W. came up at full speed contesting against another in the race. The driver shouted for Read to get out of the way, but before he could do so the other had run into him. Mr. Daly, who was driving Billy W., was thrown off the sulky, forward right over the horse, lighting on his feet. Read, however, got one foot between the spokes of the sulky and was dragged around till his boot coming off released him. He was picked up, placed in a hack and driven to town. He went to his home in Port Hope next-day His injuries are not severe.

Mission Band.

After the lesson study in the George Street Sunday School on Sunday afternoon the Mission Band of the church presented a programme to the school and others. The Superintendent of the school, Mr. H. Miss Lizzie Rutherford sang a solo. Miss Nellie Saunders gave a recitation, "What can the Mission Do?" Miss Goldie, a small girl, recited a missionary poem, "One Cent a Day," and Miss Ritchie gave a recitation, also on a missionary subject. Miss Irwin read an interesting essay on "Missions in Japan," written by Miss Allen, and a chorus, "Bringing on the Sheaves," concluded the proceedings. The Mission Band is a young people's society, and this presentation of its aims and work should strengthen it.

Suspected Suicide.

On Saturday evening a boy came to the police station with a call for an officer. A woman living in the north Ward heard a loud splash in the water under the Smith street bridge and thought her husband had committed suicide, as he had been away all day. The police hastened to the scene of the splash and found that the animal that had taken the plunge was a dog in search of a bath, and not a man desirous of shuffling off his mortal coil.

Accident.

The Post says: "On Wednesday afternoon at the Union School, Lindsay, Master A. Matthews, son of Mr. George Matthews, of this town, met with a painful accident. During intermission while he was outside playing, he happened to be running up the steps leading to the platform when he slipped and fell, falling on his arm and wrist, and discolated the latter. He was taken home and the injured member attended to We hope it will not be long until he is able to be around again." Master A. Matthews is a brother of Mr. W. E. Matthews, of this town.

Trent Valley Canal.

Mr. James Stevenson, M. P., has received the following letter from the Department of Railways and Canals:—

"OTTAWA, Oct. 7th, 1887.

"SIR,—I am directed to inform you in reply to your letter of the 20th ulto., respecting the appointment of a Commission to make an examination of the proposed route of the Trent Valley Canal, that an Order-in-Council has been passed appointing said Commission.

"I have the honor to be, sir,
"Your odedient servant.
"A. P. BRADLEY,
"Secretary."

"J. Stevenson, Esq., M.P."

New Time Table.

The Post says:—It is likely that the new fall time table of the Midland Grand Trunk on the completion of the new iron bridge at Peterborough, will effect some extensive changes in the train service The present Port Hope-Toronto train will be discontinued. Instead of it a fast expr ss will run from Belleville via Peterborough and Lindsay to Toronto and return. The local express on the main line now leaving Cobourg in the morning will leave Peterborough and will go via Port Hope. The old train will run straight through from Port Hope to Midland and return. A fast mixed will leave Lindsay at 6 or 6.30 a.m. reaching Toronto at 9.30 or 10 a.m. Lindsay will be the headquarters for most of these trains, and will be a much more important railway centre than it is now. This is merely an outline of arrangements likely to go into force, but is in no sense official or 'inspired.'"

Boys' Wool Undershirts, 15c., 20c., 25c. and 30c. each (just half price) at TURNBULL'S.

Exhibition Notes.

The total gate receipts were about $1,350.

The milk test was made on Friday. The Holstein cows and high grades, the latter owned by Mr. Hooper, town, were milked on the grounds. The Halsteins gave considerably more milk, but the grade cows milk yielded twice the amount of cream. It was found, however, that the Halstein skimmed milk was richer than the grade skimmed milk.

The prize was awarded to the high grade cows.

Messrs. Moore and Ludgate officiated in the box office and supplied the crowds with tickets in lightning style.

Messrs. Galletly and Cameron officiated in the Secretary's office. A good many exhibitors would not have had a chance to make their entries but for Mr. Galletly's forbearance.

The dining rooms conducted by Mr. R. Hamilton and the W. C. T. U. were a great convenience.

Mrs. Tom Thumb.

The Montreal Daily Witness of Tuesday, Sept. 27th, 1887, says:—

"When the nature of yesterday's entertainment gets abroad among the children of this city, the Queen's Hall will not be (at any rate should not be) large enough to contain the audience. Tom Thumb's widow—now the Countess Magri—her husband, and her brother-in-law, all enraptured those who saw them. The Countess (though 45 years of age) looked particularly diminutive beside a little girl of eight, and a very small tot of five years almost rivalled her in stature. When the Count and Baron were about to display their capital sword-manship in a duel, they looked for all the world like Tweedledum and Tweedledee in "Through the Looking-glass." The Baron is an exquisite whistler, and accompanies his brother's piccolo; the latter sang a character solo, "The Duchess of Devonshire," and a humerous duet with his wife, in which both were captivating. Mr. Davis' conjuring was thoroughly enjoyed—the more so that he appeared to enjoy it himself. And his ventriloquism, in which he is an expert, brought down the house over and over again. Perhaps the most excrutiatingly funny performance that has ever been seen was that of the Marionettes in their "Miaouw" scene. Two cats, of the usual size, with human faces, appeared on the tiles of a house and went through a duet of sound and action of the most realistic kind. The roars of laughter which greeted this and the other scenes of these semi-human puppets will help to keep the audience cheerful for many a day to come."

For fashionable made dresses, go to Miss Johnston at TURNBULL'S.

POLICE COURT.

ASSAULT.

SATURDAY, Oct. 8.—R. McBride charged T. Cavanagh with having assaulted him. The case was dismissed on account of the informant not appearing.

Mrs. E. McDonald charged Edward Cole, of Havelock, with having assaulted her.

Mrs. McDonald was in attendance at one of the sewing machine stands at the exhibition. The Defendant entered, and taking hold of her, accused her of stealing $2.

The defendant says that he went up to the stand and put $2 on the counter thinking it was a bar. He called for a drink and that it was taken by somebody.

Evidence showed that he was ejected from the place, that he did not put any money down and that he came back and committed the assault.

He was fined $2 and $4.10 costs.

COW AT LARGE.

A case, Adams vs. Gouyetr, in which the defendant was charged with allowing his cow to run at large, was adjourned till Tuesday.

ASSAULT.

Mrs. Mary O'Brien charged her husband Edward O'Brien with assaulting and illtreating her. The defendant was bound over to keep the peace for a year at sureties of $500.

D. AND D.

MONDAY, Oct, 10.—M. Donovan was charged with having been drunk and disorderly and was fined $5.

Curling Club.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Curling Club was held in the rink on Friday night. Mr. C. McGill, Secretary-Treasurer, read his annual report, which was adopted. The election of officers resulted as follows:

PRESIDENT—Judge Weller.
VICE-PRESIDENT—R. S. Davidson.
SECRETARY—TREASURER—C. McGill.
MANAGING COMMITTEE—The officers and Adam Hall and W. G. Ferguson.
REPRESENTATIVE MEMBERS—Dr. Boucher and E. B. Edwards.
SKIPS—T. P. Attrill, S. Ray, Geo. Brown, W. G. Ferguson, Wm. Hamilton, E. B. Edwards, D. Cameron, A. Hall, J. Pentland, H. T. Strickland, Judge Weller, T. Rutherford, Dr. Boucher and Geo. Dunsford.

The curlers then adjourned for ice.

Personal.

The Lindsay Post says:—"Mr. John A. Barron, M.P., has been acting as judge of the different division courts during the illness of Judge Dean, who is still confined to the house, but who is improving so that he will be out shortly."

Miss Johnston, late dress-maker for R Walker & Sons, Toronto, has come to Peterborough and taken charge of TURNBULL'S Dress making. She will, no doubt, prove a valuable acquisition to Peterborough citizens, and make TURNBULL'S the favorite resort for fashionable Dress making.

Mr. Geo. E. Williams, late Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, will leave for England to-morrow. He will be at the Association rooms this evening.

Royal Arcanum.

The Royal Arcanum is a secret beneficiary order founded in 1877, upon the strictest business principles and having all improvements suggested by past experience in fraternal societies. The membership is over 70,000, and it has paid out over $6,000,000 to the widows and orphans of deceased members. An open meeting of Peterborough Council will be held on Thursday evening next, in the Forester's Hall over Long Bros., when short addresses will be given by Bros. English and Hickson, Grand Council officers. A short programme of music will also be presented. All are invited to come and hear particulars of the society. Meeting begins at 8 p.m.

REPUDIATING ITS BARGAIN.

If the alternate had been put to the Manitoba Legislature; protection for the trade and a railway, or no protection no railway, does any sane person doubt which would have been selected? Even the most rampageous of Winnipegers must have a shrewd suspicion that without some guarantee to protect the railway during its earlier years, the money to build it could not have been obtained from capitalists, and the president of the company now authoritively states this to be the case. Before the railway was built, Manitoba was in the humour to make any concession to ensure it; there was no word then of tapping the Northwest trade from the United States five years before the expiration of the time given to the company to complete the road.—Montreal Herald (Reform.

A BIG SCHEME FOR CHICAGO.

A Project to Connect Lake Michigan With the Mississippi.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—About 100 prominent citizens of Chicago left for Peoria this afternoon, as delegates to a convention to be held there to-morrow, which is of the first importance to Chicago and the State of Illinois, besides possessing national interest. The object of the convention is to decide upon ways and means of obtaining a channel way from the lower end of Lake Michigan to the Mississippi River, of sufficient capacity to accommodate large sized Mississippi River boats, so that the products of the country may be carried from the lakes to the gulf without breaking bulk.

Jos. Valois Dismissed.

Joseph Valois was brought up in the Police Court this morning on remand, charged with assaulting his daughter with criminal intent. The daughter, a girl thirteen years of age, had given the Magistrate a circumstantial account of the affair when the information was laid. On the day after the arrest, when the case first came up, she did not appear, and it was learned that she was at an uncle's in the country. This morning she came to the Court and in the witness box declared that what she had told the Magistrate at the time the information was laid was all lies and that she had no complaint to make against her father. She said that her step mother and another woman got her to tell the lies because her step-mother was angry with her father. Mr. R. E. Wood, County Attorney, questioned her for some time, but without eliciting any contrary statement. The Magistrate said that evidently there had been a conspiracy somewhere, either to punish Valois for what he was not guilty of or to shield him from the consequences of a crime of which he was guilty. The girl had either told him lies when the information was laid or was telling lies now. He inclined to think that she was now telling the truth in the Court. If the other woman said to be in the conspiracy with Mrs. Valois was brought there she might deny the story, but there would still be no evidence against Valois. He gave some advice to the girl, and to Valois as to looking after his family, in which there was evidently something wrong, and dismissed the case. Mr. A. P. Poussette, Q. C., appeared for the defence.

Member for Macleod.

The Macleod (N.W.T.) Gazette has the following paragraph which will be read with interest by the many friends of Mr. Haultain in Peterborough:—"The Regina Leader of a recent date has the following to say regarding F. W. G. Haultain, lately elected to represent the Macleod district in the Northwest council: Mr. F. W. G. Haultain who was elected M.N.W.C., for the Macleod district, has been successfully practicing as a barrister at Macleod since 1884. He is botween 25 and 30 years of age, unmarried and is a son of the late Lieut.-Col. Haultain of the Royal Artillery, who settled in Peterborough and was M. P. for the county at Confederation. He was born in Whitshire, England, in November, 1858, and was educated at the Toronto University, where he took his B.A. degree in 1879, first-class in classics. He edited the Lethbridge News for some time after its first appearance and has considerable ability as a speaker. His handsome majority of 152 shows the very marked degree of confidence his constituents have in their member."

After the finishing of the business the entertainment commenced. An enjoyable time was spent by all. Mrs Daly and Messrs Stephens, Mulligan and Millar gave vocal music and Miss Bradburn, Miss Howden and Miss Ainsley gave piano solos and duets. Mr. Cobb recited a selection.

The Red River Road.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 10.—Contractor Haney was buttonholed and asked a few pertinent questions, he shook his head but finally stated that he did not think work would be recommenced on Red River Valley Railway this fall. He was staying in town now for the purpose of settling up matters between the contractors and Government. Being pressed, he stated that if they resumed operations on the road for Government, it would hardly be on the basis of old contract. On Saturday, the staff of Mr. Stewart, Government Engineer, who have been engaged drawing plans for the station buildings, etc., were relieved from their duties.

Uncle Mose's Opinion.

"Which am de properest way to suppress oneself? Does yer say, 'We eated at the table,' or 'We has dun ate at the table?" asked one Texas darkey of another, they being engaged in a grammatical discussion. As they could not agree, the question was referred to Uncle Mose for his decision, which was, "In de case ob you two niggahs, none ob you am right." "What am the proper way to say, 'We eated at the table,' Uncle Mose?" "De properest way for sich cattle as you two am to say, 'We fed at de trough."—Texas Siftings.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

THE CAFFEREL CASE.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—In the house of Madame Lemonson, who has been arrested in connection with the Cafferel case, there were discovered about 200 letters to M. Wilson and others to M. Hevet, showing that if the Government had known the extent of the scandal Gen. Cafferel would not have been arrested. Baron Kreismayer, the German implicated in the affair, was ostensibly a horse dealer. It is suspected he and Madame Lemonson obtained and translated military papers for Germany.

REINFORCING THE TROOPS.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The Ameer of Afghanistan is reinforcing his troops in Herat with artillery and infantry.

VICTORY FOR GOVERNMENT.

SOFIA, Oct. 10.—The elections held yesterday for members of the Sobranje resulted in the return of 250 Government and 40 Opposition deputies.

CHAMPION CYCLISTS.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Jules Dubois, the French champion, defeated Woodside, of Philadelphia, in a 20 mile bicycle race. At Leicester, on Saturday, Temple, of Chicago, easily defeated Medinger, of Paris, in a one mile bicycle race at Shields, Calcutta.

A STEAMER SUNK.

VIENNA, Oct. 10.—The Austrian steamer Hapsburg to-day collided with and sank a Bavarian steamer on Lake Constance. Many passengers in the cabin were drowned, the exact number is as yet unknown. Two bodies have been recovered. Divers are working at the scene of the disaster.

ON COMMERCIAL UNION.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The Manchester Guardian discusses the Hon. James Young's letter to the Globe on Commercial Union, arguing that the result, if enacted, would be that Canada would have taxation without representation. The only way out of such an intolerable position would be annexation. It asks:—"How would Canada be better off as a subordinate part of the unwieldy American empire than as a practically independent and certainly not uninfluential member of the Great British Federation?"

THE PEACE DEPUTATION.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Mr. Carnegie, who sailed for New York from Southampton yesterday, will introduce to the President of the United States a deputation of members of the Peace Association. The delegation bear with them an address to the President richly bound in vellum and illuminated. The address is signed by 230 members of the House of Commons and a number of peers. Among those who go to present the address are Lord Kinnard, Sir Geo. Campbell, Messrs. Wm. R. Cremer, Benj. Pickard and Andrew D. Povaird. Mr. Carnegie has astonished everyone here by his restless energy in taking part in all public movements and it is accepted as perfectly natural that he should assume charge of the Peace Delegation.

OUTLAWING THE PRESS.

BERLIN, Oct. 8.—The circulation of the Paris papers Siecle and La Lanterne has been prohibited in Alsace-Lorraine.

THE MOROCCO AFFAIR.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The Morocco affair still threatens. So many and so large interests are involved that underhanded work by agents of some one of the interested parties is feared, and probably none of the nations who are jealous of the others' acquisitions in North Western Africa will be satisfied with anything short of a naval demonstration in that vicinity pending a final agreement.

FESTIVITIES SUPPRESSED.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—To-day for the first time since the revolution of 1793, the religious ceremonies connected with the festival of St. Denis were suppressed.

THE ITALIAN AFFAIRS.

ROME, Oct. 10.—The experiment of calling out the Landsturm throughout the peninsula was successful. The drills showed that Italy has a well organized and powerful army reserve.

THE FOREIGN PORTFOLIO.

ROME, Oct. 10.—Premier Crispi has offered the foreign portfolio to Count Sigra and has notified Prince Bismarck who favors the appointment.

BRITISH GUN-BOAT LOST.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 10.—It is believed that the British gun-boat "Wasp," from Singapore was lost with all hands in the recent typhoon.

A "WILD WEST" FATALITY.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—A bucking pony belonging to "Mexican Joe," kicked a little boy named John Dinish to death during an exhibition in Liverpool on Saturday.

FRANCE'S NEW FIREARMS.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—Gen. Ferron, Minister of War, opened the Lycee at Chartreuse yesterday. He delivered an address, in which he said that the manufacture of new rifles for the army was being carried on with undiminished vigor. He referred to the Caffarel affair, and said:—"You need not anticipate the slightest weakness in dealing with faults against order and discipline; the higher the military position of the guilty parties, the more severely I shall deal with them. The errors of one man do not stain the honor of the whole army, but keep intact the consideration and esteem in which you hold it."

THE FISHERY DISPUTE.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The Post, commenting on the Fisheries dispute, says: "The main contention of the Americans is that no nation has the right of jurisdiction over the sea beyond a three mile limit. In the Pacific America is acting in flat contradiction to any such principle of interstate comity or treaty rights, British vessels have been arrested far outside of the limit and their captains fined and crews imprisoned. In some cases the vessels and cargoes have been forfeited. America's Pacific claims form an excellent counter argument to America's Atlantic claims, and as such will be of great and direct value to Mr. Chamberlain."

HATRED FOR THE BRITISH.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Dhuleep Singh has written a seditious letter to the native papers, in which he says that England had offered him $700,000 in settlement of his claim against the Government, on condition that he would not go to India. He rejected the offer. His arrest at Aden, he says, converted his loyalty to bitter hatred of England, and he has solemnly resolved to devote his life to freeing his country from the British yoke. He declares he will serve his new sovereign, the Czar, with his life's blood. It is expected that the letter will induce the journals published in the Indian vernacular to attack British rule.

HALDIMAND.

THE issue of the Haldimand election protest shows how utterly unfounded were the gross attacks made by the Reform press upon Dr. Montague the Conservative candidate and Judge Upper, who conducted the recount. The charges of corruption, said to have been so flagrant on the part of Dr. Montague, broke down completely when removed from the domains of slander to that of legal proof. The vile attacks upon Judge Upper were proved to be equally unwarrantable, for the Chancellor came substantially to the same conclusion, stating that if called upon to decide the few cases he had reserved for further consideration, he would probably decide that there was a tie, otherwise there would be a majority of one for Dr. Montague as given by Judge Upper or a majority of three for Mr. Colter according to the interpretation that he placed on a new and doubtful provision. The Chancellor further said that even if he decided in a few instances differently from Judge Upper, it would be no reflection upon the County Judge, who had not the advantage of taking evidence as to the circumstances like the Judge in the Election Court. Thus both Judge Upper and Dr. Montague were completely exonerated on this high authority from the slander brought against them by the Reformers who were enraged at the rejection of their party by the people.

In the probable event of a continuance of the expensive scrutiny resulting in a tie and a fresh election—and it being certain that there could only be a very scanty majority on one side or the other, the parties have resolved to fight the contest over again. The Chancellor expressed his thorough approval of this agreement under the circumstances of the case. Thus the electors of Haldimand will have an opportunity to give an unmistakable indication of their choice, and the Reformers especially will have a chance of showing whether there is even a particle of truth in the clamour they raised that the previous election was unfair. If they have the slightest faith in their own slanders they should be glad to have this new opportunity of testing the electorate.

VERY DIFFERENT.

IN an article renewing its unpatriotic attempts to damage the C. P. R. and to divert its traffic to foreign railways so as to injure Canada, the Toronto Mail has the effrontery to call the Hon. Thos. White as a witness on its behalf. It quotes him as saying that there would soon be "trade enough in Manitoba and the Northwest to afford profitable returns for both the Canadian Pacific and the Grand Trunk, if the latter should find entrance there." As if there were any similarity between Mr. White's suggestion of another great Canadian railroad having a share in this Canadian trade and the Mail's dishonest attempts to rob our own road in order to turn over the profit to its foreign friends and masters. The Grand Trunk is making no attempts to push forward its connection with Manitoba; the Mail and the rest of the disloyal gang are urging Manitoba to withdraw its custom from the rest of Canada for the benefit of foreigners; and a telegram just received from Manitoba triumphs in the fact of the United States Northern Pacific having reached the boundary to meet the disallowed road from Winnipeg.

The Mail and its friends are not advocating the extension of a Canadian road, but the tapping of a Canadian road to divert its traffic abroad, and it is rank dishonesty on its part to pretend that Mr. White shares in its disloyal views.

T. V. C. COMMISSION.

THE news of the appointment of the commission in regard to the Trent Valley Canal will be welcomed by the people of this district who know the great value of this important public work. The more light there is thrown upon the merits of the route the bettter will they be appreciated and the more rapid will be its construction.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Mail makes a mistake in his account of the appointment of the commissioners. He speaks of their obtaining "information to aid the Government in arriving at a final decision in regard to prosecuting the same." This is inaccurate. Last session the Ministers acknowledged that they were pledged to complete the construction, and that the object of the commission was to ascertain what section should next be taken in hand, and the probable cost.

The is no doubt that the Trent Valley route will be opened, and the appointment of this commission is another step in advance.

"For years I suffered from loss of appetite and indigestion, but failed to find relief until I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine entirely cured me. My appetite and digestion are now perfect."—Fred. G. Bower, 49 Seventh st., South Boston, Mass.

THE WAR CLOUD BUSTED!

Victory has Perched on the Banner of PETERBOROUGH'S GREAT CHEAPSIDE.

And SHEPPARD, by common consent, will get $1,000 for being the Cheapest Clothier in Peterborough, having knocked the Wonderful Cheap Man completely out. "Business is business; dirt is dirt, and when it comes to throwing dirt, then count" the only original teddy out, and he will hand over that $1,000 like a little man, for the following reasons:—

SHEPPARD sells a full size Man's suit for $2.95, and better goods than a suit to fit a child about nine years old sold by the Wonderful Cheap Man on Saturday for $3.00; but marked $3.50. This is how it was.—A lady purchased a child's suit on Saturday last, Sept. 17th, 1887, at the store of the Wonderful Cheap Man. It was marked thusly:—Lot 5375, Breast 27, Waist 26½, Age 9, Price $3.50. It was pure shoddy, being held together by cotton threads, and Sheppard is free to say that that was the dearest suit sold in the Town of Peterborough for the last two years. Full particulars are given because of the $1,000 involved, and, further, that this decides who is selling the Cheapest Clothing in Peterborough. SHEPPARD would have sold that lady a suit, pure wool, for that money, and worth two of the one she got.

$1,000 to Go to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

I had first decided to give the agencies a chance of jumping up my rating that $1,000, but after considering the matter and finding that never in any case have I been asked for an endorser to my paper, and that no relative or any other persons have ever endorsed my paper to the extent of one cent, I have come to the conclusion my credit is as good as yours, and will ask you to hand over the $1,000 to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

Now, Sir, there is a good story told, the truth of which can be vouched for, but for the honor of at least making an effort to keep up your self-styled name—The Terror of High Priced Clothiers—do not allow the same to be said of you in the case above. A man purchased a suit for $15.00 at the store of one of the largest advertisers in that section of country. It was guaranteed pure wool; but after examining it carefully at home, he came to the conclusion that he had been dealing with some one sharper than himself. Finding a make of wool, differing some from anything he had ever seen, it dawned upon him that he had heard of wool of that kind, so the suit was returned. The merchant bet $25 00 that it was all wool, and the bet was accepted, the decision being left to a neighboring merchant. He found that the $15.00 suit was wool faced and shoddy back, pure unadulterated shoddy; but what of the $25.00 bet? was it paid? Not much—muchly—as it were.

Headache, Billiousness, Dyspepsia and Indigestion relieved and at once by Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. Try it. Samples free.

The traffic receipts of the Grand Trunk Railway for the week ending October 1st were $107,851, an increase of $20,532 compared with the corresponding week last year.

Colonel Oliver, commandant of the Royal Military College at Kingston, whose ten years' term of service has expired, will retain the position till the end of the current college term.

Right now is the time to use a good Blood Purifying Medicine. Lose no time in getting a bottle of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. It will do you good. Sold by al druggists. 50c.

A friendly suit, to settle the question of the right of the Dominion or British Columbia to jurisdiction in regard to minerals in the railway belt in the latter province, has been agreed upon, and a judgment finally settling the dispute is expected in a few days.

Don't use any more nauseous purgatives such as Pills, Salts, &c., when you can get Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters, a medicine that moves the Bowels gently, cleansing all impurities from the system and rendering the Blood pure and cool. Sold by all Druggists.

The Russian Invalid, published in St. Petersburg, the organ of the War Office, says Ayoub Khan has reached Ghazni. His influence has so seriously affected the situation in Afghanistan that the Amer's position in Cabul has become one of extreme difficulty, and he evidently doubts of ultimate success, for he is sending his treasure and valuables to Khanad Bad.

THE PREMIER CONFERENCE.

If the Reform premiers can, by putting their heads together, devise a plan by which Sir John can be weakened, we may make up our minds that they will not hesitate to use it. But the old man is a shrewd politician and is not easily caught napping.—Toronto Telegram (Indep.)

RECIPROCAL TRADE.

THE WINNIPEG TRICKSTERS.

Manitoba is reaping the benefit of the rapid construction of the C. P. R. and now they seek to deprive the Company of its expected resources.—Newmarket Era (Reform.)

THE ADVANTAGES.

"In some respects the route via Canada would be more popular than that via San Francisco. Possibly the American Railway Company would not lose their traffic without a struggle. The advantages of a 30 days mail service fortnightly by way of America for a comparatively small consideration, in lieu of the existing 42 days's services, are considerable, to say nothing of the opening up of the new trading route. The matter may well bear looking into more fully."—Sydney (Aust.) Morning Herald.

VALUE OF THE C. P. R.

From the Imperial subsidy of £45,000 yearly to the Canadian Pacific mail line between Vancouver and Japan, and from the comments of the London Times, it is plain that the British Government have come to understand that Canadians have established, at vast cost to themselves a railway valuable as a British military route to the East.—Toronto Globe (Reform.)

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It smoothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, Relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Want of Sleep

Is sending thousands annually to the insane asylum; and the doctors say this trouble is alarmingly on the increase. The usual remedies, while they may give temporary relief, are likely to do more harm than good. What is needed is an Alterative and Blood-purifier. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is incomparably the best. It corrects those disturbances in the circulation which cause sleeplessness, gives increased vitality, and restores the nervous system to a healthful condition.

Rev. T. G. A. Coté, agent of the Mass. Home Missionary Society, writes that his stomach was out of order, his sleep very often disturbed, and some impurity of the blood manifest; but that a perfect cure was obtained by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Frederick W. Pratt, 424 Washington street, Boston, writes: "My daughter was prostrated with nervous debility. Ayer's Sarsaparilla restored her to health."

William F. Bowker, Erie, Pa., was cured of nervousness and sleeplessness by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for about two months, during which time his weight increased over twenty pounds.

ALL THE WORLD AT WAR.

By WALTER BESANT.

"And purloined, being in the revenue service, spirit which he supposed to be smuggled. Has the man been brought to justice?"

"He has not."

"Were there other kegs?"

"I did not see."

"When your men returned for their prize, what did they find?"

"Nothing. The craft had been cleared in their absence."

The next witness was the man, James Skirling by name, who had opened the keg.

He gave his evidence in as few words as possible, and was then in turn submitted to cross examination.

"I understand you," said the sergeant, in slow and awful tones, "to inform the court that you took advantage of the darkness and confusion to broach a keg, actually to broach a keg and fill a bottle?"

"I did."

"You stole that liquor, in fact; you placed it in this bottle?" He held up the fatal flask.

The man grinned.

"Don't laugh at me, sir; don't dare to laugh at the court. Many a poor fellow is lying in Newgate at this moment, and will be hanged by the neck, for no worse an offense. Worse? Far, far lighter. They stole, being common rogues. You betrayed a trust, being reputedly an honest officer. Far, far lighter. Tell the court, again, sir. Did you or did you not steal the brandy?"

He stammered in confused accents that he did.

"You took the bottle with you, I suppose, on purpose to steal it if you got a chance?"

"I did."

"There is a pretty rogue for you!" cried the sergeant, throwing himself back and sticking his thumbs into his waistcoat pockets. "Here is a villain in grain! He deliberately plans a robbery, deliberately executes it, and in open court boasts of it! My lord, I must ask for the prosecution of this rogue. In the interests of the country such a rogue must be hanged. His punishment would be beneficial to the public morals. I am not sure that I ought not to ask for the prosecution of his superior officer—if not as particeps criminis, then as conniving at and stifling the crime."

He turned again to the terrified witness, whose legs trembled beneath him, while his cheeks were of a ghastly pallor.

"You took one keg and you opened it; you found brandy in it; you stole some of that brandy. Pray, were there other kegs?"

"There were; I saw them by the light of my dark lantern."

"Good. Did you open those kegs?"

"No."

"Were those kegs ever examined?"

"No; they were all cleared out while we were marching the prisoner away."

"You have no knowledge what they contained?"

"Brandy, of course," said the man, picking up his courage a little.

"You will swear, without knowing the facts, that they contained brandy?"

"How could"——

"Answer my question. Can you swear that they contained brandy?"

"No."

"They may have contained butter. We all know the excellence of French butter. Will you swear that they did not contain butter?"

"No."

One or two other witnesses were examined, who all swore to the same facts. One thing was clear, that had it not been for that unlucky little bottle of brandy, the prosecution would have broken down completely.

Three witnesses for character were called.

The principal evidence was the Rev. Benjamin Burden, rector of Rousdon. The poor old rector, a veritable peasant priest, stood in the witness box clad in his tattered cassock and his battered old wig, yet bearing upon him the dignity of his sacred calling. The sergeant handled him with much softness and delicacy. He made him inform the court that he was the rector of Rousdon, that its population was fourteen, his stipend was thirty-eight pounds and his church was a barn. This melancholy condition of things moved the jury in his favor and dissipated the bad effect which might otherwise have been produced upon a fat and well fed jury, clad in strong broadcloth, by his rags and his evident poverty.

The counsel went on to elicit from the rector that Dan Gulliver was his church warden, and that with his two sons he kept the church in such repair as made divine service possible. The clergyman added, quite simply and with dignity, that Dan Gulliver was a worthy and religous man who lived the life of a true Christian.

The sergeant emphasized these replies one after the other, each with a wave of his hand toward the jury, as much as to say: "You hear this, gentlemen; you will remember the evidence of this holy minister of religion."

The evidence of the good old man, however, lost its whole weight when the counsel for the prosecution asked him one or two questions in a different direction.

He said:

"I fear, Mr. Burden, that the lamentable exiguity of your income must shut you out from the enjoyment of many of our choicest blessings—port wine, for instance?"

The rector shook his head sadly.

"I believe that I remember the taste of port," he said, "but I cannot be sure—it is so long since I saw any."

"Brandy cannot altogether replace port, can it?" asked the barrister.

"It cannot," said the rector.

"Yet I dare say you get brandy, at least sometimes?"

"I do," said the rector.

"As a present, now? from a parishioner?"

"I have it given to me," said the rector, "by my churchwarden, Dan Gulliver."

"I will not ask you," said the counsel, "whence you imagine this brandy to be derived. I prefer to think that you ask no questions and have no suspicions. It would be too much to believe that a divine of your age and position should countenance the practice of smuggling.

Then followed other witnesses and more fencing.

Presently the counsel for the crown made his speech. It was very short. "Here," he said, "was a man, with his two sons, and a stranger, probably a hired hand. The man was well known to be a smuggler—so well known that he was afraid L. me Regis was, to a man, in alliance with him to defeat the ends of justice, and shielded him steadily in his runs to and from the coast of France. He was caught, so to speak, red handed."

It was impossible to resist the conviction that the rest of the kegs which composed the cargo contained, like the one which had been opened, brandy. Of course it was open to any one to maintain the improbable. His learned brother might ask them to believe that these four men had crossed the channel and landed on an enemy's coast, in quest of potatoes, cabbages, fruit, butter, or any other marketable article. The undisputed facts were, that here was a man with a fast sailing craft and a fishing boat—what was the object of the former? That his most intimate friends admitted that they received brandy as a present from him. Where did he procure that brandy? That he was notoriously a smuggler by profession. As regarded the evidence of the man Skirling, the actual fact could not be disputed, although the act itself showed a low tone of morality, which all would regret to find existing in so respectable a body as the revenue service. No doubt the galliant officer who had effected the arrest with so much promptitude and courage, although with a little indiscretion, would take cognizance of the offense in his military capacity. Finally he asked the jury to give a verdict for the prosecution, and so strike terror into the hearts of other evil doers and defiers of the law.

When our counsel's turn came he made a most eloquent and indignant speech. According to him, Dan Gulliver, the much maligned, was an admirable specimen of a class which formed, he said, the backbone of our country; he was a yeoman, farming the few acres which formed his paternal estate, and living frugally with his sons and an adopted daughter in a cottage upon his own land. For fishing purposes he had two boats, one of them, called the Dancing Polly, being a remarkably fast sailer. On this particular night he had been along the coast picking up, no doubt, a cargo of butter and eggs, or it might be fish, and such harmless matters, and proposing to return to Rousdon bay, a little creek or inlet of the sea immediately below his farm.

You can never get a Grit to give an honest comparison. The whole point in the issue is this and the Free Press (Winnipeg) and the whole Grit party fight as any of it as a cat does of holy water: Is a provincial charter recognized as sufficient to authorize international traffic by connection with an out-side system, and especially were such connection is to operate in competition with a highway whose success is of importance to the whole Dominion? If it is not it is a usurpation by the Provincial Government of a Federal function, and if such a connection is sufficient then the proper step is to go to the courts and establish the fact. This would be inexpensive and settle the matter for all time. If the Provincial Legislature has the constitutional rights and jurisdiction the Free Press and the advocates of the Red River Valley Railway say it has, there is nothing like proving it in the courts to settle a conflict for all time.—Brandon, Man., Mail.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A communication was read from R. Hall, calling attention to the condition of the drain on Simcoe street, which was now useless, the water standing at 18 inches over the tile pipe.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were read and referred to the Finance Committee:—

| | |
|---|---|
| G N W Telegraph Co | $ 1 02 |
| J R Stratton | 68 20 |
| J P Hurley, railway tickets | 7 90 |
| G Stethem, nails | 17 75 |
| Peterborough Gas Co | 322 22 |
| R H Green, charity orders | 6 00 |
| Nicholls Hospital (Sept) | 336 38 |
| Peterborough Gas Co (Police Court) | 40 25 |
| Peterborough Gas Co (Clerk's office) | 18 90 |
| Peterborough Gas Co (Fire Hall) | 104 80 |

The MAYOR said that the subject of Mr. Hall's communication was the reason of calling the Council together this evening. Something should be done about it.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Mr. R. S. DAVIDSON, Chairman, read the following report of the Finance Committee:

To the Mayor and Councillors of the Town of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN,—Your Finance Committee beg leave to report and recommend the payment of the following accounts:—

| | |
|---|---|
| Central Iron Bridge Works Co | $ 4 80 |
| Peterborough REVIEW Co | 47 25 |
| Toronto Rubber Co | 44 00 |
| Agent G. T. R. | 13 30 |
| Nicholls Hospital, June, July and Aug | 146 39 |

Your Committee would also recommend that the Town Solicitor prepare a by-law to permit the Peterborough Water Co. to issue debentures for 20 years at 5 per cent. interest to the extent of $50 000, the company agreeing to supply all hydrants over sixty at forty dollars each per annum.

That $4.75 be paid Mr. Brundrette for wood furnished as charity.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

R. S. DAVIDSON,
Chairman.

Peterborough, Oct. 10th, 1887.

Councillor DAVIDSON explained that the Water Company could not issue debentures for a longer term than five years on account of their agreement with the town, the town having the right to purchase in five years. They could not sell them to advantage at five years, and wished this permission. He did not altogether agree with the five per cent., as in case the town purchased the water works he did not know how the debentures would be assumed. At five per cent. the Company would get a premium, and if the town bought the works they might want it to take the debentures at par

Councillor MOORE said that the feeling of the Company, he believed, would be against 4 per cent., as they might suffer loss at that rate of interest. If the town purchased the works they could take into consideration the rate of interest on the debentures. The Company's proposition was for the town to guarantee the debentures, but the Committee did not recommend it.

After further discussion the report was adopted.

Councillor MOORE said that the Committee had recommended that Mr. Hilliard's mills be placed in the same position as Mr. Brodie's, and the Solicitor should be instructed to prepare a By-law for that purpose.

ADVERTISING THE TOWN.

Councillor MOORE verbally reported that the Special Committee had inquired of trade journals as to rates for advertising the town. He had heard from two, but had not heard from the other, and they were not ready to report.

THE SIMCOE STREET DRAIN.

The subject of the Simcoe street drain was taken up.

Mr. POPE, Street Inspector, said that he thought the drain had not been properly constructed, there not being fall enough.

Councillor MCNEIL said that when the drain was opened at the corner of Water street the pipe was full and the water oozing out. The joints had not been cemented. They had flushed the drain, but it was no better, which showed that it was too low or was blocked at the entrance to the main sewer. It was ridiculous that the joints had not been cemented. If they drained down Simcoe street to the river, they would have good drainage, but it would be a bad precedent. If there was six or seven inches of gravel in the main sewer, as the Street Inspector supposed, it would be an expensive job to clean it, but then in the Town buildings suffered from the stench.

Councillor MCNAUGHTON said that the pipe leading from the Town buildings was too small and the fall not enough.

Councillor CAHILL said that they should do now what the people of the town would soon have to do, put in dry earth closets in the Town buildings. He moved,—That all the closets in the Town buildings be removed and dry earth closets substituted, the work to be done under the supervision of the Property Committee. He added that the Street inspector would have the drain opened at once and see what was the matter and whether it could be fixed.

Councillor YELLAND said that they should wait to see if the drain could be fixed before passing the motion.

Councillor MCNEIL said that they would always have trouble with the drain till it was taken up, and he believed it would be economy to build a drain down Simcoe street east.

Councillor MENZIES moved, seconded by Councillor MCNEIL,—That, the drain from the Town buildings to the main sewer on George street being of no use, a drain be constructed east down Simcoe street.

Councillor DAVIDSON said they should wait, to see what could be done with the present drain.

Councillor MOORE said he did not think it would cost more than ten dollars to test the drain, and it should be done. If necessary the pipes should be properly cemented as Mr. Rutherford should have had them cemented in the first place.

Councillors Cahill and Menzies withdrew their motions, Mr. Cahill remarking that his would do for a notice, and it was understood that the Street Inspector would examine the drain.

BRICKS ON THE STREET.

Councillor MOORE referred to a pile of bricks that had been laying on Hunter street for some time. The owner should be notified to remove them.

It was agreed that the Street Inspector should speak to the owner.

TO SCRAPE GEORGE STREET.

Councillor MCNEIL moved, seconded by Councillor STENSON,—That the Street Inspector be instructed to have the mud scraped off George street.—Carried.

SCOTT ACT FINES.

Councillor MOORE said that there were complaints of warrants for large amounts in Scott Act fines being in the hands of the constables. He asked if it was true.

The TOWN CLERK—There is $1,100, one for seven months, one five, another three months.

The MAYOR said that he thought some of the fines had been paid to-day.

Councillor MCNEIL said that there were too many reports about the warrants. One day the Clerk told him that there was $900 out in this way, and the Acting-Chief said he only had two one for $50 and another for $150, and that he only had these for two days.

The CLERK—It was not true.

Councillor MCNEIL said it was a question between them.

The MAYOR said that the constables were trying to collect the fines. He would insist on the warrants being executed.

Councillor YELLAND said that evidently the constables thought that the Council did not want them to collect the fines, and they should disabuse them of that opinion.

The MAYOR—They can't think that. They have been told often enough.

Councillor YELLAND said that they should force their officers to collect the money.

The CLERK said that he could prove by George Cochrane (License Inspector) that they refused to execute the warrants. If the Council would instruct him to make a return of warrants issued they would see how the matter stood.

Councillor MCNEIL said that they would see whether warrants were executed before the next meeting.

The MAYOR said he had spoken about the fines to the constables and had urged their collection. He heard Councillor McNeil tell the Acting-Chief that he should not keep warrants in his possession unexecuted.

The Council adjourned for three weeks.

SCOTT ACT FINES.

The Question of Unexecuted Warrants—What the Acting Chief Says.

At the Town Council meeting on Monday evening the question of warrants outstanding for Scott Act fines came up, as reported in another column. A reporter asked Acting-Chief Adams about the matter this morning and his explanations follow:—

REPORTER—The police were overhauled last night for having unexecuted warrants for Scott Act fines in their possession.

The ACTING-CHIEF—What was said about it?

R.—It was stated that you had warrants for $1,100.

A.-C.—Well, I guess there is that much, probably more.

R.—And the warrants are not executed?

A.-C.—No, because we do not know where the people are. Out of the whole amount there is only about $450 that can be collected.

R.—Why cannot the other amounts be collected?

A.-C.—Because some have left the country and others gone from the town. Look here. Here is one for $150, another for $100 (giving the names), another for $100 and eight for $50 each. Each one of these is gone or cannot be found. There is no provision for expenses in following them if it was known where they were.

R.—Are there any other fines that cannot be collected?

A.-C.—Yes, here is one for $100. The man was arrested by Chief Cooper and gave a bond. I have been told not to meddle with it. I do not know who has the bond and I will not interfere with it. And here is another case of two fines, amounting to $150, in which the man is in bed and perhaps dying. I cannot collect that.

R.—How much is that altogether?

A.-C.—That is $1,000, some of them months ago and in Chief Cooper's time; others more recently fined. I have hired horses to go out into the country to serve subpœnaes in Scott Act cases for which I have not been repaid for the expense.

R.—How much is there outstanding?

A.-C.—About $1,500 or $1,600 in warrants issued and fines.

R.—Are there any of long standing against men from whom they can be collected?

A.-C.—There is one that has been standing five or six weeks. That is the longest, and that man has paid in about $900.

MEET AT THE ASSOCIATION RANGE AND DO HANDSOME WORK.

Mr. D. Cameron Carries off the Bankers Cup of '77 and Mr. S. Ray the Bankers Cup of '81—Mr. Pentland Secures the Cox Cup.

The annual rifle matches under the auspices of the County of Peterborough Rifle Association are held on Monday and Tuesday. The weather was fine, and there being little wind it was fairly favourable for shooting. The Maiden and Association matches were shot off on Monday and the rest on Tuesday.

Each of the Bankers cups offered have to be won twice in succession and the Cox cup three times, twice of which must be in succession. This year Mr. D. Cameron won the Bankers cup of 1877 and Mr. S. Ray the Bankers cup of 1881, these being contested for in the Association match. The Cox cup was won by Mr. J. B. Pentland, this year, it being placed as first prize, together with $6 cash, in the County match. It is understood No. 4 Company has won the Company match.

THE ANNEXATION MOVEMENT.

Further Opinions of the United States Press—The Avowed Object.

NOT PRACTICABLE.

But it has never been shown that complete Commercial Union without political union is practicable.—Buffalo Courier.

THE REAL OBJECT.

Commercial Union should only be an incident in the national consolidation of the two countries, with one constitution, one government, one destiny, one glorious future.—New York Sun.

ANNEXATION BEFORE COMMERCIAL UNION.

There is a great deal better prospect of a political union between the United States and Canada than there is of a commercial union; but it is not yet clear that this country wants either.—Rochester, N. Y., Herald.

BAD FOR CANADA.

The Louisville Courier-Journal the other day expressed the opinion that free trade between the United States and Canada with a common tariff for both countries against the old world would be highly advantageous to this country, but a bad bargain for Canada.—Buffalo Courier.

A SLAUGHTER MARKET WANTED.

If the Canada trade in any degree is worth having, and can be secured to American manufacturers, ignorance or indifference as to the way in which it can best be got, and kept, ought not to keep the American out of the Dominion. It lies with American manufacturers to avail themselves of every opportunity for entering Canada in more and more profitable competition. As the market for American manufacturers is extended we shall suffer less and less from over-production; while the various industrial disturbances which arise from intermittent employment will be less frequent and will tend to adjust themselves.—Buffalo Express.

NOT ADVANCING.

The scheme of commercial union between the United States and the Dominion of Canada doesn't seem to be advancing very powerfully, if we can judge from the expressions of the Canadian press.—New York Sun.

THE ONLY TERMS.

The prospect of unrestricted trade between the two countries can only be realised by the accession of the Canadian provinces to the union, and so long as that is not practicable Commercial Union will remain an impracticable scheme.—Buffalo Courier.

SIMILAR RESULTS.

A Canadian journal has taken a vote among its readers on the question of annexation to the United States. Out of nearly a thousand answers over seven hundred oppose the step while only about two hundred favor it. Votes taken on this side of the line would probably give similar results. Until decisive majorities in both countries favor it a union is quite out of the question. It is an issue of years, of generations.—Philadelphia North American.

THE ONLY TERMS

We regard this scheme as chimerical. If Canada wants as perfect free trade with this country as one of the states of the union, and if it be content to accept common customs duties, let it enter the American union. The gate has been open for more than a hundred years, and Canada will be made thoroughly welcome.—Rochester Post-Express.

WHAT WOULD FOLLOW.

There has been a state of things leading up to such a union, and were that to come about it would not be taking an extremely long look ahead to predict that the breaking down of all barriers would ultimately follow in a more perfect union of the two countries.—Pittsburg Times.

WILL GO TO THE WALL.

If Mr. Butterworth and Mr. Wiman have succeeded in convincing the Canadians that the people of the United States are longing for reciprocity or commercial union, they have accomplished a great work, since no such feeling exists in the United States. On the other hand, party the which tries to bring about reciprocity will go to the wall, ascertainly as the sun rises. The people of the states want none of it. Ben Butterworth and Mr. Wiman have but a handful of followers in the states, and little attention is paid to their speeches. The Canadians should not be deceived.—Rochester Democrat Chronicle.

Serious Railroad Disaster.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 11.—A despatch to the Journal, dated North Judson, Ind., October 11th, says: Just west of here last night a fast freight train ran into the rear of an express train. Four or five cars were burned, including a Pullman sleeper. Fifteen to twenty are dead, and many injured.

Many forget that the hair and scalp need cleansing. Extensive use of Ayer's Hair Vigor has proven that it is the best cleansing agent for the hair—that it prevents dandruff and stimulates the hair to renewed growth.

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

The Mail's Imagination Again at Work—Absurd Estimates and Suggestions.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Mail continues to exercise his imagination on the subject of the Trent Valley Canal. Under date of Oct. 11th, he writes as follows:—

"Estimates of the cost of completing the Trent Valley Canal system range all the way from three to ten millions, and it will therefore be seen that considerable responsibility rests upon the commissioners, as on their report will depend the Government's decision to carry out the entire scheme or let construction cease at the point to which it it has already been carried. The rise in the Welland Canal from Lake Ontario to Lake Erie is a continuous one, totalling 331½ feet. From Trenton to Balsam Lake summit water there is a rise of 589½ feet, then descending 118¼ feet by a canal and the Talbot River to Lake Simcoe, and 124 5 6 by the the Severn. The Georgian Bay outlet would be 243¼ feet below the summit level of Lake Balsam. Thus the total rise and fall between Lakes Ontario and Huron by this route would be 832⅝ feet, so that it will at once be perceived that a tremendous amount of lockage will have to be constructed. How much the commissioners may determine. Another point which the commissioners may be expected to study is the question of riparian rights. Throughout the chain of Trent waters, near Fenelon Falls on the Back lake division, from Balsam Lake to Lakefield, and upon the Trent and Otonabee Rivers, the inhabitants for whose benefit the completed improvements and other works in progress were designed have complained of the injury which those works have donn to their land and have sought redress therefor. It has been suggested that if the Government is to complete this navigation system the riparian owners should concede that the bed and waters of the rivers and intermediate lakes traversed by the main line of the proposed canal are public property and belong to the State, and that therefore manufacturers, steamboat owners and other private persons have no right to encroach upon them. Doubtless the commissioners will hear plenty on this subject while on their travels and may suggest some method of overcoming the objections of the land-owners.

WEATHER NOTES.—In looking over the September of 1887 we find it not surpassed for drought during the records of taking weather notes in Canada. Although the heat did not reach extremes like some of the preceding months, the hottest only being 80 degrees in the shade at 3 p.m., it continued steady till near the latter end of the month, the slight rains having little effect in checking the destructive bush fires which have been causing so much loss through the country, for although falling on 8 days rain only fell 65-100 of an inch, being considerably below the average. The first frost of the season was on the morning of the 4th, and has been in all during the month on 10 occasions, with ice on three days, our first being on the 17th. The coldest was on the 26th, when the thermometer stood at 29 degrees, leaving the mean temperature for the month at 34 24-30 degrees. We had thunder three times, one awful gale of wind on the 7th, and auroral lights on the night of the 15th. The following are the different points from which the wind was blowing at sunrise during the month, namely:—South 1 day; west, 1 day; northwest, 6 days; north east, 3 days; east, 3 days; south west, 4 days; east, 3 days; south east, 5 days; and north, 4 days.

THE EXHIBITION.

THE Central Exhibition, held last week under the auspices of the West Peterborough Agricultural Society, was in many ways the most successful fair ever held in the town. There were about 2,000 entries, which was about 300 more than at last year's exhibition. The show of horses, cattle and other live stock was extensive and comprehensive—large in number and including many kinds and classes. The animals were exceedingly fine ones and to those interested in live stock or who find a pleasure in viewing the best specimens of these animals it was an interesting sight to pass along the stalls or view a parade in the judges' ring. The other departments of the exhibition, with some slight exceptions, contained good displays, and as an educating medium—the principal object of such shows—it was a decided success, the opportunities for seeing and comparing the best varieties of animals, cereals, roots and other productions being excellent.

These facts afford grounds for congratulation. The attendance, however, was another matter. A good exhibition is of little use unless the people see it. The school master cannot teach if the school house is empty. The number of people who entered the gate was not large, and yet when the state of the weather during the week is considered the attendance might be considered remarkably good. Although rain fell or clouds threatened on each day, $1,350 was taken at the entrance. One noticeable feature of the attendance was the comparatively small number of townspeople. This was not so much because they feared a wetting more than the people from the townships as because there was not so strong an attraction for them. The number of townspeople who will go far to see fine cattle, fat sheep or even good horses is not very large unless there are other attractions, and the departments that would more especially interest them, for instance fine arts, were not well filled. It might pay the directors to consider whether it would not be advisable to offer more substantial prizes for such exhibits. Drawing out the people from the town would swel the receipts—an important matter for keeping up the exhibition—and special attractions for that purpose would be paying investments. Speeding in the ring is right enough, but if it is the only special attraction it leaves nothing to draw the large number who feel no interest in fast horses. A citizens' day, with suitable amusements connected with the exhibition proper, should attract not only the people of this town, but those of neighbouring towns also. Citizens' day is the best paying day of the Toronto exhibition. Advertising the show especially in our own county, might profitably receive more careful attention.

Each year shows the desirability of having George street opened to the boundary. This, of course, is a matter for the town council, and that body should turn its attention in that direction. A street railway would be a boon during fair time. In the meantime, if a street railway is not built, could not arrangements be made with the Grand Trunk to run a suburban train to the grounds? The new loop line runs close to the gates.

We started out to extend congratulations on the success of the exhibition, as an exhibition, mingled with regret because the weather interfered with the attendance, but the suggestions offered will no doubt not be amiss. Neither will this one, that a guarantee fund should be provided for cases such as happened this year when unfavourable weather interfers with the receipts. The management of such a show is a difficult undertaking, but the officers and directors deserve credit for the manner in which they carried it out. The officials were capable and energetic, the officers were alert and careful and the committees were attentive to their arduous duties. Their efforts deserved success, and met with success, and the show, as stated above, was the best ever held in the town, and no doubt each succeeding one will improve on its predecessor as the Great Central becomes better known. until its dimensions will crowd in every part the spacious grounds now used.

A CANADIAN ROUTE.

As the Trent Valley Canal will be a formidable rival of the Erie Canal, and will convey the produce of the Northwest to Montreal instead of New York, the Toronto Mail, under its new management, is working for its foreign associates by making a fierce attack upon the Canadian route.

It seems to know something of the facts of the case about fifty or sixty years ago, but its information appears only to extend to the period of the fall of the Mackenzie Government, when, as it correctly shows, the defeated politicians handed over this valuable public property to the Provincial authorities that it might be utilized for distribution among certain constituencies, but happily, the incoming administration prevented this sacrifice.

As to the period from then to the present time the Mail mind is apparently a perfect blank, so it relies upon its distorted imagination to obstruct this great national improvement. It talks of opinions and beliefs, but is either ignorant or dishonest in concealing the fact that since then there has been a continuous expenditure by the Dominion, at first on surveys and for some years on construction as well. That the works have not been pushed forward as rapidly and that the votes have not been as large as we could have wished, we have more than once plainly stated, but that there has been a very large expenditure and much work done, cannot be denied, however much it may please the Mail to convey the false impression that nothing has been affected.

Still more dishonest is the insinuation of the Mail that the Conservative leaders do not approve of this work. It cannot be ignorant that several members of the Administration came in person to inspect these waters and pledged themselves that the route should be opened; that they have repeated these pledges to deputations and have also repeated them in the House, the last occasion being in the session of this very year.

However much it may disconcert the Mail and Mr. Wiman that traffic should be taken from the Erie Canal and from the port of New York, the Trent Valley route will be opened, and will convey the produce of the Northwest for shipment from Montreal.

ALL THE WORLD AT WAR.

By WALTER BESANT.

Here he protested against the assumption that the expedition had been across the channel. "How can you prove it? How came the suspicion to arise? Was it likely that in so small a vessel, at that stormy period of the year, four men would venture on a voyage so dangerous? What is more common than a trading voyage along the coast? What more reasonable to suppose than that a small farmer with a taste for sailing and boating should carry on such a trade? At least, gentlemen, till the contrary is proved, you have no right to suppose that the object of keeping the Dancing Polly was a criminal one."

Daniel Gulliver, he went on to say, was accompanied by the two boys and a stranger. No secrecy was observed about the expedition, and some idle or malignant person, one of those creeping things which infest every society of men, thought it worth while to communicate the proposed voyage to Lieut. Pollard, that gallant officer whose discretion was not equal to his zeal, and whose eagerness to protect his majesty's revenue led him to overlook the fact that you must not arrest a man on suspicion and charge him with smuggling, unless you can prove it. "For, gentlemen," he said, "what actual proof have we? This"—he held up the half empty pint bottle of brandy—"this is the mighty proof! A small half pint of spirit, which smells to me, gentlemen"—he took out the cork and smelled it cautiously—"which smells to me, I confess, of rum, rather than of brandy—is all the proof, absolutely the only proof, that we have. In the dead of a dark night, a man, whose object is theft, hurriedly steals this spirit from the hold of the vessel, and swears that he saw other kegs, the contents of which are unknown. The place is most retired and secluded. They carry off their prisoners, the officer never once thinking of examining the boat. When they send back for that purpose there is nothing at all in the boat. Mind, gentlemen, no one had been there. Yet the boat was in ballast. That is a very remarkable circumstance. That is a very suspicious circumstance. That is a circumstance which in my mind renders entirely valueless the evidence of the man—the chief witness—whose only value was that it seemed to afford a basis for assumption of guilt. Remember, gentlemen, again, that the only proof of guilt is a half pint of rum, or some such spirit, in a bottle—a half pint—about enough to amuse a gentleman between a bottle of port and bedtime; and on that half pint you are asked to convict this honest, religious and God fearing yeoman, with his two innocent boys, and a young man of whom no harm whatever is known, and therefore none should be suspected."

When all this was done the judge summed up. It was most unfortunate for us that his gout rendered him ill tempered and sour. He went through the evidence bit by bit, pointed out how simple it was, how clearly an act of smuggling was proved, and showed them that they ought to consider not the amount smuggled but the intention. As for the prisoners, the judge said he had no doubt about their being all habitual criminals. As for the rest of the cargo, the judge said he had no doubt whatever that it was composed of French brandy.

The jury were dismissed; they were away for five minutes only; they came back with a unanimous verdict:

"Guilty, but recommended to mercy on the ground of the elder prisoner's otherwise good character and the youth of the others."

"Prisoners at the bar," said the judge, "you have heard the verdict of the jury. With that verdict I entirely agree. Have you anything further to say?"

Dan cleared his throat and spoke.

"Only that your lordship was quite right," he said. "There was brandy in them kegs. That is all."

There was a general laugh, and even the judge smiled austerely.

"I am glad that you admit your guilt. You are recommended to mercy. Under other circumstances I should have inflicted the full penalty of seven years' penal servitude. But I am instructed from another and higher quarter that you, Daniel Gulliver, have conferred a service which may be of importance to the country. In return for this, you and your party will experience the king's elemency. I am also anxious to take into account the good character which you have received from your rector and others. If I could believe that this run of yours was a solitary venture I would have inflicted a nominal sentence upon you. But it was not. You know that you have been systematically engaged in breaking the law. You have brought up your sons in your own footsteps. The laws of England must not be broken with impunity. The sentence of the court, therefore, is, that you and your two sons, and the fourth prisoner, William Campion, do serve his majesty on board the royal fleet for the space of three years. During that time you will not be debarred from receiving such pay, rewards, prize money and promotions as may be considered your just due. The Dancing Polly is, of course, the prize of Capt. Pollard."

Dan looked at Will, not at his two sons, as if to see what he thought of it. Will put up his finger as if enjoining silence.

"We thank your lordship," Dan said. "God save the king!"

He stooped over the dock to kiss me.

"Remember the hearthstone, my pretty," he whispered, "and keep up your heart and wait for us in patience. We shall come home again. The Lord bless thee!"

But it was Will who held me tightest.

"Be patient, dear," he whispered, "patient and true. Goodby!"

Then they removed the prisoners, and Mr. Copas took me out of the court.

Next day he sent me in a carriage back to Lyme.

It was in the evening that I arrived. Joshua Meech was in the street. He was dressed in black, and had evidently just come out of his meeting house, so that he was playing his third part.

WARSAW'S FAIR.

A Good Attendance—Art and Agriculture —Speeding in the Ring.

The annual fall show under the auspices of the Dummer and Douro Agricultural Society was held at Warsaw on Monday. The weather was threatening in the morning, but it turned out bright in the afternoon and with it a large number of people.

The produce usually classed as inside exhibits was shown in the Society's Hall. The live stock was shown in a field on Mr. Sidney Payne's farm. The feature attracting the most interest was the special trot. A "field" of six or seven fliers were drawn up. The judges did not keep the people waiting for scoring. They saw that the horses were even and gave the word. The "field" galloped to secure the pole and the crowd had any amount of fun. Ray's horse outstripped all competitors, winning every heat.

The judges in the various classes were:—For ladies' work, Mrs. J. R. Stratton; for cheese and dairy produce, Messrs. Wasson and Wilson; for domestic manufactures, Mr. John Wasson, jr.; for sheep and pigs, Messrs. Blezard and Cameron; for horses, Messrs. Geo. McIlmoyle and J. Garbutt; for implements, Messrs. D. Smith and H. Nelson; for roots and vegetables, Messrs. Smith and Nelson; for poultry, Mr. Blezard.

NOTES.

Mr. C. C. McDonald, of Peterborough, representing the Chatham fanning-mills, was on the grounds. He gave practical tests of the powers of his machines.

Mr. H. Owens, the well-known pump-maker, had a representative on the grounds showing his pumps.

Mr. J. Sullivan, one of the first presidents of the society, was present. He says that of the first Board of Direstors he is about the only one left.

The proceedings were concluded by two grand balls held in the evening. Dancing was indulged in till a late hour.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air-passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. T. V. C.

The Belleville Ontario shows its appreciation of the Trent Valley Canal in an editorial paragraph, as follows:—"The Trent Valley Canal scheme is even older by some years than the Toronto waterworks investigation. Over half a million has been expended on portions of the route, and the outlay of a couple of millions more would complete the short-line water route from the Georgian Bay to the Bay of Quinte. Were this route completed, grain from Chicago, Duluth and Port Arthur could be carried in bulk in boats and barges to Montreal."

LINES ON VISITING PETERBOROUGH IN 1887.

BY ALEX. GRAHAM.

The changes that have come
Are marvellous to see.
Where wild beasts used to roam,
By the Otonabee,

Dear Peterborough stand,
A town of noted fame.
Few places in the land
Have grown so quick. The same

Goods there of every kind,
And trades of every name.
M.P.'s there, too, designed
Good laws for to sustain,

The river water power.
With it some have done great;
Still there is room for more
To come and speculate.

Travellers that view it own,
And oft are heard declare,
For beauty as a town
Few with it can compare.

Advantages so fair,
Progress it must, and thrive.
Cars running daily there
Keep business men alive.

A city 'twill soon be;
Few with it will contrast,
With this all must agree,
For it is growing fast.

The Gospel trump is there,
Sounding out loud and clear.
Foul wickedness it dare
Not openly appear.

The Scott Act, too, in force,
Keeping the traffic down
That's proved to be a source
That's ruined many a one.

Then from it banished be
What bringeth grief and sorrow,
That peace may reign in thee,
O town of Peterborough.

Academy of Music.

The following is clipped from a Montreal exchange:—Boucicault's "Life of an Actress" was given by Miss St. John and her company last night and the performance was fairly well received. The chief characters were G. M. Wood as Grimaldi, the old French actor, and Miss St. John as Violet, the street singer, who ultimately developed stellar brilliancy. Mr. Wood did as well as his former performances warranted and the transitions from humor to pathos, even though in broken English, were well marked. Miss St. John as Violet was as pleasing as before, and in the last act displayed considerable emotional power. The woeshot of Mr. W. H. Rignold was not deficient in humor. Miss Ruth Rose, as Julia, the jealous actress, showed some ability, and the rest of the company gave a fine measure of support. 'The Loan of a Lover' concluded the evening's entertainment. To-night, for the first time on our stage, 'As in a Looking Glass,' a dramatic version of Phillip's popular novel of that name, will be produced. The character of Lena Despard is a trying one for any actress, and if Miss St. John can, on her first rendition of this character, score a success, she will prove herself an actress of the highest rank. The novel has been widely read throughout England and this continent, and perhaps is as popular as any of recent publication."

WHY DO PEOPLE DROWN?

A Well Known English Swimmer Explains the Science of Floating.

"I suppose," I remarked to Mr. Johnson, the well known swimmer, "that such a cork as yourself cannot quite understand how a person sinks." "Oh, yes, but I can. It is only such as myself, who study the science of floating, that can understand the mystery of sinking. A swimmer becomes a swimmer by endeavoring to find out, not so much how to swim, as how not to sink. Man or woman can float—there is no exception. The big secret is knowing how, and being self possessed enough—that is, in cases of emergency—to take advantage of one's knowledge. But directly the boat capsizes, or the canal bank subsides, or the sands shift, or the deep part of the river uncomfortably asserts itself, the ignorant mortal (ignorant of how to use his powers of buoyancy) sets about to sink himself."

"Sinks himself, Mr. Johnson?" I observed, dubiously. "Yes, sinks himself. Up go his hands, and down he sinks like a flagstone. Of the ten thousand and one frenzied actions in which a drowning man indulges not one is there that lends a tittle of buoyancy. In the first place, he clutches at the proverbial straw, and there is no surer way of sinking one's self than by thrusting the hands out of the water. The consequent lurch of the body strikes fatal terror in the man's heart, he struggles spasmodically, and then, bereft as he is of all consciousness, vanishes to his doom. Take, as an instance, the yachting accident off Ilfracombe the other day. A jovial party set sail in a crazy fishing smack, and an extra capful of wind upset her. Instantly there was chaos and confusion, as is always the case, and fourteen luckless souls drowned themselves. It is simply suicidal for a non-swimmer to risk his life in an uncertain craft."

"Suppose, then, Mr. Johnson, that you and I are cruising. The boat has capsized; we are in the water. What am I, a non-swimmer, to do?" "If there is anything floating catch at it steadily. The least particle will support you. This beading [which was no more than an inch square] would keep your head above water. But if there is nothing at all within reach this is what you should do." At this juncture Mr. Johnson sprang to his feet. Throwing back his head, and placing both hands in the small of his back, his form assumed a slanting position. "So long as you remained as I am now, so long would you float."

"Then it is not necessary for the requirements of floating that one's toes should be level with his nose?" "Not in the least. The mode of floating in a moment of emergency is as I have just illustrated—or, at least, my experience tells me that it is the safest and the easiest. It would be an inconsiderable matter for people to familiarize themselves with the principles of floating, and a simple acquaintance with the subject might prove to be of life long service. To be of any real service, swimming must be studied to perfection. A man or woman is termed a good swimmer (and the man or woman comes to think so too) who can manage, say, a score lengths of a bath twenty yards long. Here the water is tepid and smooth, but it is different at sea. How many yards would that same swimmer traverse in troublous waters? But the chances are that he could float till rescued, which is always the end sought after."—Pall Mall Gazette.

How "Dixie" Came to be Written.

It was on a Saturday night in 1859, when Dan Emmett was a member of Bryant's minstrels in New York, that Dan Bryant came to Emmett and said: "Dan, can't you get up a walk around? I want something new and lively for Monday night." At that date all minstrel shows used to wind up with a walk around. The demand for them was constant, and Emmett was the composer of all of them for Bryant's minstrels. Emmett, of course, went to work, but he had done so much in that line that nothing at first presented itself that he liked. At last he hit upon the first two bars, and any composer can tell how good a start that is in the manufacture of a tune. By Sunday afternoon he had the words, commencing "I wish I was in Dixie."

The colloquial expression is not, as most people suppose, a southern phrase, but first appeared among the circus men in the north. In early fall, when nipping frosts would overtake the tented wanderers, the boys would think of the genial warmth of the section they were heading for, and the common expression would be: "Well, I wish I was in Dixie." This gave the catch line; the rest of the song was original. On Monday morning the song was rehearsed and highly commended, and at night a crowded house came to hear the refrain, and half of the auditors went home singing "Dixie." The song became the rage, and Newcomb's, the Buckleys' and other minstrel parties gave Emmett five dollars for the privilege of using it. Mr. Werlein, of New Orleans, wrote to Emmett to secure the copyright, but without waiting for an answer published it, with words by a Mr. Peters. Pond, of New York, secured it from Emmett, and gave him $600, but Werlein sold thousands of copies without giving Dan a nickle. Not only was Emmett robbed of the profits of his song, but the authorship of it was disputed. Pond brought the matter before a music publishers' convention and settled the question of authorship, but Dan reaped no benefit from this tardy justice. Emmett got into trouble about his song during the war. It was considered a rebel song, and a sapient editor in Maine declared that Dan was a secessionist, and that he should be treated as one, although the song was written two years before the commencement of the rebellion.—Professor Kane in Baltimore American.

Codfish Cakes and Molasses.

A tall and stout visitor to the Astor house rotunda ordered codfish cakes, and placidly instructed the waiter that he wanted some molasses. He was particular to state that he didn't want sugar or maple syrup—he wanted molasses. He poured the molasses over the fish cakes, and seemed to relish them. "Oh, that's nothing," remarked the waiter to another visitor, "one of our patrons is stuck on sardines and ice cream, and another insists on a thin layer of English mustard on his pumpkin pie!"—New York Sun.

IMPERIAL FEDERATION LEAGUE.

A Discussion on Trade and Other Important Relations.

The Peterborough branch of the Imperial Federation League held its monthly meeting in the Foresters' Hall on Wednesday. Mr. J. H. Long, the President, was in the chair, and quickly dispatched the routine business. Mr. Minore acted as secretary.

Mr. TOKER read a paper as to unfounded objections raised against the League and explaining its policy as to the three questions of trade relations, expenditure for imperial objects and control of imperial matters. He gave a summary of Mr. Macfarlane's proposal to levy in all parts of the Empire an additional five per cent. discriminating duty on foreign imports.

Mr. HILLIARD discussed some of the points in this paper, and gave information as to the world's greatly increased supply of wheat, arguing that as the profits of wheat growing must decrease, it would be folly for us to act against, instead of in favour of, the best market for our surplus breadstuffs.

Mr. LONG read interesting statistics as to the increase of British trade with the colonies and the decrease of its trade with competitive manufacturing countries, and advanced other reasons in favour of inter-imperial trade. He elucidated various other points in the policy of the I.F.L., and reiterated the fact that it was non-political, many of the most prominent officers and members, including the President, Lord Rosebery, being Liberals.

Mr. MINORE showed from statistics the decreased consumption of wheat per head and urged the necessity of preserving our great market for it, and of adopting more varied cultivation.

Mr. LAW described from experience the small cost of growing wheat in India, the wages for a month being little more than for a day in Canada. Manufacturing and the consumption of our own produce was our true policy. He told how iron ore was brought long distances to the furnaces of Great Britain and, the United States, and showed that it would be just as feasible to import coal and manufacture iron in Ontario.

Mr. TOKER spoke of the feeling in Australia in favour of trade with Canada that had been aroused by the proposed subsidised line of steamers, a result of the recent Colonial Conference which had itself sprung from the action of the I. F. L. He also alluded to the news of the proposed unrestricted free trade between the Australian Colonies and their early confederation, another step towards the unity of the Empire.

Mr. BRUNDRETTE, Mr. FOOTE and others continued the discussion on the same and kindred subjects, the whole evening's debate beign both interesting and instructive.

POTICE COURT.

SCOTT ACT.

THURSDAY.—His Worship, after a year and a half's practice, has attained a great facility in disposing of Scott Act cases. This morning he imposed fines at the rate of $60 a minute. A lease was produced in one case but His Worship sized it up at once. "None of that kind of shuffling," he said, and Mr. Leonard placed the lease in his inside coat pocket. The cases were:—Cochrane vs. May, $50 and costs; Cochrane vs. Mitchell, $100 and costs; Cochrane vs. Connors, $100 and costs; Cochrane vs. Bowman, $50 and costs. Mr. R. E. Wood appeared for the prosecution. Mr. Stratton appeared for Mr. May and Mr. Leonard for Mr. Bowman.

THE EAST RIDING FAIR

A SUCCESSFUL EXHIBITION HELD AT NORWOOD.

The New Buildings of the Society—Well Filled Departments at the Show—List of Successful Competitors.

The annual autumn exhibition of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society was held in Norwood on Tuesday and Wednesday.

THE BUILDINGS.

This fair has heretofore been a perambulatory show, and has been held at Norwood, Keene and Warsaw, but the Society has located it permanently at Norwood and new buildings have been erected for its accommodation. The main building is constructed in the shape of an L and is one hundred feet long by twenty-six wide. It is painted a durable red. Inside there is as a countrepiece the whole length of the building a rack for displaying home manufactures, the lower part being used for vegetables. On one side there is a shelf, guarded by an open fence, for showing garden vegetables, fruit, etc. On the opposite side the grain was exhibited. In addition to the main building a neat office has been built, where the efficient secretary, Mr. W. E. Roxburgh, transacts his business. The grounds are spacious, and having the building within them is an advantage, but it will have to be enlarged and the Directors are considering increasing its capacity for the next fair.

THE INSIDE DEPARTMENTS.

The entries for the inside departments were made on the first day and in the evening the display was opened to the public. There was a large attendance. The exhibit of grain included fine samples of cereals. Large roots and vegetables, especially for this season, were shown, and there was a good collection of fruit. The display of ladies' work was a large one and showed deftness and taste on the part of the lady exhibitors. In home manufactures there were good exhibits of various kinds. The fine arts were represented by oil paintings and pencil drawing. Mr. J. S. Patterson had on exhibition a meritorious collection of turned work, which attracted considerable attention. Mr. J. W. Crosby, of Peterborough, was present with two Uxbridge organs, and Mr. H. Laishley exhibited two Singer sewing machines.

OUTSIDE DEPARTMENTS.

The principal attraction outside was the show of horses, which was a good one. Of cattle there were fine specimens of Durham, Ayrshire, Holsteins and grade. There were about twenty pens of good sheep, and a number of good porkers. The poultry exhibit was one of the best—or the best—ever shown at this fair and would do credit to more pretensious exhibitions.

Messrs. J. Finlay & Son, of Norwood, showed a collection of bent work and hubs from their factory, the hubs being of slippery elm and nicely finished, and the bent work of excellent workmanship.

Mr. W. Forsyth, of Peterborough, had on the ground two Champion bagger fanning mills—an excellent machine with a labour saving contrivance for bagging the cleaned grain—and a couple of his well-known I. X. L. fanning mills.

Mr. Henry Owens, of Peterborough, had samples of his model force and lift pump, a pump that is popular and the advantages of which were pointed out. Messrs. H. Owens and C. C. McDonald showed three fanning mills of the Chatham manufacture, for which they are agents, and which take well with the agriculturists.

Messrs. Wright & Payton, of Peterborough, displayed a collection of pumps of their manufacture, which have an easily adjusted connection for hose.

Mr. W. H. Stacey, the Norwood pump manufacturer showed a collection of his make of these articles.

Mr. P. W. Stevenson, of Norwood, had a collection of implements of the Brantford make, including a binder, reaper, mower, seeder, horse rake, cultivator and harrow.

Messrs. Mark Curtis & Sons, of Peterborough, showed a collection of tile drain of their manufacture.

NOTES.

The number of entries was about the same as at last year's fair, the number then being 300 in excess of any previous year.

The attendance on the second day was unusually large. The amount taken at the gate was $517, and between 2,500 and 3,000 people passed through the entrances.

The Norwood band was present and enlivened the proceedings with music.

The ladies of the Church of England congregation had a dining tent on the ground—a welcome innovation.

The exhibition was one of the most successful ever held by the Society. Considering both the exhibits and attendance it was probably the best ever held under its auspices.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

INVITED TO DUBLIN.

DUBLIN, Oct. 12.—The Irish Loyalists of Dublin have invited Lord Hartington to attend a banquet in November. Lord Hartington will go if the request is supported by sufficient representative strength.

NO CHANCE OF REUNION.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Speaking at Belfast yesterday, Mr. Chamberlain said he feared it would be impossible now to effect a union of the Liberals. He referred at length to the rights of the minority, and claimed that Ulster was the centre of intelligence of the country.

THE MOROCCO QUESTION.

MADRID, Oct 12—France and Italy have accepted Spain's invitation to hold a conference in Madrid on the Morocco question. It is expected England will participate.

CONCENTRATING TROOPS.

TOULON, Oct. 12.—It is reported that 5000 troops will be concentrated here and be held in readiness for immediate action in case events in Morocco render their services necessary.

ALMOST A REVOLT.

SOFIA, Oct. 12.—A riot that almost culminated in a revolt occurred at Ritlevitza on Sunday. A newly arrived Russian priest led a party of peasants in an attack upon the Government officers. The gendarmes fired upon the mob, but it was found necessary to call out a body of cavalry to disperse the rioters. Many were injured.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S RECEPTION.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Mr. Chamberlain's reception at the hands of the Belfast Orangemen was an enormous affair. Mr. Jessie Collings and Sir William Thomson, the electrician, who were with Mr. Chamberlain, shared the honors bestowed upon the Radical leaders, but it was Mr. Chamberlain's prominence that brought them into notice rather than any importance attaching to themselves.

CRIME IN IRELAND.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—At the Killarney quarter session, yesterday, the docket showed that only two of the large number of cases were wholly non-political, the entire batch with these exceptions, relating to violations of the Crimes Act. The judge expressed himself as pleased to note that ordinary crimes had been almost totally abandoned, but grieved to see that the people had set themselves against a single law.

THE IRISH PROSECUTIONS.

The Attorney-General for Ireland Censured for his Conduct of the Sullivan Case.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Mr. Balfour will return to Dublin on Monday. Supporters of the ministry censure Mr. O'Brien, the Attorney-General for Ireland, claiming that it was blundering that caused the failure of the prosecution in the case of Lord Mayor Sullivan. It is probable Mr. O'Brien may be forced to resign. The bearing of the appeal in the case of Lord Mayor Sullivan, will not take place until the end of November. Until then the Irish executive will be powerless to interfere with the proclaimed branches of the League. The League Counsel has discovered a serious flaw in the Mitchellstown decisions against William O'Brien, in fact that court pronounced sentence on two charges, on only one of which Mr. O'Brien was tried. It is said an appeal would be certain to result in the quashing of the sentence, thus making greater the defeat of the prosecution.

THE MARQUIS OF AILESBURY,

Not to be Ruled off English Race Courses Without a Struggle.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The Marquis of Ailesbury submitted the Jockey Club's decision to the Attorney-General, and, acting on the latter's opinion, he has instructed his lawyers to ask the Chancery Court for an injunction suspending the notice warning him off English race courses as a preliminary to further action against the stewards of the club. The defence of the Marquis is that he did not instruct Jockey Martin to pull his horse, and he offers to bring witnesses to show that Martin's evidence is false.

FIRE IN AN ASYLUM.

Six Women Perish and Three Other Inmates Injured.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12,—About 350 of the more manageable patients in the great insane asylum were given the weekly dance to-night, and while the festivities were going on fire broke out. Six insane women met death by asphyxia and burning and three were injured.

Scott Act Repeal Agitation.

KINGSTON, Oct. 12.—The petition for the repeal of the Scott Act in Renfrew County has been held at Pembroke. The number of signatures is calculated at 2,600 and the temperance people have decided to raise $1,000 by subscription as an "anti-repeal fund." A good portion of the amount has already been subscribed. Part of this fund will be devoted to doing what the Alliance consider that they ought not but the Government thought to do, viz, enforcing the Scott Act by the employment of special officers. It was decided to hold public meetings throughout the county before the vote.

Destroyed by a Storm.

NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 12.—One of the most disastrous storms ever known on the southern coast of Mexico occurred on Oct. 7 and 8. The town of Quelito, a town of not more than 8000 people, was totally destroyed and many lives were lost. Telegrams give accounts of most affecting scenes. No details are obtainable. It is supposed there were a number of wrecks in the gulf. The entire coffee and orange crops in Simola were destroyed.

All the latest novelties of cloth, are to be found in TURNBULL'S dress goods department. Miss Johnston cuts and fits quickly, so that ladies from a distance can go home on the evening trains.

The Daily Review

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1887.

U. S. HOGS AND ANNEXATION.

CINCINNATI is the first inland city of the United States that has pronounced in favour of Commercial Annexation. Messrs. Wiman and Butterworth have been addressing the Board of Trade there and have obtained a vote in favour of their agitation. In his choice of the locality for his first attempt in the interior of the United States, Mr. Wiman has displayed that shrewdness and cunning of the Wall Street order that enabled him successfully to outwit Vanderbilt in the Staten Island monopoly, and to gobble up Canadian telegraph companies for the great ring in which he is Gould's lieutenant. He could not have chosen a more favourable point at which to begin his campaign. Cincinnati is necessarily in favour of the Commercial Annexation of Canada for it means a great pecuniary advantage for it at our cost. As is well known Cincinnati is one of the greatest centres of the United States for hogs. In their market hogs are worth far less than in ours. With the Canadian duty removed Cincinnati would be able to fill our market with cheap hog products. This would be very convenient for Cincinnati hog packers, but how would it suit Canadian farmers? How would the farmers of Peterborough county like being told by Messrs. Matthews that they could no longer give the present satisfactory price for hogs because they had to compete with the Cincinnati hog packers. It is all very well for Cincinnati and Mr. Wiman, but Peterborough farmers cannot have any very eager craving for Commercial Annexation and the Cincinnati hog.

THE Winnipeg Board of Trade has put forth a reply to Sir G Stephen on the railway matter, but it calls for no detailed comment as it is mainly a reputation of the delusive arguments, mistatements and comparisons of dissimilar thing with which the anti-Canadian press has already deluged us. The main contention of the pamphlet is that as the Dominion Parliament did not exceed its constitutional powers, Canada has no right to prevent its general policy being nullified by one of its provinces. By some inadvertence the pamphlet plainly admits that the connection intended is with the Northern Pacific railway of the United States, thus disclosing the falsehood of some of the agitators in Eastern Canada, who pretend that it is the Grand Trunk railway that is being excluded from competition by the disallowance of the Red River Valley line. The pamphlet does not contain one argument in favour of Grand Trunk or other Canadian competition, but is all for the United States.

THE Commercial Annexationists profess to have an enormous majority of the people of Canada with them. Let them try it in Haldimand. There will be a by election there before long and they might see if they can influence the electors by appealing to them in favour of giving Canadian territorial rights valued at $500,000 a year to the people of the United States to induce them to close by their competition some of our Canadian factories, thus restricting the home market of our Canadian farmers. Let them also say that they propose to admit goods from the United States free, while imposing heavy duties on imports from other parts of the British Empire. The result will show whether their boasts of popular support are well founded.

In an attack upon the Canadian constitution for giving the Dominion a veto power over provincial legislation, and thus preventing Canada from sinking into the state of chaos that prevailed in the United States under the first constitution, the Ottawa Free Press says:—

"The Reform government while in power in the Dominion never disallowed a provincial act the subject matter of which came within the jurisdiction of the legislature passing it.

This is utterly and notoriously untrue. The Reform government often interfered with Provincial legislation for any reason that it deemed ufficient, sometimes by direct disallowance and sometimes by threatening it if the measure were not repealed or amended within the year during which the veto power might be exercised.

LEADING journals of the United States are denouncing Jay Gould's fresh step in creating telegraphic monopoly by the absorption of his only important remaining competitor the Baltimore and Ohio Telegraph Company. They say that the only remedy appears to be for the Government to construct telegraphic lines. In this ring Mr. Wiman is Mr. Gould's right hand man, and he is the head of the subsidiary telegraph monopoly in Canada, formed in the same way by wrecking and absorbing rival lines. Yet this is the man we are asked to take as an adviser in selling our birthright for less than a mess of pottage.

The Montreal Times says:—

"The Ogilvie Milling Company will shortly send another large shipment to the Orient—this time to Hong Kong. The Manitoba millers are gradually beginning to push Minneapolis in foreign markets."

Yet the Canadian advocates of the United States are urging us to cripple as much as possible the great transcontinental railway that is thus benefitting Manitoba, to give free access to Minneapolis flour thus reducing the price of wheat in Manitoba to the level of Dakota and Minnesota, and to discriminate against trade with the consumers of flour in favour of trade with a country which has a large surplus of bread stuffs to export.

Many forget that the hair and scalp need cleansing. Extensive use of Ayer's Hair Vigor has proven that it is the best cleansing agent for the hair—that it prevents dandruff and stimulates the hair to renewed growth.

THE WAR CLOUD BUSTED!

Victory has Perched on the Banner of PETERBOROUGH'S GREAT CHEAPSIDE.

And SHEPPARD, by common consent, will get $1,000 for being the Cheapest Clothier in Peterborough, having knocked the Wonderful Cheap Man completely out. "Business is business; dirt is dirt, and when it comes to throwing dirt, then count" the only original teddy out, and he will hand over that $1,000 like a little man, for the following reasons:—

SHEPPARD sells a full size Man's suit for $2.95, and better goods than a suit to fit a child about nine years old sold by the Wonderful Cheap Man on Saturday for $3.00; but marked $3.50. This is how it was.—A lady purchased a child's suit on Saturday last, Sept. 17th, 1887, at the store of the Wonderful Cheap Man. It was marked thusly:—Lot 5375, Breast 27, Waist 26½, Age 9, Price $3.50. It was pure shoddy being held together by cotton threads, and Sheppard is free to say that that was the dearest suit sold in the Town of Peterborough for the last two years. Full particulars are given because of the $1,000 involved, and, further, that this decides who is selling the Cheapest Clothing in Peterborough. SHEPPARD would have sold that lady a suit, pure wool, for that money, and worth two of the one she got.

$1,000 to Go to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

I had first decided to give the agencies a chance of jumping up my rating that $1,000, but after considering the matter and finding that never in any case have I been asked for an endorser to my paper, and that no relative or any other persons have ever endorsed my paper to the extent of one cent, I have come to the conclusion my credit is as good as yours, and will ask you to hand over the $1,000 to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

Now, Sir, there is a good story told, the truth of which can be vouched for, but for the honor of at least making an effort to keep up your self-styled name—The Terror of High Priced Clothiers—do not allow the same to be said of you in the case above. A man purchased a suit for $15.00 at the store of one of the largest advertisers in that section of country. It was guaranteed pure wool; but after examining it carefully at home, he came to the conclusion that he had been dealing with some one sharper than himself. Finding a make of wool, differing some from anything he had ever seen, it dawned upon him that he had heard of wool of that kind, so the suit was returned. The merchant bet $25.00 that it was all wool, and the bet was accepted, the decision being left to a neighboring merchant. He found that the $15.00 suit was wool faced and shoddy back, pure unadulterated shoddy; but what of the $25.00 bet? was it paid? Not much—muchly—as it were.

A Famous Doctor

Once said that the secret of good health consisted in keeping the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open. Had this eminent physician lived in our day, and known the merits of Ayer's Pills as an aperient, he would certainly have recommended them, as so many of his distinguished successors are doing.

The celebrated Dr. Farnsworth, of Norwich, Conn., recommends Ayer's Pills as the best of all remedies for "Intermittent Fevers."

Dr. I. E. Fowler, of Bridgeport, Conn., says: "Ayer's Pills are highly and universally spoken of by the people about here. I make daily use of them in my practice."

Dr. Mayhew, of New Bedford, Mass., says: "Having prescribed many thousands of Ayer's Pills, in my practice, I can unhesitatingly pronounce them the best cathartic in use."

The Massachusetts State Assayer, Dr. A. A. Hayes, certifies: "I have made a careful analysis of Ayer's Pills. They contain the active principles of well-known drugs, isolated from inert matter, which plan is, chemically speaking, of great importance to their usefulness. It insures activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. Ayer's Pills contain no metallic or mineral substance, but the virtues of vegetable remedies in skillful combination."

ALL THE WORLD AT WAR.

By WALTER BESANT.

"Dispensations!" he groaned, raising up both his hands. "Oh, Pleasance, let us kiss the rod! Three years aboard the royal fleet! What a sentence for a young gentleman! Ropes-ends and cat-o'-nine-tails, with salt junk! 'Tis the chastisement of Providence."

"Do not come near me, Joshua!" I said, fiercely, thinking of his last visit to me. "For three years I shall see no one."

"Grievous, grievous dispensations!" he replied, holding up both hands and shaking his head. But there was the joy of revenge in his eyes. He was glad that my Will was out of the way for three years.

CHAPTER V.

FEMINA BURNS.

For two days I sat at home or walked about the Holmbush fields brooding. The Dancing Polly was gone; she was the prize of the revenue people. They had not taken my little boat. I might, as of old, put out to sea and dream no longer of the future, but of the golden past, on the gentle bosom of the channel. And of course there was the Chace Mary, which was no good to me.

Forty-eight hours' struggle through the depths of despair brought me to the goal of resignation which all women after such mental conflicts reach. Then I began to look about for some way of passing the time.

Isaac Agus and his wife would carry on the farm. The produce of the farm—it was not very much—would suffice to keep him, his wife and myself. That I soon argued out and represented to the old laborer, who was hard of comprehension, but managed to understand at length that he was to be sole responsible manager for three years.

This settled, I began to think about the very remarkable and rapid clearance of the cargo.

Of course, it must have been Joshua whose step I heard in the bay; it must have been Joshua come down to lend a hand; it must have been Joshua who cleared the hold; no one else could have done it.

Where had he put the cargo?

The arrest took place at 4 in the morning. When the revenue men came back to look for their prize it must have been past 8. Four hours to move fifty or sixty kegs of brandy, each holding four gallons or so.

For one man, single-handed, that is a heavy job. It would not be possible to carry the kegs very far.

Now, we had half a dozen places known only to ourselves, in which we could stow our merchandise. They were scattered about in the Undercliff. Some were a good half-mile from the bay, one or two quite close. Joshua, I thought, would take the nearest of all. This was a place lying quite close to the path from the bay to the farm. To reach it you scramble over a sloping ledge of loose stones, and you passed by what seemed to be a tangled heap of brambles. If you got to the back of the bushes you saw that they covered over a natural hollow, a sort of punch bowl, which made the most admirable cellar in the world, especially in summer when the leaves were thick.

I went straight to the spot and pulled aside the branches. Below me, to my great joy I discovered the whole of the Dancing Polly's last run.

Joshua had put it there—careful Joshua! He had not ventured yet to sell any of it—prudent Joshua! No doubt he would account to Dan on his return for his share of the money—righteous Joshua!

Anyhow, whether Joshua did this thing with a view to his own interest only, or not, it was pluckily done, and well done.

Womanlike, I had found a secret, and I rejoiced. Who could have laid the information? No one but ourselves—of whom Joshua was one—knew. Now, much as I dreaded the man for his violence and masterfulness, I never for one moment suspected Joshua of this villainy.

The day after I made this discovery, there came to Rousdon bay the young fellow belonging to Capt. Pollard's company, of whom I have already spoken—John Beer.

He was a good natured lad, and had never ceased to regret the part he played in the case. He found me sitting in the porch looking sadly out to sea, and he sat down, kindly saying nothing for awhile. That was good of him.

"What is it you want with me, John Beer?"

"Nothing," he said.

Then there was no need for me to say anything, so I went on with my meditations, which were gloomy enough.

"The captain did say," he presently went on, "he did say that I might come over here and find out something about the cargo, if I could; and he did say, too, that he hoped you wouldn't fret and grizzle, because there's more comes back than you'd think, and it is only for three years. Lord! what's three years to a chap? Next door to nothing—and good fun all the time knocking over the Frenchmen like ninepins."

I made no reply.

"About the cargo, Pleasance. It's a sad loss to us, is that brandy?"

"Yes," I said; "I am very glad you haven't got it."

"Of course you know where it is," he went on, with a meaning smile. "Everybody knows that you were in all the secrets. The captain he says that if you weren't the prettiest girl in all Dorsetshire he'd have put you in the dock alongside of the rest."

"If I did know where it is," I said, "I should not tell you. Look for it and find it if you can."

"Who could have taken it? There was only one man who knew about the run—him as gave the information; because I heard him tell the captain so. But even he would not have dared, after giving that information."

"Who was it gave the information?" I sprang to my feet, all trembling with excitement. "Who was it told you?"

"That," said the man, "is a secret."

TOWNSHIP COUNCIL.—The Harvey Council met at the Town Hall on Oct. 3rd. The members were all present. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The committee appointed to examine the cadge road from Gilmour's depot north to the boundary line, reported that they found a better site for a road than they expected, and thought that the road should be surveyed and legalized as soon as the right of way was procured from the owners of the lands. The Collector's bonds for 1887 were accepted by the Council, and the Collector's roll delivered. The collector was instructed to collect and make full returns for all the rates and taxes for the present year, not later than the 15th day of December next. The Clerk was instructed to ask Gilmour & Co. for a right of way through and across their lots in north Harvey from the depot north on the Cadge road to the boundary. Councillor Flynn was instructed to repair the burnt crossways on the government road north of Buckhorn, as soon as possible. Orders were drawn on the Treasurer as follows:—James Hicks, refund of money to John Crickmore, $4.40 for error in tax sale; James Hicks, for repairs on stone crossway in 15th concession, near John Tate's, $35 00; Andrew G. The Council adjourned to meet at the Clerk's office on the third Monday in December next.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Fish, Fish.

White Fish, Trout, Lunge and Bass at Ostrom's.

Otonabee Lodge Notice, Attention!

A special meeting of the above Lodge is called for this (Thursday, Oct. 13th), for conferring degrees, and other important business, at 7.30, p. m., sharp.

Important.

A. Clegg will show for a few days some splendid lines of Throughout and Tapestry Curtains suitable for portiers and arches, &c. All the newest colours and designs. Orders will be taken at a small advance on importers' prices. 2d88

The English Poet.

J. Dickson Morgan has been got out of town without the assistance of the Charity Committee. He left on Monday to take care of horses which were being shipped to Montreal. There he engaged to feed sheep while going across the ocean.

Now Open.

Chamberlain's oyster parlor is now open for the season. Oysters will be served at all hours in styles to suit the tastes of our patrons. After this week shell oysters will be kept constantly on hand. Porter-house steaks, chops, etc., prepared on the shortest notice. d69-tf

Is that So.

The Brockville Recorder gives us the following information, though there seems to be some mistake about it:—"Some of the papers spoke of Dr. Montague's "frank manners and superior abilities" in connection with the election trial. It turns out, according to the Hamilton Times, that Dr. Montague wrote the puff himself and it was sent all over the country to the Tory papers through the stereotype plates which they received from the World office in Toronto."

A Simple Way.

The Belleville Intelligencer says:—"Belleville has a fair once a year. Human nature is the same here as at Peterborough, but the management have a very simple way of seeing that the gates instead of holes in the ground are used to gain admittance. The grounds are large, but four men on raised platforms on the fence on either side have no difficulty in doing the work. At night four others have charge of the grounds, and it has yet to be learned that anything has been stolen."

Looking For a Location.

The Times' report of a meeting of the Port Hope Town Council contains the following:—"An overlooked communication was read from F. J. Taylor, Huntington, Quebec, asking if the town had any inducements to offer to a manufacturer. He said he was looking up a suitable locality for a works for manufacturing machines for export to England. Also for manufacturing tin, iron and galvanized wares for domestic purposes for home trade. He asked if there was any water power to be had; if there were good railway facilities, what was the rate of taxation and what the rates to the nearest port for England. Referred to the Manufactures Committee."

Threw Pepper in His Eyes.

It has transpired that on Wednesday night of last week Mr. H. Rossiter, who is employed by the Scott Act Association, was attacked on his way home. Mr. Rossiter says that he said nothing about it, hoping that if it was not made public he would be able to learn who his assailants were. While going down Stewart street that night, near the corner of Dalhousie street, two men attacked him, and one of them threw a quantity of cayenne pepper in his face, the hot powder entering his eyes. He used his club vigorously and the men made off. He fired a couple of shots after them with his revolver, but without taking effect. He then went into a house near by and washed the pepper out of his eyes. They were since next day, but no permanent injury resulted. The attack was a cowardly one, and it is to be regretted that the assailants were not recognized.

Guilty of Larceny.

The two young men, Augustus Montgomery and Elijah Windover, who were brought from the back country a few days ago by a posse of police under the charge of Acting Chief Adams on suspicion of having committed a burglary at Mr. J. M. Irwin's supply storehouse in the township of Anstruther, were conducted into the police court on Wednesday. Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, appeared for the prosecution. The charge against the prisoners was that they committed a burglary. They pleaded not guilty to burglary but pleaded guilty of larceny, stating that the place was open when they got the stuff. Mr. Bell, an employee of Mr. Irwin, testified that when he left the place it was locked up. Acting Chief Adams and Constable Cochrane were examined, stating that both of the young men had never been brought before the court on such a charge before to their knowledge and that both heretofore had good characters. The magistrate asked if the property produced was the property they had stolen. The prisoners answered that it was. The magistrate then ordered that the three bags and a half of pork, three pairs of horse blankets and one pair of snow shoes be restored to Mr. Irwin. The prisoners were remanded for one week.

Personal.

Miss Johnston, late dress-maker for R Walker & Sons, Toronto, has come to Peterborough and taken charge of TURNBULL'S Dress making. She will, no doubt, prove a valuable acquisition to Peterborough citizens, and make TURNBULL'S the favorite resort for fashionable Dress making.

Mr. Arch. Macdonald has returned from Boston where he has been applying himself to voice culture for the past eighteen months. His return was necessitated by sickness which caused a suppression of vocal powers. He studied at the New England Conservatory for a time and was under instruction from a well known master outside of the Conservatory. It will be some time before he will be able to return to his studies. In the meantime he will pay a visit to London, England.

The Last Pop.

As the Lindsay Gun Club could not get a team together on Tuesday to shoot Peterborough Gun Club a match and as the home team were on the ground, sides were chosen, captained by Messrs. Tivey and Strickland, with the following result:—

A Mistake.

By a mistake in copying out the list of names of prize winners at the Peterborough Exhibition from the judges books, a number of prizes for roots and vegetables were set down as being won by Mr. F. Mason. They were, however, won by Mr. Wm. White, of Lakefield.

Y. W. C. T. U.

The regular meeting of the "Y" was held on Monday evening, conducted by the First Vice-President. After Bible reading and prayer, the business of the evening was transacted. A choice programme of readings from Longfellow was presented, with notes from his life and travels.

No. 2.

Another hunting party went north at four o'clock this afternoon. It was composed of Messrs. Geo. Fitzgerald, captain, T. Rutherford, Harry Matthews, Harry Evans, Arthur Blade and R. H. Smith. They are off for a two weeks' hunt.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

OF THE PETERBOROUGH REAL ESTATE INVESTMENT CO.

The Report Brought Down by the Directors—By-law Amended—Election of Directors and Officers.

The ninth annual meeting of the shareholders of the Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company was held in the Company's office on Wednesday afternoon Therere were present: Messrs. Richard Hall, Presesident, Geo. A. Cox, Manager, W. Cluxton, C. McGill, H. Lefevre, J. R. Dundas, A. Mann,—Reid, J. Carnegie, W. H. Moore, Z. Burnham, W. Cumming, A. Hall, T. Sarginson, F. Hall, W. A. Hall W. Walsh, W. G. Ferguson, J. Burnham, Robt. Jaffrey, T. G. Hazlitt, A. P. Poussette, W. Johnston, Dr. Fife, Nathan Mann, A. L. Davis, E. W. Cox, Chas. Leonard, J. Stevenson, Robt. Howden and T. M. Grover.

The PRESIDENT, Mr. Richard Hall, took the chair at a few minutes after three o'clock.

The SECRETARY read the minutes of the last general meeting and special meeting.

The PRESIDENT submitted the following annual report of the Directors:—

1. The Directors sumit herewith the usual Annual Statement of the business of the Company for the year ending the 31st May, with the Auditors' certificate appended.

2. The repayments on account of principal during the year have amounted to $228,110.66, and the new loans that have been made during the same period amount to $250,185, thus increasing the Investment Account by $22,074 34.

3. The gross interest earnings for the year was $82,926.41, and with the $311.41 at the credit of profit and loss account from the previous year amounting together to $83,237.82, has been appropriated as follows:—

| | |
|---|---|
| General Expense Account including Glasgow Agents' Commission and Debenture Expenses | $10,335 25 |
| Interest on Sterling Debentures | 47,488 14 |
| Interest on Currency Debentures | 7,330 00 |
| Dividend paid 1st June | 7,408 00 |

leaving a balance of $15,640; of this amount $15,000 has been transferred to a reserve fund, and $640 carried forward to the credit of Profit and Loss Account.

The losses that were sustained under the late Management, the necessity for transferring $74,680 from the paid up Capital in order to provide for those losses, and the consequent change of Management were all so fully discussed at the Special General Meeting of Shareholders held on the 4th May and 21st of June that it is not necessary now to repeat that discussion, further than to explain how the amount transferred from Capital has been dealt with.

The $14,107.29 that appeared in the assets last year as balance debenture expense, and the $353 69 as office furniture have both been written off. At the close of the year the real estate that had come into the company's hands through foreclosure and otherwise amounted to $67,769.02, and $11,569 58 has been written off the cost of these properties, reducing the value at which they are now held in the accounts to $56,199.44.

After deducting these three items, amounting in the aggregate to $26,005 71, from the $74,680, we have a balance of $48,674.29 at the credit of the reduced capital or contingent account to provide for losses, the extent of which are not yet fully ascertained.

The greater part, if not all, of this amount will be absorbed, as it will take about $25,000 to provide for the loss sustained through Messrs. Poussette & Roger, and the only security that we shall have against that large amount are two life assurance policies for $10,000 each, the premiums upon which the company have to pay themselves; however, the balance of the $48,674.29 will, it is believed, amply provide for all other losses.

Since the last annual meeting very satisfactory progress has been made in collecting arrears of interest, getting some of the less desirable loans paid off, getting additional security in others, and generally in getting the business of the company better in hand.

A saving in the expense of management of not less than $4,000 per year will be affected by the action (approved by the special general meeting of shareholders on the 21st June) of transferring the business of the company to the office of the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company, where the two companies so largely owned by the same proprietors may be managed by the same officers.

In addition to the annual statement, an interim statement for the four months (since the close of the year,) from the 1st June to the 30th Sept. is also submitted herewith, from which it will be seen that the subscribed capital has been increased from $1,493,600 to $2,000,000, the paid up capital from $298,720 to $324,340, and the amount invested on mortgages from $1,141,467.81 to $1,243,387.19, leaving only $21,007.61 deposited in the Ontario Bank awaiting investment.

A new code of by-laws, strictly in accordance with the statute under which the company is chartered, was prepared by James McLellan, Esq., Q.C., of Toronto, and passed by the Directors on the 14th July, and will be submitted to this meeting of the shareholders for confirmation.

Respectfully submitted on behalf of the Directors,

RICHARD HALL,
President.

Mr. POUSSETTE pointed out that the loss sustained through Messrs. Poussette & Roger was through lending on security which turned out to be bad, the loans being approved of at the time made.

The report, after some spirited discussion, was adopted.

POLICE COURT.

THE "FENCE."

FRIDAY, Oct. 14.—Acting Chief Adams and party paid another visit to the back country on Thursday in regard to the shanty burglary case. The persons of three suspected ones were secured: Jas. Montgomery, Harvey F. Windover and Ephriam Windover. This makes three Windovers and two Montgomerys now in custody. Jas. Windover is a middle aged man. He was brought before the court this morning charged with receiving stolen goods, well knowing the said goods to be feloniously stolen, taken and carried away. He pleaded not guilty, stating at the same time that he knew nothing of the reception of the goods at his house. The case was remanded till Wednesday.

BURGLARY.

Harvey T. Windover and Ephriam Windover, two young men, were charged with having broken into Mr. Irwin's supply store and with carrying off certain goods. They pleaded guilty to having taken the goods but stated that the doors of the building were open. The case was remanded till Wednesday.

ROYAL ARCANIUM.

The Secret of its Success—Explanatory Addresses.

An open meeting was held in the Foresters' Hall, George street, on Thursday evening under the auspices of the Peterborough Council of the Royal Arcanium. There was a good attendance.

The Rev. W. C. Beadshaw, Regent of the Council, occupied the chair. In his address he set forth the objects of the society in a clear and interesting manner, and also gave statistics as to what marvelous work had been done by the Royal Arcanium. He gave good reasons why joining the Royal Arcanium is a safe and cheap way of getting a moderate amount of insurance.

Bro. H. English, Grand Guide, was introduced. He said that the Royal Arcanium was organized in 1877. He asked the question "what is it?" and replied that it was an organization having for its object to unite fraternally all white men of sound bodily health and good moral character who are acceptable, between 21 and 55 years of ages (2) to give all moral and material aid in it; power to its members and those dependent upon them; (3) to educate its members socially, morally and intellectually, also to assist widows and orphans of deceased members; (4) to establish a fund for the relief of sick and distressed members; (5) to establish a widows' and orphans' benefit fund from which, upon the satisfactory evidence of the death of a member of the order who has complied with all the lawful requirements, a sum not exceeding $3,000 shall be paid to his family or those dependent upon him, or as he may direct. Though only ten years in existence it had over ten thousand subordinate councils and a membership about 80,000. He described the economical workings of the order and stated that it cost the members only thirty-five cents a year each ro have the business of the order transacted. He asked the duestion "What does it do?" answering it by stating that besides its fraternal aspect there was a practical good in the giving of $3,000 to the widow of full paying members and $1,500 to the widows of half paying members, at the death of such members. It cost only 1$ a month to a man of 21 years to have this amount of insurance. The assessments were made just in time to pay death claims so that there was no accumulation in the Treasury. During the last ten years it had paid out over $8,000,000, and not a claim had been disputed except where fraud had been practised. He would not discuss the question "Does it pay to join?" as it would be apparent to all that it would pay. The reason of their giving such cheap insurance was because they had no commissions to pay, they erected no mable palaces, they had no array of presidents and other officers to pay large salaries to.

The order was permanent, more so than insurance companies. He gave statistics showing the large number of insurance companies which had failed since 1855. No one doubted the permancy of Freemasonry. They had the fraternal benefits of Freemasonry besides this excellent plan for providing for their families. They were a large corporation doing a business of $2,000,000 a year. He addressed the brethren, giving council, and also the people who were not yet brethren.

Mr. D. W. DUMBLE thought the Royal Arcanum an excellent institution. He had no doubt of its stability and regarded its mode of government as very satisfactory. He could recommend anyone who wanted to carry more insurance at a low rate to become a member.

A short programme of music was introduced, in which Messrs. C. H. Geale, W. A. Lech and Mr. Ardagh took part. Mr. C. Brown gave two readings.

At the close of the meeting Bro. English was entertained at an oyster supper given at Long's refreshment rooms.

Nervous New Yorkers.

The Vanderbilt boys, with the exception of the poetic George, are early risers, rapid walkers and nervous in their movements. Chauncey M. Depew rushes into his office like a hurricane early in the morning and is constantly on the move until he goes home in the evening. Go into any of the resorts where prominent New Yorkers take their luncheons and you will be at once impressed with the fact of their nervous temperament. The brothers of Robert Bonner take their midday meal daily at the Astor House. The moment they drop into their seats a well trained waiter rushes out to the carving table and orders their luncheon with the supplementary remark: "It is for the Messrs. Bonner; hurry up." Robert Bonner himself is a man of slow movement compared with other New York editors. Stick a pin in him and he would probably turn about with the calmness peculiar to the old school of New Yorkers and ask what you meant. Try the same experiment with James Gordon Bennett and he would wheel about and offer to give you battle on the spot. Resort to the same artifice with Joseph Pulitzer and he would spring up with rage, turn upon you and probably knock you out in a jiffy. He is the most nervous of all New York journalists, and walks rapidly, with his broad shoulders thrown well back.—Chicago Herald.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

THE CROWN PRINCE.

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—In an interview, yesterday, Dr. Mackenzie said:—"The Crown Prince's general health is good, but, unhappily, there are certain symptoms which cause anxiety. The chronic catarrh of the laryax tends to induce acute inflammation of the windpipe. The Crown Prince had such an attack accompanied by a high fever during yesterday. The acute inflammation of the windpipe was speedily cured by treatment. The southern climate has also had a good effect, but the acute inflammation of the mucous membrane makes us fear a recurrence, in which event inflammation of the deeper lying tissues may occur, which might cause changes in those tissues." "The principal part of the doctor's work now is to prevent another attack of inflammation of the windpipe. This can only be accomplished by residence in a warmer climate, and the avoidance of conversation. It is likely that the Crown Prince will go to to San Remo or Nervi. He suffers now from obstinate chronic laryngeal catarrh."

VIENNA, Oct. 13.—Prices on the Bourse fell considerably yesterday on the report of the receipt of the unfavorable news regarding the condition of the German Crown Prince.

BRIGHT DENOUNCES GLADSTONE.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Mr. John Bright has written a letter denouncing a leaflet by Mr. Gladstone headed "Remember Mitchellstown," and signed "W. E. Gladstone." Mr. Bright says the leaflet shows the depth of the degradation to which the Liberal party has been rapidly forced by the alliance with the promoters and leaders of rebellion in Ireland. Mr. Gladstone's followers are ready to adopt and cry and charge he makes to excite the passions of ignorant men against the Government he wants to supplant, and which he is passionately labouring to succeed.

PRESIDENT GREVY DISGRSTED.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The Times Paris correspondent says the opinion prevails that President Grevy, being annoyed by the Caffarel complications, and having shortly to face a new Ministerial crisis, will resign. France will then face both a Ministerial and a Presidential crisis, of which the latter is most momentous.

PARIS, Oct. 13.—The Republic Francais urges the Government to apply vigorous military regulations to Gen. Boulanger if it is true that he accused Gen. Ferron of plotting against him. The Petit Journal raises the question of whether Gen. Boulanger ought not to be prosecuted. It is rumored that the Cabinet will to-day discuss the question whether Gen. Boulanger shall not be removed from his command for statements made by him to reporters attacking the Government.

PRESIDENT GREVY'S SON-IN-LAW.

PARIS, Oct. 13—The Procureur de la Republique yesterday asked authorization to make a formal search at the Elysee palace, in the apartments of M. Wilson, for compromising papers. M. ## POWER TO FORGIVE.

EXPLANATORY NOTES BY REV. GEO. P. HAYES, D. D., LL. D.

Lesson III of the International Series (Fourth Quarter) for Sunday, Oct. 16. Text of the Lesson, Matt. ix, 1-8—Golden Text, Matt. ix, 6.

Vs. 1, 2. Energetic faith—Christ had just returned to Capernaum from the eastern side of the lake, where he had healed the demoniac. Here in his own city his power was well known. As soon as his return was noised abroad, this man and his friends resolved to make an appeal to him.

Christ seems at first wholly to have overlooked the disease of this man's body, and to have spoken only of the disease of his soul. The attention of this man and of his friends may have been directed wholly to his physical distress. Their attention would be much more sharply directed to the spiritual benefit within their reach, by calling attention first to sin. Christ, therefore, planned this miracle, so that he could enforce this lesson both on those who were affected by this case and on the mere spectators.

Vs. 3, 4. Sin and death—The relation of sin and sickness is very close. Of course the forgiveness of sin does not now always produce physical health. But the Saviour here struck at the root of disease when he proposed to forgive sin. But for sin, sickness, disease and death would be unknown. When, therefore, Jesus said, "Thy sins be forgiven thee," he covered the whole question of the relation of sickness and suffering to moral causes.

Vs. 5, 6. Bad logic—The thoughts of the scribes are not surprising when we recollect their assumption as to Jesus' human character. Their logic, stated in full, is this: for a man to forgive sins is blasphemy; this is a mere man, therefore he blasphemeth. But this assumed as infallibly certain the very question at issue, whether this was only a mere man. Here, as is usual in false reasoning, the false premise is omitted. Jesus' question in verse 4 did two things to prove his divinity: first, it proved it by his knowledge of their thoughts; and second, its word "evil" called their attention to their mistake. What Christ meant by ease and difficulty deserves attention. That word "easier" assumes that it is but a word in either case, and forces the question of his divinity at once to the front.

It also fixes a visible test as to the result. The man's sins might be forgiven, and yet there would remain no immediate method of knowing that fact by the bodily senses. But if the man should now arise and walk, everybody could see that.

Vs. 7, 8. Momentous results—If all parties could have understood how much seemed for the moment to have been staked on this man's conduct, how they would have held their breath at the close of Jesus' last words in verse 6! Verse 7 narrates the result in the most quiet and unsurprised manner. If the Bible was not inspired, what a sensational story men would have made out of this event! The people's logic was not much better than that of the scribes. They did not deny the wonderful work, but they still omitted the argument for the divinity of Christ.

The charities now in the world are almost wholly the outcome of the Christian religion. Even when engaged in by those who are not themselves professors of evangelical Christianity, they are the result of a Christian public sentiment in the community. Temporal charity ought to accompany missionary work, but it should not be so administered as to obscure or overshadow the spiritual end involved. Christ's way was to enforce moral lessons with temporal blessings.

When this man was healed it was his duty to arise and walk (v. 7). We can conceive that the words of the Saviour to him might have accomplished in his body the cure of his disease, and yet he might have so refused to attempt to move that he would have lain there as dependent on his friends as before. When the spiritually palsied are healed by conversion, the exercise of their spiritual power is an immediate duty.

SUGGESTIVE APPLICATIONS.

V. 2. Son, be of good cheer—Sick and helpless, not able to move one's self and scarcely to be moved by healthier and stronger hands, one may feel justified in a castdown and dispirited look. There would be great need of a voice bringing good cheer to the sick and despondent. Yet this word was not what was expected by the friends; they hoped for a visible healing of the body; instead of this there was an invisible healing of the soul.

V. 4. Wherefore think ye evil in your hearts?—Jesus showed his power to forgive sins by revealing to the scribes the unspoken thoughts of their hearts. They were saying, "This man has been brought to you that his palsied body might be restored. This would be something difficult to do. The Teacher has simply said, 'Thy sins be forgiven thee,' a very easy thing compared with what the friends expected."

V. 8. The multitudes glorified God—There are many crowds of people now who marvel at what God does, but seldom get beyond that. They never go so far as to glorify God for those works which have caused them to marvel. They seem to suppose that gaping with astonishment and throwing up their hands in wonder are quite sufficient acts of worship.

HINTS FOR PRIMARY CLASSES.

Jesus did many wonderful things that no other man could ever do. He made blind people see. Poor blind men go around very carefully feeling their way with a stick, or being led by a little dog fastened to a string held by the man, or led by some person that can see. Jesus used to cure the blind with a word so that they could see perfectly.

After the storm, and after doing wonderful works on the other side of the lake, Jesus came back to Capernaum. A poor man sick of the palsy was brought to him for healing. Teachers should gather all the details of the story from Mark ii and Luke v, and then give it graphically to the children. A gentleman gave it recently to about 200 little ones under seven years of age at Mr. Spurgeon's Sunday school in London. He entered so thoroughly into the spirit of the scene that he engaged the attention of all the children, small as they were, although before he began it seemed impossible for the three ladies in charge to preserve anything like proper order. One little fellow had been running around a post in the middle of the room, while his sister ran after him to take him to his seat. At one time so many of the children beat time to the singing with their feet, that music was nearly drowned. Again the boys joined in a chorus of bleating like sheep, while all sorts of capers and antics occupied the roguish ones. When this gentleman entered, and the three unsuccessful teachers sank wearily into their seats, it took but a moment for this man, who knew how to teach, to quiet every child and secure interested attention. When he told how the four men put their shoulders under the four corners of the bed he imitated the action. When describing the crowd and the efforts of the bearers to pass through he held an imaginary conversation with the people. "Open a way there, if you please, and let us carry this poor man, sick of the palsy, in to see Jesus." The answer came back, "No use trying to get through here; we cannot move aside." Then the bearers consult, and decide to go on top of the low, flat roofed house, and remove the covering so as to let the man down from above into the court or room below. Explain the difference between those roofs and ours. He told how carefully they carried the man up the outside stairs, looking at him repeatedly to see that he did not slide or fall when the loose covering was removed and the man let down. The crowd below looked up in surprise, asking, "Why! what is that?" But Jesus knew all the time what it was, and why they were coming. Instead, however, of touching him and making him entirely well and strong at once, he said, "Son, be of good cheer; thy sins are forgiven."

Let the teacher relate the conversation that followed, the scribes only thinking their part, but Jesus, who knows the things that come into our minds, answered audibly.

It took four to bring this man to Jesus, and they persevered until every obstacle was overcome and Jesus was found.

Finish the story, but lay most stress on the forgiveness of sin. This was a greater blessing than restored health. No health, no riches, nor knowledge, nor any earthly good can be compared with the blessing of sins forgiven. Every one needs this, and Jesus promises it to young and old who repent of sin and believe on the Lord Jesus Christ.—Sunday School World.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button. It is very pleasant to taste. It smoothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

A Famous Doctor

Once said that the secret of good health consisted in keeping the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open. Had this eminent physician lived in our day, and known the merits of Ayer's Pills as an aperient, he would certainly have recommended them, as so many of his distinguished successors are doing.

The celebrated Dr. Farnsworth, of Norwich, Conn., recommends Ayer's Pills as the best of all remedies for "Intermittent Fever."

Dr. I. E. Fowler, of Bridgeport, Conn., says: "Ayer's Pills are highly and universally spoken of by the people about here. I make daily use of them in my practice."

Dr. Mayhew, of New Bedford, Mass., says: "Having prescribed many thousands of Ayer's Pills, in my practice, I can unhesitatingly pronounce them the best cathartic in use."

The Massachusetts State Assayer, Dr. A. A. Hayes, certifies: "I have made a careful analysis of Ayer's Pills. They contain the active principles of well-known drugs, isolated from inert matter, which plan is, chemically speaking, of great importance to their usefulness. It insures activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. Ayer's Pills contain no metallic or mineral substance, but the virtues of vegetable remedies in skillful combination."

ALL THE WORLD AT WAR.

By WALTER BESANT.

"Tell me, John Beer, tell me. Oh, if I only knew!"

"I wonder what you would give to know, Pleasance?"

"How can I tell?"

"It was a mean and sneaking thing to do," said the man. "I heard it accidentally. I was sentry on duty. The captain's window was open, and I listened. The captain and him, they think no one knows. I was in the front of the house, where the flagstaff is; he come in from the back, so as no one should see. But the window was open, and I both heard and seen him."

"Tell me, John Beer, tell me! Oh, what can I give to make you tell me?"

He reflected, with a straw in his mouth.

"There was fifty kegs, if there was one," he murmured. "Take away the captain's share, it is a matter of three guineas a head. If I had a couple of them kegs"——

"You shall, John, you shall; I'll give them to you at once."

"And yet it's a risk. Suppose the captain was to find out?"

"How can he find out?"

"Why, girls talk wild. You'd be in a tairable rage, you would, Pleasance, if you only knew. It's the meanest, sneakingest thing ever done—that's what it is."

"If you will only tell me, I will never let out to a single creature how I got to know. Tell me!"

"Why, then, if it's all right about them two kegs, and you won't never let out who told you—and considering what a mean and sneaking thing it was to do—why, I don't mind telling you. It was no—other—than—Joshua—Meech himself!"

I stared at him, incredulous. The thing was impossible.

"I tell you," repeated John Beer, "I seen him. It was the evening before and at 9 o'clock."

Nine o'clock! Then he must have gone straight away to give the information after telling me that whatever happened I was to blame.

"The window was open. The captain was reading by the light of a pair of candles. I heard steps at the back of the house crunching the gravel. Then I heard a knock at the captain's door. I looked in at the window, being so placed in the dark that I could do that without being seen. And I saw Joshua Meech himself open the door and walk in. Then I knew that there was mischief brewing."

"Pleasance!" he went on, after a pause, during which he gasped with indignation; "I knew that there was villainy. And I wish I'd have put my carbine at that open window and let him have the charge in his face, the scoundrel!

"'Capt. Pollard,' he says, looking more like a devil than a human man, let alone Dan Gulliver's nephew, 'I've come to lay information.'

"'Why!' cries the captain. 'Information from you, Joshua Meech? Dick Turpin will be laying information next. Or perhaps Dan Gulliver.'

"'I've come to lay information, sir, against Dan Gulliver.'

"'You? Against Dan Gulliver? What is the meaning of this? Why, man, you are his partner! You are his nephew!'

"'I've come to lay information against Dan Gulliver,' repeated Joshua, with a white face. I was listening all the while, you may be sure.

"'What does it mean? Have you quarreled?'

"'That does not matter to you,' he replied, doggedly. 'I'm come with that information. Will you take it or will you refuse it? If you do I must go to the mayor and lay it before him.'

"'Joshua Meech,' said the captain, 'you are a villain! You are a black, foul villain! Whether this is treachery or revenge you are a double distilled scoundrel!'

"Joshua Meech made no reply.

"'I must take your information,' the captain went on. 'It is my duty to take it and act upon it. Most informers are poor starving devils whose necessities make them enact the part of the spy. You have not that excuse. You are bringing ruin upon your old uncle, the man by whom you have been befriended and enriched. It is revenge, I suppose, for some petty quarrel. But such devilish revenge I never heard of before. Go on with your tale, blackguard and villain!'

"Alf, Pleasance, you all thought at the trial that the captain gloried in what he had done. Don't you believe that no more. Only he had to do it, you know—it was his duty.

"Then Joshua Meech told how the run over was to be that very night, how the Dancing Polly was already gone, and how she would return the next night.

"The captain took it all down.

"'Is that all?' he asked.

"'That is all,' said Joshua.

"'Then go. Do not breathe the air of this room with me! Great heavens!' he cried, starting to his feet, 'that such a villain should live in this kingdom of England and call himself my fellow countryman! Go!'

"There Pleasance; now you know all."

Yes; this was his revenge. This was his plan to prevent me from marrying Will. To make this impossible, or to defer it, he had the incredible baseness to sacrifice his uncle and his cousins. Was it possible, could any one have believed that a man could be so wicked?

I sat all that day meditating revenge, thinking in what way I could most injure this man. One wild plan after another suggested itself to me. I would set fire to his mill. I would secretly destroy the trees in his orchard. I would put a stone in the wheels of his mill. I would go into the town and tell everybody.

Nothing, however, satisfied me. Revenge never does satisfy. If his mill was burned, he would build it up again; but that would not give me back Dan, and the boys, and Will and the Dancing Polly. He could repair any mischief I could do him. Even if I whispered it round in Lyme Regis that he was the informer, he would deny it, and I had no proof because John Beer was bound to silence. What then could I do?

A UNITED EMPIRE.

Some Unfounded Objections by the Opponents of Imperial Union Considered.

The following paper was read at the meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the Imperial Federation League, on October 12th, by Mr. E. J. Toker:—

The great idea underlying the association of which this is a branch, viz. the unity of the Empire, is steadily growing in favour, but, no doubt, there is considerable ignorance of the means by which we hope to gain our end. The opponents of unity—the advocates of disintegration—take advantage of this ignorance by ascribing to us views we do not entertain, and then proceeding to combat these imaginary opinions.

There are three points as to which we are more especially misrepresented in this manner, and for the success of our cause it is necessary that these misconceptions should be removed, so as to disarm popular prejudice unfairly excited against it, and to place it fairly before the people.

ASSERTED OBJECTIONS.

1st. It is said by these critics that we advocate Imperial free trade, and protection against foreigners—that we ask Great Britain to tax food, and offer to give in return a free market for British manufactures. This, we are told, would not be acceptable either to free trade Britain or protectionist Canada.

2ndly. We are charged with wishing to exact from Canada its share of the cost of Imperial affairs—that for instance we would have to pay our portion of the expenditure for a war in Europe or for the defense of India.

3rdly. It is asserted that we propose to set up an Imperial Legislature, either the present House at Westminster or some new body, in which our representation and that of other colonies would be so small, whether based on population or property, that we would be outvoted and would have no control even in matters especially effecting us.

All these are merely bugbears—men of straw set up to be knocked down. It will be well to consider these points separately.

DISCRIMINATION.

1st. As to the assertion that we advocate Imperial free trade and protection against foreigners—that we would have Great Britain confine herself to our broad stuffs and our cattle, while we would compensate her by giving up our policy of manufacturing for ourselves and by granting free access to her goods, it is utterly without foundation.

One of the principles of our League is that each portion of the Empire should be free to frame its own tariff—to adopt, retain, or reject free trade or protection, as it may deem expedient for its particular interests. To this stipulation we adhere faithfully. No branch or member of our League in Canada, or, as far as I know, in Great Britain has proposed such a bargain as I have indicated. There is, however, a wide-spread and growing desire in Canada, in Great Britain and in other parts of the Empire for some measure of discrimination in favour of each other and against foreign nations. It is proposed to give a preference over foreigners to any land under the British flag, while not interfering with its right to frame its own tariff. It is the very opposite of the proposal of the agitators for annexation, that we should impose a penalty on all commercial transactions with our fellow countrymen, favouring and protecting a foreign nation against our own people and leaving our own industries to be crushed out by grasping foreigners.

The exact means of attaining our desired end is a matter for discussion.

A Canadian member of our League, Mr. Thos. Macfarlane, has devised such a plan, and the Montreal branch has signified its approval by publishing it. He suggests that throughout all parts of the Empire a special extra duty of 5 per cent. should be levied on all foreign imports, without in any way interfering with existing local tariffs or any future modification of them, being an additional impost. For example if wheat in Montreal and New York were worth $1 a bushel, Canadian wheat would pay nothing in Liverpool—United States wheat 5 cts. a bushel. If a certain class of iron stood in our Canadian tariff at a duty of 50 per cent., English or Scotch importations would pay that 50 per cent, United States importations 55 per cent. The same rule would be applied to all other articles. This would no so seriously effect prices as to prevent its acceptance, while it would operate in favour of trade between different parts of the Empire, would foster such commerce and promote closer relations. Of course there is no magic virtue in the five per cent, and some other amount might be considered expedient without effecting the principle. But Mr. Macfarlane, in his very thorough consideration of the subject, gives valuable and interesting statistics to show that this 5 per cent. duty on foreign goods, would, on the basis of the present imports throughout the Empire, yield £18,000,000 stg., of which Great Britain, with its enormous imports, would contribute by far the greatest portion.

Assuming the foreign imports to retain the same volume, it appears from these statistics that on this 5 per cent. basis the Three Kingdoms would contribute over £16,000,000 stg. and Canada little more than half a million.

But it may be said by our opponents that even such a moderate degree of protection would never obtain the assent of the Mother Country—that the factory operatives, the mechanics, the working men, would refuse to have their food made dearer in order to benefit the farming community either at home or in the colonies. If a serious increase in the cost of food would be caused, there would, without doubt, be strong opposition, but would there be a serious increase? We will take breadstuffs. With wheat worth even a dollar in Canada the duty of five cents, 2s. 1d., on a bushel, would add so small a fraction to the cost of a loaf, (such cost it must be remembered, including much beside the export price of wheat) that not even a farthing could be added to the retail charge for a loaf. This is no mere theory, but is the statement of men in the business in England. It is, however, not likely that the price of wheat in England would be raised by the full amount of the 5 per cent. duty, while the world's supply of wheat is increasing so rapidly. But until the colonies have surplus wheat sufficient to supply the British demand, Canadian farmers would have a welcome addition to their income. And even when Canada, Australia, India, etc. grow enough wheat for their surplus to supply the deficit in Great Britain, our farmers would still have the benefit of a preference over foreigners in our great market. A little investigation would show similar results as to other produce. As to the feeling in Great Britain, they will not be slow to perceive that in return for their concession to us, they would have the preference in our market—that although we are determined to manufacture in Canada the staple goods in general demand, and any others that we deem expedient, for all others, and they must be many, we will discriminate in favor of British goods, which should thus secure our custom. But the fact is that the people of Great Britain are rapidly learning to tire of falsely called free trade, in which no other civilized country gives them reciprocal freedom. They are being forced by such one-sided commerce to the conviction, that however good free trade may be in theory, protection is necessary in practice for self-defence. The repeated demands of the manufacturers and operatives in the ruined sugar refining industry, the encouragement given to their deputations by Ministers, the wide-spread cry for "fair trade," the utterances of workingmen's associations and chambers of commerce, the reports of commissioners and committees, the opinions expressed by Members of Parliament and private individuals, these and many other signs indicate that the people of Great Britain will soon be ready, if they are not now, for the favourable consideration of a protective policy. If such a proposal should take the form of favouring commerce within the Empire as against foreigners, it will find zealous and numerous supporters.

Mr. Macfarlane further suggests that the proposed special duty should form a separate Imperial fund for the maintenance of a navy and coast defenses. This is obviously by no means necessarily connected with the idea of a discriminating duty to promote inter-imperial commerce. The two things are quite distinct and may be considered separately on their own merits, though they may be combined if deemed advisable. This much may be said, that the sum, even if reduced by a diminution of the foreign imports, would be sufficient for the purpose, and our share would be very moderate till we had made such progress in population, wealth and commerce as to enable us to pay a larger contribution without feeling it burdensome.

THE LATE WALTER W. BOSWELL

One of the oldest settlers of this county has passed away, Mr. Walter Wilkins Boswell having died on October 13th at Trent Bridge after a short illness at the age of 80 years.

Mr. Boswell, in 1818, when a child of ten years old, came to this country with his father, Captain Boswell, R.N., and the rest of the family, from the island of Jersey. They first settled in Cobourg, then a mere village, so small that they formed a tenth part of the population. Capt. Boswell was the first to erect a steam engine in the Province, in recognition of which he obtained from the Government a bonus of £100. Mr. Boswell about 1840 moved with his family to North Monaghan, where he farmed part of the large tract of land that had been granted to his father. He had before them married Fanny, daughter of Captain Spilsbury, R.N., of Cramahe, and their eldest son accompanied them, twelve more children being subsequently added to the family.

When Mr. Boswell first came to Peterborough county it was very thinly populated, and the early settlers had to rough it in a manner inconceivable to the pioneers of new districts in these days. He has lived to see a vast change. He was the first who placed a steamer on the river Otonabee, Mr. Boswell held a captain's commission in the militia and was under arms during the Mackenzie rebellion, being the first that mounted guard on the frontier.

He was an enterprising settler and secured and maintained the esteem and good will of all his neighbors.

He leaves only two sons, Mr. W. F. Boswell, of Trent Bridge, and Mr. H. G. Boswell, of Micco, Brevard county, Florida, and four daughters, Mrs. Fowler, Mrs. Nesbitt, Mrs. J. S. Sowden and Mrs. Lennard. The grandchildren living amount to about twenty. Mrs. Boswell died about 24 years ago.

The funeral will take place from the C. P. R. station at nine o'clock to-morrow morning, the interment taking place in the Little Lake Cemetery.

Headache, Billiousness, Dyspepsia and Indigestion relieved and at once by Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. Try it. Samples free.

The statement made at the recent conference between Prince Bismarck and Signor Crispi, that an alliance of the central European powers was requisite to prevent Russia seizing Constantinople and establishing a naval station on the Mediterranean, has greatly enraged the Czar, and has so alarmed Turkey that the Sultan has broken off his negotiations with Russia for mutual action in Bulgaria.

Don't use any more nauseous purgatives such as Pills, Salts, &c., when you can get in Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters, a medicine that moves the Bowels gently, cleansing all impurities from the system and rendering the Blood pure and cool. Sold by all Druggists.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria,

SMOKERS' CANCER.

The German Crown Prince Said to be a Doomed Man.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Dr. Wolfred Nelson, of this city, who has just returned from Germany, says when he was in Baden-Baden a few days ago he was assured by physicians and other gentlemen who had trustworthy sources of information that the condition of the Crown Prince Frederick is unquestionably precarious. It is admitted now that he is suffering from cancer of the throat, known as tobacco smokers' cancer. The case is very similar to that of Gen. Grant. The Prince was for many years an inveterate smoker. In spite of the officials' opinions to the contrary, German physicians consider the Prince a doomed man. The very severe caustics used have destroyed not only the tissues primarily affected, but the parts themselves. So severe has the treatment been that some portions of the bony tissues are now visible.

Conservative Germans, Dr. Nelson added, view the probability of the Crown Prince's early demise with much alarm. The Emperor, already past 92, has had several pseudo apoplectic seizures, though this has been industriously denied. His death is liable to occur at any moment. With the Crown Prince as the Emperor's successor, it is believed that a peaceful policy would be maintained that Bismarck's influence would be less predominent. But if he is at death's door the Imperial power will fall to Prince William, the Crown Prince's eldest son. He is a young man of 28 years, and is said to be every inch a soldier. People who know him say he is bold, impetuous and ambitious to make a name as a warrior. Much apprehension is, therefore, felt in regard to Germany's proximate future.

RIOT IN LONDON.

Unemployed Men and the Police have an Encounter.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The unemployed persons who frequent Trafalgar square, formed in a body to-day and marched to the Mansion House, where they demanded an interview with the Lord Mayor. The Lord Mayor declined to hold any conservation with the mob or its representatives. The crowd insisted upon an interview but were again refused. They then denounced the Lord Mayor, after which they started back to Trafalgar square. They stopped at the office of the Standard and hooted and jeered. The police attempted to move the crowd, but were met with resistance. They then charged the mob and seized a black banner and a number of red flages. The mob then scattered, but shortly afterwards rallied. The leader of the crowd shouted, "Men, assert your rights," and the mob rushed upon the police and succeeded in forcing them back from their position and in recapturing the black banner. The police soon rallied, however, and again charged the mob, who became demoralized and ran in every direction.

MORE AMERICAN EVICTIONS.

The Land Question Raises its Heads up in Texas.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 14.—The settlers of the Texas Pan Handle are agitated over a recent order from the manager of the Rocking Chair Ranch Company calling upon them to leave their homes, situated in what the Company claims to be its domain along the border of Wheeler and Collinsworth counties. The settlers have addressed a letter to the Governor setting forth their claims and declaring that the order of eviction will throw thirty families out of their homes and cause a loss to each of from two to four years' labor. They state that this Company has been occupying the school lands in common with them for four years, and paid no rent until last July. They appeal to the executive to protect their rights and homes, which have been invaded without warning.

CRUSHED TO DEATH.

Two Men Buried Under a Five Ton Stone at Midland.

MIDLAND, Oct. 14.—Mr. Lyman Dechane and his son were to-day buried underneath a large stone, weighing about five tons, which they were attempting to sink. They were both dug out alive, but Mr. Dechane died two hours afterwasds. The son will, in all probability, recover. One leg is broken and bruised, but otherwise he is not seriously hurt.

A UNITED EMPIRE.

Some Unfounded Objections by the Opponents of Imperial Union Considered.

IMPERIAL EXPENDITURES.

This brings us to the second criticism, to which I invited your attention. The assertion that the League would ask Canada to burden herself heavily for Imperial matters—to pay, for example, a large part of the cost of European or Indian wars, is also unfounded. Even now it is customary to make the Indian, not the British, treasury bear the main portion of the expenditure for Indian wars, and there would be no difficulty in the way of a similar arrangement in regard to wars in which the Mother Country was especially and the colonies slightly concerned. In case of invasion of any part of the Empire, I will not even suppose that any man under its flag would wish to shrink from doing his fair part.

Nor do I think so meanly of Canadians as to imagine they would be willing always to continue receiving the benefits of Imperial protection and services without contributing to the expenditure. If our contribution were fixed by such a method as the five per cent. discriminating duty, it would be light at present and for some time to come. Account would have to be taken, too, of the contributions we already make to what are really Imperial expenditures.

Let us consider what matters may be considered Imperial.

They are chiefly:—

Defense.
Navigation.
Land Communications.
Mails and Telegraphs.
Diplomacy.

There are other matters of Imperial rather than local interest, such as copyright, patents, extradition, professional status, etc., etc., as to which the empire at large might agree with advantage, but the five first mentioned are those which chiefly call for the expenditure of money. And for most of these purposes, it will be seen, on a little reflection, that Canada has not been backward in liberal expenditure.

Take defence. Many Canadians seem to be ignorant of the fact that Canada has already engaged herself to incur a certain expenditure for defensive purposes. In consideration of obtaining certain fortifications, ordnance lands, warlike stores, etc., Canada bound herself to spend at least $1,000,000 a year on her militia. I am afraid we have not always strictly observed this bargain, but we are exceeding it now, and probably have made up the average. So we have our volunteers, our three batteries of artillery, our infantry and cavalry schools (really regiments), our North-west Mounted Police, doing soldiers' duty, our military college, and various fortifications. Then we have had expenses connected with Fenian raids and two rebellions in the North-west. These, with the annual expenditures before mentioned, may all be regarded as incurred for Imperial purposes, being in defense of territory which is as much a part of the empire as London, Dublin or Edinburgh. Even at sea we have done something in the way of maritime police work, and it must be remembered that our fisheries, though Canadian, are also part of the territory of the empire and, indeed, are open to every British fisherman. Our mail steamers, too, will be capable of utilization—will be most valuable indeed, in the case of a great war.

Take navigation. We have spent no small sum on river improvements, harbors, docks, lighthouses, buoys, surveys, all for the common benefit of the swarming merchant fleet of the whole Empire.

Take land communications. Has any other colony in the history of the world ever made such a magnificent contribution to the means of communication, for military and commercial purposes, of the Empire of which it formed part? Look at our great railways, the Intercolonial and the C. P. R. stretching from ocean to ocean, spanning a large portion of the globe, drawing together the distant members of our wide-spreading Empire, opening to our mother country a shorter route for the rich Orient and Austral commerce, affording her a safe, swift, and commodious military road to our great subsidiary Indian Empire, on which she sets such store, and to many a distant colony where the Union Jack waves. To look at this alone our record is unprecedented.

Take mails and telegraphs. Are not our mail steamers on both oceans creditable and serviceable not only to Canada, but to the Empire as a whole? We have telegraph communication spanning the land from ocean to ocean, and now we are preparing to survey the Pacific for the projected cable line to Australia.

Even as regards diplomacy, our Dominion history is not quite a blank, as we read of Macdonald at Washington, Brown at Washington, Tupper in Europe, Fabre at Paris, while probably in a short time we will see another Canadian Commissioner at Washington.

Altogether Canada has not only done her share, but very much more than her share in matters of Imperial concern. No doubt she will meet with a proportionate return. But if we were to assume our share of Imperial expenditure calculated by any such method as the suggested discriminating duty, our proportion would be diminished rather than augmented.

In this connection our opponents should remember that if Canada became independent or if it were annexed to the United States, the two alternative suggestions, Canada would not escape expense for defense, diplomacy and other national purposes. Indeed, we would have to pay more in either of these events and get less for our money.

THE CENTRAL MACHINERY.

We now come to the third point, the machinery for the determination of Imperial matters, for the transaction of Imperial affairs. It is not true, as our opponents pretend, that our League proposes that Canada and other colonies should have a representation in the Parliament at Westminster, insignificant in numbers and overwhelmed by the members from the Three Kingdoms. If no detailed scheme to carry on Imperial matters has been drawn up, it is because none is necessary at present, if ever. There is the fundamental provision of our Association that the different portions of the Empire possessing rights of self-government shall not be asked to surrender them in the smallest particular. The machinery for the management of purely Imperial interests will run smoother—will fit better—if it is gradually evolved, and developed—if it grows with the occasion like the British constitution.

Already there has been a first step and not without success. The Colonial Conference in London of this year met for consultation and deliberation, which are already bearing good fruit. What is to prevent the permanency of such deliberations by means of the Agents-General or other representatives of the several portions of the Empire? Their proposals would have to be submitted to the Legislatures interested, which would retain the enacting power. In the distant future, if this process became cumbrous, the Legislatures might depute greater powers to these representatives just to the extent they deemed expedient. This advisory council, so formed, would be a really Imperial Privy Council to advise the Crown on Imperial questions, with responsibility each member to his own Legislature.

And here incidentally arises the idea that the judicial committee of the Privy Council, with its heavy appeal business and constitutional questions from every quarter of the globe, might be usefully strengthened by judges from the important members of the Empire. There are usually retired Indian judges in England, and there would be no great obstacle in the way of obtaining judges of experience from Canada, Australia, &c. Then it would be a truly Imperial court of final resort.

There is one other point upon which I will briefly touch as I believe the constitution of our organization is misunderstood. I find that some of my Irish friends have acquired the mistaken idea that the Imperial Federation League is opposed to Home Rule in Ireland. Now, one of the fundamental rules of our association is that it shall be open to men of any political party if they desire to maintain the unity of the Empire. The strongest Home Rulers and the strongest Unionists can be, and are not only members, but officers of the parent society in the Mother Country. So it is, too, with the Canadian branches. We have an additional reason here in Canada for observing this neutrality. We do not wish the mother country to interfere in our domestic affairs, and therefore we feel that it is all the more incumbent upon us to leave the Three Kingdoms to settle their own troubles. As individuals, we are free to hold our own views on the subject and to advance them, so long as they do not tend to the disintegration of the Empire, without our standing in their body being effected. For myself I believe in Home Rule, not only for Ireland, but for the Three Kingdoms and the Principality, that is that local affairs should be locally managed with due safeguards against division as to general matters. I also think that our movement will facilitate the accomplishment of this change rather than impede it. As to the exact plan, those especially interested should, I think, be left to devise it. But while I hold these views any other member is as free to think differently on this subject. Our society does not include it in its objects, and it remains an open question.

I have endeavored to present for your consideration some of the important questions connected with the unity of our great Empire, and to show the fallacy of the chief criticisms with which this movement is assailed.

We do NOT want to crush our home industries beneath the weight of too onerous competition, even from Great Britain. We do NOT ask Canada to undertake heavy expenditures for objects in which she is little interested. We do NOT wish to send a handful of representatives to be outvoted in the Parliament at Westminster. We DO wish to favour commerce between the different members of the Empire in preference to foreigners. We desire to contribute as in the past, though perhaps not in the same measure or in the same manner, to the advancement of the whole Empire. We hope that the various portions of the Empire will regularly consult together for the common benefit of the whole—for mutual defence and support.

Our critics taunt us with being loyal to England, and insinuate that we are, therefore, disloyal to Canada. We are truly loyal to Canada and aim at her further advancement. We are also loyal to our Empire as a whole, and would see it flourish. If we look with love and pride to the land of our ancestors—to our parent kingdoms—who shall chide us? As we come to maturity we desire to form a partnership with the parental interests, not to cut ourselves utterly adrift from them or to form a new alliance against them in combination with a rival power.

In short, without a pedantic framing of paper constitutions, we desire, while remaining loyal to Canada and its interests, to resist all disloyal tendencies towards disintegration, and to look for the continued and closer union of our glorious Empire—in which we are proud to feel that no insignificant place is held by this grand Dominion.

NORWOOD.

CONCERT.—On Wednesday evening at Norwood a concert was held in the Town Hall under the auspices of the Church of England. The programme was commenced by an instrumental duet "The Silver Trumphet," by Miss Smart, of Peterborough, and Miss Roxburgh. A vocal duet "Venetian Boat Song," by Miss Strickland and Miss Vair, Peterborough, followed. Mr. Duffield sang "Oh, What Would You give to be There." The band gave a selection of music. Miss Strickland sang "Tit for Tat" and Miss Vair brought the first part to an end by singing "Take me Jamie Dear." "The Nymphs of the Ocean" a trio by Miss Smart, Miss Roxburgh and Mr. Fuller, opened the second part. Mr. C. S. Ardagh sang "The Gallants of England." Miss Vair and Miss Strickland contributed another vocal duet. Miss Smart and Mr. Ardagh and Miss Vair each sang another solo. There was a large attendance at the concert.

A Horrible Crime.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—A special to the World from Syracuse says:—"A case of extreme cruelty was developed to-day at the shelter for incorrigible girls in the city. Through a visitor at the shelter the World reporter learned that Emma Purdy, fifteen years old, had been locked up in the dungeon and forgotten until four days had elapsed. The case was investigated and the matron declared that the girl was not forgotten, and contrary to report, had had a bed in the "lock up," as it is called, to sleep on. The girl declared that she had nothing to eat for three days, and all that she had in the room was a blanket upon which she lay on the floor. The shelter is under the patronage of Bishop Huntington, and it is said that an investigation will be made.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

CHAMBERLAIN IN ANTRIM.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Mr. Chamberlain, speaking at Bushmills, County Antrim, today, said that it was not the upper classes but the poorer classes of Ulster that were opposed to the Parnellite proposals. The artisans and farmers did not see any chance of improving their condition under the rule of men like the Home Rule members of Parliament. The poorer classes rightly looked forward with the greatest dread to the changes that would be involved in the creation of a Parliament at Dublin. He admitted that a part of the North of Ireland was strongly in favor of Home Rule, but he was certain that if he could infuse into the people of Donegal the same resolute, law-abiding disposition as that shown by the people of Antrim, the outcry for great constitutional changes would become little heard.

A STUPENDOUS FORGERY.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—A clerk lately in the employ of Messrs. Vaglians Bros., merchants, of 19 Old Broad street, E. C., has been arrested and placed in custody for forging bills of exchange to the amount of £80,000.

CORONER'S WARRANTS SUSPENDED

LONDON, Oct, 14.—The Irish Nationalists are exasperated over the action of the Inspector-General of the Royal Irish Constabulary in suspending the Coroner's warrant for the arrest of Brownrigg and the subordinate constables who were found guilty of murder in connection with the Mitchellstown affair. The United Ireland re-asserts that the cipher telegram sent by Solicitor-General O'Brien to the Crown counsel is genuine, and also that Capt. Plunkett, fearing an arrest or attack, has fled the country. The latter statement, however, is doubted.

THE CAFEEREL SCANDAL.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Paris is still excited over the decorations scandal. The Government is trying hard to hush the affair up, and although, as Gen. Boulanger insists and many think that he is the aimed at, there are far too many persons, and they are all of prominence and social standing, to bring the matter to any issue. The traffic in decorations is too flimsy a story to be the means of disrupting a political party, and the Government will assuredly conceal their mortification and their desire to punish the guilty will go unrequited.

THE OUTRAGE BY SPANIARDS.

MADRID, Oct. 14.—The Spanish Government, being convinced that the revolt of the natives of Ponape was the result of religious persecution, has ordered that only those convicted of murdering Spaniards are to be punished, and that the indemnity demanded by America be paid

"HISTORY OF A CRIME."

Gen. Boulanger Superseded—The Legion of Honor Cross Scandal.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The Herald's Paris correspondent says the Intransigeant publishes the following under the "History a Crime.' Gen. Boulanger assumes the full responsibility of the words imputed to him. Gen Boulanger seems to be become more deeply implicated in the Legion of Honor scandals as the hours ro by. The belief steadily gains ground that Mr. Wilson, President Grevy's son-in-law, is guilty after all. It is said that when persons seeking the decorations of the Legion of Honor were presented to him by Mme. Limousin Kreitmayer & Co., he would send them for a looking glass protesting that the thing was impossible and beneath the dignity of the Republic, but at the same time he would breathe upon the mirror and afterwards trace with his little finger on the clouded surface the figures, say 20,000, 40,000, etc., thereby indicating the price for which the cross could be obtained without writing or speaking. The condensed breath vanishing a few minutes later effaced all trace of the transaction. A few days afterwards the applicant would send his envlope full of bank-notes equal to the figures traced on the magic mirror, and duly received in return the parchment and box containing the coveted cross.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—Gen. Broye will succeed Gen. Boulanger in the command of the Thirteenth army corps during the temporary suspension of the latter.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—Gen. Davout Daerstadt, military governor of Lyons, succeeds to the command of the 10th army corps in the place of Gen. Boulanger, who has been placed under arrest for thirty days. President Grevy left Mont-Sans-Vaudrey to-day for Paris.

A PANIC PREDICTED.

What the Railway Extension and Real Estate Craze will Result In.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 14.—Mr. Chauncey M. Depew, president of the New York Central Railway, was here yesterday, and in an interview expressed his opinion that the real estate speculation craze, and the construction of 5,000 miles of railway that are not needed will bring upon the country a financial panic. The over construction of railways will entail a loss of over one hundred millions of dollars, which somebody must bear. The properties may be made profitable in ten or twelve years, but the original investors will certainly lose their money. The real estate craze will produce greater disaster because so many more persons are directly interested. In some localities fancy prices are being paid for town lots which for twenty years yet will be fit only for agricultural purposes. From 25 to 50 per cent. of the purchase money for these lots are being paid in cash, the property being mortgaged for the balance—consequently when the crash does come the cash payments will be swept away by depreciation in values, and the mortgages will also be worthless, so that all concerned will suffer.

Arbitration Delegates.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Sir John Swinburne, Messrs. O. V. Morgan and Halley Stewart, members of Parliament, arrived yesterday on the steamship City of Chicago from Liverpool. They have come to America as members of the Inter-state Arbitration Delegation.

Cumulative Punishment.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—The first conviction that has taken place here under the Habitual Criminal Act was secured yesterday. Wm. Stellar was convicted of burglary and sentenced to the penitentary for 20 years. He began his career as a burglar in 1884.

HYPOCRITICAL OPPOSITION.

After doing its best to aid in defeating the attempt to put the sale of sugar on an honest basis by its being retailed at a fair price, the Montreal Witness says:—

"The retail grocers of Toronto, intoxicated by their freedom from the combination, have gone to the other extreme. They are selling sugar at six and two-third cents per pound, or fifteen pounds for a dollar. The combination price was eight and one-third cents. A difference of one and a half cents per pound, or three pounds more for a dollar, is a big advantage to the consumer, but under the present tariff it is a source of loss to the retailer, though if there was no duty on sugar the retailers would be able to sell sugar at a very much lower price still and at the same time make a profit."

Does the Witness really suppose such sales are a source of loss to the retailer? He shifts the loss upon his customers, as has been seen already, either by giving them short weight or by refusing to sell them sugar unless they purchase other articles on which he may overcharge them. Otherwise he fails and shifts the loss upon the wholesale merchants, who, by the way, are quite justified in refusing to deal with a man in anything who buys some of their goods to sell at a loss at their risk As to sugar being cheaper if there were no duty, that is obvious, but from what would the Witness collect a revenue? We have no recollection of the Witness remonstrating very severely when its friends were in power and imposed heavier duties upon sugars, besides a duty on tea and coffee. What hypocrisy these Opposition journals display.

The Toronto organ of the New England fishing pirates says:—

"Our position is unjustifiable, not because it is at variance with the provisions of the Treaty of 1818, but because it is based upon too close an adherence to the letter of that instrument; the exclusion of the American fishermen from the hospitality which we afford to vessels of every other flag admitting of no defence on moral grounds, and being contrary to the code known as the comity of nations."

Falsehood is no doubt a very appropriate weapon for a traitor in the camp while assisting a foreign invader, but the Mail need not make its inventions quite so glaring. We treat no other foreign flag differently from the stars and stripes; we make no distinction between the citizens or vessels of foreign nations. We are always ready to practice hospitality, but a host is hardly to be expected to wink at a guest purloining his silver spoons, or to supply him with ammunition for poaching operations in the host's coverts. The comity of nations does not enjoin a country to give assistance to thievish invaders of its territory.

If Grip is ceasing to become a comic paper the Toronto Globe is certainly taking its place. It has an editorial attacking the C. P. R. and the Imperial Government for giving it a mail subsidy. It especially laments that our great national route will also become an important means of communication for military as well as trade purposes, and therefore will probably be fortified on both oceans. The reason for the lament appears to be that some lieutenant of Royal Engineers and this Globe writer may think the lieutenant is the social superior of the writer. The people of Canada will be content to allow the officer and the scribe to settle their social precedence at their leisure, consoling themselves with the reflection that Canadian enterprize has greatly benefitted not only the Dominion but the Empire of which it still forms part.

We agree with the Toronto Globe that the accession of Newfoundland to Canada would not justify the payment of a heavy price for the acquisition, believing that the island would gain at least as much as the Dominion by the union. But we cannot concur with the Globe in warning off the islanders by falsely stating that they would have to pay a far larger sum in customs duties than at present. They have now duties on imports and in some cases these would be raised. But on the other hand they would have the more than countervailing benefit that they would have to pay no duties on imports from the other provinces of Canada, and in these they can advantageously include nearly all that they require for food, clothing and other necessaries of which they have an insufficient supply in their own island.

Having succeeded in inducing the dishonest grocers to break the agreement made by the honest grocers not to sell sugar at less than cost and then make up the difference by some crooked means, the Globe now goes a step further. After advising these people it calmly says that it "has nothing to do" with such things as cheating in weight, as is the method of one of its pets. This perhaps is not very surprising, for the Globe is really more dishonest than the grocer in matter, its great object being to ruin a number of Canadian capitalists and operatives because it is enraged with the people of Canada for not trusting its party with office.

"If we import little from any country our exports are apt to be small." So we are told by one of the chief organs of Mr Wiman. Yet this unpatriotic journal is urging Canada to join with the United States in excluding as much as possible imports from Great Britain, so that our exports may be small to the principal market for the surplus products of our farmers.

And SHEPPARD, by common consent, will get $1,000 for being the Cheapest Clothier in Peterborough, having knocked the Wonderful Cheap Man completely out. "Business is business; dirt is dirt, and when it comes to throwing dirt, then count" the only original teddy out, and he will hand over that $1,000 like a little man, for the following reasons:—

SHEPPARD sells a full size Man's suit for $2.95, and better goods than a suit to fit a child about nine years old sold by the Wonderful Cheap Man on Saturday for $3.00; but marked $3.50. This is how it was.—A lady purchased a child's suit on Saturday last, Sept. 17th, 1887, at the store of the Wonderful Cheap Man. It was marked thusly:—Lot 5375, Breast 27, Waist 26½, Age 9, Price $3.50. It was pure shoddy being held together by cotton threads, and Sheppard is free to say that that was the dearest suit sold in the Town of Peterborough for the last two years. Full particulars are given because of the $1,000 involved, and, further, that this decides who is selling the Cheapest Clothing in Peterborough. SHEPPARD would have sold that lady a suit, pure wool, for that money, and worth two of the one she got.

$1,000 to Go to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

I had first decided to give the agencies a chance of jumping up my rating that $1,000, but after considering the matter and finding that never in any case have I been asked for an endorser to my paper, and that no relative or any other persons have ever endorsed my paper to the extent of one cent, I have come to the conclusion my credit is as good as yours, and will ask you to hand over the $1,000 to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

Now, Sir, there is a good story told, the truth of which can be vouched for, but for the honor of at least making an effort to keep up your self-styled name—The Terror of High Priced Clothiers—do not allow the same to be said of you in the case above. A man purchased a suit for $15.00 at the store of one of the largest advertisers in that section of country. It was guaranteed pure wool; but after examining it carefully at home, he came to the conclusion that he had been dealing with some one sharper than himself. Finding a make of wool, differing some from anything he had ever seen, it dawned upon him that he had heard of wool of that kind, so the suit was returned. The merchant bet $25.00 that it was all wool, and the bet was accepted, the decision being left to a neighboring merchant. He found that the $15.00 suit was wool faced and shoddy back, pure unadulterated shoddy; but what of the $25.00 bet? was it paid? Not much—muchly—as it were.

Dr. Mayhew, of New Bedford, Mass., says: "Having prescribed many thousands of Ayer's Pills, in my practice, I can unhesitatingly pronounce them the best cathartic in use."

The Massachusetts State Assayer, Dr. A. A. Hayes, certifies: "I have made a careful analysis of Ayer's Pills. They contain the active principles of well-known drugs, isolated from inert matter, which plan is, chemically speaking, of great importance to their usefulness. It insures activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. Ayer's Pills contain no metallic or mineral substance, but the virtues of vegetable remedies in skillful combination."

ALL THE WORLD AT WAR.

By WALTER BESANT.

In the evening, still brooding over the revenge I was to take, I grew restless and walked over the fields to the mill itself.

It was a bright night; the valleys which stretch away behind Lyme lay all bathed in a beautiful moonlight; everything was peaceful and quiet, except the heart of the girl who went along the lonely way. She met no one, she saw nothing; her soul was full of an inextinguishable craving for vengeance; she was like a tigress bereft of her cubs.

The mill stood alone in its field, silent, and backed by the black depths of its shadows and the woods. The top of the big wheel could be made out standing clear against the sky. Beneath it poured the waters of the leat, which in the daytime worked the wheel.

I stole like a shadow through the orchard; on the other side, away from the mill, was a linney, or penthouse, where Joshua's wagon was kept. I sat down on the broad wheel of the wagon, trying to put my disordered thoughts into some sort of shape. I hungered for revenge; I longed to make him suffer. I had come here to feel near to the man on whom I was going to work revenge.

He was on the other side of the wall, I thought. He was chuckling, no doubt, over the end of my love story—laughing to think that my lover was serving before the mast on one of his majesty's ships for three long years. Oh, villain!

It was something to be near him, to feel that one could even kill him if one had the strength—that alone was wanting; to think that close to him one could execute whatever the mind could conceive.

Presently, as I listened, I heard voices. Some one was with him then. I crept from the penthouse and stepped lightly over the narrow flower bed which stood beneath the window. The shutter was closed, but one knew what sort of a shutter would be that of Joshua's cottage at the mill. In fact, it was not even barred, and there was a hole in it, through which I saw what was going on. The visitor was our old friend Mr. Mallock, justice of the peace, and he was talking in his magisterial way.

"Quite a providence, Joshua"—he wagged his head till his purple cheeks shook and wabbled—"that you were able to rescue the cargo. Quite a providence. At one time I thought I should be able to dismiss the charge, but it was impossible. Poor old Dan! Poor boys! Who was the villain that informed?"

"I wish we knew, sir."

"I wish we did, with all my heart. He would get a warm reception at Lyme, I promise him so much. However—three years—it is a long time. You may send me, Joshua, at the old price—ah!—twenty kegs—yes, I think I had better secure what I can get. Twenty kegs. Dear me! They can come to-morrow morning in flour sacks. I will pay for them now."

There was a great counting out of money on the table. When Joshua was satisfied that it was all right, he put it up in a little bag, and promised to bring the brandy next morning.

Then the worthy justice of the peace retired. I slipped back to my place of concealment, while Joshua accompanied his visitor to the door, with many expressions of gratitude for his custom and his condolences.

"You are very welcome, Joshua, very welcome," said his worship; "and as for that villain"——

He disappeared in the darkness, still muttering what he would do, had he the power, to the scoundrel who spoiled an honest man's trade.

Joshua went back, and I heard him bar the door, so that I knew he would have no other visitors.

Then I returned to my place and watched him again through the hole of the shutter.

He was rather pale, and his hand was shaking. No doubt he was thinking of his villainy.

He went to the cupboard in the wall and drew out a bottle, containing, I knew well, some of poor Dan Gulliver's best. I wished I could dash the bottle in his face as he drank from a wine glass.

The brandy gave him courage, I suppose, for he looked round him with a more assured air. What he was saying to himself, I believe, was that no one knew except Capt. Pollard, and he certainly could not tell. Nobody knew! Why, within a short six feet of where he stood was the girl he had so foully wronged burning to be avenged.

He tied the bag of money which Mr. Mallock had left with him tightly, and taking a short, thick poker which stood beside the andirons, he pried up the hearthstone. There he deposited the bag and replaced the stone carefully, taking the precaution to sweep ashes over the edges so as to conceal the fact of its recent removal. We all used the hearthstone for our bank and we all went through the same formality of trying to hide the fact.

This done, he looked around him again and sighed—with another thought of his villainy, I suppose—and seized the stone bottle which held the brandy. One, two, three glasses in succession of raw spirit. Was this his nightly custom or was he seeking to drown remorse? Then he took the candle, opened the door which stood at the bottom of the stairs and stumbled up to his bedroom. It seemed to me that Joshua was likely to sleep heavily after all that brandy.

I waited below, motionless, until the light was extinguished. Then I began cautiously to see if I could open the window. The shutter was not secured, as I said before. The window was upon hinges and opened inward. It was a heavy window, consisting of small square panes of thick glass set in lead. I lifted the latch which fastened it by means of a small twig. The window fell open; I waited for a moment to see if Joshua was roused and then I climbed into the room.

What I was going to do was simply to rob Joshua. That was part of my revenge. Not to get any advantage out of the money for myself at all, but just to deprive him of it.

It was nothing to me being without a light in the room. I knew exactly where everything was. I first bolted the door of the staircase. That would secure me plenty of time for escape, should Joshua be roused. Then I took the poker and pried up the hearthstone cautiously. Feeling in the dark, I discovered one, two, three—eight bags, all tied up, and all containing money. Now I was quite certain, when I laid my hands upon those bags, that I was not only going to take some of Joshua's money, but all of it. He kept his whole store—all his savings—in that hiding place. I ought, at this length of time, to feel ashamed at the baseness of my revenge—but I cannot. The wrong was so bitter, the villainy was so unutterable, that I have only to think of my own feelings that night, and I justify myself at once. It was delightful to me to feel that I was taking the whole of his money. I hoped that its loss would ruin him. When the bags were all out, I carefully put back the hearthstone.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air-passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. # SLANG OF THE STAGE.

VIGOROUS LANGUAGE WHICH THE COMMUNITY ADOPTS.

The Lower the Grade of Actor the More Slang He Uses—A Long List of Words and Phrases in Current Use Among the Fraternity.

The stage not only has its peculiar slang and idioms, but is charged with furnishing more free and original language to the community than the community draws from any other source. The lower the grade of actor the more slang he uses, and a group of variety performers in conversation seem at times to speak in an unknown tongue.

The actor seldom refers to himself as such; he is a "professional" or a "fakir." If he is very bad he sometimes speaks respectfully of himself as an "artist."

His clothes are his "wardrobe." An "ancient wardrobe" is for a "dress piece," and includes everything from a Roman toga to trunks and tights; a "modern wardrobe" is for a "clean shirt piece," and includes modern raiment only.

A star or manager is known among his company by some irreverent title, as "his jags," "his nibs," "her niblets," "the duchess," or "the man with a head."

Those people who are delighted to be on familiar terms with actors, and especially those who haunt stage doors for a word or smile from actresses, are "gillies," "gills," "guys," "chappies," "mashers," "chumps," "lunkheads" and "lugs."

Any kind of a deed is an "act," whether connected with the stage or not. "I see Smith has been doing the bare bodkin act," applies to a case of suicide. "Cleveland's sprung the veto act on them again;" "Langtry's been doing the citizenship act;" "Jones tried the $5 borrowing act on me this morning," are other examples.

An actor's character is his "part." If it is eccentric, original or grotesque, it is a "character part." If he is "a good study" he masters his lines with ease; if he is "a bad study" he finds his work laborious. A long part is a "soaker," a lively one a "hummer" or a "screecher," a poor one is "burn" or "turk," one that is left to his own discretion to supply action is a "fake part," a small one with good opportunities is a "bit," and men who play that line of characters are "bit actors." A part is "fat" when it is "sure to go." A part is measured by "lengths," a length being forty-two lines of written matter or blank verse.

Action on the stage is "business," and the word is also made to apply to other things. An actor will refer to a debt, or a watch, or a house, or a book, or his dinner, or his landlady, as a "business."

The lines of business for which actors engage are those of star, heavy or lead, juvenile, walking gentleman, light comedy, low comedy, villain, eccentric, character, soubrette, walking lady, responsible, utility, ballet and supernumerary, or "supe."

An actor uncertain in his part is "shaky in his lines;" when he supplies words that do not belong in the text, until he can recollect his part, he is "fishing for his lines;" when he supplies humor he "gags the part;" when he has to rely on the prompter and repeat the words after him he "wings the part," and when he forgets entirely he "flukes," "funks," "flats" or "sticks."

A hotel is a "chuck mill" or "hashery;" a small room is a "can;" a lodging room is a "den;" a trunk is a "bumper;" clothes are "togs" and "duds;" a hat is a "dicer" or "cady;" a coat is a "topper;" an overcoat is a "bent;" trousers are a "kick;" a shirt is a "smish;" shoes are "skates;" an umbrella is a "gamp;" a handkerchief is a "wipe;" a diamond pin is a "spark;" a ring is a "circlet."

When salaries are punctually paid, as they sometimes are in theatres, the recipients say that "the ghost walks regularly." When wages are not forthcoming it is said that "the ghost is dead." Money is "glue," "sugar," "rocks," "melty," "brads" and "wherewith." Silver dollars are "iron dollars," "buzzards," "plunkers," "rollers" and "whites." Small silver coins are "pegs."

Beer is "conversation water" and "the foamy." Wine is "exhilarator," "fizz" and "headache." Liquor is "dynamite," "rush," "bug juice," "red eye," "tanglefoot," "booze," "pizen," "ruby," "hot stuff," "care killer," "pain killer," "hardware," "alco" and "destroyer."

When a man is drunk he is "lush," or has been "communing with spirits," "taking on a cargo," "hitting the ruby," "biting off more than he can chew," "hoisting the elegant," "studying snakes" or "tampering with booze." When trying to get trusted for a drink a man is "bracing the bar," "singing a song," "stalling his jags" and "sparring."

If he walks from town to town the actor "hoofs it," "ties it," "collars the pike," "pounds sap out of the ties" and "goes on his uppers."

Small companies in the back country districts are "fly by nights," "water tank shows," "Jim Crows," "cross road concerns," or "barn stormers."

An express train is a "flyer," a freight train a "snail," a passenger car a "velvet coach," a berth in a sleeping coach is a "hider." A steamboat is a "float." An omnibus is a "rack;" a small carriage is a "fly;" a hack is a "close."

To die is to "croak," "push clouds," "plume," "pass over," "go to that bourne," "wing a flight," "make an exit," "go to swell the chorus," "cash in," "hand in his part," and death is "the last curtain."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Disposing of Obnoxious Customers.

One of the quietest and most effective ways we have of disposing of obnoxious customers is simply giving orders that they shall not be waited upon. A policeman came here one night and after ordering a good meal disputed the price and made a great fuss. The man in charge threw his money back to him and told him never to come in here again. Then he told the waiters that any one who would wait on that man might consider himself discharged. The policeman did come in a few nights after, and every waiter had something to do that engrossed all his attention. The officer asked for a cup of coffee, and every one seemed to be afflicted with deafness. When he did succeed in commanding the attention of one waiter he was told there was no coffee, no tea, nothing for him. He finally realized the situation, took his hat and walked out, and he has never been here since. We have tried the same plan successfully with young bloods who have thought it a good joke to empty a bottle of catsup into the sugar bowl.—Restaurant Clerk in Globe-Democrat.

Tom Thumb Co.

There was a large attendance at Bradburn's Opera House on Friday evening to see the Mrs. Gen. Tom Thumb Company, and the audience signified their approbation of the performance by frequent applause. The Countess Magri (Mrs. Tom Thumb) appeared in her bridal costume, presenting a pretty appearance. The train on the dress was about as long as the little figure itself. She wore a display of jewels. The Count Magri is a very little person. The ventriloquism of Mr. Alex. Davis was quite up to the mark. He introduced several novelties. The slight of hand work was well received.

Tossed by a Plough.

Mr. Joseph Pym was operating a ballast train on the loop line at the lower part of the town this forenoon. While engaged in ploughing off the gravel from a car the plough caught the car and struck him, tossing him about twelve feet in the air. He fell to the ground, alighting on his head and shoulders. His fellow-workmen had him conveyed to the residence of Mr. Joseph Buller, where Dr. Boucher attended him. He was found to be suffering from severe bruises on the chin and shoulders and from concussion of the brain. He is doing well now and will be all right in a few days.

Miss Johnston, late dress-maker for R Walker & Sons, Toronto, has come to Peterborough and taken charge of TURNBULL'S Dress making. She will, no doubt, prove a valuable acquisition to Peterborough citizens, and make TURNBULL'S the favorite resort for fashionable Dress making.

Mr. Ed. Snyder, Inspector of Northwest Mounted Police, is in town. The climate of the Northwest seems to have agreed with him.

A Bungling Slanderer.

We have received what purports to be an account of the North-west campaign with the title "Reminiscenses of a Bungle." The writer, who professes to have been in the Surveyor's Corps, shows one solitary sign of decency by being ashamed to affix his name, otherwise proving himself a snob, a slanderer and a braggart. He showers vulgar abuse upon Gen. Middleton, Gen. Strange, Col. Straubenzie, Major Boulton, his own commanding officer, Capt Dennis, and, indeed, derides and undervalues the services of the officers and men generally. His only words of praise are for Col. Williams of the Midlanders, "Gatling" Howard and some of the officers of the Mounted Police, and these are uttered apparently only to give point by comparison to his depreciation of others. He does not confine his abuse to the combatants in this campaign, venting it also indiscriminately upon Gen. Wolsely, the British officers and army, the Canadian Parliament, etc. His leading idea seems to be that a surveyor should have been appointed Commander-in-Chief and that he should have been that surveyor. He and his book are miserable compound of vanity and vindictive envy of his betters.

A SOCIAL MEETING.

Festival held in the Charlotte Street Church.

On Friday evening a harvest home festival was held in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church.

From half past six till eight tea was served by the ladies in the prettily decorated school room.

At eight o'clock the people went into the church, which was brightly lighted up. The pulpit, organ pipes and the railing of the choir gallery were adorned with fruits, flowers, and the miscellaneous produce of the harvest field.

Mr. Schneider, the organist of the church, gave an organ solo.

There were on the platform: The pastor, the Rev. I. Tovell, in the chair, the Rev. F. H. Wallace, and the Rev. Coverdale Watson, a former pastor of the church.

The CHAIRMAN made a few remarks. He was pleased to say that this, their first social gathering since his pastorate, it was a source of great pleasure to see so many present. He was glad to see so many George street church people down to-night They were heartily welcomed—both pastor and people—on occasions of this kind and any other occasion. He briefly referred to the work of Rev. Mr. Watson in British Columbia.

Mr. SCHNEIDER gave another organ solo.

The Rev. F. H. WALDACE, M.A., B.D., pastor of George street church, was called on. He responded to the kind greeting which had been extended to him and the George street church people, and would return it by heartily inviting Mr. Tovell and the Charlotte street church congregation to come up and see them on all occasions, and thus keep up that friendly intercourse between the congregations of their two churches in this beautiful town of Peterborough.

Further remarks of a pleasant nature, fitting to the occasion, were made, in which he alluded to Mr. Watsan's popularity while that gentleman was pastor of Charlotte street church.

Mr. STEPHENS sang a sacred song.

The Rev. Mr. WATSON was introduced in a felicitous manner by the pastor. He felt very much like Rip Van Winkle must have felt when he woke from his long sleep. It seemed like a dream that he was present here again after the lapse of years. His feelings were mingled. He could scarcely express them. He missed the old faces, and yet he was glad to shake hands with some old associates. Great changes had taken place in both the church and the town. The church was very much improved since his departure. There was also a great improvement in the George Street Church. He could see, too, changes and modifications in the Methodism of Ontario. He took it that things were going on to the realization of the Divine work. They should hold themselves ready to adopt any method to contribute to the accomplishment of their great object. If they did not they became cold, they came to a standstill. When he left here the Salvation Army were not at work. He looked upon this organization as an evidence of spiritual progress He said that if ever the Methodist Church ever had a genius of its own it was the genius of adaptation. It should, when ancestral customs crumbled and fell, accept it and say "the lower scaffolding is unnecessary as the fabric rises." He spoke of British Columbia only as a country. Time would not admit of his going into detail as to his work there. He would simply say that he felt thankful that God had allowed him to cross this wonderful continent. He referred to the scenery of British Columbia in a practical way and described the climate and several physical features. Concluding he said that the Christian work done there was productive of great results—so great that the future was very bright and hopeful.

Miss Ella Cox sang a solo and the proceedings were brought to a close with the singing of the Doxology and the pronouncing of the benediction.

COL. MILLIGAN'S OPINION

As to the Prospect of Canada's Raising Horses for Imperial Service.

Lieut.-Col. Milligan, of the British army, was in town on Friday dispensing pensions to the old British soldiers residing in Peterborough.

The Colonel is a lover of horses. His long experience with horses has given him a thorough knowledge of the good points as well as the bad. In conversation with the reporter for the REVIEW he readily gave his views respecting the probability of the supply of cavalry horses for Imperial service being drawn from Canada.

As yet, he says, there is little inducement for Imperial agents to visit Canada, as there are not the right kind of horses in sufficient numbers to be bought. The kind of horses required is one with plenty of bone, not too heavy, and standing between 15.3 hands and 16.1 hands. Nor is there, he says, much inducement for farmers to raise these horses. The market is not established yet. A farmer at present may raise these horses with it being doubtful whether they will ever go where they are destined for. It takes less trouble to rear the grade now raised and a ready market is afforded for them into the bargain. The proper thing to do, he says, is for the Government to take the matter in hand. A Government stud farm might be established near the Rocky mountains where the grass is plentiful and succulent and where the climate is admirable. The Government would be doing the same as it is now going to promote agriculture, viz., establishing experimental farms. There is no doubt, Col. Milligan says, that the experiment will be a successful one. The cost of raising would be little and the price good. When it was found that horses of the right kind were raised in large numbers the agents of not only the Imperial Government, but those of France, Germany, and other countries would come here for their supplies. With a large Govermental farm as a nucleus, the Colonel says the system might easily be extended through Ontario and Quebec, a plan for accomplishing which he says he has thought of. This would give the farmers throughout these Provinces an easy means of recouping themselves in a measure for the loss they are sustaining from the low price of wheat.

Col. Milligan's opinions are of weight. He was for several years in a mounted corps and knows just the kind of horses required. He knows from experience in training and handling horses how to bring about desired results. In England he owned the well known racers: Veni, Newton Le Willows, Leading Suit, and others. He was the owner of Alarm, who carried off the Welton stakes at the Woodbine, Toronto, for three successive years. He also owned the celebrated jumping mare Kathleen. He picked her out of a farmer's team and purchased her for $60. After being in his hands for some time she was taken to the exhibition grounds. She defeated the best jump, 4.10 feet, by one inch, and afterwards gave an exhibition, leaping 5½ feet. He sold her for $400. She afterwards became the property of a company and was taken to the United States, where, within a year, they made $10,000 out of her.

THE GREAT HORSE DICKER.

Cummings Comes off Triumphant—The Coup D'etat.

Ever since the trial of the assault case arising out of the horse dicker between Cummings, the Salvation Army man, and Alex. McDonald, trouble has been brewing. His defeat and overthrow rankled in Cumming's mind and it only wanted a circumstance to have the Hunter street scene repeated.

Cummings had fully made up his mind to get the $40 horse back again at the first available opportunity. On being interviewed on the subject of his position in the matter a short time ago he made the statement that his was one of those peculiar cases in which the law would give no assistance. If he brought the matter before the court the security he would have to give would amount to about as much as the horse was worth. Then there was the possibility of his being defeated. He announced however, in an undertone, that he would have the horse yet.

The opportunity presented itself this forenoon at half past nine o'clock. Young McDonald was drawing slabs with a team, one of which was the Cumming horse Cumming watched his chance and as young Alex. was unsuspectingly driving along past Mr. Peter Hamilton's foundry, the bold stroke was made. Cummings demanded his horse, which was of course refused. Without further parley he began to unhitch the horse, and a heavy load being in the rear the driver could not get out of the way with the team. The young man jumped off the load and a prolonged debate with fists took place in the middle of the street, which was, by this time, crowded with rigs and people. The young man grew tired of fists. He armed himself with a slab and asserted several times that he could lay his antagonist low while the watch ticked less than ten seconds. He merely said this; he did not do it. While Alex was losing time in useless words Cumming was busy in freeing his horse from the harness. The police were telephoned for, but before any arrived the fracas was over and Cumming was away. Alex said that the police "was a nice party to allow a fellow to be deprived of a horse in the public street." He added, addressing the crowd, that he would regain the horse if he broke his back.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK.

MONDAY, Oct. 17.—Robt. Bowran was charged by Acting Chief Adams with being drunk on Sunday. The prisoner, when he heard the charge, melted into tears. Mr. Stevenson, J.P., who sat on the bench, was moved so much by the prisoner's grief and the improbability of his being able to pay a a fine that he allowed the man to go.

Broke His Leg.

Mr. D. Porter, of the firm of Porter Bros., and an employee at the carriage factory, Mr. Foster, was engaged this forenoon in taking down the building erected on the exhibition grounds by Messrs. Porter Bros., in which to make their exhibit during fair week. Both were on top of the building when it gave way. Mr. Foster was thrown against the post and had his left leg broken a little above the knee. Mr. Porter was unhurt. A hack was got and Mr. Foster was taken to the Nicholls Hospital, where the necessary surgical operation was performed by Dr. King and Dr. Halliday.

More Coal Oil.

On Saturday evening an attempt was made to burn Mr. H. Rossiter's house. Coal oil placed on the verandah and set afire. It was put out without much exertion.

Buy your Wall Paper now, instead of next spring at A. L. Davis & Co's clearing sale.

Church Notes.

Dr. Barnardo, of London, occupied the pulpit in the George Street Methodist Church on Sunday morning. He preached a practical and instructive sermon, taking as his text Luke xxii, 31-32.

The Charlotte street Methodist church was crowded on Sunday evening to hear the Rev. Coverdale Watson preach. He took his text from II Corinthians, iii, 5 6,—"Not that we are sufficient to ourselves to think anything as of ourselves but our sufficiency is of God; who also hath made us able ministers of the New Testament, not of the letter, but of the spirit; for the letter killeth but the spirit giveth life." The tenor of the sermon was to combat the idea that the gospel may be preached eloquently, earnestly, pungently, and if the Spirit of the Lord is not with it it is of no avail. God never said such a thing, but had said that He was ever with the preaching of His word. The result of believing this was that many people waited for some supernatural power to work their conversion. To support the idea advanced that the Spirit is not always with the preaching of the Word believers in it quoted passages of Scripture. And a passage often quoted was the one chosen as the text. To believe this was simply doing away with human responsibility and making God the greatest sinner in the universe. He set it down that the spirit of the Lord was omnipresent and must of necessity be with the preaching of His Word. A plain exposition of these passages was this: the letter that killeth was the ten commandments, as they were told in another passage that that letter was "written and engraved on stone." The ten commandments did kill. They brought sin to the surface, They were the moral straight-edge by which human action and human motives were measured. Yet they were dead; they offered no ray of hope for redeeming the sinner. And the ten commandments are used for the same purpose to-day. Many there were who were even now passing through the wilderness in conception, aspiration and desire. But what Paul preached was the spirit written on the heart—the spirit that gave hope and the assurance of life eternal. He said that the moment the sinner made a complete surrender to God that moment would the spirit of God take possession of the soul. All that was necessary was permission to run down the rebel flag and to run up the flag of the Lord. For God was not a housebreaker. He would not force an entrance. The surrender must be voluntary. But after all inducements had been held forth to induce that surrender. It might be that it would be said: "I cannot longer permit this man to exercise an evil influence. I have done everything I could to bring him to Me, but he is obdurate. Therefore will he be swept away." He made a strong appeal to every sinner to make a complete surrender.

The Rev. J. S. Wilson preached in the Omemee circuit on Sunday.

Mr. H. S. Griffin preached in the Mark st. Methodist Church on Sunday morning and Mr. J. S. I. Wilson in the evening.

The Rev. Joel Reddick, of Boston, Ont., occupied the pulpit of the Baptist Church, Murray street, on Sunday.

The Rev. M. Wilson, Toronto, formerly of Kingston, preached in St. Paul's Church on Sunday morning and Dr. Barnardo in the evening.

In this connection we are pleased to learn that Mr. Gallon, competing for a prize in gold offered for the largest business done in September, has captured the prize. The advertisement of this young and vigorous company appears in another column, to which we direct attention. We understand that several of our prominent citizens have subscribed for stock therein." ### GEORGE MARTIN'S EXPERIENCE.

Robbed and Kicked off the Steps of the Grand Trunk Express Train.

George Martin, a tinsmith boarding at 347 Queen-street west, was admitted to the Hospital late on Saturday night, in an unconscious state, suffering from serious injuries to the spine and bleeding profusely from a wound on the left side of the head. He was picked up in this condition on the railway tracks some distance from Union Station. At 8 o'clock according to his story, he had purchased a ticket for Cobourg, intending, as is his custom, to go home to spend Sunday. He states that as soon as the train got under way he stood on the platform of the car to count his money. There were a couple of men whom he did not know, standing with him, and one of these, he alleges, snatched the bills out of his hand while the other threw him off the platform on to the tracks. The train sped on her way, and Martin knew nothing further until he found himself in the Hospital. No arrests have been made in connection with this mysterious affair.—Toronto World.

VERY COLD GOLD.

The Precious Metal Mined in Alaska at Eighty Degrees Below.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—A miner from the new gold district in Alaska, has arrived and reports: "About 100 miners came out with us. Some had made as high as $1,000 during the season, while others were broke. The average was from $200 to $500 each. The thermometer falls to 80 degrees below zero up there. The ground is thickly covered with moss, and is frozen the year round. It is the most fearfully wild country imaginable. I would advise nobody to go in this region. I don't think the people would be justified in it. It has been greatly over estimated."

COMMERCIAL UNION.

Mr. Jos. Chamberlain Says It Would Mean Separation from Britain.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—In his speech at Belfast Joseph Chamberlain referred to Commercial Union between the United States in Canada. He said it meant a protective tariff against Great Britain, and that if Canada had Commercial Union she must be made to know it means a political separation from Great Britain.

The Fisheries Commission.

OTTAWA, Oct 15.—It is understood that Hon. Mr. Thompson, Minister of Justice, has, at the request of Sir Charles Tupper, consented to accompany him to Washington as the legal adviser in connection with the Fisheries Commission. The appointment of Mr Thompson will give general satisfaction and tend to greatly strengthen the hand of Sir Charles Tupper in his important position on the commission.

Not One Passenger.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The cholera-laden steamship Alesia, of the Fabre line, from Marseilles and Naples, started back to Europe yesterday without a single passenger. Nobody desired to risk his life in the plague-stricken vessel.

Punch with Care.

The overland roads to California have adopted a system of photographic tickets. We presume the purpose is to beat the scalper and prevent transferals. It is a very ingenious plan. Along the margin of the ticket the following is printed in small type:

Male—Female.
Slim—Medium—Stout.
Young—Middle aged—Elderly.
Eye—Light—Dark.
Hair—Light—Dark.

Mr. Gladstone then traces at length the progress of measures designed to give effect to the Irish aspirators to national life, and gives a sketch of the history of the eighteenth century. He says: "Awful as is the force of bigotry, hidden under the mask of religion but fighting for plunder and power with all the advantages of possession prescription and extraneous support, there is a David who can kill this Goliath. That conquering force lies in the principle of nationality and a growing sense of nationality prompted the Irish Parliament and developed its earlier struggles for privilege on a narrow ground into a genuine contest for freedom on a ground as broad as Ireland and humanity at large."

MR. MACDOUGALL'S ADVOCACY.

THE Hon. Wm. Macdougall has published an open letter to Mr. Mercier, discoursing at great length on the veto power, with the object of encouraging Manitoba to defy disallowance, and the conference of Reform premiers to urge a new and forced interpretation of our constitution.

As Mr. Macdougall's position as Queen's Counsel and former member of the Canadian cabinet may give more than their intrinsic weight to his present views and lend them an importance they would not otherwise possess, it is only just before considering them to draw the attention of our readers to his status in another respect. Mr. Macdougall, who has always been a political free lance, has now enlisted under the banner of his associate and near connection Mr. Erasmus Wiman, whose object of merging our Dominion in the United States would be aided by the success of the Winipeg agitation to withdraw its business from Canada and transfer it to the neighboring republic. Thus Mr. Macdougall cannot be regarded as an unprejudiced judge in the matter, but rather as a lawyer with a brief for the client retaining him.

Mr, Macdougall, however, knows too much law to utter the nonsense that suits the legal calibre of the London Advertiser. He does not care to perpetrate the adsurdity of claiming that Provincial legislation should be disallowed only when ultra vires As he remarks:—

"The question of disallowance, or veto, on grounds of policy belongs to the political department. Acts that are ultra vires may be (and as a general rule ought to be) dealt with by the judicial department, whenever the provincial authorities contest the question."

The veto power would therefore be an unnecessary and meaningless surplusage if confined to legislation that the courts could pronounce invalid, as Opposition journals maintain with all the rashness of ignorance.

Mr. Macdougall is also too well informed as a politician to join in the silly Opposition clamour that the Macdonald Administration has constantly mis-used the veto power, After discussing an order-in-council, to which we will refer presently, he says:—

"After nearly twenty years experience under the limitations of this Order-in-Council, for which as a member of the then government I was responsible, I confess I am unable to suggest any material amendment. Until the recent attempt to "check Manitoba" by disallowing a local Act within her jurisdiction, and not objectionable for any of the reasons specified in the order of 1868, no serious complaint against it has reached my ears."

His disapproval is reserved for the prevention of Winnipeg's plan of tapping the C.P.R. for the benefit of foreigners.

Without exposing himself to ridicule by supporting such unfounded claims, Mr. Macdougall contents himself with doing his duty to his clients by making the best of their case and forcing the most favourable interpretation he can of the facts while carefully keeping the weak points out of sight.

Beginning with the resolutions of the Quebec conference in 1864, which formed the basis of confederation, he quotes from the preamble as follows:—

"2. In the Federation of the British American Provinces, the system of government best adapted under existing circumstances to protect the diversified interests of the several provinces and secure efficiency, harmony and permanency in the working of the Union, would be a general Government charged with matters of common interest to the whole country, and Local Governments for each of the Canadas and for the Provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, charged with the control of local matters in their respective Provinces."

In vain Mr. Macdougall uses all his ingenuity to explain away these words which embody the very spirit of our constitution —local control of local matters, central control of matters of general interest. In vain does he urge at length that the British North American Act is not exactly similar to the resolutions of the Conference—both contain exactly this same principle.

It was impossible for Mr. Macdougall in giving the history of the veto power, to avoid reference to the debates on confederation. But here again he has recourse to forensic strategy. He quotes the Hon. A. Dorion as objecting to the proposed veto power, because, while the English authorities were not influenced by our local prejudices or jealousies, the Dominion authorities might be induced by a friendly provincial minority to disallow the legislation of a hostile majority. He also quotes Sir Hector Langevin's reply showing that the Dominion authorities would be responsible to the people of Canada which the English authorities were not. Of course all this, though interesting and important, is quite beside the point now at issue, but under cover of these quotations, he endeavours to draw attention from the fact that he avoids all mention of the declarations of leading statesmen that the veto power to direct the general policy of the country was absolutely necessary. To say nothing of the Conservative leaders, he conceals the arguments of such Reformers as the Hon. Alex. Mackenzie and the Hon. Geo. Brown that the veto power was essential for the unity and stability of the Dominion, which without it could have no sufficient coherence or definite general policy.

But we will pass on to Mr. Macdougall's most cunning trick of fence, as an advocate striving to give the most favourable turn to points really telling against him. He quotes the following recommendation by Sir John Macdonald, then Minister of Justice, as to the course to be observed by his department:—

"5. That he make separate reports on those acts which he may consider;

1st. As being altogether illegal or unconstitutional;

2nd. As illegal or unconstitutional in part;

3rd. In cases of concurrent jurisdiction as clashing with the legislation of the general Parliament;

4th. As affecting the interests of the Dominion generally;

And that in such report he gives his reasons for his opinions."

As he tells us this recommendation was approved by order-in-council. We may remark in passing that this recommendation, though covering the great majority of cases and thus useful for guidance, was by no means necessarily exhaustive. Nor has the recommendation of Sir John, nor even the approval of the Cabinet, great weight though both must have, the force of an amendment of our constitution, if they should conflict. But to come to the main point, every one of these recommendations, which Mr. Macdougall approves so highly, really covers the case of the disallowance of the Winnipeg railway. To take numbers one and two: the charter, even if it should not be held illegal in the sense that by a legal quibble it might, perhaps, be considered within the letter of the act, is clearly unconstitutional as transgressing the general provision that inter-provincial and international means of communication should be within the jurisdiction of the Dominion, not of the Provinces. Take the third case: even if Manitoba had jurisdiction it could at best only be concurrent, for the right is clearly given to the Dominion Parliament to legislate in such matters. Take the fourth case: does not a railway avowedly designed to divert traffic from Canadian to foreign railways "affect the interests of the Dominion generally?" Does not a railway avowedly intended to facilitate shipments from foreign, rather than Canadian, ports do so? Does not a railway avowedly intended to open an asserted "natural market" abroad in preference to one in the rest of Canada do so also? Is it not the same with a railway that its promoters boast will injure our great national road, and that is welcomed with triumph by the foreign road with which it is to connect and which it is to benefit? Is it not the same with a comparatively cheap little spur line meant to steal the traffic collected at great expense by a railway to which the people of Canada have contributed a large share of the cost, an investment which would thus be rendered far less valuable? Finally, would it not effect the interests of the Dominion generally if one of its Provinces could thus nullify its deliberately adopted national policy—its policy of fostering home trade and industries and maintaining inter-provincial means of communication within its own territory from ocean to ocean? Never was there a stronger case for the exercise of the veto power.

Every one of these points Mr. Macdougall carefully abstains from discussing, and he cannot make amends for the omission by rhetorical appeals to a conference of Reform Provincial Premiers assembled to agitate for setting at naught our constitution and reducing our Dominion to a mere loose aggregation of Provinces with no general policy and no national coherence.

"Did n't Know 't was Loaded"

May do for a stupid boy's excuse; but what can be said for the parent who sees his child languishing daily and fails to recognize the want of a tonic and blood-purifier? Formerly, a course of bitters, or sulphur and molasses, was the rule in well-regulated families; but now all intelligent households keep Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which is at once pleasant to the taste, and the most searching and effective blood medicine ever discovered.

Nathan S. Cleveland, 27 E. Canton st., Boston, writes: "My daughter, now 21 years old, was in perfect health until a year ago when she began to complain of fatigue, headache, debility, dizziness, indigestion, and loss of appetite. I concluded that all her complaints originated in impure blood, and induced her to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine soon restored her blood-making organs to healthy action, and in due time reëstablished her former health. I find Ayer's Sarsaparilla a most valuable remedy for the lassitude and debility incident to spring time."

J. Castright, Brooklyn Power Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "As a Spring Medicine, I find a splendid substitute for the old-time compounds in Ayer's Sarsaparilla, with a few doses of Ayer's Pills. After their use, I feel fresher and stronger to go through the summer."

By WALTER BESANT.

Eight bags—there were no more. I laid them altogether on the table, felt in the drawer for the ball of string which the practical mind of Joshua made him always keep there, and tied them all together, and attached about three yards of string by which to hang them in their place.

There must have been a good sum of money in the whole, because the bags were pretty heavy to carry. I dropped them cautiously out of window, crept outside myself and carried away the bags.

The great undershot wheel of the mill occupied, as we know already, one end of the building which formed both mill and cottage. It stood there under a broad, sloping penthouse of heavy thatch which made it dark in the brightest day. Once, long before, when the wheel was stopped for some repairs, I held it in its place by a wooden spoke and amused myself by climbing to the top under this projecting roof. It was a girl's trick, and rather a dangerous one. I got no good, not even the nest which I expected to find; but I saw hidden away in the darkness a great hook stuck in the wall. What it was originally placed there for I do not know, but it was so high up, so hidden by the wheel and the black shadows of the roof, that it was quite invisible from below. That was the place for my bags First I stcceeded by tying a spoke of the wheel to one of the beams in the wood work in keeping the wheel, over which the water was no longer running, motionless while I climbed up. Then I mounted the wheel, which was now like a ladder, and clambered up three or four of the undershot buckets till I could reach the wall close under the roof. Here I felt about in the darkness till I found the hook, and then tying the end of the string securely to it I lowered the bags slowly into the black water beneath. I heard above the noise of the falling water the splash of the bags, I felt them touch the bottom, and then with a great gladness in my heart, thinking of Joshua's rage when he should find out his loss, I cautiously descended from the perilous perch, untied the spoke and considered what to do next.

The first temptation—a childish one—was to hurl stones at his bedroom window, so as to awaken him and bring him down, but I abandoned that idea, as another and a more brilliant one occurred to me.

Joshua had sold twenty kegs out of the cargo to Mr. Mallock, the justice of the peace. No doubt he had arranged, or was arranging, for the sale of all the rest. No doubt, too, he intended adding the proceeds of this transaction to the pile—aha! the pile beneath the hearthstone.

I set off to run almost the whole of the way back to Rousdon, under the impulse of this new idea, which filled my mind. It was about 11 o'clock, as I should judge. It took me nearly an hour before I got to Rousdon farm. I had business to do, and there would be no thought of bed for me that night. But first I went into the house, found some supper, and procured certain handy tools necessary for my purpose.

Had I time to do it? It had taken nearly four hours to remove the cargo of the Dancing Polly from the boat to the hiding place; could I do what I proposed in six?

I would try.

There certainly was no stronger girl than myself along the whole shore. The life I had led in the open air—the rowing, sailing and fishing; the gardening, the rambles and climbs among the crags of the Holmbush fields and Pinhay point; the sea bathing, the generous but simple diet—all these, added to a physique to which dame nature had been generous, made me active and muscular above the average even of young women living like myself. Yet it was a heavy task which I proposed to effect.

It was nothing less than to carry every single keg down to the sea shore, turn out the contents, fill them with sea water and carry them back again. Fifty kegs at least. Two hundred journeys up and down that steep cliff, each time with a weighty burden. But the thought of Joshua's consternation when he should discover it gave me courage.

When I had got all but six or seven down the cliff another thought struck me. There were the two kegs for my informant, John Beer. It would not be fair to give him sea water, after the service he had done. There was also the poor old rector. What would he do without his brandy? and unless I provided for him, he would get none till Dan and the boys came home again. So I removed the last six, and carried them away to a place where I was pretty certain Joshua would not think of looking for them. And then I proceeded to the next part of my task.

The kegs were now all in a row upon the beach, lying on their sides. I went from one to the other, and, with my hammer and chisel forced out the bung from every one. In a few minutes the smooth water of the little bay was salt water brandy grog, rather weak, and the kegs were empty.

To fill them again quickly was more difficult. I had to take off shoes and stockings, tuck up skirts, and wade in the water, carrying each keg separately. It was now growing late. I must have been at work five hours, and yet the kegs had all to be carried back.

Well, it was done at length. The day was breaking as the last keg was laid in its place, and the brambles pulled together to hide them. The tide had come up in the bay, and washed away all the traces of the brandy which had been spilt so freely on the stones. I sat down and tried to think soberly what I had done.

A villain was punished; the meanest, most treacherous, most cold blooded scoundrelism ever perpetrated had received some sort of a fit reward. In a few days, perhaps in a few hours, the traitor would find his hearthstone prised up, and his treasure gone. A few hours more, and he would discover that his prize from Dan's unlucky run was not worth the kegs which contained it.

A STUDENT'S VACATION.

A CORNELL MAN HIRES OUT TO DRIVE A CANAL BOAT.

A Very Enjoyable Sort of Existence—Advantages of Spending a Summer on the Tow Path—The Captain's Daughter. Exchange of Magazines.

A reporter walking up the tow path at lower Black Rock one day overtook a canal boat, on whose stern was painted "Polly Forbes of Schenectady." In a minute more he had come up with the mules and their driver. Under the mules' collars were great rings of raw flesh, constantly chafed and irritated by the hot leather. They limped painfully onward, too hopelessly wretched to resent the jerks and scourgings of the driver, who himself seemed a fitting companion for his beasts, for whenever the dust discovered his clothing it was a mass of patches, and a torn wide brimmed straw hat protected his head.

"Hello!" said he as the reporter came along, "would you be kind enough to tell me the time?"

"Half past 11."

"Ah, thank you; half an hour till dinner time, and I'm hungry enough now to eat both Pegasus and Bucephalus. They're the ambling steeds you see before you. Full of fire, especially under their collars. They look a little weary now, for they've been on the tramp for ten days nearly."

"And you have almost as hard a lot as the mules, I fancy."

"Well, that's just as you look at it. I rather like it myself. Of course I get footsore on the tow path, but then when I'm off I can't do much but rest and read. I've been reading considerable of Tennyson and Browning this summer."

"Hey!" said the astonished reporter.

"Tennyson and Browning. I began 'The Ring and the Book' six weeks ago on the up trip from New York. I'm making a study of it. You see we can hardly keep up with current literature in college."

"In college!"

A CORNELL STUDENT.

"Yes; I am a Cornell man, and I spend my summers on the towpath. That is, I have the the last two. The first summer I hired out as a waiter at a seaside hotel, but my rich southern blood couldn't stand it; so the last two summers I've followed the profession of a mule driver. Of course, I have to stand round and obey orders; but I look out for a good captain, and so don't have it so rough as some of them."

"But don't you have to put up with many privations!"

"Oh, no; just come aboard at dinner time, and you can see for yourself. The walking is beneficial to one's health, and while the feet get sore at first that quickly wears off. Then, too, the canal passes through some of the richest farming country in the state, and I wouldn't ask for finer scenery than that in the Mohawk and Hudson river valleys."

A hail from the boat caused the driver to pull up his mules until they fairly rested on their haunches. A gangway was laid across to the bank and the mate came ashore to take the place of the driver, who went aboard, followed by the reporter. Near the middle of the deck was a pail which the driver let down into the canal and brought up full of water in which he washed himself.

"I don't believe the women folks wil make a fuss," said he. "If they do I'll tell them you're a chum of mine."

He led the way to the cabin steps, down which he disappeared, followed by his companion. Before the reporter could take note of the cabin he became aware that a buxom young woman was doing up her hair before a small looking glass which hung over a very small bureau. She wasn't half so disconcerted as he was, however, and when the driver had explained his companion's appearance she calmly proceeded with her toilet.

The cabin stretched clear across the boat, some ten or twelve feet, and was some seven feet deep. Doors opened out of it to the berths in the rear. Snow white muslin curtains hung at the little windows. On the floor was a bright ingrain carpet. Vases and knicknacks covered the top of the bureau.

A brown eathenware pot of tea sung on the tiny stove, and the table, spread with a snowy cloth, was set with stone china dishes and wooden handled knives and three tined forks.

THE CAPTAIN'S DAUGHTER.

The dinner, while not elegant, was hearty. There was corned beef, with boiled potatoes, green corn and tomatoes, everything well cooked. The captain's daughter, for she it was, presently tore herself from the glass and sat down to pour the tea. She wore a blue and white striped calico gown, a silver brooch and a celluloid comb, and the canal driver addressed her as Polly. She talked like a woman born to command, and her conversation was interspersed with forcible slang expressions.

A savory apple pie was put on the table for desert, and the canal driver remarked that he always ate largely of it, because he considered it an excellent brain food.

"We have an economical way of reading the magazines," said he. "You may have imagined that canal men are an illiterate lot. They are, as a rule, but there are exceptions, and a good many of them. Now, the captain of this boat has a chum on the canal who is a great reader. He usually makes a trip east, while we're coming west.

"So when The Harper comes out in New York he buys it, and in the five days before he meets us he reads it all through; then when he passes us throws the magazine to us. We do the same thing with The Century, buying it in Buffalo and handing it over to him when we meet. Have another piece of pie. No? Oh, yes, this way of passing the summer is infinitely preferable to being cooped up in a hotel as a waiter. Now, here I am practically independent; I can wear the worst clothes in the world; the food is good, as I think you will admit; the work is healthy, and not only gives one whiffs of the country air, but puts you in contact with all sorts of queer characters. The trip down the Hudson in the tow is worth a fortune to any observing person. The money we get, you see, is clear gain. When I go back to Ithaca in three weeks I'll be $50 in pocket, to say nothing of the experience and pleasure gained."

The driver here shoved back his chair and led the way to the deck. The boat was slowly approaching the Georgia street bridge.

"There," said the driver, "most people imagine that the canal is as noisome and ugly as this is all the way to Albany.

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air-passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain

Fish, Fish.

White Fish, Trout, Lunge and Bass at Ostrom's.

Recovery.

Mr. Joseph Pym, who was injured on the loop line on Saturday, is recovering. He was well enough to go to his home in Port Hope on Saturday night. His head and shoulders are very sore yet, however.

Improving.

Mr. J. J. Sheehy's dry-goods store is having a new face put on it. The men are at work putting in a fine sheet of plate glass Mr. Sheehy has a model store but spares no pains to improve it at every opportunity.

Now Open.

Chamberlain's oyster parlor is now open for the season. Oysters will be served at all hours in styles to suit the tastes of our patrons. After this week shell oysters will be kept constantly on hand. Porter-house steaks, chops, etc., prepared on the shortest notice. d69 tf

TURNBULL'S direct importations of Mantle Cloths please everybody. The styles are new and prices are very low.

Fire.

At about 11 o'clock on Saturday night the rear part of Mr. Wm. Yelland's house was found to be on fire. Mr. and Mrs. Yelland, who had retired, had scarcely made their appearance before the Fire Brigade were on the spot. In a few minutes the flames were put out. An examination was made and two bottles which had contained coal-oil were found The loss was trifling.

Personal.

Mr. Gaele, of the Bank of Toronto, and Mr. McDonald, of the Bank of Montreal, left town this morning for Georgean Bay, where they will engage in duck shooting.

Mr. W. Bunton, of the firm of Hurley & Bunton, owns a parrot. Among other tricks the bird did on Saturday was to seize Mr. Bunton by the end of his thumb and bite a hole through the nail.

The Lindsay Warder says:—"Geo. S. Miller, Esq. of Port Perry, paid his brother, Mr. Henry Miller, manager for John Dobson, Esq., a visit this week. He leaves Port Perry next month for Peterborough, where he will enter into business."

May Denstone in "David Garrick."

"Miss Marguerite St John throughout the play held the mirror up to nature, her acting being distinguished by delicacy and refinement.' —Southport News, June 24th, 1885.

"Her May Denstone was one of the most refined and cultured stage efforts we have had the pleasure of witnessing. .....

The presence of the Mayor and Mayoress gave an eclat to the proceedings, and when his worship left his seat to present Miss Marguerite St. John with a bouquet from the Mayoress, it was taken as an indication of a desire to give expression of their appreciation of the young lady's splendid acting."—Eastbourne Standard June 7th, 1884.

SINGLE FARE! Half fare! In fact it will not cost you anything to see KIDD's stock of boots and be convinced that his prices are right.

The Trent Valley Canal.

Unable to find any valid grounds upon which to assail the Trent Valley Canal, yet feeling bound to find fault with the construction of an important and useful public improvement by the Macdonald Administration, the Kingston Whig resorts to malicious falsehood. It says: —"The banks of the canal were falling in about as fast as the cut could be dug out." The fact is that the "cut" has been blasted out of the rock, and the bottom and sides are either solid bed rock or masonary almost as solid. When a work and a Ministry can only be assailed by the use of such base tactics as slanderous falsehoods, it shows that there is no just ground for finding fault with either.

KEENE FAIR.

The Otonabee Township Society's Agricultural Exhibition.

An exhibition was held at Keene on Friday under the auspices of the Otonabee Township Agricultural Society and it was fairly successful. The number of entries was 404, which was 77 more than at the last exhibition held by the Society. The gate receipts amounted to $108, and the admission fee being 15 and 10 cents this would probably represent an attendance of between 800 and 900.

The show of horses was a good one, and the cattle shown were fine specimens, though their number was not large. There were very good exhibits of sheep and pigs. The display of grain was a fine one, and there were good samples of roots of various kinds. The ladies' work and home manufactures departments were filled, and a very good collection of apples was shown. In fine arts two oil paintings graced the walls.

Mr. H. Owens, of Peterborough, was on hand with samples of his Model Force and lift pumps. Mr. C. C. McDonald, also of Peterborough, showed the Chatham fanning mill. Messrs. Wright & Payton, Peterborough, showed samples of their manufacture of pumps. Mr. W. T. Mather showed an open carriage, two buggies and a "Perry patent" cart. Mr. J. H. Brown of Jermyn, had a sleigh showing how Mr. P. G. Walker's sleigh brake works. Mr. J. Thompson, Westwood, showed ploughs and harrows. Mr. J. W. Crosby, of Peterborough, was present with two Uxbridge organs.

REV. DR. NELLES.

Death of the Chancellor of Victoria University.

COBOURG, Oct. 17.—At 4.30 o'clock this afternoon Rev. Dr. Nelles, Chancellor of Victoria University, died of typhoid fever, after only six days' illness. He was conscious to the last. The town and college are in deep mourning over an irreparable loss.

Samuel S. Nelles, D.D., LL.D., for 37 years at the head of the University of Victoria College, was a son of William and Mary Hardy Nelles, and was born at Mount Pleasant, near Brantford, October 17, 1803. His paternal ancestors were originally from Germany, and were among the early settlers in the Mohawk Valley, New York. In 1839 he went to Lewiston Academy, N.Y., where John G Saxe, the poet, was his tutor. In June, 1842, Mr. Nelles was one of the first two students matriculated at Victoria College, Cobourg. After spending two years in this institution he finished his undergraduate course at the Wesleyan University, Middleton, Conn., and received the degree of B.A. in 1846.

Returning to Canada, Dr. Nelles was appointed to the Presidency of Victoria College and since September, 1850, has held that responsible position. Under his administration Victoria College has greatly prospered. The degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by Queen's University in 1860, and that of LL.D. by Victoria University in 1873 He was held in high esteem by the educators of the Province, and was loved and revered by all who knew him. As a lecturer and preacher on educational subjects he had but few peers in the Dominion

In July, 1851, he married Miss Mary B. Wood, daughter of the Rev. Dr. Enoch Wood, of Toronto. Mrs. Nelles and five children, two sons and three daughters, survive to mourn the loss of a husband and father, who was uniformly kind and good. It is a rather curious coincidence that Dr. Nelles died on the anniversary of his 64th birthday. The funeral will take place at Cobourg on Wednesday afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

THE FISHERIES.

The Behring Sea Question to be Considered by the Commission.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Observer, the editor of which, Mr. Dicey, is close to the confidence of ministers, thus states what is really the Government's view of the Alaska question. Mr. Secretary Bayard may say that the Behring's Sea question has no connection with the Canadian fisheries dispute, but he will find it difficult to persuade any reasonable being that it has not. For two years past—indeed at intervals during the last forty years—the Americans have been working themselves into a bellicose humour because the British North American provinces claim jurisdiction over certain bays which are wider than six miles at the mouth. Yet now we find that they themselves claim jurisdiction over waters in the North Pacific more extensive than the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the North Sea and the Baltic all put together. The State Department at Washington has pointed out that the British Government has never raised the question of the right of the United States to exercise jurisdiction over the waters in Behring's Sea. But surely our Foreign Office would have been acting indiscreetly in raising such a question before it was not only claimed, but actually exercised. The last Republican President, Gen. Arthur, suggested in a presidental message that this question of sealing in Behring Sea should be dealt with by an international commission. This shows that the present exercise of a shadowy claim to exclusive jurisdiction is quite an afterthought on the part of the Washington Government.

Indians Ripe for Revolt.

MITCHELL, Dak., Oct. 17.—Major Anderson returned from Lower Brute on Saturday night, having arrested the ringleaders in the recent attack on the United States surveyors. The arrests were made with 25 armed Indian police without difficulty, and no further trouble is anticipated. A despatch from Pierre, however, says that, while there is no trouble among the Indians on this side of Crow Creek and Winnebago reservation, the Brute Indians are incensed at the surveyors engaged in alloting lands in severalty, and are ripe for a revolt.

AN ADOPTED DAUGHTER'S CRIME.

Smothers a Baby and Sets Fire to a House—Poisons Her Parent's Cow.

MANISTEE, Mich., Oct. 17.—Minnie Demorse, the adopted daughter of James Henderson, was arrested for larceny committed several months ago, but the real sensation in the case has just come to light. This spring Mr Henderson's cow died and her milk, just previous to her death, killed nine pigs. The girl confesses she poisoned the cow because she did not want to milk it. Mr. Henderson's house was set on fire five times in one day a few weeks ago, and the girl confessed she did that too. Mr. Henderson's baby died suddenly, and the girl confessed she smothered it because it cried and she did not want the trouble to care for it. She is 18 years old and was adopted fifteen years ago.

PERISHED IN THE FLAMES.

Destruction of a Crowded Barding House—Three Men Cremated.

QUEBEC, Oct. 17.—A telegram received here to-day announces the total destruction by fire at 11 o'clock last night of Robt. Neil's boarding house at Lake Edward. Sad to say three men perished in the flames, only their charred remains being found after the fire. Their names are Thomas Landers and George Scatton, firemen and William Buchanan, shopman. Landers is a married man with a large family belonging to this city, but his family are now at Island Pond, in the States. The other two men, it is stated, are unmarried. There were about fifteen boarders in the house, besides the Neil family of six children, nearly all of whom had more or less narrow escapes, some being scorched by fire and others bruised by jumping from the windows. Great heroism was displayed by Mrs. Neil in saving her six children. The fire is supposed to have originated from the explosion of a lamp, and the building being of wood burned very rapidly.

PROTECTION IN ENGLAND.

Spread of Protectionist Principles—Free Traders Becoming Fair Traders.

A despatch from London, Eng., says:—The Liberals are becoming embarrassed by the many signs of the spread of protectionist principles in this country. Lord Salisbury is a firm free trader, but the rank and file are becoming converted, and it is thought that many Conservative chiefs will hardly be able to resist the pressure which will be brought to bear on them. It is significant that several journals devoted to the agricultural subjects, which of course circulate largely in provincial districts, and which have hitherto been free traders, are now fair traders. One of the number goes so far as to declare that the protectionist party is established and only wants a leader. The protectionists announce that when they declare their policy they will compel the support of the Irish Nationalists, because protection to native industries is one of Mr. Parnell's demands. It is thought that Mr. Goschen will allude to fair trade in his forthcoming speeches. Nearly three years ago he withdrew from the Cobden Club, and since then he has been absorbed by the Conservatives.

Red River Road.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 17.—A syndicate of local capitalists, acting in connection with the city council, has made an offer to take up the entire three hundred thousand bonds of the Red River Valley railway on certain conditions, one of which is that this amount shall secure the completion of the road. Good lawyers have declared the bonds to be legal, but whether or not people have confidence in them is the question.

Fighting on the Colour Line.

RIVERSIDE, Texas, Oct. 17.—About one hundred negroes and Mexicans became engaged in a drunken riot last night and a regular battle followed, in which revolvers, knives, sticks and stones were freely used. Three negroes were seriously, and many others slightly, wounded. One Mexican was killed and two fatally injured.

Opium as a Baby's Food.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 17.—The third victim of the Genessee street baby farm died at the Rochester orphan asylum yesterday of opium poisoning, and there is another in a dying condition. Mrs. McDonald, the proprietor, is in jail on the charge of murder.

Railway Accident.

EMPORIA, Texas, Oct. 17.—The west bound passenger train, No. 6, on the Santa Fe road ran into a construction train two miles west of Strong City on Saturday afternoon, slightly injuring G. S. Bucher, postal clerk, and A. Thartnick, fireman. Several cars were badly damaged.

ADVOCATES FORCE.

Fancy the Chicago Tribune advocating measures calculated to benefit the Dominion! Canada has no meaner enemy on this continent than the Tribune, whose editor and proprietor, Mr. Joseph Medill, has more than once advocated the forcible annexation of Canada. Yet Canadian newspapers advocating Commercial Union regard the Tribune as a champion of Canadian interests because it is aiding Mr. Wiman in the dissemination of the gospel of unrestricted reciprocity. The Tribune is for Commercial Union because through it the obliteration of Canada would be assured. —Chicago Canadian American.

POLITICAL UNION ONLY.

Our esteemed Hochelagan contemporary, the Week of Toronto, condemns the idea of a commercial union between the Canadian Dominion and the big North American republic. "Any such arrangement," says the Week, "must reduce Canada to the position of a subsidized semi-dependency of the United States." This is perfectly true. It is a valid objection, but it could not apply to the situation that would be created by a political union of the two countries. Then there would be no subsidized semi-dependency about it, but equal rights, equal independence, and equal glory for all.—N. Y. Sun.

UNDER GLADSTONE.

The Moonlighter-Gladstonian organs of various countries are making much capital out of the statement made by Moonlighter Calliman, who said that he had been in the pay of the police for five years. ### THE INDUSTRIAL QUESTION.

ROME, Oct. 17.—In addressing the French pilgrims yesterday the Pope dealt with the industrial question, speaking unfavorably of state socialism, but insisting the governments should make the material interests of the working classes of the population their care. At the same time he urged his listeners to turn a deaf ear to revolutionary incitements, any yielding to which could only result in bitter deception. The Pope purposely avoided making any allusion to the Roman question, so as not to give offence to the Italian government.

THE CHINESE BANKING SCHEME.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Standard's Shanghai correspondent gives further particulars regarding the American banking syndicate. Mitklewicz, while trying to obtain the concession, used the name of Mr. Vanderbilt which was mentioned in the agreement signed by Li Hung Chang. Mr. Vanderbilt was warned, but not in time to prevent the use of his name. Then Mitklewicz mentioned the names of Messrs. Gould and Mackay and on Mr. Gould's denying his further connection with the syndicate, Mitklewicz engaged the Baring Bros., of London, who, after consulting a large banking firm of London, pronounced the scheme untenable. It transpires, moreover, that whatever railways and other works should be undertaken with the money raised in America were to be mortgaged to the syndicate.

LONDON'S UNIMPLOYED.

A Deputation to the Mansion House—A Mob in Trafalgar Square.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—A deputation of unemployed workingmen went to the Mansion house to-day and demanded that they be supplied with work. The Board of Aldermen referred them to the workhouse. When the deputation reported the result of their mission to those who had sent them, the mob became infuriated and marched toward the city surrounded by a force of police. They proceeded without committing any overt act until the Strand was reached, when they turned upon the police and attacked them with stones. The police charged upon the crowd and scattered them, capturing a number of banners. The mob then went to Trafalgar square, where several of the leaders made speeches, which had the effect of exciting the crowd. The police again made a charge, and after some resistance succeeded in clearing the square. After a time the mob, which had now gained some reinforcements, attempted to again enter the square, but after a general fight they were prevented from doing so by the police. Several policemen were injured and twenty arrests were made.

COLLAPSE OF A BUILDING.

Five Men Killed and others Seriously Injured.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—A four-story building in the course of erection at 443 East 115th street to be used as a schoolhouse, tumbled in this afternoon about 4 o'clock, and a number of mechanics who were at work were burned in the ruins. The building had reached the fourth story. It was intended for a parish school for the parish church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel. The whole front wall fell a few minutes before 4 o'clock. At the time there were over twenty men in the building at work and they were all buried in the ruins. The search was at once commenced, and at 6 o'clock this evening six dead bodies had been taken from the ruins. Four men were taken out seriously wound and almost suffocated. The supposition is that there are still fourteen men underneath the debris. Most of the workmen were engaged in the lower part of the building at the time of the accident. The side walls fell in immediately after the front wall gave way. The workmen were all Italians, and the school house was intended for the education of Italian children.

Two hook and ladder companies and numerous citizens are searching the ruins for the men still unaccounted for. There are no sounds to be heard from the wreck, and it is supposed those buried are all dead. Five lives were sacrificed and over a dozen were more or less severely injured by the falling of the walls.

THE LOSS FOR US.

Were we to have free trade with Canada to-night, more than 100 drummers would start from here for Canada before Monday next. Raw materials could be sent here and manufactures could be returned. It would be everything to gain and nothing to lose.—Rochester Post-Express.

THE METLAKAHTLAN INDIANS.

THE Montreal Witness is publishing with approval a highly imaginative account of the Metlakahtlan affair. As a keynote to this unfair tissue of misrepresentations we may quote the following sentence from the opening paragraph:—

"For the good fortune which has come to them they are indebted to the devotion of Wm. Duncan, missionary; for the calamity impending, to the Church Missionary Society and certain of its ecclesiastical emissaries."

Who would derive from the words any idea of the truth that Mr. Duncan was himself one of the emissaries of the Church Missionary Society, that he was their paid agent living on their money, and that any good results were effected by the Society through his services on their behalf and at their cost? Yet such are the facts.

Mr. Duncan appears to be one of that type of men, who are especially qualified to gain the confidence of uncivilized tribes, to make themselves chiefs, to partially civilize them, and to bring them to profitable habits of industry, not disdaining a share of the profits for themselves.

He no doubt deserves the credit of civilizing these savages, but he should not have taken the money of the Church Missionary Society under false pretences, while working to render his converts hostile to the religious views which the Society paid him to teach as their agent. He should not have trained his converts to share his own lax notions of honesty and the rights of property by inciting them to steal the land granted to the Society as a site for a church and other buildings, nor to rob the public by maintaining an unfounded claim to crown lands when they had already a very liberal reserve.

That Mr. Duncan's proceedings did not meet with the unanimous approval even of the Indians, is shown by the striking fact that all the head men of the tribe refused to follow him in his exodus.

The acceptance in some quarters of the absurd representations of the action of the Church Missionary Society, of the Bishop of the Diocese and of the Government, seems to arise from denominational jealousy from political prejudice, and from the hostility of certain citizens of the United States to anything Canadian or British. Mr. Duncan was certainly free to teach any religious views he pleased even if not those of the Church of England, but he should first have resigned their agency and refused their salary, and he should have taught and observed the seventh and tenth commandments which Christians of all denominations respect. He was free to come to Canada or to leave it, but while here he should not have incited his followers to disregard its laws and rebel against its authorities. His chieftainship of his semi-civilized flock seems to have imbued him with such sense of his own importance that he could not acknowledge any superior, but would be at the same time King and Pope of the Indians who owned his sway.

AFTER THEIR SCALPS.

CONSIDERABLE surprize is expressed that Sir Richard Cartwright, till lately such an obstinate and zealous free trader, should now be advocating the adoption of a tariff that is far higher and more protective than our own.

We cannot say we share in this astonishment, for with the right clue, there is a kind of consistency to be found in his apparently inconsistent course.

The fact is that Sir Richard Cartwright is an old-fashioned Tory at heart—a Tory of that almost extinct school which has a horror of manufacturers, of skilled mechanics and operatives. He would have none in the country but an aristocracy with himself as a great man among them, and a quiet easy going agricultural community whom he thinks he could induce to look up to him in his exalted position and confidingly follow his lead. Some of the pushing manufacturers might make themselves industrial chiefs—some of the skilled mechanics might secure patents for clever inventions, become rich and men of importance without due submission to his superior position. Such men might press too closely on his grandeur.

Whether this be the reason or not, it is certain that he has a virulent antipathy to the manufacturing class, whom he does not hesitate to describe as robbers. To frustrate their progress he has been a strong advocate of free trade with its unfair and crushing competition. To frustrate their progress he is now content to accept protection pushed to an extreme point, so long as it still leaves Canadian manufacturers exposed to overwhelming competition. He cannot claim that he is advocating free trade over at least a larger area, for by his theory a duty is a tax whether the goods are imported or not, so he would enable the United States manufacturer to tax Canadian consumers to a far higher amount than according to him the Canadian manufacturer has taxed them.

Whether a free trader or a protectionist Sir Richard Cartwright is still after the Canadian manufacturer's scalp.

Victory has Perched on the Banner of PETERBOROUGH'S GREAT CHEAPSIDE.

And SHEPPARD, by common consent, will get $1,000 for being the Cheapest Clothier in Peterborough, having knocked the Wonderful Cheap Man completely out. "Business is business; dirt is dirt, and when it comes to throwing dirt, then count" the only original teddy out, and he will hand over that $1,000 like a little man, for the following reasons:—

SHEPPARD sells a full size Man's suit for $2.95, and better goods than a suit to fit a child about nine years old sold by the Wonderful Cheap Man on Saturday for $3.00; but marked $3.50. This is how it was.—A lady purchased a child's suit on Saturday last, Sept. 17th, 1887, at the store of the Wonderful Cheap Man. It was marked thusly:—Lot 5375, Breast 27, Waist 26½, Age 9, Price $3.50. It was pure shoddy, being held together by cotton threads, and Sheppard is free to say that that was the dearest suit sold in the Town of Peterborough for the last two years. Full particulars are given because of the $1,000 involved, and, further, that this decides who is selling the Cheapest Clothing in Peterborough. SHEPPARD would have sold that lady a suit, pure wool, for that money, and worth two of the one she got.

$1,000 to Go to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

I had first decided to give the agencies a chance of jumping up my rating that $1,000, but after considering the matter and finding that never in any case have I been asked for an endorser to my paper, and that no relative or any other persons have ever endorsed my paper to the extent of one cent, I have come to the conclusion my credit is as good as yours, and will ask you to hand over the $1,000 to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

Now, Sir, there is a good story told, the truth of which can be vouched for, but for the honor of at least making an effort to keep up your self-styled name—The Terror of High Priced Clothiers—do not allow the same to be said of you in the case above. A man purchased a suit for $15.00 at the store of one of the largest advertisers in that section of country. It was guaranteed pure wool; but after examining it carefully at home, he came to the conclusion that he had been dealing with some one sharper than himself. Finding a make of wool, differing some from anything he had ever seen, it dawned upon him that he had heard of wool of that kind, so the suit was returned. The merchant bet $25.00 that it was all wool, and the bet was accepted, the decision being left to a neighboring merchant. He found that the $15.00 suit was wool faced and shoddy back, pure unadulterated shoddy; but what of the $25.00 bet? was it paid? Not much—muchly—as it were.

"Did n't Know 't was Loaded"

May do for a stupid boy's excuse; but what can be said for the parent who sees his child languishing daily and fails to recognize the want of a tonic and blood-purifier? Formerly, a course of bitters, or sulphur and molasses, was the rule in well-regulated families; but now all intelligent households keep Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which is at once pleasant to the taste, and the most searching and effective blood medicine ever discovered.

Nathan S. Cleveland, 27 E. Canton st., Boston, writes: "My daughter, now 21 years old, was in perfect health until a year ago when she began to complain of fatigue, headache, debility, dizziness, indigestion, and loss of appetite. I concluded that all her complaints originated in impure blood, and induced her to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine soon restored her blood-making organs to healthy action, and in due time reestablished her former health. I find Ayer's Sarsaparilla a most valuable remedy for the lassitude and debility incident to spring time."

J. Castright, Brooklyn Power Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "As a Spring Medicine, I find a splendid substitute for the old-time compounds in Ayer's Sarsaparilla, with a few doses of Ayer's Pills. After their use, I feel fresher and stronger to go through the summer."

ALL THE WORLD AT WAR.

By WALTER BESANT.

And yet I was unsatisfied. All this would not give me back my lover, nor bring home Dan and the boys, nor undo the misery of the past three weeks. I thirsted for more revenge.

When I rose to go home the splendid sun was rising over the waters of the channel, and the morning was clear and bright. Far off on the horizon I saw the sails of a great fleet. It must be Nelson's fleet. Among the ships somewhere were those I loved, going away to sea to face battle, sudden death, shipwreck, plague and pestilence, all by the act of one man.

I lay at home all that morning asleep. At 12 o'clock Mrs. Agus, surprised at my long sleep, awakened me and brought me some dinner.

Then I began to think again.

In the afternoon arrived my exciseman.

"Have you done anything to Joshua Meech, Pleasance?" he asked, in a breathless way, so that I knew he must have heard something.

"Done anything?"

"Ay. Joshua's been robbed—he's been robbed of all his money. He's been tearing round town all day. Ho! ho! I hope the information money was with it, too. Who could have robbed him?"

"Who could?" I echoed.

"It must have been some one who had a spite against him. Who but you had a spite? Oh! Pleasance, Pleasance! it's a hanging matter!"

"Don't talk wild," I replied. "If Joshua is robbed, so much the better. I am glad of it."

John Beer shook his head. He was only half satisfied.

"To be sure," he said, "I've seen gypsies about. You know best. Well, and how about the kegs, Pleasance?"

"I will give you the kegs at once if you will do me another favor. Nay, it is not to tell me more about Joshua; I know quite enough. It is only to carry some brandy to Parson Burden's."

"Why, I'll do that," he said, briskly, "and more, for your sake."

He took the wheelbarrow and very soon was trundling my present, which I had resolved to say was Dan's, to the good old rector.

On the way he mentioned casually that a press gang was in the neighborhood. "They don't know it, the boys at Lyme, else they'd keep at home for a day or two. There'll be a good few sailors more aboard his majesty's ships when that gang has done its business."

I thought nothing at the time.

But later on I started, remembering that Joshua had promised to deliver twenty kegs that morning, and that at daybreak he would be at the hiding-place. Another thought struck me.

I had no doubt, knowing the nature of the business, and the haste made after a run to get the cargo safely stowed away and disposed of, that Joshua intended to take it all in two loads, probably one that morning and one the next. This knowledge put a fatal power into my hands. I turned the thought over in my mind till it became a resolution, clear and determined. Since Joshua had sent Dan and all of them away to sea, he should go too.

Of course they could not take a miller from his mill—no. But suppose Joshua was caught, in boatman's rig, handling his kegs in Rousdon bay!

When John Beer had taken the rector his brandy, and carried off his own to some secure place which he knew of, probably to a friend in the town, a burning desire came over me to see Joshua Meech face to face and to triumph over his misfortunes. Tired as I was with my long night's work, I hastened to put on my hat and set off once more for my three mile walk across the fields.

I cannot pretend to anything but a feverish joy that so far my weary head suffered. I knew how mean and parsimonious he was, how he pinched and saved, denying himself luxuries and living hardly, in order to feel richer every day. I was quite certain that his chief pleasure was to open his hiding place secretly and count his treasures. I rejoiced to think how, in these moments, there was mixed up a feeling that he was saving up for me, and how that memory would be an additional stab for him. For me? Was it possible, even without his superhuman wickedness, for me to look upon another man after my glorious Will?

So he had already found out his loss. That was strange. Did he, then, look in the morning to see if it was safe? But perhaps the open window and the hanging shutter awakened his suspicions. I should soon know. As I drew near the mill, and looked down upon it from the top of the steep lane leading from the high road, I could not help feeling the contrast between the beauty of the place and the angry passions of its master and the girl who was going to visit him. But I had to hide my indignation. I composed my features as well as I could, and crossed his orchard.

Joshua was sitting on the bench outside the mill. The wheel was slowly going round and round, with its monotonous sound, and the mill was at work. But its master sat motionless, his head on his hands. He was trying to think who could have robbed him.

"Joshua!" I cried; "Joshua! What is the matter? Are you asleep?"

"I wish I was!" he replied, hoarsely. "I think I shall never be able to sleep again. What do you want, Pleasance?"

"I came to tell you, Joshua, that I saw the fleet pass along the horizon this morning. It must be Nelson's. Dan and the rest must be aboard one of the ships."

"Ay, ay; no doubt. Well, they—they—they will get through it, I daresay."

"Oh, Joshua, what a villain must he be who informed against them! What could we do to that villain to punish him properly? Tell me, Joshua."

"Do—do? What could we do? Put him in the duckpond, I suppose," he replied wearily.

"That would not be half enough, Joshua. I should like to take away all his money"—he started—"and to tell all the world, and send him away forever with the curses of the people."

To be continued.

What was the Matter?

The town drain connecting with the George street sewer at the corner of Simcoe street has been rooted up again. It was found that the sewerage would not flow from the drain because the drain, at the sewer, was almost a foot higher than at the other end. The builder of the drain had, it seems, forgotten that water flowed down hill, not up.

Wanted Legal Tending.

When a hotel man went to pay his fine at the Police Court this morning his bill came to $52.98. He handed the Clerk $53 and asked for the change. "Of course," said the Clerk, "You are entitled to the 2 cents, but I have no change." He then offered to pay the change with two one cent stamps, but the other objected saying that it was not legal tender. The Clerk went out and made a call loan of two coppers and made the thing square.

Debate on the Third Party.

The first members' meeting of the season in connection with the Young Men's Christian Association will be held on Thursday evening, Oct. 20th, in the Association lecture hall. Affirmative—Messrs. Bannell Sawyer and J. J. Wright. Negative—Messrs. S. R. Armstrong and A. E. Scott. Members are requested to note the date.

Scottish Martyrs.

In St. Paul's Church School room on Monday evening the Rev. A. Wilson delivered a lecture on the subject of "Scotland's Martyrs and the Principles for which they Suffered." The meeting was opened by the singing of a Psalm, Scripture reading and prayer. The lecturer entered upon his subject by reading several selections from the works of Walter Scott, Burns, and other Scotch poets. He then gave a concise account of the religious reform which took place in Scotland during the 16th century, and gave statistics as to the numbers who suffered and died for the principles they advanced. The Scottish martyrs, he said, gave religious freedom to Scotland, and all Scots should be as proud of men like Rutherford, the Duke of Argyle, John Brown and others, as the English were of the Magna Charta. He rehearsed the great struggle which Scotsmen had to gain an open Bible, and discussed the covert attack that was being made on it by introducing the Scriptures in a garbled form in the public schools. He quoted from Dr. Chalmers on the subject. Mr. Peter Hamilton moved a vote of thanks to the lecturer, seconded by Mr. Chas Cameron, which was carried. The lecture throughout was one of great interest. It was delivered in a vigorous manner.

THE DOURO GAS WELL.

Sunk Nine Feet Lower and More Gas the Result.

The well on Mr. David Forsyth's farm, lot 5, 1st Concession of Douro, was sunk nine feet lower on Saturday. The drill passed through a different formation in this nine feet, the rock being much softer and it was only occasionally that the drill met with resistance from hard rock. Rumbling and clicking noises were heard and continued after the drill was withdrawn.

The nine extra feet made the total depth of the well forty-nine feet. The drill was withdrawn and a match applied at noon on Saturday. The flame was stronger than it had been before, showing that the additional boring gave a larger volume of gas. It burned all day Sunday and was still burning on Monday morning. While the drilling was going on the water, which usually comes up to within twelve or fourteen feet of the top, disappeared three times and each time returned again.

The gas well, which is on the boundary between Douro and Dummer, is about six miles northeast of the first gas well discovered at Jermyn post office in Otonabee township. A valley runs from Jermyn through to Mr. Forsyth's and further on. Several persons in that district have sunk wells and found the water unfit for use on account of an oily taste, and one man a few years ago closed a well because the water tasted of salt.

Mr. Forsyth was in town on Monday getting a pump and some pipe to pump the water out of the well. He does not feel disposed to spend more money boring at present, but intends to sink it further next year. At any rate he hopes to be able to light his house with the natural gas.

SCOTT ACT.

Five Scott Act Cases Before The Police Court.

At the Police Court this morning Inspector Cochrane had five more Scott Act cases on the docket.

The first case called was Cochrane vs. Squires. The defendant occupies the bar premises in the Peterborough House. He pleaded guilty to a first offence against the Act and paid the fine which was imposed, $50 and costs.

Cochrane vs. Whalen was the next case. The defendant pleaded guilty to an infraction of the Act and was fined $50 and costs, which was paid. The defendant occupies the bar premises at the Stewart House.

Cochrane vs. Leiton was called, the defendant being charged with a first offence against the Act. He pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs. The defendant occupies the bar premises at the Croft House.

The next case was not despatched with the usual celerity. The defendant, John Boyd, who occupies the bar premises of the Snowden House, was charged with a second offence against the Act. He pleaded not guilty. He was examined by the counsel for the prosecution, Mr. E. B. Edwards. He swore that he had sold nothing intoxicating himself; that he did not drink himself and didn't know the taste of whiskey. He was positive that he sold no liquor which he knew to be intoxicating. Two witnesses came after who testified that they had got intoxicating drinks there, not from Mr. Boyd, but from a man attending at the bar. A fine of $100 and costs was imposed.

Cochrane vs Meron was called. The defendant was charged with a second offence against the Act. He did not appear and the case was enlarged till to-morrow. The defendant was before the court a few days ago on a similar errand, but the case was not proved against him.

TEACHERS OF THE COUNTY.

Township Conventions to be Held—The Subjects for Discussion.

The committee appointed by the County Teachers' Association for the purpose of organizing township conventions met in the office of the County Superintendent, Mr. J. C. Brown, on Saturday last.

It was arranged that the teachers of the townships of Smith, Harvey, Ennismore and Anstruther should meet at Bridgenorth on Saturday, 29th Oct., at 10 a.m.

The teachers of the townships of Asphodel, Dummer, Belmont and Methuen will meet at Norwood on Nov. 12th at 10 a. m.

The teachers of the townships of Otonabee, Douro and North Monaghan will meet at Ashburnham on the 26th Nov. at 10 a. m.

At each meeting the work of organization will be proceeded with, and the following subjects be discussed:—

1st. College of Preceptors.
2nd. Readers, and how to use them.
3rd. Difficulties in the school room.

The County Superintendant has kindly promised to assist at each convention if his duties will permit.

POLICE COURT.

Miss St. John.

Miss Marguerite St. John and company appeared in Bradburn's Opera House in the play "Life of an Actress." The audience was not large. The cast of characters was as follows:—

Grimaldi.....Mr G M Wood
Lord Arthur Shafton.....Mr H J Linton
Captain Maltravers.....Mr H Leader
Selwyn Dawdle.....Mr F C Brooks
Wopshot.....Mr H H Rignold
Walter.....Mr F Willoughby
Julia (an actress).....Miss Ruth Rose
Mrs Hopkins.....Miss J Dawson
Bridget.....Miss J Oliff
Violet (with song).....Miss Marguerite St John

The play is illustrative of the life of a girl, who is taken off the street and educated for the stage by an old actor. On the night of her debut she is kidnapped, but the timely arrival of her friends foils the plan of the villan. Miss St. John took the part of Violet fairly satisfactorily. She possesses a sweet voice, but one that has not the power to express strength of feeling. Her singing was very good. The other members of the company do not need notice, except Mr. Wood, as Gramaldi, who took his part with much credit. The musical comedy "The Loan of a Lover" was presented as an after piece.

The Concert of the Season.

The following is the programme of the concert to be given in St. John's School Room on Wednesday evening next, at 8 o'clock:—

Cooper and Greatrix.

A difficulty has arisen out of the Cooper-Greatrix matched bicycle race, dated for Oct. 6th. The agreement between the two men was that the loser should pay half of the cost of a cup, the Agricultural Association to pay the other half. In consequence of Cooper declining to run the race Greatrix went over the track and claimed it. Greatrix wrote to his opponent claiming his just dues, but Cooper has not yet complied, arguing that as the track was not in fit condition the race did not come off. This is the excuse given by the Belleville papers for the race not having come off. It is use less to argue it. Cooper distinctly agreed if Greatrix would consent to declare the race off that he would run an exhibition race for no stake. If the track was good for one race it was good for the other. I Cooper wishes to maintain a good standing among the craft he will pay up, even if only his own word binds him.

The "Illustrated News."

The Illustrated London News in its American edition of October 15th furnishes as usual many pictures upon a variety of subjects, including a double-page picture Deer Stalking in the Highlands, three pages devoted to the British Mission to Morocco, a most pleasing and instructive picture entitled A Sailor's Dog's Day, Sketches of Life On Board a Man of War, The Home of Florence Nightingale, &c., &c. The supply of reading matter is also abundant and interesting, while the number complete costs at retail only 10 cents. The office of publication is 237 Potter Building, New York.

No matter if a man is selling off an OLD stock, he can't sell boots as low as KIDD does.

A Farewell Banquet.

A banquet will be tendered by leading citizens to Mr. John Bertram, ex-M. P., at the Oriental Hotel, previous to his departure from Peterborough to Toronto, and it will probably be held on Tuesday evening next. Mr. James Stevenson, M. P., Mayor, is to take the chair, and Mr. J. R. Stratton, M. P. P., the vice-chair. An engrossed address will be presented to Mr. Bertram. The banquet promises to be a brilliant affair.

An Open Switch.

REV. DR. NELLES.

Death of the Chancellor of Victoria University.

COBOURG, Oct. 17.—At 4.30 o'clock this afternoon Rev. Dr. Nelles, Chancellor of Victoria University, died of typhoid fever, after only six days' illness. He was conscious to the last. The town and college are in deep mourning over an irreparable loss.

Samuel S. Nelles, D.D., LL.D., for 37 years at the head of the University of Victoria College, was a son of William and Mary Hardy Nelles, and was born at Mount Pleasant, near Brantford, October 17, 1823. His paternal ancestors were originally from Germany, and were among the early settlers in the Mohawk Valley, New York. In 1839 he went to Lewiston Academy, N.Y., where John G. Saxe, the poet, was his tutor. In June, 1842, Mr. Nelles was one of the first two students matriculated at Victoria College, Cobourg. After spending two years in this institution he finished his undergraduate course at the Wesleyan University, Middleton, Conn., and received the degree of B.A. in 1846.

Returning to Canada, Dr. Nelles was appointed to the Presidency of Victoria College and since September, 1850, has held that responsible position. Under his administration Victoria College has greatly prospered. The degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by Queen's University in 1860, and that of LL.D. by Victoria University in 1873. He was held in high esteem by the educators of the Province, and was loved and revered by all who knew him. As a lecturer and preacher on educational subjects he had but few peers in the Dominion.

In July, 1851, he married Miss Mary B. Wood, daughter of the Rev. Dr. Enoch Wood, of Toronto. Mrs. Nelles and five children, two sons and three daughters, survive to mourn the loss of a husband and father, who was uniformly kind and good. It is a rather curious coincidence that Dr. Nelles died on the anniversary of his 64th birthday. The funeral will take place at Cobourg on Wednesday afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

THE FISHERIES.

The Behring Sea Question to be Considered by the Commission.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Observer, the editor of which, Mr. Dicey, is close to the confidence of ministers, thus states what is really the Government's view of the Alaska question. Mr. Secretary Bayard may say that the Behring's Sea question has no connection with the Canadian fisheries dispute, but he will find it difficult to persuade any reasonable being that it has not. For two years past—indeed at intervals during the last forty years—the Americans have been working themselves into a bellicose humour because the British North American provinces claim jurisdiction over certain bays which are wider than six miles at the mouth. Yet now we find that they themselves claim jurisdiction over waters in the North Pacific more extensive than the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the North Sea and the Baltic all put together. The State Department at Washington has pointed out that the British Government has never raised the question of the right of the United States to exercise jurisdiction over the waters in Behring's Sea. But surely our Foreign Office would have been acting indiscreetly in raising such a question before it was not only claimed, but actually exercised. The last Republican President, Gen. Arthur, suggested in a presidental message that this question of sealing in Behring Sea should be dealt with by an international commission. This shows that the present exercise of a shadowy claim to exclusive jurisdiction is quite an afterthought on the part of the Washington Government.

Indians Ripe for Revolt.

MITCHELL, Dak., Oct. 17.—Major Asher son returned from Lower Brute on Saturday night, having arrested the ringleaders in the recent attack on the United States surveyors. The arrests were made with 25 armed Indian police without difficulty, and no further trouble is anticipated. A despatch from Pierre, however, says that, while there is no trouble among the Indians on this side of Crow Creek and Winnebage reservation, the Brute Indians are incensed at the surveyors engaged in alloting lands in severalty, and are ripe for a revolt.

AN ADOPTED DAUGHTER'S CRIME.

Smothers a Baby and Sets Fire to a House—Poisons Her Parent's Cow.

MANISTEE, Mich., Oct. 17.—Minnie Demorse, the adopted daughter of James Henderson, was arrested for larceny committed several months ago, but the real sensation in the case has just come to light. This spring Mr Henderson's cow died and her milk, just previous to her death, killed nine pigs. The girl confesses she poisoned the cow because she did not want to milk it. Mr. Henderson's house was set on fire five times in one day a few weeks ago and the girl confessed she did that too. Mr. Henderson's baby died suddenly, and the girl confessed she smothered it because it cried and she did not want the trouble to care for it. She is 18 years old and was adopted fifteen years ago.

PERISHED IN THE FLAMES.

Destruction of a Crowded Barding House—Three Men Cremated.

QUEBEC, Oct. 17.—A telegram received here to-day announces the total destruction by fire at 11 o'clock last night of Robt. Neil's boarding house at Lake Edward. Sad to say three men perished in the flames, only their charred remains being found after the fire. Their names are Thomas Landers and George Scatton, firemen and William Buchanan, shopman. Landers is a married man with a large family belonging to this city, but his family are now at Island Pond, in the States. The other two men, it is stated, are unmarried. There were about fifteen boarders in the house besides the Neil family of six children, nearly all of whom had more or less narrow escapes, some being scorched by fire and others bruised by jumping from the windows. Great heroism was displayed by Mrs. Neil in saving her six children. The fire is supposed to have originated from the explosion of a lamp, and the building being of wood burned very rapidly.

PROTECTION IN ENGLAND.

Spread of Protectionist Principles—Free Traders Becoming Fair Traders.

A despatch from London, Eng., says:—The Liberals are becoming embarrassed by the many signs of the spread of protectionist principles in this country. Lord Salisbury is a firm free trader, but the rank and file are becoming converted, and it is thought that many Conservative chiefs will hardly be able to resist the pressure which will be brought to bear on them. It is significant that several journals devoted to the agricultural subjects, which of course circulate largely in provincial districts, and which have hitherto been free traders, are now fair traders. One of the number goes so far as to declare that the protectionist party is established and only wants a leader. The protectionists announce that when they declare their policy they will compel the support of the Irish Nationalists, because protection to native industries is one of Mr. Parnell's demands. It is thought that Mr. Goschen will allude to fair trade in his forthcoming speeches. Nearly three years ago he withdrew from the Cobden Club, and since then he has been absorbed by the Conservatives.

Red River Road.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 17.—A syndicate of local capitalists, acting in connection with the city council, has made an offer to take up the entire three hundred thousand bonds of the Red River Valley railway on certain conditions, one of which is that this amount shall secure the completion of the road. Good lawyers have declared the bonds to be legal, but whether or not people have confidence in them is the question.

Fighting on the Colour Line.

RIVERSIDE, Texas, Oct. 17.—About one hundred negroes and Mexicans became engaged in a drunken riot last night and a regular battle followed, in which revolvers, knives, sticks and stones were freely used. Three negroes were seriously, and many others slightly, wounded. One Mexican was killed and two fatally injured.

Opium as a Baby's Food.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 17.—The third victim of the Genessee street baby farm died at the Rochester orphan asylum yesterday of opium poisoning, and there is another in a dying condition. Mrs. McDonald, the proprietor, is in jail on the charge of murder.

Railway Accident.

EMPORIA, Texas, Oct. 17.—The west bound passenger train, No. 6, on the Santa Fe road ran into a construction train two miles west of Strong City on Saturday afternoon, slightly injuring G. S. Bucher, postal clerk, and A. Thartnick, fireman. Several cars were badly damaged.

ADVOCATES FORCE.

Fancy the Chicago Tribune advocating measures calculated to benefit the Dominion! Canada has no meaner enemy on this continent than the Tribune, whose editor and proprietor, Mr. Joseph Medill, has more than once advocated the forcible annexation of Canada. Yet Canadian newspapers advocating Commercial Union regard the Tribune as a champion of Canadian interests because it is aiding Mr. Wiman in the dissemination of the gospel of unrestricted reciprocity. The Tribune is for Commercial Union because through it the obliteration of Canada would be assured. —Chicago Canadian American.

POLITICAL UNION ONLY.

Our esteemed Hochelagan contemporary, the Week of Toronto, condemns the idea of a commercial union between the Canadian Dominion and the big North American republic. "Any such arrangement," says the Week, "must reduce Canada to the position of a subsidized semi-dependency of the United States." This is perfectly true. It is a valid objection, but it could not apply to the situation that would be created by a political union of the two countries. Then there would be no subsidized semi-dependency about it, but equal rights, equal independence, and equal glory for all.—N. Y. Sun.

The Moonlighter-Gladstonian organs of various countries are making much capital out of the statement made by Moonlighter Calliman, who said that he had been in the pay of the police for five years. ### THE INDUSTRIAL QUESTION.

ROME, Oct. 17.—In addressing the French pilgrims yesterday the Pope dealt with the industrial question, speaking unfavorably of state socialism, but insisting the governments should make the material interests of the working classes of the population their care. At the same time he urged his listeners to turn a deaf ear to revolutionary incitements, any yielding to which could only result in bitter deception. The Pope purposely avoided making any allusion to the Roman question, so as not to give offence to the Italian government.

THE CHINESE BANKING SCHEME.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Standard's Shanghai correspondent gives further particulars regarding the American banking syndicate. Mitklewicz, while trying to obtain the concession, used the name of Mr. Vanderbilt which was mentioned in the agreement signed by Li Hung Chang. Mr. Vanderbilt was warned, but not in time to prevent the use of his name. Then Mitklewicz mentioned the names of Messrs. Gould and Mackay and on Mr. Gould's denying his further connection with the syndicate, Mitklewicz engaged the Baring Bros., of London, who, after consulting a large banking firm of London, pronounced the scheme untenable. It transpires, moreover, that whatever railways and other works should be undertaken with the money raised in America were to be mortgaged to the syndicate.

LONDON'S UNIMPLOYED.

A Deputation to the Mansion House—A Mob in Trafalgar Square.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—A deputation of unemployed workingmen went to the Mansion house to-day and demanded that they be supplied with work. The Board of Aldermen referred them to the workhouse. When the deputation reported the result of their mission to those who had sent them, the mob became infuriated and marched toward the city surrounded by a force of police. They proceeded without committing any overt act until the Strand was reached, when they turned upon the police and attacked them with stones. The police charged upon the crowd and scattered them, capturing a number of banners. The mob then went to Trafalgar square, where several of the leaders made speeches, which had the effect of exciting the crowd. The police again made a charge, and after some resistance succeeded in clearing the square. After a time the mob, which had now gained some reinforcements, attempted to again enter the square, but after a general fight they were prevented from doing so by the police. Several policemen were injured and twenty-arrests were made.

COLLAPSE OF A BUILDING.

Five Men Killed and others Seriously Injured.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—A four-story building in the course of erection at 443 East 115th street to be used as a schoolhouse, tumbled in this afternoon about 4 o'clock, and a number of mechanics who were at work were burned in the ruins. The building had reached the fourth story. It was intended for a parish school for the parish church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel. The whole front wall fell a few minutes before 4 o'clock. At the time there were over twenty men in the building at work and they were all buried in the ruins. The search was at once commenced, and at 6 o'clock this evening six dead bodies had been taken from the ruins. Four men were taken out seriously wound and almost suffocated. The supposition is that there are still fourteen men underneath the debris. Most of the workmen were engaged in the lower part of the building at the time of the accident. The side walls fell in immediately after the front wall gave way. The workmen were all Italians, and the school house was intended for the education of Italian children.

Two hook and ladder companies and numerous citizens are searching the ruins for the men still unaccounted for. There are no sounds to be heard from the wreck, and it is supposed those buried are all dead. Five lives were sacrificed and over a dozen were more or less severely injured by the falling of the walls.

THE LOSS FOR US.

Were we to have free trade with Canada to-night, more than 100 drummers would start from here for Canada before Monday next. Raw materials could be sent here and manufactures could be returned. It would be everything to gain and nothing to lose.—Rochester Post-Express.

THE METLAKAHTLAN INDIANS.

THE Montreal Witness is publishing with approval a highly imaginative account of the Metlakahtlan affair. As a keynote to this unfair tissue of misrepresentations we may quote the following sentence from the opening paragraph:—

"For the good fortune which has come to them they are indebted to the devotion of Wm. Duncan, missionary; for the calamity impending, to the Church Missionary Society and certain of its ecclesiastical emissaries."

Who would derive from the words any idea of the truth that Mr. Duncan was himself one of the emissaries of the Church Missionary Society, that he was their paid agent living on their money, and that any good results were effected by the Society through his services on their behalf and at their cost? Yet such are the facts.

Mr. Duncan appears to be one of that type of men, who are especially qualified to gain the confidence of uncivilized tribes, to make themselves chiefs, to partially civilize them, and to bring them to profitable habits of industry, not disdaining a share of the profits for themselves.

He no doubt deserves the credit of civilizing these savages, but he should not have taken the money of the Church Missionary Society under false pretences, while working to render his converts hostile to the religious views which the Society paid him to teach as their agent. He should not have trained his converts to share his own lax notions of honesty and the rights of property by inciting them to steal the land granted to the Society as a site for a church and other buildings, nor to rob the public by maintaining an unfounded claim to crown lands when they had already a very liberal reserve.

That Mr. Duncan's proceedings did not meet with the unanimous approval even of the Indians, is shown by the striking fact that all the head men of the tribe refused to follow him in his exodus.

The acceptance in some quarters of the absurd representations of the action of the Church Missionary Society, of the Bishop of the Diocese and of the Government, seems to arise from denominational jealousy from political prejudice, and from the hostility of certain citizens of the United States to anything Canadian or British. Mr. Duncan was certainly free to teach any religious views he pleased even if not those of the Church of England, but he should first have resigned their agency and refused their salary, and he should have taught and observed the seventh and tenth commandments which Christians of all denominations respect. He was free to come to Canada or to leave it, but while here he should not have incited his followers to disregard its laws and rebel against its authorities. His chieftainship of his semi-civilized flock seems to have imbued him with such sense of his own importance that he could not acknowledge any superior, but would be at the same time King and Pope of the Indians who owned his sway.

AFTER THEIR SCALPS.

CONSIDERABLE surprize is expressed that Sir Richard Cartwright, till lately such an obstinate and zealous free trader, should now be advocating the adoption of a tariff that is far higher and more protective than our own.

We cannot say we share in this astonishment, for with the right clue, there is a kind of consistency to be found in his apparently inconsistent course.

The fact is that Sir Richard Cartwright is an old-fashioned Tory at heart—a Tory of that almost extinct school which has a horror of manufacturers, of skilled mechanics and operatives. He would have none in the country but an aristocracy with himself as a great man among them, and a quiet easy going agricultural community whom he thinks he could induce to look up to him in his exalted position and confidingly follow his lead. Some of the pushing manufacturers might make themselves industrial chiefs—some of the skilled mechanics might secure patents for clever inventions, become rich and men of importance without due submission to his superior position. Such men might press too closely on his grandeur.

Whether this be the reason or not, it is certain that he has a virulent antipathy to the manufacturing class, whom he does not hesitate to describe as robbers. To frustrate their progress he has been a strong advocate of free trade with its unfair and crushing competition. To frustrate their progress he is now content to accept protection pushed to an extreme point, so long as it still leaves Canadian manufacturers exposed to overwhelming competition. He cannot claim that he is advocating free trade over at least a larger area, for by his theory a duty is a tax whether the goods are imported or not, so he would enable the United States manufacturer to tax Canadian consumers to a far higher amount than according to him the Canadian manufacturer has taxed them.

Whether a free trader or a protectionist Sir Richard Cartwright is still after the Canadian manufacturer's scalp.

Victory has Perched on the Banner of PETERBOROUGH'S GREAT CHEAPSIDE.

And SHEPPARD, by common consent, will get $1,000 for being the Cheapest Clothier in Peterborough, having knocked the Wonderful Cheap Man completely out. "Business is business; dirt is dirt, and when it comes to throwing dirt, then count" the only original teddy out, and he will hand over that $1,000 like a little man, for the following reasons:—

SHEPPARD sells a full size Man's suit for $2.95, and better goods than a suit to fit a child about nine years old sold by the Wonderful Cheap Man on Saturday for $3.00; but marked $3.50. This is how it was.—A lady purchased a child's suit on Saturday last, Sept. 17th, 1887, at the store of the Wonderful Cheap Man. It was marked thusly:—Lot 5375, Breast 27, Waist 26½, Age 9, Price $3.50. It was pure shoddy, being held together by cotton threads, and Sheppard is free to say that that was the dearest suit sold in the Town of Peterborough for the last two years. Full particulars are given because of the $1,000 involved, and, further, that this decides who is selling the Cheapest Clothing in Peterborough. SHEPPARD would have sold that lady a suit, pure wool, for that money, and worth two of the one she got.

$1,000 to Go to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

I had first decided to give the agencies a chance of jumping up my rating that $1,000, but after considering the matter and finding that never in any case have I been asked for an endorser to my paper, and that no relative or any other persons have ever endorsed my paper to the extent of one cent, I have come to the conclusion my credit is as good as yours, and will ask you to hand over the $1,000 to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

Now, Sir, there is a good story told, the truth of which can be vouched for, but for the honor of at least making an effort to keep up your self-styled name—The Terror of High Priced Clothiers—do not allow the same to be said of you in the case above. A man purchased a suit for $15.00 at the store of one of the largest advertisers in that section of country. It was guaranteed pure wool; but after examining it carefully at home, he came to the conclusion that he had been dealing with some one sharper than himself. Finding a make of wool, differing some from anything he had ever seen, it dawned upon him that he had heard of wool of that kind, so the suit was returned. The merchant bet $25.00 that it was all wool, and the bet was accepted, the decision being left to a neighboring merchant. He found that the $15.00 suit was wool faced and shoddy back, pure unadulterated shoddy; but what of the $25.00 bet? was it paid? Not much—muchly—as it were.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

"Did n't Know 't was Loaded"

May do for a stupid boy's excuse; but what can be said for the parent who sees his child languishing daily and fails to recognize the want of a tonic and blood-purifier? Formerly, a course of bitters, or sulphur and molasses, was the rule in well-regulated families; but now all intelligent households keep Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which is at once pleasant to the taste, and the most searching and effective blood medicine ever discovered.

Nathan S. Cleveland, 27 E. Canton st., Boston, writes: "My daughter, now 21 years old, was in perfect health until a year ago when she began to complain of fatigue, headache, debility, dizziness, indigestion, and loss of appetite. I concluded that all her complaints originated in impure blood, and induced her to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine soon restored her blood-making organs to healthy action, and in due time reëstablished her former health. I find Ayer's Sarsaparilla a most valuable remedy for the lassitude and debility incident to spring time."

J. Castright, Brooklyn Power Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "As a Spring Medicine, I find a splendid substitute for the old-time compounds in Ayer's Sarsaparilla, with a few doses of Ayer's Pills. After their use, I feel fresher and stronger to go through the summer."

By WALTER BESANT.

And yet I was unsatisfied. All this would not give me back my lover, nor bring home Dan and the boys, nor undo the misery of the past three weeks. I thirsted for more revenge.

When I rose to go home the splendid sun was rising over the waters of the channel, and the morning was clear and bright. Far off on the horizon I saw the sails of a great fleet. It must be Nelson's fleet. Among the ships somewhere were those I loved, going away to sea to face battle, sudden death, shipwreck, plague and pestilence, all by the act of one man.

I lay at home all that morning asleep. At 12 o'clock Mrs. Agus, surprised at my long sleep, awakened me and brought me some dinner.

Then I began to think again.

In the afternoon arrived my exciseman.

"Have you done anything to Joshua Meech, Pleasance?" he asked, in a breathless way, so that I knew he must have heard something.

"Done anything?"

"Ay. Joshua's been robbed—he's been robbed of all his money. He's been tearing round town all day. Ho! ho! I hope the information money was with it, too. Who could have robbed him?"

"Who could?" I echoed.

"It must have been some one who had a spite against him. Who but you had a spite? Oh! Pleasance, Pleasance! it's a hanging matter!"

"Don't talk wild," I replied. "If Joshua is robbed, so much the better. I am glad of it."

John Beer shook his head. He was only half satisfied.

"To be sure," he said, "I've seen gypsies about. You know best. Well, and how about the kegs, Pleasance?"

"I will give you the kegs at once if you will do me another favor. Nay, it is not to tell me more about Joshua; I know quite enough. It is only to carry some brandy to Parson Burden's."

"Why, I'll do that," he said, briskly, "and more, for your sake."

He took the wheelbarrow and very soon was trundling my present, which I had resolved to say was Dan's, to the good old rector.

On the way he mentioned casually that a press gang was in the neighborhood. "They don't know it, the boys at Lyme, else they'd keep at home for a day or two. There'll be a good few sailors more aboard his majesty's ships when that gang has done its business."

I thought nothing at the time.

But later on I started, remembering that Joshua had promised to deliver twenty kegs that morning, and that at daybreak he would be at the hiding place. Another thought struck me.

I had no doubt, knowing the nature of the business, and the haste made after a run to get the cargo safely stowed away and disposed of, that Joshua intended to take it all in two boats, probably one that morning and one the next. This knowledge put a fatal power into my hands. I turned the thought over in my mind till it became a resolution, clear and determined. Since Joshua had sent Dan and all of them away to sea, he should go too.

Of course they could not take a miller from his mill—no. But suppose Joshua was caught, in boatman's rig, handling his kegs in Rousdon bay!

When John Beer had taken the rector his brandy, and carried off his own to some secure place which he knew of, probably to a friend in the town, a burning desire came over me to see Joshua Meech face to face and to triumph over his misfortunes. Tired as I was with my long night's work, I hastened to put on my hat and set off once more for my three mile walk across the fields.

I cannot pretend to anything but a feverish joy that so far my weary head suffered. I knew how mean and parsimonious he was; how he pinched and saved, denying himself luxuries and living hardly, in order to feel richer every day. I was quite certain that his chief pleasure was to open his hiding place secretly and count his treasures. I rejoiced to think how, in these moments, there was mixed up a feeling that he was saving up for me, and how that memory would be an additional stab for him. For me? Was it possible, even without his superhuman wickedness, for me to look upon another man after my glorious Will?

So he had already found out his loss. That was strange. Did he, then, look in the morning to see if it was safe? But perhaps the open window and the hanging shutter awakened his suspicions. I should soon know. As I drew near the mill, and looked down upon it from the top of the steep lane leading from the high road, I could not help feeling the contrast between the beauty of the place and the angry passions of its master and the girl who was going to visit him. But I had to hide my indignation. I composed my features as well as I could, and crossed his orchard.

Joshua was sitting on the bench outside the mill. The wheel was slowly going round and round, with its monotonous sound, and the mill was at work. But its master sat motionless, his head on his hands. He was trying to think who could have robbed him.

"Joshua!" I cried; "Joshua! What is the matter? Are you asleep?"

"I wish I was!" he replied, hoarsely. "I think I shall never be able to sleep again. What do you want, Pleasance?"

"I came to tell you, Joshua, that I saw the fleet pass along the horizon this morning. It must be Nelson's. Dan and the rest must be aboard one of the ships."

"Ay, ay; no doubt. Well, they—they—they will get through it, I daresay."

"Oh, Joshua, what a villain must he be who informed against them! What could we do to that villain to punish him properly? Tell me, Joshua."

"Do—do? What could we do? Put him in the duckpond, I suppose," he replied wearily.

"That would not be half enough, Joshua. I should like to take away all his money"—he started—"and to tell all the world, and send him away forever with the curses of the people."

What was the Matter?

The town drain connecting with the George street sewer at the corner of Simcoe street has been rooted up again. It was found that the sewerage would not flow from the drain because the drain, at the sewer, was almost a foot higher than at the other end. The builder of the drain had, it seems, forgotten that water flowed down hill, not up.

Wanted Legal Tending.

When a hotel man went to pay his fine at the Police Court this morning his bill came to $52.98. He handed the Clerk $53 and asked for the change. "Of course," said the Clerk, "You are entitled to the 2 cents, but I have no change." He then offered to pay the change with two one cent stamps, but the other objected saying that it was not legal tender. The Clerk went out and made a call loan of two coppers and made the thing square.

Debate on the Third Party.

The first members' meeting of the season in connection with the Young Men's Christian Association will be held on Thursday evening, Oct. 20th, in the Association lecture hall. The Lecture and Literary Committee have arranged for a debate as follows:—Resolved, that the formation of a third party in Canadian politics would be a benefit to the temperance cause. Affirmative—Messrs. Bannell Sawyer and J. J. Wright. Negative—Messrs. S. R. Armstrong and A. E. Scott. Members are requested to note the date.

Scottish Martyrs.

In St. Paul's Church School room on Monday evening the Rev. A. Wilson delivered a lecture on the subject of "Scotland's Martyrs and the Principles for which they Suffered." The meeting was opened by the singing of a Psalm, Scripture reading and prayer. The lecturer entered upon his subject by reading several selections from the works of Walter Scott, Burns, and other Scotch poets. He then gave a concise account of the religious reform which took place in Scotland during the 16th century, and gave statistics as to the numbers who suffered and died for the principles they advanced. The Scottish martyrs, he said, gave religious freedom to Scotland, and all Scots should be as proud of men like Rutherford, the Duke of Argyle, John Brown and others, as the English were of the Magna Charta. He rehearsed the great struggle which Scotsmen had to gain an open Bible, and discussed the covert attack that was being made on it by introducing the Scriptures in a garbled form in the public schools. He quoted from Dr. Chalmers on the subject. Mr. Peter Hamilton moved a vote of thanks to the lecturer, seconded by Mr. Chas Cameron, which was carried. The lecture throughout was one of great interest. It was delivered in a vigorous manner.

THE DOURO GAS WELL.

Sunk Nine Feet Lower and More Gas the Result.

The well on Mr. David Forsyth's farm, lot 5, 1st Concession of Douro, was sunk nine feet lower on Saturday. The drill passed through a different formation in this nine feet, the rock being much softer and it was only occasionally that the drill met with resistance from hard rock. Rumbling and clicking noises were heard and continued after the drill was withdrawn.

The nine extra feet made the total depth of the well forty-nine feet. The drill was withdrawn and a match applied at noon on Saturday. The flame was stronger than it had been before, showing that the additional boring gave a larger volume of gas. It burned all day Sunday and was still burning on Monday morning. While the drilling was going on the water, which usually comes up to within twelve or fourteen feet of the top, disappeared three times and each time returned again.

The gas well, which is on the boundary between Douro and Dummer, is about six miles northeast of the first gas well discovered at Jermyn post office in Otonabee township. A valley runs from Jermyn through to Mr. Forsyth's and further on. Several persons in that district have sunk wells and found the water unfit for use on account of an oily taste, and one man a few years ago closed a well because the water tasted of salt.

Mr. Forsyth was in town on Monday getting a pump and some pipe to pump the water out of the well. He does not feel disposed to spend more money boring at present, but intends to sink it further next year. At any rate he hopes to be able to light his house with the natural gas.

SCOTT ACT.

Five Scott Act Cases Before The Police Court.

At the Police Court this morning Inspector Cochrane had five more Scott Act cases on the docket.

The first case called was Cochrane vs. Squires. The defendant occupies the bar premises in the Peterborough House. He pleaded guilty to a first offence against the Act and paid the fine which was imposed, $50 and costs.

Cochrane vs. Whalen was the next case. The defendant pleaded guilty to an infraction of the Act and was fined $50 and costs, which was paid. The defendant occupies the bar premises at the Stewart House.

Cochrane vs. Leiton was called, the defendant being charged with a first offence against the Act. He pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs. The defendant occupies the bar premises at the Croft House.

The next case was not despatched with the usual celerity. The defendant, John Boyd, who occupies the bar premises of the Snowden House, was charged with a second offence against the Act. He pleaded not guilty. He was examined by the counsel for the prosecution, Mr. E. B. Edwards. He swore that he had sold nothing intoxicating himself; that he did not drink himself and didn't know the taste of whiskey. He was positive that he sold no liquor which he knew to be intoxicating. Two witnesses came after who testified that they had got intoxicating dricks there, not from Mr. Boyd, but from a man attending at the bar. A fine of $100 and costs was imposed.

Cochrane vs. Meron was called. The defendant was charged with a second offence against the Act. He did not appear and the case was enlarged till to-morrow. The defendant was before the court a few days ago on a similar errand, but the case was not proved against him.

Miss St. John.

Miss Marguerite St. John and company appeared in Bradburn's Opera House in the play "Life of an Actress." The audience was not large. The cast of characters was as follows:—

Grimaldi.....Mr G M Wood
Lord Arthur Shafton.....Mr H J Linton
Captain Maitland.....Mr H Leader
Selwyn Dawdle.....Mr F C Brooks
Wopshot.....Mr H H Rignold
Walter.....Mr F Willoughby
Julia (an actress).....Miss Ruth Rose
Mrs Hopkins.....Miss J Dawson
Bridget.....Miss J Oliff
Violet (with song).....Miss Marguerite St John

The play is illustrative of the life of a girl, who is taken off the street and educated for the stage by an old actor. On the night of her debut she is kidnapped, but the timely arrival of her friends foils the plan of the villan. Miss St. John took the part of Violet fairly satisfactorily. She possesses a sweet voice, but one that has not the power to express strength of feeling. Her singing was very good. The other members of the company do not need notice, except Mr. Wood, as Gramaldi, who took his part with much credit. The musical comedy "The Loan of a Lover" was presented as an after piece.

The Concert of the Season.

The following is the programme of the concert to be given in St. John's School Room on Wednesday evening next, at 8 o'clock:—

Cooper and Greatrix.

A difficulty has arisen out of the Cooper-Greatrix matched bicycle race, dated for Oct. 6th. The agreement between the two men was that the loser should pay half of the cost of a cup, the Agricultural Association to pay the other half. In consequence of Cooper declining to run the race Greatrix went over the track and claimed it. Greatrix wrote to his opponent claiming his just dues, but Cooper has not yet complied, arguing that as the track was not in fit condition the race did not come off. This is the excuse given by the Belleville papers for the race not having come off. It is useless to argue it. Cooper distinctly agreed if Greatrix would consent to declare the race off that he would run an exhibition race for no stake. If the track was good for one race it was good for the other. I Cooper wishes to maintain a good standing among the craft he will pay up, even if only his own word binds him.

The Illustrated London News in its American edition of October 15th furnishes as usual many picutres upon a variety of subjects, including a double-page picture Deer Stalking in the Highlands, three pages devoted to the British Mission to Morocco, a most pleasing and instructive picture entitled A Sad Dog's Day, Sketches of Life On Board a Man-of War, The Home of Florence Nightidgale, &c., &c. The supply of reading matter is also abundant and interesting, while the number complete costs at retail only 10 cents. The office of publication is 237 Potter Building, New York.

A Farewell Banquet.

A banquet will be tendered by leading citizens to Mr. John Bertram, ex-M. P., at the Oriental Hotel, previous to his departure from Peterborough to Toronto, and it will probably be held on Tuesday evening next. Mr. James Stevenson, M. P., Mayor, is to take the chair, and Mr. J. H. Stratton, M. P. P., the vice-chair. An engrossed address will be presented to Mr. Bertram. The banquet promises to be a brilliant affair.

An Open Switch.

INTER-PROVINCIAL CONFERENCE.

The Delegates Who Will Attend—Cardinal Taschereau Declines an Invitation.

QUEBEC, Oct. 18.—The session of the Inter-Provincial Congress will be held in the hall of the Council of Public Instruction, and it is understood that Mr. Erastus Wiman will attend to deliver a lecture on Commercial Union. The delegates will be the guests of the Premier every day at lunch, and during their sojourn in the Ancient Capital they will enjoy drives to Spencer Wood, Montmorency, Lorette and the Citadel. They will also visit Laval University, the harbor, and leading manufactures in the city. But the social event par excellence will undoubtedly be Madame Mercier's reception and the citizens' ball.

The following is a complete list of the delegates who will be present:—Hon. Messrs. Mowat, Fraser, A.M. and G.W. Ross, Hardy, Ontario; Norquay and Hamilton, Manitoba; Blair and McLellan, New Brunswick; Fielding, Longley and Magilvevery, Nova Scotia. No answer has been received from the Premier of British Columbia, and the Premier of Prince Edward Island has declined to attend.

QUEBEC, Oct. 18.—It has just leaked out that Cardinal Taschereau has declined to attend the reception which is to be given on Friday by the Prime Minister and Madame Mercier in honor of the delegates to the Interprovincial Congress. It appears that Mr. Mercier decided that there would be no dancing at the reception, so as to enable the Cardinal and his entourage to attend and to his Eminence and the leading priests of the Seminary he forwarded invitations for the event. When these invitations were received several clergymen called upon the Cardinal and asked him if he proposed to accept. He said he would think the matter over for a day or two, and finally decided not to accept, at the same time expressing the hope that the priests who had been invited would follow his example. Letters of non-acceptance were therefore forwarded to Madame Mercier, and the affair has given rise to considerable comment in ecclesiastical and political circles.

MANITOBA'S WHEAT CROP.

The C. P. R. Able to Handle Double the Quantity—The Chief Justice.

WINNIPEG, Oct 18.—One hundred and two cars of wheat were unloaded at Port Arthur and Fort William on Saturday, and it is expected that a large number were unloaded yesterday. The Canadian Pacific Railway Co. have tonnage chartered on Lake Superior sufficient to carry out six hundred thousand bushels, while there are only three hundred thousand bushels at the two lake ports mentioned, so that there is no danger of a wheat blockade. Mr. Whyte reports the movement in wheat increasing daily. Five trains per day are now carrying out the surplus wheat of the Province.

Favourable reports in reference to the condition of Chief Justice Wallbridge continue to be received.

THE FISHERIES QUESTION.

Secretary Bayard Announces the Policy of the U. S. State Department.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The Herald's Washington despatch says that Secretary Bayard was last night asked to set at rest the contradictory statements printed relative to the policy of the State department on the fisheries question. He said: "The policy of the State department has not been determined on fully, and can only be as the case develops itself. The United States must have her rights. The thing to be determined is what are the rights of American fishermen in Canadian waters. When that has been determined, I will be able to determine upon what course it is best to pursue to secure these rights."

A Mother's Terrible Mistake.

NEW GLASGOW, N. S., Oct. 18.—A melancholy affair happened at Lorne, near here. A sixteen-year-old daughter of Councillor James McKay was ill and was ordered essence of beef, iron and wine. Her mother administered half a glass of carbolic acid in mistake. The girl realized the terrible mistake and said: "Mother, you have killed me, but I forgive you." She died next day in great agony.

CHOLERA AT NEW YORK.

Another Steamer Arrives with the Disease on Board.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The French steamship Britannia, which arrived here on the 13th inst., from Marseilles and Naples, and has been held by the Health Officer at upper quarantine for observation, was this morning sent down the lower quarantine, four cases of cholera having been found aboard of her. The Britannia is a sister ship to the Alesia, which brought cholera here some weeks ago.

A DETECTIVE LYNCHED.

Swift Retribution—Only one of the Seven Assassins not Captured

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 18.—News was brought here to-day saying that Dan Cunningham, the Eureka detective, who stands charged with having been the instigator of the robbery of Rev. Mr. Ryan and others in Rome and Jackson Counties, was caught yesterday and lynched last night. It is certain that there were only seven engaged in the murder and robbery of Rev. Mr. Ryan. Of this number the vigilants have disposed of Coon, George Duff, jr., Bob Duff and Drake. The two Duffs Coon and Drake confessed, and said Cunningham and his nephew were the two not caught. The nephew now alone remains.

SYMPATHY WITH ANARCHISTS.

General Butler Offers to Take the Case to the Supreme Court.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—At a meeting of Socialists at Hackney last night resolutions were opted denouncing the sentence of death pronounced upon the Chicago Anarchists. A Socialist from Chicago harrowed the feelings of the audience with tales of the tortures to which he declared the condemned men are subjected.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Captain Black has telegraphed to the Arbeiter Zeitung from New York that General Ben Butler has declared himself willing to assist counsel for the defence of the Anarchists in taking their case before the United States Supreme Court. General Pryer, J. Randolph Tucker and General Butler will cost the committee, it is expected, $25,000. District assemblies Knights of Labor, No. 29, of New York, and No. 68, of Detroit, have offered to contribute all the money necessary to cover the fees of General Butler.

M. WILSON AGAIN.

Accused of Using Pressure to Obtain the Repayment of Moneys.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—Le Paris accuses M. Wilson, President Grevy's son-in-law, of using pressure to obtain the repayment to Messrs. Dreyfus, the bankers, of 150,000 francs, the amount of duty exacted by the courts in the famous Peruvian guano case. The paper says that M. Sadi-Carnot, who was then Finance Minister, refused to refund the money. When M Grevy's assistance was sought, he having defended the Messrs. Dreyfus and received 300 000 francs as fees, Sadi-Carnot was driven from office and M. Dauphin, his successor, proved more pliable, although M. Bredif, the head of the Finance Department, strongly opposed such tampering with the public moneys. M. Wilson, in an interview yesterday, asserted that the department approved the repayment of the money for various substantial reasons.

THE TRAFALGAR SQUARE RIOT.

The Police Blamed for Allowing the Disorder.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The riot in Trafalgar Square yesterday was a ridiculous affair at the best, and reflects no credit upon the police who might have prevented any demonstration approaching violent disorder. Their action yesterday, however, has done more harm than good, and created a great deal of sympathy with the mob in quarters ordinarily and for the best of reasons opposed to the so-called "unemployed workingmen" and their claims. The chief cause of complaint against the police is that they allowed the mob full license up to the point of of rioting, and then, when the crowd, acting upon the natural assumption that the police were afraid of them, became noisily and violently demonstrative, began to push and pummel them into submission. Everybody who had an opportunity to observe the affair, from the beginning to the end, is of the opinion that the crowd could have been dispersed by the exercise of a little more firmness on the part of the police at the outset, without the necessity of stricking a blow, and agree that the dangerous element, still convinced by the temporizing of the authorities that they are held in fear, will persist in holding meetings, forming processions and making riotous demonstrations unless some decided action is taken. The mob is chiefly composed of ex-convicts and the dangerous elements that would scarcely be tolerated in America. The wholly deserving unemployed take no part in the acts of violence, but, of course, come in for their share of the blame, and their sufferings are consequently very much increased, while their chances of obtaining employment are correspondingly reduced. Trafalgar square is daily and nightly filled with legitimate objects of charity and has become one of the principal visiting places of sight-seers curious to observe the extreme depth of misery.

Brazilian Cruiser Wrecked.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 18.—News has been received at the Navy Department that on September 8 last the Brazilian wooden cruiser Imperial Marisberio was lost by running upon a bar two miles south of Rio Doce. The vessel struck head on, running at eleven knots under sail and steam. She was backed off and sank in eight fathoms of water. One officer and fourteen seamen were lost, and 126 persons saved.

Extensive Strike.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—The strike of two hundred hand sewed shoemen a short time ago will doubtless result in the lock out this week of 5,000 shoemakers.

THE HOTEL CLERK.

How Some People Make Use of Hotels and Give the Clerk Work.

The attention of the clerk in a leading hotel was directed to the notice which now forms part of the equipment of every hotel office, "No cheques or drafts cashed or accepted," and he was asked whether the game of putting off a worthless piece of paper on the guileless hotel man was ever attempted nowadays. "Not to any extent," he replied. "A man, seeing that notice, dosen't ask to have paper cashed. Of course one object of having the notice up is to prevent the hotel being 'stuck' on a bogus cheque, but another is to prevent people using the office for a bank. It got to be a perfect nuisance, you know. Everybody seemed to think that he had a perfect right to get his paper cashed here instead of stepping round to the bank. Some days, I believe, we used to cash more paper than a bank. Then, of course, if you keep at that kind of thing for a while, you're bound to strike some worthless paper some time."

"Funny," continued the clerk, "how many people seem to look upon the hotel as a place for the general benefit, where everything is as free as air. A man will come in and ask twenty questions, light a cigar he has bought elsewhere with the hotel's match, put a fistful of matches and another of toothpicks into his pocket, call for paper and envelopes and go into the reading-room and write a letter and then sit around and read the papers."

"Now, there's stamps," he continued. "Everybody writes letters on Sunday, and everybody thinks he can come here and buy stamps—forgot to get them on Saturday. Of course selling stamps is no object to us—we don't make a cent if we sold a million of them. I suppose everybody has the idea that he's the only one that comes to the hotel and asks for favors of this kind, but when so many of them come as often do, it makes a good deal of difference in our work."

"There are some people come round that seem to be kind of fascinated with the register. What they mean by it I never could make out. They'll come in and look over the register for ten minutes at a time, not wanting to find anybody in particular apparently, and never finding any name they really know. Sometimes these people seem to think they have to ask questions or do some talking and then they are funny. They'll strike a name at random and say they used to know that man somewhere, and say they must drop round and see him when they have more time—want to know how long he'll probably stay, and so on. These people take up a good deal of time and make it awkward sometimes when the clerk or bookkeeper wants to look at the register, for the less a man has use for the book the more it seems to hurt his feelings when you take it away from him."—Toronto Globe.

Boys and Tobacco.

Is there any way to enforce the new law against selling tobacco to minors? Everything with the boys runs in cycles, and the smoking cycle has come with the tops. Cigarettes are emphatically "in" just now; I have seen a dozen boys under 14 smoking them within the past few days. I cannot help feeling that if they were smoking clay pipes instead of treacherous cigarettes, the case would not be half so bad. My memory, at the mention of pipes, indeed, is carried back with a jump to a primitive scene of my boyhood. There was a cozy countryside where sheep were raised in great numbers, and where great care was taken with their wool. Every year the lambs were bathed with a solution of tobacco, to guard them against the ticks. For this solution, cheap tobacco stems and leaves were bought, and before it was applied the steeped liquid was drawn off, leaving a mass of stems and leaves at the bottom.

These the boys managed to secure and to dry in the sun upon the roof; and when the mass was quite dry it was pounded up, and then it was ready to smoke. Were there pipes to be had? Not for these boys. But there were big, stout acorns, which had been dried and hollowed out for the purpose. For pipe stems there were slender grape vines with the pith dug out of their middle. Then the pipes were filled with this preparation. Every bit of strength had been steeped out of the tobacco, and not a boy of them all could get ill upon it. But probably not one of them, grown up and given to Reina Victorias and Partagas, ever enjoys a smoke as much as he did those dried tobacco grounds smoked from an acorn pipe.—Boston Transcript

Headway Volapuk Is Making.

Volapuk, the new universal language, is making steady headway. The Volapukists held their grand international congress a few days ago at Munich, and most of the countries of Europe sent representatives. The good repute of America for enlightened curiosity was saved by one gentlemen from Cincinnati. Pasteur Schleyer, the inventor of the language, took the chair in the name of the associations of France. He explained that Volapuk was not meant to suppress other tongues, but only to supply a new one for the common purposes of all mankind, and in particular for the promotion of universal brotherhood.

The inventor hopes to induce the German government to admit Volapuk to the list of languages transmissable by telegraph within the empire. In Denmark it has been officially recommended to telegraph clerks as a subject of study. The best augury for its spread in France lies in the fact that Berlin takes no interest in it, inasmuch as that city was not represented at the congress. Englishmen ought to look upon Volapuk with a kindly eye, as most of its borrowings from the Germanic languages are taken from their own tongue. The characteristically English phrase, "How much money have you?" must, we regret to say, be rendered in Volapuk by "Moni limodik labols."—London News.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

THE MILITARY RIOTS AT MALTA.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The military riots between the King's Rifles and the Irish rifles of the British garrison at Malta were more serious than at first supposed. The whole affair was most scandalous, and will be made the subject of searching enquiry. The number of the injured is not definitely stated, but reports agree that it is large. Arrests of participants in the disgraceful fight continue and the guilty ones will be harshly dealt with.

PARNELL AT A SUSSEX MEETING.

LONDON, Oct 18.—A Home Rule meeting was held at Eastbourne, Sussex, last night. Mr. Parnell occupied an obscure seat on the platform, and his presence was not noticed by the audience.

ATTACK ON MR. CHAMBERLAIN.

DUBLIN, Oct. 18.—At a meeting of the Corporation yesterday the Lord Mayor stigmatized Mr. Chamberlain's attack upon them as a display of malice, ignorance and untruthfulness. The course pursued by Mr. Chamberlain, he said, was part of a Unionist scheme to belaud the Orangemen and heap scorn and insult on three-fourths of the Irish race, and the object of the plot was to inflame the passions of the people. "Mr. Chamberlain," continued the Lord Mayor, "would have done better with the Tory countess, whose hand he has been led to believe he will obtain as the price of his political apostacy."

TROOPS TO GO TO THE CONGO.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 18.—In the event of the failure of the present arrangements for the preservation of order at Stanley Falls, the Congo Free State will re-occupy the district with troops.

VIOLENT UTTERANCES.

BELFAST, Oct. 18.—Major Saunderson made a speech here last night. He spoke in terms of high praise of the policy of Mr. Chamberlain and his followers, and said the Government was not worth its salt unless it sent the Parnellites to plank beds and oakum picking in Kilmainham gaol.

THE ARCHBISHOP'S PROPOSAL.

DUBLIN, Oct. 18.—Archbishop Walsh has written a letter to the Landlords' Committee concerning his proposal for a conference between the landlords and tenants on the Irish land question. The Archbishop says the committee has only taken action when its own deliberate and persistent silence and the open repudiation of the proposal by some of the most outspoken of those they represent have virtually extinguished all hope of a realization of the scheme. If the suggestion made in his letter in August is considered now, however, he is not altogether without hope that the conference will succeed in its object.

BLACK FLAGS.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Prince Albert Victor, son of the Prince of Wales, laid the memorial stone at the infirmary at Northampton to-day. The streets were crowded with spectators, many of whom greeted the speakers with groans. A number of black flags were carried by some of those who had gathered about the building, and cries of "Hurrah for Bradlaugh" were heard during the ceremony.

BRITISH PROTECTION.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—It is officially announced that the Niger district in West Africa, including the coast line between Lagos and the western bank of the Rio Del Rey and the Niger Company's land, are under British protection.

MR. CAINE'S ADVICE.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Mr. William S. Caine, the chief "whip" of the Liberal-Unionists party in parliament, writes from Manitoba suggesting that the Government, instead of embarking in a dangerous policy of land purchase, help distressed Irish families to emigrate to that magnificent country.

SPEECH BY GLADSTONE.

Wants an Irish Parliament Subject to Imperial Control.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The congress of the Liberal Federation opened at Nottingham to-day. Mr. Gladstone made a speech in which he reviewed the situation in Ireland and denounced the Government for the manner in which it was dealing with the Irish question. His rising to speak was the signal for loud and prolonged cheering.

He denied that he proposed Home Rule simply to advance Liberal interests. It was doubtful, he said, whether the Tories accepted Home Rule in its broad principles in the same way that they accepted his proposals in 1872 and in 1883. He wanted a statutory parliament in Dublin subject to Imperial control. There was nothing to prevent any reasonable man from agreeing with the Liberal's Irish proposals without reference to this or that particular detail. The immediate necessity of the day was to watch the way in which Ireland was now governed. If the Government persisted in their rash and foolish policy it would naturally lead to political demoralization and render it in the highest degree difficult even for Englishmen and a Parliament truly representing their best and most enlightened conclusion to deal beneficially with Ireland. Only one word could describe the present system of Irish Government. It was "Impertinence." The events of the last few weeks in Ireland would not have been tolerated in England.

He condemned the action of the authorities at Mitchellstown. He admitted having used the words, "Remember Mitchellstown. That affair must and would be remembered. The country had an account to settle with the Government in connection with that affair. The Mitchellstown authorities were undoubtedly wrong, yet Mr. Balfour in behalf of the Government unequivocally assumed the responsibility for their acts. The worst feature of the Mitchellstown incident was that the action of the authorities had become a model and pattern for the whole of Ireland. The whole system of Government in Ireland required to be thoroughly reformed, root and branch. There had been a breakdown in the government in all essentials. A radical change was wanted and such a change an enfranchised nation alone could accomplish. (Cheers.)

HOW THEY ARE DISLOYAL.

One of the advocates at Belleville of Commercial Annexation declared that it was an unjustifiable insult to impute disloyalty to those who believed that Canada would be benefitted by free commercial relations with the United States. How these agitators for the disintegration of the Empire do squirm. No disloyalty is imputed to them for advocating free commercial relations. They might advocate universal free trade, and nothing worse would be imputed to them than stupidity in thinking themselves wiser than the whole civilized world. Their disloyalty is in aiming to prevent a Canadian from trading with a fellow-countryman in another part of the Empire as freely as with a foreigner, to prevent our fellow-countrymen from trading with us on as good terms as we give to foreigners. When they thus join with foreigners to aid them in injuring their own countrymen, they are disloyal both to the Dominion and to the Empire, of which they prove themselves domestic enemies. If not actively disloyal they are the passive dupes of disloyal men. Their disloyalty is of the same type as that of the Frenchmen who sold plans of French fortifications to the Germans, or the Englishmen who sold rifles to the Boers in South Africa.

They cannot escape by pretending to misunderstand the ground of the censure they have earned. They are disloyal, not in proposing free relations with anybody, but in proposing hostility to their fellow-countrymen.

IRON INDUSTRIES.

The suggestion coming from a gentleman with the practical knowledge possessed by Mr. Law that we should endeavour to procure the establishment of a rolling mill in Peterborough is deserving of careful consideration. Such an addition to our industries would be of great benefit to the community, while it would interfere with no local interest already in existence. As we are assured on such good authority that the local consumption would be sufficient to maintain the mill there would be no danger of overprodnction or removal to a centre where its output would be more in demand.

Even with pig iron imported from Great Britain or the United States or brought from Nova Scotia we are informed by experts that there would be a profit, but with local furnaces the position would be still further improved. Already Trenton is making arrangements for manufacturing pig iron, and with a rolling mill in Peterborough they would reciprocally aid each other.

The suggestion of Mr. Law, and the means he advises for carrying it out, should be taken into consideration by the committee having such matters in charge.

The Commercial Unionists have had what is, according to them, a great triumph in Belleville. By 9 votes to 6 at a "mass" meeting they carried a resolution in favour of their scheme. Certainly by their numbers the illustrious 9 cannot be said to represent the people of Belleville, and how unfit they are to represent them as to brain may be gathered from the fact that they passed this motion in favour of their scheme almost in a breath with another motion to form themselves into an association to find out whether it would be beneficial to Canada and adverse to our connection with Great Britain.

We now have a standard by which to judge the numbers of the advocates of Commercial Annexation. The Globe, one of Mr. Wiman's organs, says the recent meeting in Belleville was the largest ever held by the Board of Trade. Yet the number voting in favor of the scheme was nine, and its opponents six. The majority, it will be observed, numbered just as many as the historical spokesmen for England assembled in Tooley street.

PETERBOROUGH INDUSTRIES.

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—I understand that our Town Council have appointed what they term a "Manufacturers Committee," whose duties, I understand, are to investigate and report on the best means of securing manufacturing industries for the town of Peterborough. I, therefore, beg leave to suggest to said committee that they look into the matter of establishing a rolling mill for the manufacture of bar and other wrought iron. Such an industry would benefit every other establishment in the town, without encroaching on any other branch of industry. There is a market in Peterborough and the towns adjoining for all the poodiucts of a ten ton mill, which would give employment perhaps to seventy-five men. This demand is steadily increasing, and every industry that comes to the town in future will require more or less bar iron or wire. Therefore, I think, that an industry of this kind would be of more benefit to the town than any other that can be mentioned. Moreover, it is not a business that is overdone, as there is not one rolling and puddle mill in Canada. (The Hamilton rolling mill does not make bar iron from the pig, but roll old scrap into bar.)

I have no doubt in my mind that there are parties who could be induced to remove their plant from the States or England if our Council would offer proper inducements. It would not cost much to advertise in one or two papers stating that liberal inducements will be given to any parties starting such an industry in Peterborough. If they never try to get people here by working them up they must not expect to have many here. The Macawber business of waiting for someone to turn up will not pay. I would suggest an advertisement be inserted in the Iron Age, U. S. A., the Wolverhampton Chemical, Staffordshire, England, and some German paper, which one Wm. Lech, Esq., would perhaps be able to suggest.

Yours truly,
W. H. LAW.

ALL THE WORLD AT WAR.

By WALTER BESANT.

"Ay," he said, "never mind the informer, Pleasance; listen to me. I've been robbed!"

"You, Joshua? You robbed?"

"I've been robbed of every farthing I had. All in gold—all tied up in bags—all the money I've been saving for years."

"All the money you saved to marry me with?"

"It is all gone."

"Then you can't marry me, which will be removing a temptation, Joshua. But who could have done it?"

"I don't know; I can't think. Go away, Pleasance, and let me think by myself."

"Is there any one who is at enmity with you, Joshua?"

He shook his head.

"Any one whom you have wronged, Joshua?"

A flush crossed his face. "Go, child, you can do nothing. Leave me alone."

"Joshua," I said, retreating, "you are a Methody. Remember what you said to me, 'Patience, and kiss the rod.'"

I found next morning, on investigating the cache, that twenty kegs of salt water had been taken out, no doubt at daybreak. I rode to Lyme, sought out John Beer, and revealed my new plot. He at once fell in with it. The press gang was in hiding somewhere at Up Lyme. Four of them would be enough to effect the capture. He would tell them where to go, and what they were to expect—a determined man, who would fight for his liberty, but a good sailor.

They were to lie concealed among the rocks, just under the hiding place of the cargo. They were to wait until they heard their victim climbing down the zigzag road, and then they were to effect the seizure. Above all, they were to take care not to let him be seen in Lyme, Up Lime, Bridport, or any of the places round, where he might be known.

Now this seemed to me a really spendid piece of revenge. The other things were very well in their way, but incomplete. Joshua was, no doubt, mad with rage at being robbed of his money, but he would recover in time. Also, he would be enraged beyond expression at losing his brandy. Still he would recover from that blow. But how would he recover from the blow of being pressed and sent to sea?

All that night I did not sleep. I heard toward daybreak the footsteps of the press gang as they crept down the road to the bay. And then I went out in the dark to see for myself what would happen.

About 4 o'clock I heard the noise of Joshua's wagon wheels, and then I—I was sitting among the rocks, wondering when the last act of my revenge would be completed—I saw his figure in the moonlight as he strode down the rough way, with the certain tread of one who knew the path and had trodden it hundreds of times. His face was shaded by his hat, and I could not see that.

He went straight to the place where his treasure lay, and roughly pulling away the brambles he began to take out the kegs. Apparently, from his composure, he had not yet learned from the worthy justice the nature of the new misfortune.

As he began work I heard other footsteps. They were those of the four sailors. I saw them, but he did not—being intent upon the job—come cautiously out of the shade of the rock. There was not much to climb—about twenty feet—and they took it, having Joshua well in sight, with a rush and a shout.

Joshua sprang to his feet and turned upon his assailants. They carried cutlasses, but these were not drawn, and each had a stout short cudgel in his hand. Joshua fought like a madman. One after the other he hurled his assailants from him. He was a splendidly strong man. But the others came like bulldogs; they had now caught hold, and they would not let go. When it was all over, he stood with bleeding face and head and arms pinioned close to his sides. He could make no more resistance.

"Now, mate," said one of the men, "you come quiet, or we'll make you that quiet as you'll never want to sing no more!"

All the rest growled acquiesence. They had had enough of fighting for that bout.

"But what's all this?" The leader pointed to the kegs, three or four of which Joshua had already brought out and laid upon the grass.

"Brandy," said Joshua.

The men looked at one another.

"A gimlet," said the pinioned Joshua, "is in my pocket." One of them drew out the gimlet and bored a hole. Joshua shook his head cheerfully. No doubt they would all get drunk, and he would escape.

"Never a pannikin be there, mate?" the man asked his prisoner.

Joshua shook his head.

Then I laughed to myself; for the man who bored the hole lifted the keg and poured what he thought was brandy into his open mouth.

"Faugh—waugh—pr—rt!"

"What's the matter?"

"It isn't brandy at all! Faugh—waugh! It's sea water!"

"It is brandy," said Joshua.

"Drink it yourself, then."

He lifted the keg. Joshua drank.

He, too, behaved in the same surprising manner.

"It was brandy three weeks ago," said Joshua, despairing.

Then he sat down, saying no more, while the men tried the other kegs with the same result. They all contained sea water.

"Got any more, mate?" asked one of them, looking around.

"There's a dozen more behind that blackberry bush," said Joshua with the calmness of complete despair.

They searched; they lugged them all out; they bored the gimlet into every one. Not one single drop of brandy in any.

"This here," said one, "is a most amazing go! What was you agoing to do with they kegs, mate?"

"Sell them," said Joshua.

"Was you agoing to sell them for brandy, or was you agoing to sell them for bilge water?"

WHAT NEXT!

Addressed to Mr. Peter Hamilton, Implement Manufacturer, Peterborough, upon seeing a large umbrella placed upon his sulky plough and to be put upon his reaping machines.

Well, Peter, what next? That's a question
That deserves your most earnest attention.
All the farmers are waiting and watching
For your next labor saving invention.

Many implements which you put out,
I know you were not the inventor,
But you make and improve all their faults
And then sells them to us quite instanter.

A smart boy he can now run the farm,
If he only can handle the lines, sir,
Your machinery and horses does all,
From the sowing to binding in twine, sir.

The old joint raking scythe is all rust
As it hangs in the shed by the wall, sir,
On your humming bird mower sits the driver,
And smiles as he sees the grass fall, sir.

The hand rake it is almost neglected,
It has scarcely one tooth in its head, sir,
For your tiger horse rake goes on sweeping
The hay into winrows instead, sir.

With the grain cradle one swath around,
Then it into the fence now we poke, sir,
When turn goes your binding machine,
Cute, binds it, and lays it in shocks, sir.

You will next have to stretch all you brains
And invent, if you only know how, sir,
A wire track through the air, or baloons
That will drop it right into the mow, sir.

The last great invention you made
For machines and your plough was a charmer,
Your adjustable large umberell,
A protection at work for the farmer.

At the fall exhibition last week
Your smart agent, Squire Diek, looked a swell, sir,
As he sat on your nice sulky plough,
Like a lord under that umberell, sir.

You will next have a neat handy table,
Also room for a small stove allowing,
There the farmer his dinner may cook,
And eat at his leisure while ploughing.

Both the sickly and lazy will smile,
Not of heat, nor wet weather complain, sir,
They may mow, reap and plough under cover,
And laugh at the sun or the rain, sir.

If we just had our horses well trained
To the grass, grain and furrow straight keep, sir,
They would cut all, and plough all the farm,
While we was laid snugly asleep, sir.

Fatal Fire at Paisley.

PAISLEY, Oct. 17.—This morning about 3.30 fire was discovered in a dwelling house occupied by Mr. S. R Ritchie. She and her youngest son, visiting in Toronto, left the eldest son, about 25 years of age, alone in the house. When first seen the fire was burning in the kitchen, which adjoined the bedroom of the young man. The bedroom window was broke in as speedily as possible and young Ritchie taken out unconscious. The four doctors of the town worked for several hours with him, but could not save his life. The flames were confined to the dwelling. Part of the furniture was saved. There is an insurance in the Western Insurance Company for $400 or $500. The cause of the fire is unknown.

THE PREVAILING TENDENCY.

The principal effect of this Winnipeg railway agitation is—to take money from Canada and to give it to the United States. And this is the prevailing tendency of Opposition policy all through.—Toronto World.

Knights of Labor.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 18.—The trouble over the inharmonious executive board of the Knights of Labor General Assembly was settled, at least temporarily, yesterday afternoon by the vote of the Assembly leaving the officers as they are. It is pretty well understood, however, that this is coupled with a demand for the resignation of Messrs. Barry and Bailey, of the Board, and unless compliance is prompt, there is danger of trouble coming to the front.

UNDER IMPERIAL PROTECTION.

It is not necessary to say that if Canada had not above it the Imperial standard then no commissioners would have been named to discuss the fishery question. It would have been arranged by the United States sending a fleet to the assistance of their fishermen and we would have given in. Who would assert that we are in a condition to enter into armed conflict with our powerful neighbors? Those who speak through the press of capitulation to please Great Britain, who accuse Sir John A. Macdonald of sacrificing our rights, etc., use ridiculous and idiotic language.—Le Canadien.

Every one in our town is interested in making it a manufacturing centre, so all our readers should peruse attentively Mr. Law's letter suggesting the establishment of a rolling mill. More Coal Oil.

The incendiaries did not stop on Saturday evening with trying to burn down the residences of Messrs. Wm. Yelland and H. Rossiter. They visited the Rev. I. Tovell's house, poured coal oil close to the front door and set it afire. For some reason it did not burn long but, after charring the platform and door, went out. It is to be hoped that the Mayor's prompt action in offering a large reward will be successful in securing the apprehension of the perpetrators of these acts.

The Lindsay Warder says:—"We learn that the managers for Eastern Ontario of the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company have written up over half a million dollars worth of business since the company commenced writing risks a little over two months ago. The total amount done by the company in the Dominion during that period reaches the magnificent sum of two million dollars. In this connection we are pleased to learn that Mr. Gallon, competing for a prize in gold offered for the largest business done in September, has captured the prize. The advertisement of this young and vigorous company appears in another column, to which we direct attention. We understand that several of our prominent citizens have subscribed for stock therein." Group No. 2 for the primary competition for the Ontario tankard includes Peterborough, Lindsay, Orillia, Whitby, Bowmanville, and Oshawa as convener. Lakefield is convener of No. 3 group, with Bobcaygeon, Stouffville and Markham. It was resolved to carry out a match by the city of Toronto and the county of York against the Province during the winter, and the President, Mr. W. F. ## POLICE COURT.

THE SHUTER FAMILY.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 19.—Mrs. Shuter had Mr. Shuter before the Court again this morning. Mrs. Shuter was, as usual, circled about by her children, Mr. Shuter sitting apart. Mr. Shuter was charged this time with assaulting his wife.

Mrs. SHUTER stated that on Sunday morning Mr. Shuter had compelled the boy to go in his bare feet for the milk, the ground being covered with frost, and when she interfered in his behalf he struck her. He also struck her last night.

The children were examined.

Mr. SHUTER protested several times that he wanted to make his statement under oath. The oath was administered. He said that on Sunday morning at 9 o'clock the whole family, so far as he knew, were in bed. He got up and called the children to get up and get ready for Sunday School. He called Stephen to put on his socks and go for the milk. Stephen went to put them on when Mrs. Shuter came out in a rage and jerked the one sock off. Then there was a scuffle. He held Mrs. Shuter while he threw the pail to Stephen and sent him off. Then Mrs. Shuter grabbed him by the beard and pulled a handful out. He had to go to the barber to get them trimmed even again. She would not let go of him and he put her down quietly. She then called "murder" so that the neighbours would hear it. He did not strike her. This was an account of the whole proceedings, so far as he could tell it.

The MAGISTRATE said what he called a scuffle had taken place. He thought one was as much to blame as the other. Shuter was unmanly enough to cross words with a woman.

The DEFENDANT (excitedly)—No, sir; all I wanted was to keep clear of her.

The MAGISTRATE silenced the defendant and said he was an unmanly fellow. He had been before the court several times, but there was not proof enough against him to convict him. As for the complainant, she was an ill-governed woman, with altogether too much tongue. One was as much to blame as the other, and this court would take no notice of the affair. If Shuter ever came before the court again, with proper evidence against him, he would be placed so as to avoid domestic troubles for some time.

THE INDUSTRIOUS HEN.

The "Lay" She Has Been on During the Past Six Months.

The egg industry in this part of the country is rapidly becoming more extensive. This season the shippers have sent out from Peterborough, or will send out, about 726,000 dozen of eggs, or nearly nine millions of single specimens of that kind of produce. The average price paid through the season was about 13 cents. In the spring 13 cents was paid, falling to 10 and 11 cents, and rising again to 16 and 17 cents. The egg account this season thus amounts to $94,380.

Messrs. Scott & Marshall are the largest shippers, who have confined their operations to within the County of Peterborough and borders. They shipped about 250,000 dozen, or have that many to ship. The eggs laid in the cool spring weather they pickle, large vats for the purpose beind on their spacious premises in Ashburnham. The "warm weather eggs," that is the eggs laid during the summer, are all shipped away, as they will not keep in pickle any length of time. Messrs. Doughty Bros., of Warsaw, were largely tributary to this firm shipments, they having transferred to them about 30,000 dozen. Mr. Samuel Oakley, of Hastings, also sent to Messrs. Scott & Marshall something over 30,000 dozen.

Mr. E. K. Ostrom is the largest shipper in Peterborough. He shipped 294,000 dozen altogether. He gathered his supply in Peterborough and along the line of the Midland railway as far as Uxbridge.

Mr. J. W. Flavelle shipped 122,000 dozen dozen and the Metropolitan Grocery 60,000 dozen.

The chief market for eggs shipped from here is Boston and New York, and it cannot be said that Peterborough is not doing its level best to supply these fastidious Yankees with luctous hen fruit.

The fire was confined to the stores of Rose & Co., boots and shoes; Lahey, McKenly & Co., dry goods, and J. H. Gallagher, book store. Rose & Co. occupied the corner store, loss $5,000; reported insured. Lahey, McKenly & Co. lose about $15,000; insured for about $10,000. J. H. Gallagher's loss is about $3,000; insured for $1,000. The Express printing office came next and was badly damaged, although not consumed. The building belonged to John Rennie, of Toronto, who is fully insured.

SOCIETIES FORMED.

Catholic Temperance and Literary Societies of the Cathedral Congregation.

In response to a circular of His Lordship Bishop Dowling, a number of the gentlemen of the Cathedral congregation assembled on Tuesday evening in the Murray street school house.

HIS LORDSHIP was present, and after opening the meeting with prayer announced that he had been approached by certain gentlemen to ask him to take measures for the formation of a temperance association and literary and debating societies for the young men. In a few brief but eloquent remarks he expressed his hearty approval of the proposed organizations, and asked for the opinions of gentlemen present on the matter.

In answer to calls Messrs. T. Hurley, J. W. Fitzgerald and J. O'Meara made short addresses advocating the formation of temperance and literary associations amongst the male members of the congregation.

It was moved by Mr. J. O'MEARA, and seconded by Mr. J. J. SHERRY,—That a branch of Cardinal Manning's Temperance Association, "League of the Cross," be forthwith formed.—Carried.

After the charter members had given in their names to the acting secretary, Mr. O'Meara, it was decided to hold a meeting on next Tuesday evening at 7.30 p.m. at the same place for the election of officers and the adoption of a constitution.

The formation of a literary and debating society was then resolved on, on motion of Mr. J. D. MCILMOYLE, seconded by Mr. THOS. KELLY.

The election of officers and the adoption of a constitution will take place on Thursday evening at the Murray street school house.

After discussing various other matters of parochial interest, a very pleasant reunion was brought to a close with prayer and benediction by His Lordship.

A YEAR IN THE CENTRAL.

The Windovers and Young Montgomery Sentenced.

At the Police Court this morning the four prisoners charged with burglarising Mr. J. M. Irwin's shanty in the township of Anstruther were brought into court to hear the sentence the court would pronounce upon them.

Mr. E. B. Edwards, for the prosecution and Mr. C. W. Sawers, for the defence, were present.

Geo. Cochrane was called by the Magistrate in regard to the value of the goods.

Mr. Edwards was ready to go on to prove burglary, but on the Magistrate's stating that it would make no difference in his judgment that charge was left unproved, and the judgement was delivered on the plea of guilty to the charge of larceny.

The Magistrate said that he thought people in the back country should guard the goods of lumbermen who did so much for them in giving them a market for their produce. In this case these men had deliberately travelled a long way to steal these goods. Whilst the punishment which might be made was one which they would feel, yet on account of the youth of the prisoners he would not make it so severe as he would otherwise have done. He did this in the hope that they would come to realize the evil course they had entered upon and would cut it short. He would sentence Elijah Windover, Harvey T. Windover, Ephriam Windover and Agustus Montgomery to one year in the Central Prison.

The case of the elder Montgomery, charged with receiving stolen goods well knowing such goods to have been stolen, came before the court. The prisoner elected to be tried by a jury. The court by which he will be tried will sit on November 14th.

ATTEMPTED MURDER.

Saved from Drowning and Thrown into the Water Again.

MONTREAL, Oct. 19.—The Star says that Adolphe Belard, of Belœil, was accused of a most dastardly and inhuman act this morning before Judge Desnoyers. Mr. Gaspard Troullette, hotel keeper of Chambly, who appeared as complainant, accuses him of robbery and attempt of murder under the following singular circumstances:—On Monday afternoon whilst fishing in the Chamblay basin opposite Belœil, Mr. Troullette's yacht was suddenly capsized by an unexpected gust of wind. Mr. Troullete, who is about 50 years old and of portly stature, however, did not lose his presence of mind, but held on to the boat until it drifted within about a hundred yards of the shore, when he noticed a man putting out in a small boat and pulling towards him. That man was the prisoner. After being as comfortably esconced in the boat as the circumstances permitted, Mr. Troullette pulled out of his pocket a roll of bills amounting to $155 and as the bills were completely soaked he asked Belard to give him a dry handkerchief to to put around the bills, which the latter did. At that moment Mr. Troullette felt faint from his exertion, and no sooner had he made a motion to lie down, than, as Mr. Troulette stated, Belard seized him and threw him out of the boat into the water, and hastily made off to the land, but not before he had secured the roll of bills which Mr. Troullette had in his hand at the time he began to feel faint. The contact with the cold water partially revived the old gentleman, but he had only strength enough to drag himself to a projecting stone, where he was later on picked up by two bargemen named Dion and Domingue, who took him home, where he arrived speechless and almost dead from fatigue.

When brought before the Magistrate this morning and charged with attempted murder and robbery, he pleaded not guilty. He was sent to the Court of Queen's Bench. The accused is 20 years old, and has been married a year.

KRUPP WANTS HIS MONEY.

He Appeals to the German Chancellor to Help Him Collect a Bill.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The prolonged visit of Herr Krupp to Prince Bismarck at Friederichsruhe has excited considerable surprise and comment, and various causes have been ascribed as explaining the gunmaker's purpose in holding a conference with the Chancellor, none of which, however, has came anywhere near the truth. It has been learned that the object of Herr Krupp's interview was to induce the Chancellor to assist him in collecting a bill of $5,000,000, which the House of Krupp has held against the Turkish Government for ordnance furnished at various times to Turkey, until the probability of its voluntary payment has become exceedingly remote. Whether the Chancellor agreed to turn the German Foreign Office into a collection agency is not definitely known, but it is understood that Herr Krupp received a promise that anything that could legitimately be done toward inducing the Sultan's Government to liquidate its indebtedness to the firm that had supplied it with means of protecting itself would be resorted to, though what steps will be taken cannot be conjectured.

An Elopement.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The people of London West were startled this morning by the news of an elopement from their midst which was altogether unexpected, though for a year past gossips have connected the names of the parties concerned. They are Miss Vadden, daughter of Mr. Wm. Vadden, shoemaker, who lives near the corner of Dundas and Centre streets, and George Moore, who resided on Oak street, and who leaves behind him a wife and five children.

Kissing Not an Assault.

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 19.—Mrs. Elizabeth Baker complained of Henry Corbett for indecent assault. At the trial this morning, the evidence showed that Corbett's assault consisted of kissing the woman twice. Magistrate Bartlet held that kissing did not constitute an assault as charged, and discharged Corbett.

THE LATE DR. NELLES.

Funeral of the Late Chancellor of Victoria University.

COBOURG, Oct. 19.—The funeral of the late Rev. S. S. Nelles, D.D., LL.D., took place today and was attended by a large number of Methodist ministers, leading clergymen of other denominations, graduates and undergraduates of Victoria University, and a large number of prominent men from this and neighboring towns.

At the house there was a short service conducted by Rev. Dr. Williams, of Cobourg, and Rev. James Roy, after which the remains were borne to the hearse by these members of the Faculty:—Vice-Chancellor Kerr, John Wilson, LL.D., Rev. Alfred H. Reynar, M. A., Eugene Haanel, Ph.D., A. R. Bain, M.A., Rev. E. J. Badgley, B.D., LL.D., L. E. Horning, M. A., A. P. Coleman, Ph. D., and Rev. Dr. Burwash, principal of the Whitby Young Ladies' College. The chief mourners were the deceased's two sons, Mr. F. E. Nelles, B. A., of Tilbury Centre, and Master Harold Nelles; his brothers, Dr. J. A. Nelles, of London, and Mr. I. R. Nelles, of Simcoe; his brothers-in-law, Messrs. R. A. Wood and J. O. Wood, of Toronto; and Dr. Uzziel Ogden, of Toronto.

Proceeding along College and Chapel streets to the Division street Methodist Church the cortege moved in this order:—

The Physicians
The Officiating Clergymen
The Faculty of Arts, as Bearers
The body
The Mourners
The Students
The Alumni
The Senate
Representatives of Sister Universities
The Clergy
The Civic Corporations
The Citizens

At the church the Rev. Dr. W. Williams conducted the services. After the reading of scriptural selections by Rev. Dr. Shaw of Montreal, Rev. Dr J. A. Williams, general superintendent, offered prayer. Rev. Prof. Reynar then delivered the obituary. He explained that on his deathbed the deceased Chancellor had requested that he should perform this service, saying that if anyone must speak at his funeral service it should be one who knew his inner life and was his friend. In beautiful language and with touching pathos, which at several points brought tears to the eyes of his listeners, he sketched the life of the deceased and of the high Christian character of the man. Dr. Nelles, he said, was fond of books from his earliest boyhood, and thus the world lost a second-rate farmer and gained a first-class scholar. Particular reference was made to the manner in which he overcame many trials and troubles in connection with the college, his peculiarities of character and his intense and constant sympathy with those in trouble. The doctor was a wide and liberal reader, and on his death bed said: "I have read many books, but there is none like The Book." Two days before he died he sent a message to the students, saying, "Give the boys my love, thank them for their kindness, and ask them to sing "There's a Fountain Filled With Blood." He requested that on his tombstone there should be carved the inscription, "Now, we see through a glass darkly," and that at the funeral services the hymns "Rock of Ages" and "There is a Fountain" should be sung. These hymns were sung with great feeling.

The Rev. Dr. Carman delivered an address, the burden of which was relative to the beauty of the Christian life led by the deceased. An address by Rev. Dr. Potts contained a reference to what he called the wonderful sermon preached by Dr. Nelles at the funeral services of the late Rev. Dr. Ryerson. The deceased, he claimed, was the foremost preacher in Canada, and henceforth his name would be linked with that of Dr. Ryerson as a great educator.

The services were closed by the benediction, and the remains were conveyed to the Union Cemetery and there interred. Rev. Dr. J. A. Williams officiated at the grave.

THE DYKE GAVE AWAY

And Pitched the St. John Express into a Washout.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 19.—A remarkably high tide in the Bay of Fundy yesterday overflowed the dykes of the famous Tantramar marsh. This marsh, 100,000 acres in extent, lies along a narrow strip of land connecting Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. The Intercolonial Railway runs across it. The Bay of Fundy tides rise to a height of some seventy feet with tremendous rapidity. A heavy southeast gale added to the danger. Just as the St. John express train was crossing near Cole's island, the dyke gave way within 100 yards in front of the engine, and a mighty body of water swept over the marsh, completely washing away the track. The engine was reversed, but not in time to prevent its rushing into the washout, where the engine and baggage cars rolled over on their sides in the ditch. The passenger cars left the track. The passengers were panic stricken. Driver Trider and Fireman Campbell miraculously escaped with their lives, but were bruised, and Baggage Master Mackintosh and Express Agent Chase received wounds. Relief soon arrived at the scene of the wreck, and the passengers and mails for Halifax were transferred to a special. Had the accident happened to the Quebec night express the result would have been disastrous.

Barnett in the Toils.

MONTREAL, Oct. 19.—Rolland I. G. Barnett, who absconded from Toronto, leaving behind him creditors with claim against him amounting to $50,000, was arrested in Philadelphia yesterday by Mr. Ed. Guerin at the instance of Mr. James Baxter of this city, who had a claim of $3,500 against him for money advanced and for diamonds sold as well as for diamonds forwarded to Barnett to be delived to customers at Toronto. When arrested he disgorged all he had on him consisting of diamonds valued at $1,500 and about as much more in cash.

BATTLE BETWEEN EIGHT LIONS.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—There was a frightful battle between eight lions at the jubilee exhibition at Liverpool early yesterday morning. The beasts bit and gnawed each other in a terrible manner and one was killed. Trainer Delmonico entered the cage and finally separated the animals.

YOUNG'S POINT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ICE.—Ice formed on the bay one day last week.

BUILDING.—Mr. John Godfrey is erecting a neat and commodious dwelling.

TRANSFER.—Mr. Wm. Pope has purchased from Mr. John Young the building occupied by the former as a store and dwelling house. The price paid for buildings and lot was $1,000. Mr. Pope has leased his farm and intends devoting all his time to his store.

CULVERT.—The attention of the Township Councillors of Smith is respectfully drawn to the rotten state of the planking in the culvert in front of Mr. Pope's store.

BASEBALL.—The Young's Point club played the Commercials, of Lakefield, on Oct. 8. Score, 25 to 10 in favor of Young's Point. Batteries—Kearney and Johnston, Henderson and Cox.

BEAR.—An immense black bear, as large as a year old calf, was seen within a half mile of the village on Saturday evening. A party of crack shots armed with Winchesters gave chase, but Bruin showed them a clean pair of heels. It will not be healthy for his bearship to return, as the boys are all "loaded for bear." A lynx has also been seen in the woods north of the village. It is supposed the recent fires in the "back country" has driven them down.

Live Stock.

The Liverpool correspondent of the Montreal Gazette in his letter of Oct. 8th says:—The anticipations of a worse trade, expressed in my letter of 1st, have been more than borne out by the experience of this week. In London on Monday the trifling number shown hardly enabled a quotation to be given, but the offerings at Liverpool, of both cattle and sheep, were sufficiently strong to test fully the state of trade and the capabilities of salesmen interested. In cabling 10½c for best Canadians, the very outside figure was named, but only a few decent cattle were in the market, and it is almost a misnomer to speak of best Canadians, for there is really no such class now. Since Monday a further decline in values has been made not locally but generally, and on Tuesday out of 410 Canadians shown in London only one or two small lots of the best could be cashed, at an average say of 10c. Shippers aware of the fact that supplies from Montreal for this week and next week were light, and doubtless indulged in pleasant anticipations that higher prices would be current. Nothing could be further from the real facts. Thousands of Irish cattle are being run in on every market—some good, more middling but most indifferent. To aggravate matters the weather is muggy, and, though not warm, it is just the sloppy kind of weather that tells most severely against beef. Then again to help a lame dog over the style, heavy consignments of Iceland sheep are arriving, 4,000 at a time, just enough to fill up our big buyers, and keep them from handling Canadians. These sheep, I believe, were sold at 24s each, and over 50 per cent. of them were fit to kill. Next week another cargo of 4,000 is due here, so that the prospects for mutton are quite as discouraging as those for beef.

Masked Robbers.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Oct. 19.—Monday night, about nine o'clock, four masked robbers visited the house of Phillip Kupple, an aged farmer residing seven miles north of this place, and, after beating the old man with a club, bound him and his wife and robbed the house of $700 in cash, watches and other articles. They then had a banquet, and all departed but one, who unloosed the old folks, and with the remark that it was about time for honest people to be in bed, made his exit.

Scenes at Bellevue Hospital.

On the lowest floor of all, behind heavy iron doors, are kept patients suffering from alcoholic maniac. It scarcely need be said that these apartments do not suffer for tenants. Sometimes, indeed, they are crowded uncomfortably with a lot of filthy, howling incurables, who, sunk lower than beasts, seem scarcely worth minding about. One of them, somewhat recovered from the worst stage, was still dazed and occupied with phantoms and vampires. You could shake your first in his face, but he wouldn't have seen you. Now and then he put out his hand as if to ward off some stealthily approaching foe. He wheeled around quickly and shrank back in fright. He held his hands before his face and every nerve in his body shook violently. The doctor took his hand.

"What do you see, John?" he asked.

"Green devils in the water and I can't swim a stroke," was the despairing answer. The variety of their horrid visions is amazing. One of them thought himself in a spider's web and "more'n a million" spiders, hairy, long and vicious, were weaving their skeins around him. The attention of a third, whose violence when brought in had been overcome only by the brute strength of a dozen orderlies, was now engaged rolling off the roofs of houses one reared above the other far into the clouds, while a hundred bats chased him in his tumbles. Every minute or two he bounced heavily on his bed and groaned fearfully. He had just struck another roof.—New York Tribune.

Wit When it Doesn't Count.

It is curious that the letters accompanying papers offered for publication often display more naturalness, wit, poetic beauty or forcible methods of stating things than the articles themselves. We are sometimes tempted to publish as gems letters introducing contributions which we are compelled to decline.—Christian Advocate.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

MR. GLADSTONE'S HOST.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Mr. Gladstone's sudden friendship for Sir Edward Watkin, the Unionist member for Hythe, excited some surprise among those who could not account for it, but it has no political significance. The personal relations of the two gentlemen have always been friendly, and have been especially so since the ex-Premier's advocacy, at the last session, of the Channel Tunnel Bill, which measure Sir Edward Watkin has made his especial hobby. The entente cordiale established between the two over the perennial idea of a tunnel under the English Channel rendered it the most natural thing in the world that Mr. Gladstone should become the guest of Sir Edward, when he should chance to visit the latter's place of residence. Mr. Gladstone's Nottingham speech evolves no new theories in regard to Home Rule. Nor does it make his old plans any plainer than they were before.

THE LONDON RIOTS.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—This afternoon a mob sallied from Hyde Park into the streets and was followed by a force of policemen. The mob paraded through a number of streets in the West End and made riotous demonstrations. It became so threatening in Berkeley-square that the police charged upon and scattered it. The mob again assembled and proceeded along Piccadilly, where the police again attacked it, and a sharp fight took place. Several persons were injured, and many rioters were taken into custody. Some of the shopkeepers closed their places, fearing they would be pillaged.

IRISH AFFAIRS IN PARLIAMENT.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—In a speech at Bradford, Mr. Goschen said: "The next session of Parliament must now be devoted entirely to Irish affairs. If the Gladstonians sought to make the Government of Ireland impossible, the ministry must show that they are able to deal with the two difficulties together."

MAKING FAVORABLE PROGRESS.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 19.—Princesses Maud and Louise of Wales, Prince George of Greece, and the Czarewitch, all of whom are down with measles, continue to make favorable progress.

CHURCHILL TO THE FRONT.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—In the course of the next five days Lord Randolph Churchill will deliver three speeches of great importance in which his entire policy will be disclosed. He will doubtless endeavor to strengthen the hands of the Government in which he is generally expected to resume his former place shortly. No one, not excepting Mr. Gladstone, draws such immense audiences. In one place where he is announced to appear next December, the reserved seats have been already applied for three or four times over.

WILSON DENIES THE CHARGES.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Mr. Wilson was asked yesterday what he had to say about charges that had been made against him. He replied: "These charges are simply odious. They are calumnies, carefully worked up by enemies of President Grevy, to worry him into retiring from office, so as to give place to somebody else."

THE NOTTINGHAM CONFERENCE.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The conference at Nottingham was attended by two thousand delegates from Liberal associations in all parts of the kingdom. Baron Wolverton, Messrs. Hugh C. Childers, H. A. Mundella, and other leading lights of the Liberal party were present. Mr. Jas. Kitson, president of the federation, presided. Mr. Herbert H. Asquith, M. P., East Fife, made a telling speech. A resolution condemning the coercive policy in Ireland was carried by acclamation. As Mr. Gladstone entered the hall, he was cheered lustily, the whole audience singing "See the conquering hero comes" and "Auld lang syne."

GLADSTONE'S TOUR.

Other Matters to be Settled After the Irish Question.

LONDON, Oct.—19.—Mr. Gladstone made a visit to the Congregational Institue at Nottingham to-day. Crowds lined the street through which his carriage passed, and he was heartily cheered. Mr. Gladstone made on address at the institute, in which he said that the pains and anxiety of the present political controversy were greatly mitigated by the conviction that the work of the Liberal party, though momentarily one of strife, aimed at peace. He trusted it was not profane or irrevent to say that the Prince of Peace would recognize and bless their efforts. They sought to unite kingdoms now estrange and to promote harmony among different classes.

This evening Mr. Gladstone, while driving to the rink, was enthusiastically greeted by the throngs that lined the route. On arriving at the rink he received an ovation from an assemblage of 8000 persons. In a speech he said he would bodily sweep away the law of entail. He strongly condemned the revision of the phantasy of protection. He urged the extension of local government in the direction of decentralization, but said that these, together with the questions of the liquor traffic and the disestablishment of the church in Scotland and wales, could not be touched until a sound adjustment had been effected in regard to Ireland.

KATKOFF AND BOULANGER.

The Russian and Frenchman Said to Have Been in Communication.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily Chronicle learns that the late M. Katkoff and General Boulanger were in close communication. The former is even said to have promised to aid General Boulanger to launching himself as dictator. M. Katkoff, who employed General Bogdonsvitch as an intermediary, advised General Boulanger to pay scant attention to the Russian and German embassies, but to push on in the direction of war. General Scheveinitz, the German ambassador at St. Petersburg, managed to intercept one of Mr Katkoff's letters and conveyed it to the Emperor William. The Emperor complained to the Czar, who become greatly incensed when he heard of the affair, and declared that he would never admit M. Katkoff to his presence again. The disgrace hastened M. Katkoff's death.

RAILWAY CHARGES.

WHEN on account of the refusal of the C. P. R. to discriminate in favour of Winnipeg, an agitation was commenced by certain Winnipeggers to attack the great railway to which they owe the very existance of their city, we cautioned the agitators that they must expect to find imitators in other localities. If they were to tap our costly railway by a cheap little spur to divert its traffic to a rival line, other places might wish to do the same, and Winnipeg would be further than ever from being the sole commercial centre of Manitoba and the Northwest. As we expected, Brandon and other places have adopted the idea of making their particular localities the point for tapping the C.P.R. and now we have a fresh instance.

The Calgary Tribune makes a fierce attack upon the C. P. R. and suggests running a diverting line southward. Its grievance is that paper with other freight to the Pacific terminus, though having to pay more than to Calgary is charged at a less rate per mile. Therefor the C. P. R. is censured as an exceptionally oppressive monopoly.

Now whether right or wrong there is nothing exception about this policy, and it is not fair to endeavour to excite special prejudice against the C. P. R. as if it were a monster of injustice. Every railway in every country of the world adopts this policy. The Dominion of Canada is itself a great carrier in a particular branch and it is very far from charging equal mileage rates for mail matter. How would the Calgarry Tribune like to pay by the mile for every letter or newspaper it sends out or receives?

As to these varying railway charges the real position of affairs is often greatly obscured by local desire always to obtain the best of the bargain and never the worst. For instance Calgary is quite content to pay less mileage for its longer haul than Winnipeg, but objects to Vancouver paying still less mileage for its still longer haul. It is quite content to have a rate for live stock by the car more favourable than that for a few head of cattle from other places, but objects to a terminus with a great trade being specially favoured.

It is often forgotten that railways from one aspect are business organizations and as such have to adopt ordinary business rules. As large transactions can be effected at a lower rate than small, the customer for a longer haul or for a car load instead of a small parcel gets an advantage, like the purchaser of a chest instead of a pound of tea. A large general business can be done at a lower proportional profit than a small business, so railway fares and freights are lower in thickly settled than in sparsely occupied districts. If there are two or more railways between two cities, the longer has to conform its charges, not to its own mileage, but to that of the shorter, or it will do no trade. So if cheaper water carriage comes in competition the railway must carry as cheaply or not at all. There are many such circumstances that must influence the business of running a railway as they would of running a grocery.

On the other hand the railways often forget another aspect of the question. Their construction on this continent has been almost without exception to a large extent at the cost of the public. In every case by their charters they have been granted special privileges for the public convenience, and as being quasi public bodies. They thus incur reciprocal duties to the people. Thus their right to run their own business to suit themselves is limited. Some of the limitations are obvious. They should not exact excessive profits on their business as a whole, and this is generally observed, for railway dividends are notoriously not enormous. While giving a fair advantage to large customers, according to quantity and distance, they should not favor one individual or corporation over another in similar circumstances. They should not unduly discriminate for or against localities without sound business reasons. Above all they should not in their eagerness to do business push competition so far as to carry certain goods or passengers at a loss, recouping themselves by excessive charges elsewhere. This is as unfair and dishonest as the course recommended by the Toronto Globe to the grocers of giving a present to the purchasers of sugar and making the purchasers of tea pay for it. Thoughtless people assume that lowered railway rates must mean a gain for the public obtained from the railway, but a little reflection would show this idea to be erroneous. Railways are not making average profits that can thus bear a loss on part of their business, and the temporary or local reduction, if excessive, has to be met by a compensating overcharge at some other time or locality. Where there is any undue difference between the treatment of two towns it cannot be remedied, as is often assumed, by a reduction from the higher to the lower tariff, but one would have to be raised and the other reduced to give the same average.

Such considerations as these show that railways, while not being prevented from conducting their operations on fair business principles, should be subject to reasonable limitations when necessary to restrict any undue use of the powers delegated to them by the people for the public advantage.

One weak point of the factitious agitation against the C. P. R. is that there has been nothing advanced but vague declamation and a few dubious figures. The tariff of the C.P.R. has to be submitted for the approval of the Administration. Seeming to be as a whole fair and reasonable—being, as it is, lower than that of any railway similarly situated, it has been sanctioned. This, of course, does not prove that it is perfect in every particular. But if there is any serious fault to be found with it, why has no formal protest been laid before the Government, the objections being supported by facts and figures showing where it is defective, so that it might be amended? If there was any unfair discrimination against Winnipeg would not the agitators there be eager to prove their case before the Dominion authorities? But the fact is that the agitation arises from a refussl to discriminate unfairly in favour of Winnipeg, and hence the absence of any attempt to prove to the Administration that the C.P.R. tariff is so unfair that it should not be sanctioned

IN an editorial note the Toronto Globe says:—

"Isn't it singular that all the telegrams that have to be burned in order to be kept from the Courts are sent by Tory candidates for Parliament or connected with Tory schemes for the corruption of Parliament."

Is not the Globe a little forgetful? Were not some telegrams burned that passed between Messrs. Hardy and Pardee and some of the officials under them in relation to official business? Now there may be a question as to whether the secrecy of telegrams should be violated by the Telegraph Companies, but there can be no question as to the dishonesty and breach of duty of public officials who bid their telegrams from the people to conceal from them the misappropriation of their money for political and private interests.

---

WE are told by one of the agitators for Commercial Annexation and the surrender of our fisheries that reciprocity of natural products is "impossible in the present temper of the American people," and that a money payment for the use of our fisheries is also impossible. We can only say that it would be well for the "American people" to get out of their temper and to agree to compensate us honestly for the use of our property if they want it. If they do not care to pay the price, they should do like honest people desiring the property of others, leave it in the possession and enjoyment of the owners. If our property is valueless to them why try to steal it; if valuable to them why not pay for it? And why should they show any temper either way?

Victory has Perched on the Banner of ## PETERBOROUGH'S GREAT CHEAPSIDE.

And SHEPPARD, by common consent, will get $1,000 for being the Cheapest Clothier in Peterborough, having knocked the Wonderful Cheap Man completely out. "Business is business; dirt is dirt, and when it comes to throwing dirt, then count" the only original teddy out, and he will hand over that $1,000 like a little man, for the following reasons:—

SHEPPARD sells a full size Man's suit for $2.95, and better goods than a suit to fit a child about nine years old sold by the Wonderful Cheap Man on Saturday for $3.00; but marked $3.50. This is how it was.—A lady purchased a child's suit on Saturday last, Sept. 17th, 1887, at the store of the Wonderful Cheap Man. It was marked thusly:—Lot 5375, Breast 27, Waist 26½, Age 9, Price $3.50. It was pure shoddy being held together by cotton threads, and Sheppard is free to say that that was the dearest suit sold in the Town of Peterborough for the last two years. Full particulars are given because of the $1,000 involved, and, further, that this decides who is selling the Cheapest Clothing in Peterborough. SHEPPARD would have sold that lady a suit, pure wool, for that money, and worth two of the one she got.

$1,000 to Go to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

I had first decided to give the agencies a chance of jumping up my rating that $1,000, but after considering the matter and finding that never in any case have I been asked for an endorser to my paper, and that no relative or any other persons have ever endorsed my paper to the extent of one cent, I have come to the conclusion my credit is as good as yours, and will ask you to hand over the $1,000 to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

Now, Sir, there is a good story told, the truth of which can be vouched for, but for the honor of at least making an effort to keep up your self-styled name—The Terror of High Priced Clothiers—do not allow the same to be said of you in the case above. A man purchased a suit for $15.00 at the store of one of the largest advertisers in that section of country. It was guaranteed pure wool; but after examining it carefully at home, he came to the conclusion that he had been dealing with some one sharper than himself. Finding a make of wool, differing some from anything he had ever seen, it dawned upon him that he had heard of wool of that kind, so the suit was returned. The merchant bet $25.00 that it was all wool, and the bet was accepted, the decision being left to a neighboring merchant. He found that the $15.00 suit was wool faced and shoddy back, pure unadulterated shoddy; but what of the $25.00 bet? was it paid? Not much—muchly—as it were.

ALL THE WORLD AT WAR.

By WALTER BESANT.

"They were full of brandy three weeks ago," repeated Joshua. "That is all I know."

They looked at each other in amazement. Then the leader gave the word as if nothing unusual had happened:

"Fall in, men. March!"

Just then I stepped from my hiding place—the daylight was pretty clear then—and ran up over the rocks so as to meet them higher up on the road. That looked as if I might have been awakened by the noise of the fight and came out to see what it was.

"Pleasance," cried Joshua, "this is lucky. Tell these men—it is a press gang—they have pressed me—me—a simple miller and not a sailor at all—tell them they have no right"——

"Oh, Joshua, Joshua," I said, "this is very sad. Won't you let him go, gentlemen? This is a dreadful misfortune. And all the brandy spilled? Dear me! Oh, do let him go. He is not a regular sailor; indeed, gentlemen, indeed he is not, though he is so handy aboard that he will surprise you. Do let him go—do. He knows every inch of the French coast, but you must not press him. He is the best boatman from Lyme to Weymouth, though he is a miller. Oh, he is much too good a sailor to be pressed. Do let him go."

"Let him go?" cried the boatswain, with an oath. "If I let him go, I wish I may be smothered in a French prison!"

"Oh, Joshua, Joshua!" I cried, as they dragged him away pinioned and powerless. "Dispensations! Grievous dispensations! Let us kiss the rod!"

CHAPTER VI.

LADY CAMPION.

Three weeks or a month passed so. Had I lived much longer in this loneliness—for I spoke to no one, not even to the faithful old woman who took care I did not starve—I think I should have gone mad with much brooding. But there came an end.

It was on a sunny forenoon in November. I was thinking how it must be out at sea for Dan and the boys, and wondering whether Will thought of me as much as I thought of him, and trying to bring back to my mind his handsome face and laughing eyes, when I saw a most unaccustomed sight. There came along the lane, riding slowly, because the road was rough, a gentleman dressed in an immense cloak with a fur collar, buckled at the neck. He was a middle-aged man, perhaps turned fifty, and of grave aspect. Behind him rode two servants, each of whom carried at the back of his saddle a small leathern trunk.

The gentleman looked about him curiously. The place, left now to the charge of the two old people, was already beginning to show signs of neglect. I sat in the porch, half hidden by the great fuchsia tree. He seemed to be looking for some one to speak to. The servants rode up to him, and they all then consulted.

"There is no other house but this in the place. It must be Gulliver's Farm."

I merged from the porch, and went to ask of whom the gentleman was in search. He took off his hat politely.

"You are Miss Pleasance Noel?" he asked.

"Yes, sir; I am Pleasance."

It was so seldom that I heard my surname that I had almost forgotten its existence.

"You are the young lady of whom I am in search. You are a—a friend, I believe, of Mr. William Campion, son of the late Sir Godfrey Campion."

"He is my sweetheart," I replied.

Then the gentleman smiled, dismounted and gave the reins to one of the servants.

"I am John Huntspill," he said. "I have the honor to be a partner in that firm; I am traveling for the house in the southern counties. I am also, I may boast, in the confidence of Mr. William. May I, therefore, beg the honor of a private interview with you?"

This was very imposing. I led the way into the house and begged him to be seated; at the same time I offered him a glass of brandy, assuring him, in the words of Dan Gulliver, that it was right good brandy, which had never paid duty. In my girlish ignorance, I conceived that the payment of duty inflicted some grievous damage to the character of brandy; also, I thought that everybody in polite society offered everybody else glasses of raw spirit.

"Thank you," Mr. Huntspill replied with courtesy. "The partners in the house of Campion & Co. never drink any spirits, on principle, except their own rum, and that is duty paid."

He meant the last fact as an admonition. I took it as a confession that the rum was of inferior quality.

"I have received," he went on, "two letters, part of which I propose to communicate to you. In fact, young lady, they immediately concern you. The first is from Mr. William."

He opened a great leathern pocketbook and produced two letters.

"I received this," he said, "ten days ago, being then in the village of Brighthelmstone, and immediately resolved upon traveling hither to acquaint you with the wishes of Mr. William.

"He informs me, first, of the lamentable chain of events which have led the young gentleman into this melancholy position. Had we known of it in time, such is the influence of the house, and so signal were the services of the late Sir Godfrey (of pious memory), that we might and certainly should have procured the immediate release of Mr. William, and probably the pardon of the others. But his pride would not allow him to communicate the news to us. The letter is written on the road to Portsmouth, whence he is to be drafted—great heavens! the son of Sir Godfrey a sailor before the mast!—on board one of the ships in his majesty's fleet. He says then:

To be continued.

A Young Financier.

"Please, mum, gimme a slate pencil," said little Fred as he entered a store on his way to school.

"Look here," said the old lady, "you didn't pay for that; I want a penny."

"I hain't got a penny."

"Then give me back the pencil."

"No, I won't." And breaking the pencil evenly in two he added, offering the old lady one half: "There, that pays for my part."—Epoch.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It smoothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for Diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. ### In Brief, and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents

An Excellent Reason.

Minister (dining with the family)—You never go fishing on Sundays, do you, Bobby?

Bobby—Oh, no sir.

Minister—That's right, Bobby. Now can you tell me why you don't go fishing on Sunday?

Bobby—Yes, sir. Pa says he doesn't want to be bothered with me.—New York Sun.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Prize Poultry.

Mr. Spencely, of Auburn, who took first prize for Leghorns at the Central, has sent the pair that won the prize to a friend in Rochester, N. Y.

Members' Meeting.

The debate on the third party for temperance will take place this evening in the Y. M. C. A. hall. Young men are cordially invited to attend.

P. A. A. A.

A meeting of the members of the P. A. A. A. will be held in Hartley's Music Store this evening. Business of great importance will come before the meeting. The presence of every member is required. 1d95.

The Evangelists.

The Rev. Messrs. Crossley and Hunter, the evangelists, who were expected to come to Peterborough this month, will not, it is now believed, be able to commence meetings here until about the first of January.

See Eureka Card Co. adv. in another column.

Now Open.

Chamberlain's oyster parlor is now open for the season. Oysters will be served at all hours in styles to suit the tastes of our patrons. After this week shell oysters will be kept constantly on hand. Porter-house steaks, chops, etc., prepared on the shortest notice. d69-tf

Officers Orderly Room.

The officers orderly room at the drill shed has recently been handsomely fitted up and furnished. The walls have been prettily papered and frescoed, the room carpeted, a suitable stove has been placed in the room, also a long table for writing on, lamps, settees, etc. The room was furnished out of the regimental funds.

Abusive Language.

Joseph Valois, who was before the court on a charge of assault with criminal intent and was discharged, will appear before the court to-morrow morning on a charge of having used abusive and insulting language toward Mrs. McConnal. Mrs. McConnal is the woman whom Valois' daughter said conspired with her step-mother in setting her up to tell the story.

LADIES! you will find TURNBULL'S the right house to buy yarns of all shades at Righ Prices.

Prospering.

Messrs. Sherwood Bros. have found that their extending business demanded larger premises and they have moved from the Stevenson block, Water street, to the Dunsford block, on the same street. They occupy two flats, having an elevator running up and down. All kinds of brooms, brushes and wooden ware is kept on the second flat. Grocers sundries, paper bags, wrapping paper, and so forth, are kept on the ground floor and cellar. A new broom factory has been built in the rear of the block which can turn out one hundred dozen brooms per week.

Fur Store.

Mr. J. W. T. Fairweather has removed his hat and fur store to the premises on the corner of George and Simcoe street, formerly occupied by Fairweather & Co. Mr. Fairweather has fitted it up in such a manner as to be unsurpassed in Ontario. The front, in which there are seven sheets of plate glass is peculiarly well adapted for showing off goods, particularly so as it faces on two streets. The furnishings are neat and handsome. Walnut cases, and mirrors, and abundance of shelf room show off the stock to good advantage. All kinds of raw furs, such as otter, beaver, seal, Astrachan and Persian lamb, are kept so that ordered work can be executed at once. All kinds of domestic raw furs are bought. The manufacturing department is situated on the second flat.

Entertainment.

A very successful entertainment was held in the school room of St. John's Church on Wednesday evening, in aid of the St. John's Church South Ward Sunday School. The building was filled to the doors. Miss Mildred Beck and Miss F. Stevenson opened the entertainment with a pianoforte duet, "Marche des Troubadours," Sidney Smith. The duet was played in a very finished and pleasing manner. The vocal duet, "I Sing Because I Love to Sing," Pinsuti, given by Miss Ella Cox and Mrs. Seward elicted warmth of applause amounting to an encore. The ladies did not, however, respond. Mr. A. St. A. Smith read Coltidge's sublime "Sunrise in the Vale of Chamouni" with good intonation and clear utterance. It was well received by the audience. "I Am Waiting," Birch, was a vocal tenor solo by Mr. M. Tierney. A burst of applause followed the conclusion, which was satisfied only with Mr. Tierney again appearing on the platform. The violin solo, "Carnival de Venise," Witchl, given by Miss Louise Yokome, was rendered with much spirit and correctness. Miss Yokome bids fair to become a second Miss Clench. Ventriloquism by Peterborough's favorite, Mr. W. A. Dixon, brought down the house. Miss Nellie Wrighton commenced the second part by giving a selected piano solo, her treatment of which excited much admiration. "The Ship on Fire," Russell, was sung by Mr. Bannell Sawyer, winning applause, Mr. Chas. Brown read "Paudeen O'Rafferty's Say Voyage,' making everybody laugh, Mrs. Seward sang a pretty song, "Banbury Cross," and the entertainment ended with a violin and piano duet by Miss Yokome and Mr. Seward. "God Save the Queen" was sung. The success of the entertainment gives encouragement to those who have given much time and attention to securing the success of the South Ward Sunday School. The promoters wish to thank all who took part in the entertainment, especially Mr. Seward and Mr. Doucet, who gave much of their time to rehearsing and who played the accompaniments on Wednesday evening.

Agricultural.

The Board of Directors of the West Peterborough Agricultural Society met in the Council Chamber on Wednesday afternoon. There were present:—Messrs. Wm. Rutherford, in the chair, J. McClelland, Robt. Vance, J. Garbutt, G. W. Fitzgerald, Jos. Forster, Wm. Collins, Wm. Fair, H. Davidson and Jas. Stevenson. The following protests were presented:—By Messrs. J. G. Blezard and J. Kerr against Mr F. G. Cox, for having shown a horse in the single carriage class that was shown in the double carriage class. By Mr. Hugh Davidson against Mr. F. G. Cox for having shown a horse in the double carriage class that was shown in the single carriage class. Mr. Cox withdrew as he did not go in for the purpose of taking prizes. By Fitzgerald & Stanger against Porter Bros. for having shown a waggon two years in succession. It was decided that the waggon referred to was on the ground last year for exhibition not for competition. By Mr. J. H. Daubes against Mr. A. R. Kidd for having shown a variety of potatoes shown before, the prize being offered for a variety of potatoes never shown before. The protest was sustained. By Mr. Elmhirst against Mr. Wilson for competing in the farmers race with a team alleged not to be bona fide farm horses. It was decided that Mr. Wilson return the prize till the matter is decided. By Mr. Pettit against Mr. Wilson for trotting for the Jubilee Purse with a team of horses alleged to be not his bona-fide property. This question is yet to be decided. By T. E. Fitzgerald against G. W. Fitzgerald for a prize being awarded to the latter for two bushels of beans, when there were not two full bushels. The protest was dismissed. A rebate of $5 was granted to the Women's Christian Temperance Union out of the $60 paid seeing that they had met with indifferent success with their dining room on the grounds. It was decided that the Society was in no way responsible for the Greatrix-Cooper race having fallen through and that they would not hold themselves liable for the $25. An order was made in favour of Mr. Millar who won the 100 yard race for the medal awarded.

Personal.

The Rev. I. Tovell, the Rev. F. H. Wallace and the Rev. J. C. Wilson were in Cobourg on Wednesday attending the funeral of the late Dr. Nelles.

His Grace Archbishop Lynch arrived in town at noon to-day to pay a visit to His Lordship Bishop Dowling. He was met at the station by the Bishop, Father Rudkins and Father Fayolle and conducted to the palace. His Grace states that Father Conway is doing well at the House of Providence.

Mr. Geo. A. Cox was present at the funeral of the late Dr. Nelles on Wednesday.

Mr. T. E. Flaherty, formerly of the firm of Flaherty & Clark, clothiers, town, now of Belleville, was here on Wednesday

Grand Concert.

Copy is now in the hands of the printers for posters announcing a concert to be given by Mr. Findlay McGreggor, Scotland's greatest vocalist, on Hollow E'en, Monday, Oct. 31st, under the auspices of the Sons of England and patronage of St. Andrew's Society, Peterborough. The press speaks in high terms of Mr. McGreggor's abilities.

Evangelistic.

Mr. Douglas Russell, the well known evangelist, will hold a meeting to-night (Thursday), in the Gospel Hall, over China Hall. He would be pleased to meet with his old friends and all others who take an interest in evangelistic work. Meeting at 8 o'clock.

Taxes.

Mr. Cummings has begun to collect the taxes for this year. A considerable amount has already been paid in.

Probable Date.

The date for the concert to be given under the auspices of Peterborough Canton No. 10 has not yet been fixed, but it will probably be November 8th.

Concert and Banquet.

The Peterborough branch of the Saved Army is preparing to hold a grand concert and banquet in the Opera House on the evening of Tuesday, Nov. 1st.

Flown.

Isaac Meron, who was summoned before the Police Court on a charge of a second infraction of the Scott Act, and who did not appear, is not to be found. A warrant was issued to bring him before His Worship, but that has, as yet, failed to do its work. The case has been adjourned for a week.

The Drain.

Work on the town drain has been suspended. Before it was opened up everybody knew just how it should be fixed, but now nobody seems to know what to do. Some want it diverted to the river and others to allow it to empty into the George street sewer. Inspector Pope has withdrawn his men till he gets definite instructions. In the meantime, Simcoe street, from George to Water street, presents a hideous appearance.

If you want the BEST the VERY BEST boots, go to KIDD'S.

Fire

At five o'clock this morning Mr. Patrick Quinn, who lives on the south side of Chamberlain street, got up, went to the stable and harnessed a horse for the purpose of driving out to the country. Before going to the stable he left a large lamp burning in the kitchen and took a small one to the stable. He was ready to start and was about to drive away when he had occasion to go into the house for some articles pertaining to the harness. To his surprise, when he opened the kitchen door, a mass of flames wrapped the room. He could not get through to wake his sister, and had to go around the house and burst in the front door to get her out. The house, which was a frame one, was consumed in a short time. So thick was the fog that the flames could not be seen on the next street. A house belonging to Mr Russell, was slightly injured. The burnt dwelling belonged to the Chamberlain estate. It was insured.

Esmonde and O'Connor.

The Toronto branch of the Irish National League are endeavoring to make arrangements for the delivery of addresses by Sir Thomas Henry Grattan Esmonde, M.P., and Mr. Arthur O'Connor, M.P., on the cause of Ireland, in Toronto and other cities of Ontario, Peterborough amongst the number. On Wednesday Mr. J. O'Meara, barrister, received a communication from Mr. R. B. Teefy, of Toronto, as to the prospects of a large turn out here should Messrs. Esmonde and O'Connor decide on dropping off at Peterborough on their way from Ottawa to Toronto, and after consultation with leading gentlemen of different political parties, creeds and nationalities, telegraphed in reply that if these distinguished members of the Irish party could arrange to deliver addresses here they would be greeted with a full house. A general desire to hear their presentation of the cause of Home Rule has been expressed by those who remember with pleasure the able address delivered here last fall by their colleague, Mr. Justin McCarthy, M. P., and there will no doubt be a crowded house should they appear on a Peterborough platform. Both Sir Thomas Esmonde and Mr. O'Connor are brilliant speakers, and have evoked great enthusiasm among the audiences they have recently addressed in the States of Massachusetts, New York and Pennsylvania. Sir Thomas is a descendant of the great Henry Grattan, and seems to have inherited his intellectual force. Mr. O'Connor is an ex-employee of the British War Office, and in debate first made his mark in criticising many of the methods of the Imperial civil service.

He Pined for Home.

He was sitting in front of a sod house in Nebraska, near the Niobrara river, smoking a cob pipe and occasionally pausing to whistle a few bars of "Dixie" as he gazed lazily but admiringly at a semicircle of dogs stretched on the ground around him. We drove up and inquired how far it was to Valentine.

"Dunno, stranger," he replied.

"Haven't you ever been there?"

"Yes, I 'low I've been there."

"How far do you think it is, then

"It might be 'bout seven miles, and then she might be nearer ten—makes a heap o' dif'rence what you do down where the road forks. Say, don't wan't 'o buy a good farm, I reckon?"

"Don't believe we do."

"No, I 'lowed not. Seems 's if I can't never sell out."

"Where are you going when you sell out here?"

"Gen'l'men, I shall pull back to 'Missoory.'"

"Can't you raise good crops here?"

"Can't raise nothin' on this farm 'cept cuckle burrs. That's what I call it, gen'l'men, Cuckle Burr home! I got 'nother farm out on the flat furder."

"That must be poorer soil than this."

"Doggoned sight wuss. Can't raise nothin' but sand burrs there. I call it Sand Burr place. I got one other farm down nearer the river."

"That's seems like a better location."

"Oh, yes, some—you can raise red tumble weeds on that land—it's Tumble Reed retreat; that's the name of it."

"All for sale, are they?"

"Every one of 'em—buyers can take their choice between Tumble Reed retreat, Sand Burr place or Cuckle Burr home—they all got their good p'ints. Tumble Reed retreat commands a good view of the river an' more muskeeters; Sand Burr place is level an' nice, but exposed to the wind; Cuckle Burr home is sheltered from the wind an' there's fourteen badger holes on the back forty, an' a fellar can take a dog an' have piles o' sport with 'em. I'll take the home fer mine every time—I'm powerful on sport. Goin' to shack along, air you? Well, if you see anybody that wants to buy some land of 'bout this d'scription jes' send 'em out. I'm gettin' mighty anxious to be moseyin' 'down round old Pike ag'in!"

Chronic Coughs and Colds.

And all Diseases of the Throat and Lungs can be cured by the use of Scott's Emulsion, as it contains the healing virtues of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites in their fullest form. See what W. S. Muer, M. D., L. R. C. P. etc., Truro, N. S., says: "After three years' experience I consider Scott's Emulsion one of the very best in the market. Very excellent in throat affections." ### MEETING TOGETHER.

Addresses by Members of the Congregation—Canada the Country.

On Thursday evening the Ladies' Aid Society in connection with the George Street Methodist Church entertained the members of the congregation at a social given in the basement of the church.

The spacious place was filled, there being several hundred people present.

The entertainment was opened by singing and prayer.

The Rev. F. H. WALLACE, M.A., B.D., the pastor of the church, made a short address, emphasising the importance of sociability as a means of making the church successful.

Miss Campbell sang the "Rock of Ages."

Mr. D. W. DUMBLE made an address, speaking specially to young men. He spoke of the desirability of young men becoming connected with the church, taking an active part in its affairs, and by this means throwing around themselves the guardianship the Church afforded. He spoke in a patriotic strain of Canada. When he was a young man, he said, he looked away to the green hills of New Zealand, Australia, and other foreign countries. But after living in Canada, and seeing the great things which Canada enjoyed and other people did not enjoy, he had come to the conclusion that Canada was the best country under the sun. As for material resources and climate it was unsurpassable, its civil and religious freedom was a great advantage, its educational system was unequaled in the civilized world. His mature judgment, therefore, could permit him to say to young men that if they would use properly the things placed at their disposal no country in the world would afford them so much real happiness as their own Dominion.

Mr. Dumble was frequently interrupted with applause.

Mrs. Daly sang "Only a Mountain Lad."

Mr. H. S. Griffin, Superintendent of the Sunday School, made a brief address regarding the work done in the Sunday School. He would be glad if the young people would all aid in this work, even by the assistance of their presence.

Major Rundle sang "Beautiful Isle of the Sea."

Mr. Wm. Yelland made a short address; Mr. Jacques sang a solo; a hearty vote of thanks was passed to the ladies who had so generously provided the refreshments dispersed during the evening, and the meeting closed in the usual way.

T. V. C. Commission.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Mail, writing on Oct. 20th, says:—"It is expected that the Trent Valley Canal Commissioners will commence their duties in about a week. The necessary instructions have been given. It is understood their duty will be to enquire into what openings for trade there are likely to be on the canal if completed, the kind of traffic that may be anticipated, and to endeavor to ascertain an idea of the approximate cost of the undertaking. These instructions will necessitate a trip over the proposed route between the Georgian Bay and Lake Ontario."

Canton Concert.

The concert under the auspices of the Peterborough Canton will positively take place in BradBurn's Opera House on Tuesday evening, November 8th. Col. Slatter and staff, of Toronto, will be present on that occasion.

EXPLOSION OF NATURAL GAS.

A Business Block Severely Shaken and Many Persons Injured.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 19.—The first serious natural gas explosion in this city in two years occurred a few minutes after 10 o'clock in the Hotel Albermarle and Bijou Theatre block, Sixth-avenue. The explosion was attended with frightful injuries to a number of people and great destruction to some of the finest property in the city. For several days past workmen employed by the People's Gas Company have been repairing the pipes running into the theatre and hotel. The odor of escaping gas was noticed early this morning but for some reason not yet explained nothing was done to have the gas turned off. About 10.15 o'clock there were three terrible explosion simultaneously in the cellar of D. T. Reed optician; the Hotel Albermarle and the Bijou Theatre. The concussion shook buildings for several squares and broke every plate glass window in the block. Almost instantly flames shot up from various parts of the block but before they gained much headway they were controlled by the prompt work of the fire department. A crowd quickly gathered to view the ruins. The damage by the explosion will reach $50,000. When the explosion occurred the guests in the Hotel Albermarle became panic-stricken, and several were slightly injured in making their escape from the building. A number of persons who were confined to their beds with typhoid fever were carried from the hotel to places of safety. The exposure may seriously retard their recovery. Fifteen persons in all were injured, five of them, it is believed, fatally.

THE RAHWAY MYSTERY.

The Identity of the Murdered Woman Said to be Established.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 20.—It is stated that the detectives have at last succeeded in establishing the identity of the woman mysteriously murdered at Rahway several months ago in the person of a Mrs Annie Ingram, who two years ago came to America from Birmingham, England. The last seen of her was when she left Bound Brook, where she was employed as a domestic. While in the latter place she became acquainted with a man to whom she was married on December 8th, but she left her husband next morning and went to Philadelphia, leaving all her effects behind. The man disappeared a few days later and has not been seen since. Who he is the officers refuse to say. Shortly before she was murdered the woman returned here and remained a short time at the United States Hotel, but disappeared suddenly and was not seen again. The detectives expected to arrest their man by midnight last night.

THE ULSTER QUESTION.

Mr. Gladstone Expresses His Determination to Leave the Matter Open.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Mr. Gladstone, in a speech at Nottingham last evening, said, "In regard to the Ulster question, often pressed upon me by Lord Hartington and other gentlemen of importance, I tell you fairly, gentlemen, that I am not, with my eyes open, going to be drawn into a trap. (Laughter.) When I am asked at this juncture, without knowing the sentiments of my own friends, or of the English, Scotch and Welsh people, or of the people of Leinster, Munster, Connaught and Ulster, to bind myself to the proposal that Ulster or a part of Ulster shall be absolutely excluded from any Irish settlement, I tell you that that is rather too large a demand upon the credulity or even the folly of a man." (Laughter and cheers.) He expressed his determination to leave this matter an open question as on the introduction of the Home Rule proposals.

THE FISHERY COMMISSION.

Mr. Chamberlain Will Sail From Liverpool on October 29.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Joseph Chamberlain, who goes to America as a member of the Fisheries Commission, will sail for New York on the steamer Etruria, which leaves Liverpool on October 29. John H. C. Bergne, chief clerk of the American Department of the Foreign Office, and Willoughby D. Maycock, of the Commercial Department of the same office, will accompany him.

A circular has been received at the police station from a Chicago detective agency, offering rewards amounting in all to about $10,000 for the apprehension of thieves, murderers, absconders, embezzlers, seducers, burglars, wife deserters and forgers. Delighted.

The citizens doing business on Simcoe street between Water and George streets, are delighted with the mess made over the town drain. ### SCYTHE SONG.

Mowers weary and brown and blithe,
What is the word methinks ye know,
Endless over word that the Scythe
Sings to the blades of the grass below?

Scythes that swing in the grass and clover,
Something, still, they say as they pass;
What is the word that, over and over,
Sings the Scythe to the flowers and grass?

Hush, ah hush, the Scythes are saying,
Hush, and heed not, and fall asleep;
Hush, they say to the grasses swaying;
Hush, they sing to the clover deep!

Hush—'tis the luHaby Time is singing—
Hush, and heed not, for all things pass,
Hush, ah hush! and the Scythes are swinging
Over the clover, over the grass!

—Longman's Magazine.

POSITIONS THAT EFFECT SLEEP.

What an Observant Physician Says—Cause of Snoring—Dreams.

According to Dr. Granville, the position affects sleep. A constrained position generally prevents repose, while a comfortable one woos sleep. He says lying flat on the back with the limbs relaxed would seem to secure the greatest amount of rest for the muscular system.

This is the position assumed in the most exhausting diseases, and it is generally hailed as a token of revival when a patient voluntarily turns on the side; but there are several advantages in the supine posture which impair or embarrass sleep. Thus, in weakly states of the heart and blood vessels and certain morbid conditions of the brain the blood seems to gravitate to the back of the head and to produce troublesome dreams.

In persons who habitually in their gait or work stoop, there is probably some distress consequent on straightening the spine. Those who have contracted chests, especially persons who have had pleurisy and retain adhesions of the lungs, do not sleep well on the back.

Nearly all who are inclined to snore do so in that position, because the soft palate and uvula hang on the tongue, and that organ falls back so as to partly close the top of the windpipe. It is better, therefore, to lie on the side, and in the absence of special diseases rendering it desirable to lie on the weak side so as to leave the healthy lung free to expand, it is well to use the right side, because when the body is thus placed the food gravitates more easily out of the stomach into the intestines, and the weight of the stomach does not compress the upper portion of the intestines.

A glance at any of the visceral anatomy will show this must be. Many persons are deaf in one ear and prefer to lie on a particular side; but, if possible, the right side should be chosen. Again, sleeping with the arms thrown over the head is to be deprecated; but this position is often assumed during sleep, because circulation is then free in the extremities, and the head and neck and muscles of the chest are drawn up and fixed by the shoulders, and thus the expansion of the thorax is easy.

The chief objection to these positions is that they create a tendency to cramp and cold in the arms, and sometimes seem to cause headaches during sleep and dreams. These small matters often make or mar comfort in sleeping.—Boston Budget.

THE MASK THROWN OFF.

In commenting upon the truism uttered by Mr. Chamberlain in Belfast that the commercial union of Canada with the United States "means political separation from Great Britain," the Toronto Mail completely throws off the rather flimsy mask that it has hitherto worn.

It declares that this "threat," as it is pleased to term the statement of an obvious fact, "will probably not disturb the friends of Commercial Union, nor diminish the enthusiasm which the movement is evoking in every part of the country. On the contrary it may compel Commercial Unionists and many who are not Commercial Unionists to consider what, in justice to ourselves and our posterity, should be done." After some hypocritical professions of love and veneration for England, the organ of the Secessionists continues:—"They (the Canadians) have simply reached that stage of development when their choice of what is best for themselves, be it what it may, must prevail over all other considerations."

Is not this a plain confession that even if Mr. Chamberlain's interpretation that "Commercial Union means political separation from Great Britain" is true, as it undoubtedly is, the Mail and its accomplices would not thereby be in the least deterred from carrying out their traitorous plot for the disruption of the British Empire. This has been the avowed object of the agitators in the United States; it is now the avowed object of the agitators in Canada. Can they carry any honest, loyal men with them in their blattant treason?

The Mail pays us the compliment of saying that Mr. Chamberlain's statement will probably "plunge such journals as the Peterborough REVIEW and Belleville Intelligencer into a fresh frenzy." The Mail ascribes our indignation to the wrong cause, for it is evoked not by the truthful statement of Mr. Chamberlain, but by the treason of those whose movement he thus depicts so plainly. Do we not do well to be angry, when traitors thus endeavour to sell their country for foreign lucre?

---

MR GOLDWIN SMITH in an attack upon Mr. Chamberlain for truthfully discribing Commercial Union says:—"He can hardly be ignorant of the fact that we have already a protective tariff against Great Britain." Now Mr. Goldwin Smith "can hardly be ignorant" that we nave not now and never have had a tariff discriminating against Great Britain in favour of foreigners, which he, with his foreign and renegade Canadian allies, is now proposing. Mr. Goldwin Smith cannot be ignorant that he is dishonestly representing two dissimilar things as similar, in order by this delusive trick to entrap honest loyal Canadians into hostility to the rest of the Empire, and to afford him apparent ground for his misrepresentations of Mr. Chamberlain.

---

A JOURNALISTIC supporter of the dishonest grocers in Toronto, who insisted upon being allowed to sell under cost, objects to their being called dishonest. Well, one of the fraternity has already been detected giving false weight, others have refused to sell sugar except to purchasers who buy other goods on which they may be cheated, and if customers decline to be thus fooled there will soon be cases of wholesale dealers getting a meagre dividend from some of the dishonest retailers who have sacrificed their goods. All this is hardly in accordance with old fashioned ideas of honesty, though we do not care to dispute that it may be honest by the Mail's standard.

---

THE reported statement of Mr. Chamberlain that Commercial Union means political separation from Great Britain, has called forth an outcry from the annexationists that he has thereby shown himself unfit to sit as a diplomatist on the Joint Commission as being avowedly prejudiced. This is mere nonsense. If a judge were to declare his belief that one man should not take the property of another or commit forgery, he would not be considered disqualified to adjudicate in a case of disputed title or in the trial of a forger. Neither is Mr. Chamberlain disqualified from acting in the fishery question by his belief that annexation to the United States means separation from Great Britain.

---

IN its advocacy of United States interests the Toronto Mail says that "the efforts of the newspaper supporters of restriction are concentrated in an attempt to show that free trade with the States would destroy some of the tariff-created industries, which we are not concerned to deny." Here we have another confession from the Commercial Annexationists that they propose to destroy Canadian industries. Would not the epithet supporters of restriction apply more fitly to those who would thus restrict our home industries and would at the same time restrict our commerce with all the world except the United States?

---

WE are told that Canada exports more fish and more lumber to the United States than to Great Britain. Much of this fish and lumber is not consumed in the United States, but is exported thence to the West Indies. Our wise policy would be to cease giving the United States a middleman's profit on this commerce, and to deal directly ourselves with the West Indies. Our best customers are not those who are exporting the same things as ourselves, but those who are really the consumers.

---

IT is now the Toronto Globe that threatens Canada with "the horrors of military invasion" unless we agree to surrender our territorial rights and annex ourselves commercially to the United States. We have no right to assume that our neighbours would try to rob us by force of arms, but even if the Globe were right in its estimate of them, Canadians would be poltroons to submit. Even if we were conquered no harder terms could be imposed. And we are not yet conquered.

ALL THE WORLD AT WAR.

By WALTER BESANT.

"'Before this unlucky accident it was my singular good fortune to engage the affections of a young person in whose soul, I believe, virtue and goodness alone reign.'" Mr. Huntspill read this passage very impressively, repeating the last words—"virtue and goodness alone reign." He bowed and I blushed, not with satisfaction at hearing these gracious words, but in humiliation, thinking how little I deserved them, and how I had wreaked a revenge in which virtue played so poor a part.

Mr. Huntspill went on: "'The worth of her heart is illustrated and made apparent to the world by the extraordinary beauty of her face and person'"—Oh, Will! Will!—"'She has promised to make me happy by becoming my wife. The promise remains to be fulfilled on my return, should a benignant Providence grant my return to my native shores. I have told you, my generous friend, the whole of my story. You will, I am sure, continue to behave to me with the same ——.'" "That is not part of the business," said Mr. Huntspill, interrupting at this point. "He goes on presently: 'I have written to my mother—who must on no account discover the degrading situation in which I have been placed—stating, which is perfectly true, that I am going to sea for a long voyage, in which I may visit many lands, and that I hope to pay my dutiful respects to her on my return. I have also informed her of my proposed marriage with Pleasance Neel, and begged her, as a mark of her forgiveness and continued love, to receive my betrothed in her own house, and, during my absence, have her instructed in the practice of those external accomplishments which alone are wanting to make her an ornament to the polite world. Goodness, my dear friend, is at all times better than rank.'

"It is, indeed," said John Huntspill, folding up the letter. "With this, which was forwarded to me from London, came a letter from Lady Campion herself, a portion of which I will also read to you:

"'It has long been my resolution,' she says, 'to attempt no further interference with my son's plans of life. His devotion to a musical instrument, especially when that instrument is the common fiddle, seems to me inconsistent with the sobriety of a London merchant; his readiness at all times to forsake the counting house for a concert or a play seems to me unworthy of the seriousness which should characterize a churchman, while his roving habits hold out little hope of a steady future. I have now learned that he has gone to sea, after contracting an engagement of the most serious character with a young woman, apparently of humble origin.'"

"My father was a ship's carpenter," I said, half in pride and half in explanation. Before I knew Will I had always regarded that rank as exceptionally dignified. But I was quite aware that Lady Campion would hardly be likely to think so highly of the position.

"Quite so," said John Huntspill. "A most respectful and useful vocation. Let me continue: 'In justice to her and to myself, I should wish to make her acquaintance. Will you, therefore, make it your business to see her? Communicate with her friends, and tell them that I propose to receive her in my poor house. And should she wish to remain and I to keep her with me, I undertake to bestow upon her whatever lessons and education she may require to befit her for the station to which heaven hath raised her. You may bring her back with you, under your own protection.'

"Such, Miss Pleasance," said John Huntspill, "is the proposal made to you by Lady Campion. It will be my first care to lay it before your friends."

"I have no friends," I replied. "Dan and Job and Jephthah are all at sea."

"Do you mean that you are alone, absolutely alone, in this house?"

"Quite alone," I said. "Only in the cottage there are Isaac Agus and his wife. I live alone and sleep alone. I thought I should go on living alone for some years."

"But you will not refuse Lady Campion's invitation? Consider, it is made at Mr. William's own request. She will be your mother."

"No," I said. "I cannot refuse it. But I am afraid. Oh, Mr. Huntspill, I am a very ignorant country girl! The goodness and virtue that my Will thinks are in my heart exist only in his own mind. He is foolish about me. I am not fit for him—so handsome and so strong."

"Nay," said John Huntspill, bravely, "the chiefest profit of virtuous love, as I understand it—being myself but a bachelor, and unworthy of the married condition—is that it leads the heart imperceptibly upward, inasmuch as we fain would possess the qualities which he—or she—who loves us doth in his fondness attribute to us. Therefore, be of good courage, and resolve that when Mr. William returns he will find his dreams more than realized."

This wise speech, so far from encouraging me, rather daunted me for the moment. Afterward, when I came to remember it, and make out what it meant, I think it did give me courage.

"When, then, can you be ready?"

I blushed; for, in truth, I had nothing to travel in. My whole wardrobe only consisted of half a dozen frocks, including one which Will had caused to be made for me.

Mr. Huntspill read my thoughts.

"There are shops in Lyme," he said. "I will at once ride into the town and purchase for you the simple necessaries requisite for a young lady's journey to London. I leave behind, for your protection, one of my servants. For the present, Miss Pleasance, I wish you farewell."

He bowed, touched my finger with his own and was gone. Presently I heard him riding slowly down the lane, and I sat down to wait, wondering what new life this would be which was opening before me.

THREE MIRACLES.

EXPLANATORY NOTES BY REV. GEO. P. HAYES, D. D., LL. D.

Lesson IV of the International Series (Fourth Quarter) for Oct. 23—Text of the Lesson, Matt. ix, 18-31—Golden Text, Matt. ix, 29.

Vs. 18, 19. Jairus' petition—Jairus had left his child so low that he supposed she was probably already dead. Verses 18 and 19 show that in conduct, if not in words, Jesus promised this ruler of the synagogue to grant his request.

Vs. 20, 21. The woman's faith—A considerable crowd followed the Saviour, and in the midst of that crowd came this woman, hoping not to be known. Whether her attempt at concealment was on account of her peculiar disease, or from uncalled for modesty, or for fear she would not be healed, it is not necessary for us to determine. Whatever was the reason, it seemed insufficient to Christ; and yet not so insufficient as to prevent his healing power over the disease.

To the looker on there was no manifestation of the presence of almighty power. When this woman touched the Saviour's garment, her faith is shown in the touch of the hem. In one aspect her faith was very great and in another it was very weak. She seems to have had the impression that his power was a species of magic, and was communicated not by the act of the will, but as if it was a sort of electrical current. Her mental operations seem to have been a strange mixture of faith and superstition and doubt.

V. 22. Her confession—In the fuller accounts of the other two evangelists, Christ made special effort to call attention to her concealment. He was as conscious of the exertion of his power as she was conscious of its effect on her disease. Peter and the other disciples little appreciated this marvelous knowledge of Christ. How the Saviour's questions must have smitten her conscience, in her effort at concealment!

Vs. 23, 24. Jairus' faith and courage—This delay must have been extremely vexatious to Jairus. Word came that all was lost so far as his case was concerned, and that it was now too late. Jairus had said his daughter was at the point of death, if not already dead. Could Jairus believe now? It was encouraging to find the Saviour not only speaking confidently, but continuing his journey to the house. It was also encouraging, at the house, to have him say, as in verse 24, that the maid was not dead. The suggestion from him was met with scorn. This utterance, however, stopped all suggestions about swooning or fainting or anything of that kind. After she had come to life again, if he had not made that suggestion beforehand, others might have made it afterwards. Now was the time for those to speak who had anything to say against the genuineness of the miracle. Doctors, parents, mourners and all the people knew it was real death.

Vs. 25, 26. Restored—It was only a simple command of Christ, and she rose immediately, well and with a good appetite. She was not restored to life simply, to be left sickly as she had been before, but was wholly well.

Vs. 27-30. The blind—With all these stories of Christ's cures floating around, of course the blind hear of them. They had no doubt as to the meaning of Christ's miraculous power. It was to them immediate proof of his Messiahship. They did not hesitate to profess their faith in him as the Messiah. That was precisely what was meant by their address, "Thou Son of David." This name was then as definite in its meaning as Messiah is now.

V. 28. Their confession—Unlike the woman, these made their confession when they made their prayer; and yet Christ pressed them for an explicit avowal of their faith in his power, and made his blessing measure itself by the fullness of their faith.

Why, in several cases, Christ forbade the proclamation of his miracles is a mystery. He seems very positively and energetically to have forbidden it in the case of these blind men. It is evident that they just as clearly disobeyed his command. He may have forbidden it lest he should be so overpressed with applications for relief as to have no time for preaching the gospel, or to prevent the excited people from taking some public step to proclaim his Messiahship.

SUGGESTIVE APPLICATIONS.

V. 18. Come and lay thy hand upon her—The heavy hand of affliction had been laid upon this poor child. It was the hand of comfort and of healing that the father now wished to be laid upon his child. It was a beautiful and expressive simile borrowed from the habit of priests and holy men laying their hands upon a person in wishing or imparting a blessing. So the father would say by the simile, your blessing will restore my child.

V. 20. Touched the hem of his garment—There are proud people who come like Naaman with a patronizing air and a lofty demand that some great thing should be done or some great display made in response to their request for healing. Many of them go away angry, and are not as wise as Naaman to repent and obey and be healed. There is another class, timid and fearful and retiring, like this nameless woman who crept near to Christ not so much to steal a blessing as to get one unobserved. While the latter are to be commended before the former, neither class can be counted among those who take the true and manly course to obtain a blessing from the Lord. A public confession was virtually forced from the latter when it ought to have come with ease and as the voluntary expression of the soul that was conscious of a cure.

V. 25. Took her by the hand, and the maid arose—When Jesus takes our hand, a new life is given us; though spiritually dead before, we are made alive by the divine touch and stand before him with new power and with fresh life.

HINTS FOR PRIMARY CLASSES.

The first miracle—A girl 12 years old was so very ill that every one thought she must die. The father heard that Jesus was in town, and went to ask him to cure her. The servants followed to say, It is too late: she is dead. But the father had great faith in Jesus. He knew he could even raise the dead to life. This was his only daughter, and he loved her so dearly he would do anything to make her live. Jesus went to the ruler's house, and found the people making a great noise, weeping and wailing, because the little girl was dead. People in eastern lands have customs very different from ours. When a death occurs, persons are hired to come with little instruments and make a great show of sorrow with loud noises of various kinds. They howl and cry aloud, striking together their bits of brass or wood, or thumping a sort of noisy drum.

Already the ruler's house was filled and surrounded by these noisy mourners. Jesus commanded silence, and ordered every one to leave except the parents and his three most favored disciples, Peter, James and John. When quiet was obtained, Jesus took the hand of the dead maiden, and said, "Damsel, I say unto thee arise." Immediately her spirit came back into her body; she rose to her feet and walked, and Jesus told them to give her food.

The second miracle—This was on a woman who had been ill for twelve years. She had tried many physicians, and spent a great deal of money in paying them and in buying medicines, but grew worse rather than better. However, she had heard of Jesus and the wonderful cures he had performed, and resolved to go to him. She had such great faith in him she thought she might be cured if she could just touch the hem of his garment. The men in that country and other eastern lands wear loose flowing garments simply hemmed around the edge. There was a great crowd following Jesus, but that sick woman pressed through and touched his garment, when, behold, she was instantly cured. Only believe; according to your faith be it unto you. She had great faith, and received a great cure. Relate the story.

The third miracle—After healing the woman in the crowded street, Jesus went home with the ruler and raised his child from death. When he left the ruler's house, two blind men heard he was coming, and they, too, believed he could cure them.

They heard the crowd approaching, and began to call aloud to Jesus, "Thou son of David, have mercy on us." The people told them to keep still, for they called aloud, making a great noise, while Jesus did not seem to notice them. Jesus passed along, and the crowd followed, the blind men hastening on after him, still crying for mercy. They were determined to do all they could to receive their sight, for they believed Jesus could give it to them. They had a faith that led to works; a faith that led them to do all in their power to secure the blessing. This is the right kind of faith, and the kind that receives the blessing.—Sunday School World.

The affirmative was argued by Mr. Bannell Sawyer and Mr. Wright, and the proposition was opposed by Messrs. A. E. Scott and S. R. Armstrong. After the arguments had been heard the Chairman summed up and left the decision to the audience, who decided in favor of the affirmative. A vote of thanks was, on motion of Mr. E. B. ## PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS.

Mr. J. B. McWilliams Resigns the Orange County Mastership.

A meeting of the West Peterborough County Orange Lodge was held at Lakefield on Thursday. After routine business had been transacted, Mr. J. H. Campbell, County Chaplain, presented an address to the County Master, as follows:—

"J. B. McWilliams, Esq., W.C.M., West Peterborough L.O.L., and R.W.J.D.G.M. of the Grand Lodge of Ontario East:

"DEAR SIR AND BRO.,—Learning that you are about to retire from active connection with the Orange Association, many of your friends, members thereof, beg leave to present you with a slight recognition both of their personal esteem and regard for yourself and also of your many pecuniary and fraternal services heretofore both to your brother Orangemen and to the Order to which you belong.

"Whilst we very much regret that your voice will no longer be heard in the councils of the Association, and whilst we regret the reasons which now impel you to so final and important a conclusion, we have the greatest pleasure in acknowledging the fact that as long as you have continued a member of our Order you have always been true to its principles, faithful to its laws, and ever ready and willing both in word and deed to do your utmost to advance and cherish its primary and essential objects.

"It is gratifying to know that the duty you owed to yourself and to your country has never been inconsistent with the duty you owed to this Association, and we feel assured that the good you have accomplished in our Order has been a sufficient reward in itself, and whether inside or outside of the Orange Association we feel satisfied that you will ever bear a true allegiance to the grand truths and principles which underlie and are the very foundation of our Association.

"We trust that both yourself and your wife may be long spared to use and enjoy our present, knowing well that you ever have the respect and good wishes not only of this Order but of the public at large."

At the conclusion of the address Mr. Campbell, in a few complimentary remarks, presented the County Master with a handsome hand-decorated French china dinner set of 128 pieces, valued at $100.

Mr. J. B. McWILLIAMS replied briefly and said that it was with mingled feelings of pleasure and regret he met with them this evening and received the address and token of respect from his friends in the Orange Association. It was a pleasuee to meet with so many old friends whom he knew to be true to every principle of the Order, but he regretted that the actions of some Orangemen had been such that he sould not consistently and conscientiously remain any longer in the position of County Master. He had been often annoyed at the unkind treatment received at the Grand Lodge meetings and public demonstrations, and that only on account of his being a Liberal in politics. He had almost determined years ago to retire from the Order, but when he returned home and met the brethren of Peterborough that feeling would pass away, for he always felt proud of the Peterborough Orangemen, and until the last two or three years had every reason to feel proud of them, for there never was a body of men who had worked more harmoniously together. For some time he had been anxious to retire from the position of County Master, and were it not for the open boastings of some that he could not be elected he would not have consented to be a candidate the last two years. On many public questions he held diverse views from a large number of the Orangemen, and he claimed the right to exercise his own judgment. Under present circumstances he felt there was no other course open to him but to withdraw from the Order. He thanked the Orangemen for the kind words expressed in the address, for the valuable present, and hoped that he might long retain the good wishes of his many Orange friends.

Messrs. J. Graham Weir, Christopher Quinn, Robert Weir and others spoke very flatteringly and eulogistically of the ability, energy and faithfulness of the retiring County Master, and it was carried by a standing vote that the address should be suitably engrossed, and after being signed by the principal officers of the Lodge should have the County L.O.L. seal attached.

After the ceremony Mr. McWilliams resigned the office of County Master. Mr. Richard Waram, of Smith, was unanimously elected in his stead, and Mr. John Smith, of Ashburnham, was elected to the vice-chair.

Cheese.

Messrs. Dundas & Flavelle are shipping two car loads of September cheese from Peterborough to-day, the consignment consisting of 725 boxes. The factories represented in this lot are: Warminster, Warsaw, North Smith, Central Smith and Lakefield. The cheese was purchased on contract at 12¼ cents per pound. Mr. Cluxton is shipping from Lindsay to-day the September make of Downeyville, North Ops, Reaboro and Star factories, consisting of 550 boxes, purchased under contract at 12¼ cents. To-morrow he will ship from Peterborough the September make of Keene, Shearer, Central Otonabee Union, Pine Grove and Glenthorn, which lot will amount to 700 boxes, purchased at 12½ cents under contract. Both Messrs. Dundas & Flavelle and Mr. Cluxton are acting in a very straightforward manner in taking this cheese, as the market is a full cent against them. They have accepted Mr. Wrighton's inspection without making application for any cheese to be rejected. The total value of the shipments is upwards of $15,500.

The Storm.

The electrical displays during the rain storm last night were of unusual force. A gentleman sitting in a private office when the flash of lightning came saw some coruscations given off from the telephone wire and an instant later felt a sharp pinge in his right arm. The shock did him no harm, however. Mr. Wm. Casey, Hunter street, lost a pretty canary bird. It was in the cage, hanging near the window, when the lightning killed it. A large number of lightning arresters on the telephone wires were burned off, rendering communication over these wires a difficult matter to-day.

What May Be Looked For.

—Black eyes to become fashionable.

—A great run at the druggists for court plaster.

—Well laden hunters home from far regions.

—A brass band to meet Mr. LeBrun on his return.

—Young men to follow Mr. Dumble's advice.

—And stand by the country for all they are worth.

—Secret rejoicing among the cheese salesmen who sold on contract.

—The Irish orators to visit Peterborough.

—Snow flurries.

Wheat.

Statistics are all in favour of a stronger wheat market. On October 15th there was 31,600,243 bushels of wheat in sight in Canada and the United States, while a year ago there was 53,828,539 bushels. The visibe supply is increasing very slowly, but it is asserted that there is an enormous invisible supply, which only wants higher prices to bring out. Reports from Bombay, India, state that the market is quiet with light receipts. Australian crops promise well and there is still a large amount of old wheat in stock. European markets are stationary. On the local market good prices continue to be paid as compared with the prices paid in other places. Toronto pays from 79 to 80 cents per bushel for best wheat; Hamilton, 76 to 78; Guelph, 77 to 78; and Kingston, 75 to 77. Peterborough pays from 79 to 81 and 82 has been paid this week.

It smoothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, Relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. ### DROWNED IN THE OTTAWA.

The Bodies of Two Men Found in a Deep Hole.

PEMBROKE, Oct. 21.—News has just reached Pembroke of a sad drowning accident which occurred about a mile from here. Two men named Edward Inwood and A. Starmour, in the employ of Mr. John Dunlop, were engaged in filling a water cart in the Ottawa river a short distance from the shore. It is surmised that, not finding the water quite deep enough for their purpose, they ordered the horse to back still further, and in their operation were precipitated into a deeper part of the river, as the bodies were found in a hole, about six feet under the surface.

DECIDED.

How to Get a Fall From the Town Drain to the Sewer.

Councillor Cahill called the members of the Council together on Friday evening as a special committee to consider what had best be done with the town drain.

Town Engineer Belcher and Street Inspector Pope were before the committee.

It was decided, after much discussion, that the main sewer, from Simcoe street south, be cleaned out. At present the sewer is over half full of gravel and sediment at the place where the drain taps it. A block further south it is comparatively clear of obstructions. It is inferred from this that the washing of George street, entering the sewer from two grates, has caused this large local deposit and that it does not extend far down. George street is to be opened up opposite the REVIEW office and the sewer is to be cleaned out up as far as Simcoe street. This will give an eighteen inch fall for the sewerage discharging from the drain, and when the piping is put down under proper superintendents the fall will be increased to two feet.

The Town Engineer was not consulted effectually as to this drain when it was dug. He was asked to give levels, which he did. But the levels which he gave were not adhered to, the drain digger getting a clear foot lower at the top of the drain than at the level it tapped the sewer.

If this plan now adopted does not prove satisfactory the drain will be deverted to the river.

LORD RANDOLPH CHURCHILL.

He Approves of Some of the Ex-Premier's Ideas.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—In a speech at Sunderland, Lord Randolph Churchill said he was willing to support the principle that one man should have only one vote unless the Conservative party opposed that principle, a contingency unlikely to occur. Mr. Gladstone, he said, expressed his ideas on all subjects in the vaguest manner. He spoke of abolishing land entail. If he meant simply a reference to the lives of children yet unborn, he (Churchill) agreed with him, as did probably the majority of the members of Parliament, but he was opposed to a more radical innovation. He thought the protection question was a subject for meditation. The main reason why he himself had joined in the argument was that he believed that only low prices for the necessaries of life were compatible with the stability of a Democratic constitution. He favored bold legislation in the direction of temperance, not on moral, but on economic grounds. He was strongly opposed to the disestablishment of the church either in England, Scotland or Wales. Nothing but unmitigated evil and disaster could possibly result from the appropriation of religious property for secular purposes. Mr. Gladstone was silent on the greatest of all domestic questions, the questions of reform and retrenchment in the finance department and of public education. He (Churchill) advocated the causes of temperance and free education as Conservative measures. Unlike the Gladstonians, the Unionists were prepared to deal with those questions immediately. He had yet to learn how a majority of one hundred, when led by intelligence and courage, could be successfully resisted by a disorganized and vicious minority. Even if Mr. Gladstone succeeded in forcing dissolution and obtaining a majority, the Home Rule proposal would be fought to the last grip, even to the abolition of the House of Lords, thus certainly postponing those vital reforms until at least 1891.

HIS FRIENDS HEARD FROM.

They Deny the Truthfulness of Public Reports About the Young Man.

MONTREAL, Oct. 21.—The friends of Mr. Hamilton (of elopement fame) stated that he was not heavily in debt, that his standing in the Bank of Montreal was excellent, that the official report from the Ottawa manager gave him the highest character as a bank officer, that during the past year he has received an increase of salary and bonuses, and left the services of the bank for the purpose of entering into partnership with Mr. Middleton, as brokers, in connection with the Montreal stock exchange. They allege that he held Mr. Middleton's letter in which the latter undertook to provide several thousand pounds of capital for the business, and if the sum named would not be sufficient that a few thousand more would be forthcoming; that after Mr. Hamilton had given up his position Mr. Middleton failed to keep his agreement; that Mr. Hamilton then consulted a prominent law firm who advised him that he had a good claim for indemnity, that the demand was then made by the lawyer, and Mr. Middleton was advised to pay and did pay $10,000. His friends feel indignant at the falsehoods now published in his absence. One paper speaks of him as having been before the police court in Montreal on a charge of assaulting a female in 1883, a statement that is entirely untrue. It is alleged by another paper that he at one time eloped with a married woman in the maritime provinces, a statement that also lacks the slightest foundation. It is alleged that the intimacy between Mr. Hamilton and Mrs. Middleton, so far from being unknown to Mr. Middleton and the Wise and Middleton families, was no secret from any of them, but that Mr. Hamilton's friends were much averse to it, especially as Mrs. Middleton, before her marriage, had been an admirer of Mr. Hamilton. Mr. Hamilton telegraphed to-day from Buffalo to his brother that the reports about him were all untrue and threatening suits for libel.

Francklyn's Arrest.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Mr. Francklyn's arrest was made on the complaint of his cousin, Sir B. Cunard, of England. Much of the wealth of the Cunards is invested in the Horn Silver Mines. Four years ago there appeared upon the books of the Company a called loan of $650,000. The stockholders have repeatedly tried to find out what this loan represented, but no explanation was ever given. It is supposed the money was advanced by the company to Mr. Francklyn. Failing to get any accounting of the matter, or any explanation of why a once largely paying property had been crippled by taking from it so large an amount of money, the Cunards apparently concluded that their only recourse was the law. When Mr. Francklyn retired from the agency of the Cunard line, he was supposed to be worth $2,000,000. With Mr. Frank G. Brown he went into the Horn Silver Mine Company, which at first paid large dividends, and it is understood that it was through his representations that the money of the Cunards was put into the company. It was at the cottage of Mr. Francklyn at Elberon that President Garfield died.

The Secret Conclave.

QUEBEC, Oct. 21.—The conference met at 11 this morning and sat until 4, with the usual intermission for lunch, but owing to the great secret surrounding their deliberations it is impossible to obtain any authentic statement of their doings. Despite this mystery, however, it has leaked out that after Mr. Mowat had been chosen President of the conference yesterday, Mr. Norquay arose and delivered a short but exceedingly clear speech, in which he mentioned the awkward position Sir John had placed him in with regard to the Red River Railway dispute.

The Yellow Fever Epidemic.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 21.—A Tampa special reports thirteen new cases and three deaths from yellow fever to-day. The weather is cooler, but the fever is not abating. The hospital is now ready. Jacksonville to-day raised over $600 for the relief of the Tampa sufferers.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH.

Mortuary Returns from Canadian Cities and Towns for September.

In the twenty-six principal cities and towns in Canada which make monthly returns of deaths to the Department of Agriculture in Ottawa there were in September 1,450 deaths; 226, or over 13 per cent. less than in August. The total rate of mortality for the month was about 25 per 1,000 of population per annum; while in August it was 29, and in July 36 per 1,000.

The total number of deaths from all the zymotic diseases was 390; or 40 per cent. less that in the previous month.

There were no deaths recorded fom smallpox, none from measles, and but two from scarlet fever.

Diarrhœal diseases caused less than half the number of deaths in September that they caused in August.

Diphtheria, on the other hand, increased in its fatalities over 33 per cent. in September, as compared with August; or, from a record of 76 to 103. Of the 103 deaths in September from this cause, 37 were in Montreal, 17 in Toronto, 9 in Quebec, 6 in Ottawa 8 in Winnipeg, and 13 in Hull.

From typhoid fever the mortality increased over 100 per cent. in September, as compared with August; over one-third of the mortality from this disease was in Montreal, while in Brantford, Chatham and Winnipeg the mortality was high, and also high, although less so, in Toronto.

From both constitutional and developmental diseases, and likewise from violence, there was a fall in the mortality in September from August, while from local diseases there was a rise.

The total mortality in September, it may be observed, fell to a lower point than that of June, although not so low as that of May.—Canada Health Journal.

The bullet struck an employee named Henry Pritchett, who resides on Bathurst street. Doctors were immediately sent for, but they cannot as yet state what the effect of the wound will be. The revolver was discharged purely by accident.

Jacques was seen making for the river he cheaded and is believed to have committed suicide.

A Fierce Plaintiff.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Clara Belle McDonald, who began suit yesterday against her father-in-law, Dr. R. H. McDonald, for five hundred thousand dollars for alienating the affections of her husband, made an ineffectual attempt to kill him at 11 o'clock. She fired three shots at him in the Baldwin hotel without effect, was arrested and charged with assault with intent to murder.

Fatal Collision.

CHATTANOOGA, Oct. 21.—A collision on the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railway between two freight trains this morning resulted in the death of A. W. Wallace and an unknown man, besides injuring three other persons on one of the trains. The road was blocked for fifteen hours.

Synod of Ontario.

KINGSTON, Oct. 21.—The Synod of Ontario closed to-day. A committee was appointed to consider the incorporation of the Provincial Synod, and its relations with all the other synods, to make uniform the methods of church government and discipline.

PROVINCIAL RAIDS.

A New Brunswick Liberal contemporary wants to know what new raid the Quebec Bleus contemplate on the Dominion Treasury. We are not aware of any new raid with the exception of the scheme started by the Liberal Government of Quebec, which has invited a conference of Provincial Premiers for the purpose of devising the best means of carrying it out. By the way does the journal in question remember that when the Pacific Railway loan was before the House of Commons and when it was represented that there was a "kick" among the Bleus, the Toronto Globe, on behalf of its party, told them that if they would only assist Mr. Blake in turning out the Government, he would meet all their reasonable demands upon the treasury in the way of railway bonuses.—Ottawa Citizen.

THE PLOT REVEALED.

MUCH light has just been thrown upon the movement to tap the C. P. R. at Winnipeg and direct its traffic from Canadian to United States lines. In his annual report Mr. Oakes, the General Manager of the Northern Pacific Railway, complains bitterly of the competition of the C. P. R. from the Pacific coast. He plainly shows that it was in revenge for this "invasion" by the C. P. R. that the Northern Pacific pushed a branch northward to the Manitoba boundary, there to connect with the line from Winnipeg, thus retaliating upon the C.P.R. at what seemed to be a weak point.

This open avowal of the nature of the plot, and of the complicity of the Northern Pacific, clears up two important points. In the first place it is made manifest that the conspirators against Canada were guilty of false pretences when they represented the Red River Valley Railway as a mere local Provincial work, for we now learn on this indisputable authority that it is merely a section of an international line extending beyond the frontier, a mere part of a whole having one common object. And in the second place we are informed authoritatively what this object is. It is not, as has been falsely pretended by the Ontario opponents of the C. P. R. and of Canadian commerce, a link to provide competition over Canadian lines to Canadian ports. It is, as Mr. Oakes plainly states, a line to prevent the traffic of Manitoba and the Northwest from going through Canada, and to divert it to the railways, the cities and the ports of the United States, in pursuance of what Mr. Oakes claims are the "natural trade relations."

It is thus made clear, beyond the possibility of a mistake by the most careless reader, that the attack concerted in the United States and Canada is aimed at our great national route through a desire for revenge, and at Canadian trade, manufactures and ports through over greed. It is hardly surprising that foreigners should be actuated by such feelings and desires, but that people in Winnipeg should conspire with them to combat the policy which made their city, and that disappointed politicians in other parts of the Dominion should aid them out of anger at being rejected by the people of Canada, is highly discreditable to these reckless agitators.

It is well that their real designs should have been thus exposed by the General Manager of the Northern Pacific.

INTERNAL WATER COMMUNICATIONS.

A FEW days ago a convention of delegates from Illinois and other States was held at Peoria, Ill. The meeting had for its chairman the Governor of the State, and judges, senators and other men of the highest standing were among the delegates. Their object was to promote the improvement of internal communications and especially the construction of a canal to unite the waters of Lake Michigan with those of the Illinois River and so with the Mississippi. A series of resolutions were passed in favour of such internal water communications and especially of the proposed canal. Delegates from the convention were selected to present these resolutions to the national conventions of the different parties to be held for the Presidential nominations, and to urge that they should be adopted as planks in the party platforms. These delegates are also to call a national convention next year, to ask pledges from all congressional candidates, to present the resolutions to Congress, and to take other steps that might seem advisable to further their objects.

It will be seen from this programme that our neighbours are fully alive to the importance of improving their internal water communications, and that such improvements are being authoritatively urged. We in Canada have the finest natural water ways in the world and we should not allow them to be surpassed by artificial improvements in other countries. The most important improvement to the great St. Lawrence navigation is the Trent Valley Canal, and its completion should not be allowed to be deferred. Other nations see the great value of such works and we should not be surpaseed in enterprize. This improvement would be so valuable to Canada that its very moderate cost is not sufficient to deter the country from its rapid completion.

SOME surprise is expressed that Mr. Mercier and his associates should be so very careful as to the secrecy of their conference. We cannot share in this surprise for conspirators generally prefer sole and corner proceedings to the openness of honest men. And that is all it is—a conspiracy of the opposition cabinets in the Provinces to weaken the central power of our Dominion and promote disintegration. It reminds the reader of history of the proceedings of the authorities of the seceding Southern States before they began the civil war. It is the very antipodes of the convention a hundred years ago when the leading men of the several States met to abandon their system of decentralization and chaotic local action in order to frame the constitution that made the United States a nation.

The experience of years furnishes the most convincing evidence that thousands of lives are annually saved by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It speedily cures all affections of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

MR. MERCIER pretended that his little secret meeting at Quebec cannot be hostile to the Dominion because he invited the Canadian cabinet. Mr. Mercier sent a curt invitation to Ottawa many months after he had invited other guests and had conferred with them as to the programme. In private life a tardy invitation on the eve of an event, long after other guests are bidden, is regarded as insulting, and there can be no doubt that Mr. Mercier intended a deliberate insult to the Dominion and its authorities.

SMELTING WORKS.

Another circumstance over which the croakers might do a little of wailing business is the prospect of the establishment of smelting works at Trenton. Peter McLaren, who is a stockholder in the Central Ontario Railway, will give a bonus to the enterprise to the amount of $ 200,000, providing the town gives $50,000 for the same purpose. A resolution of the Council was passed, unanimously accepting the proposal, subject, of course to the approval of the ratepayers. Trenton posses es all the advantages for such an industry, and we hope to see the enterprise of the gentlemen interested in the scheme rewarded as it should be.—Toronto World

And SHEPPARD, by common consent, will get $1,000 for being the Cheapest Clothier in Peterborough, having knocked the Wonderful Cheap Man completely out. "Business is business; dirt is dirt, and when it comes to throwing dirt, then count" the only original teddy out, and he will hand over that $1,000 like a little man, for the following reasons:—

SHEPPARD sells a full size Man's suit for $2.95, and better goods than a suit to fit a child about nine years old sold by the Wonderful Cheap Man on Saturday for $3.00; but marked $3.50. This is how it was.—A lady purchased a child's suit on Saturday last, Sept. 17th, 1887, at the store of the Wonderful Cheap Man. It was marked thusly:—Lot 5375, Breast 27, Waist 26½, Age 9, Price $3.50. It was pure shoddy, being held together by cotton threads, and Sheppard is free to say that that was the dearest suit sold in the Town of Peterborough for the last two years. Full particulars are given because of the $1,000 involved, and, further, that this decides who is selling the Cheapest Clothing in Peterborough. SHEPPARD would have sold that lady a suit, pure wool, for that money, and worth two of the one she got.

$1,000 to Go to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

I had first decided to give the agencies a chance of jumping up my rating that $1,000, but after considering the matter and finding that never in any case have I been asked for an endorser to my paper, and that no relative or any other persons have ever endorsed my paper to the extent of one cent, I have come to the conclusion my credit is as good as yours, and will ask you to hand over the $1,000 to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

Now, Sir, there is a good story told, the truth of which can be vouched for, but for the honor of at least making an effort to keep up your self-styled name—The Terror of High Priced Clothiers—do not allow the same to be said of you in the case above. A man purchased a suit for $15.00 at the store of one of the largest advertisers in that section of country. It was guaranteed pure wool; but after examining it carefully at home, he came to the conclusion that he had been dealing with some one sharper than himself. Finding a make of wool, differing some from anything he had ever seen, it dawned upon him that he had heard of wool of that kind, so the suit was returned. The merchant bet $25.00 that it was all wool, and the bet was accepted, the decision being left to a neighboring merchant. He found that the $15.00 suit was wool faced and shoddy back, pure unadulterated shoddy; but what of the $25.00 bet? was it paid? Not much—muchly—as it were.

ALL THE WORLD AT WAR.

By WALTER BESANT.

Outside, the servant whom he had left behind for my protection had dismounted, had tied up his horse, and was leaning on a gate. It seemed inhospitable not to ask him into the house, and I did so; inviting him to sit down, greatly to his surprise. He refused to sit in my presence, but was pleased to accept such a meal as I was enabled to offer him, with two or three glasses of the brandy which never paid duty. This part of the entertainment, indeed, afforded the honest fellow infinite gratification.

It was about 2 o'clock in the afternoon when Mr. Huntspill returned, his servant carrying a box before him, and leading a horse on which was a lady's saddle.

When in my own room I was dressed in the new clothes, I hardly knew myself. A long black habit for riding, gloves, a hat and veil, all sorts of little things of which I hardly knew the use, neatly packed in a leathern valise. I finished my preparations at length and came downstairs, dressed like a young lady. But I could hardly have looked one, because I felt awkward and constrained in my new attire. Mr. Huntspill bowed politely.

"The most beautiful girl," he said, repeating Will's dear words, "on all the southern coast."

That was all very well. But how would beauty give me courage to face Lady Campion?

We were to start at once, but a sudden thought struck me. The hearthstone! Dan's last words were to remember the hearthstone. I had seen to what use Joshua put his, and I had every reason to believe that Dan's was, in the same manner, his own bank, the place where he confided his single talent, so that it could by no means grow or produce interest, or become useful at all, except for spending.

I reflected for a moment.

"Now, my dear young lady," said Mr. Huntspill. His eyes had been upon me ever since I came down in my new dress, and I could see that he looked at me with admiration. That, to my mind, meant that Will would have been satisfied, and I was glad.

"It is the hearthstone," I said.

He stared for a moment. Then he remembered that the general use of the lower sort of people was to hide away their money, and that the hearthstone was the general hiding place; so that if a cottage was robbed the first thing the burglars did was to pry up the hearthstone.

We raised the stone, Mr. Huntspill and I, between us. Beneath was a perfect mine, an Eldorado of gold and precious things.

Remember that Dan Gulliver was turned 60 years of age; that he had been smuggling ever since he was 10; that he had never had an unsuccessful run, and that ever since his father's death the farm had supplied most of our frugal wants, always excepting the brandy, which never, etc.

I am afraid to say how much there was under the hearthstone. It was, I know, more than a thousand pounds, all in golden guineas, tied up in bags containing a hundred each.

Mr. Huntspill poured the contents of each bag upon the table, and counted the coin carefully. For each he made a separate memorandum. Mr. Huntspill tied up the bags again, called one of his servants, and confided them to his care. Then we started on our journey.

I said farewell to the two old people who were to be left in sole charge of Rousdon farm. Mr. Huntspill wrote his London address, in case anything should be wanted. And then he lifted me into the saddle, and we turned the horses' heads Londonward.

I should have been perfectly happy but for two things—the never ceasing anxiety about Will, and an always increasing fear of the terrible Lady Campion.

I learned a good deal in those days of other things besides curious and interesting sights. Mr. Huntspill, who was always talking to me, taught them. For instance, in the gentlest and kindest manner possible, he instructed me in sundry points of minor morals—I mean carriage and conduct of myself. This, I knew, was done in order that I might not prejudice Lady Campion against me at the outset by some act of awkwardness or bad breeding.

"A lady," said Mr. Huntspill, who always spoke with authority, "is known by her acts and words first; but there is a connection between nobility of thought and dignity of carriage."

He had learned by this time all my deficiencies, and I knew that he was going to report upon them to Lady Campion. I was not afraid of the report which he would make of me, but I was horribly afraid of madam, as he called her.

The day before we rode into London he talked about her.

"Lady Campion," he said, "is blind, as you doubtless know; but in a short time you will forget her blindness. She writes her own letters, and her letters are read to her by means of a confidential clerk. She hears reports about the affairs of the house, and gives her counsels, which are in reality her instructions. And all as well as if she had the use of her eyes. Madam," Mr. Huntspill went on, "was left sole guardian to Mr. William at the death of Sir Godfrey, her son being then 14 years of age, with a clause appointing Mr. William chief partner in the house at the age of 25. He is now 23. He demands liberty of action until the time comes for him to rule over us. Meantime madam holds the reins with firmness and prudence. What she shall hope for in you is the power to attach her son to his domestic and civic duties, and make the rover a worthy successor to the great Sir Godfrey, lord mayor of London."

This was disquieting. How could I?

He answered my look, being at all times a sympathetic man.

"Madam will tell you how. You will modify the strictness of her injunctions by the gentleness of your own heart. Your affection for Mr. William will supply the rest."

To be continued.

THE WATERWAYS TO THE FORE.

The Importance of Water Communications Strongly Advocated.

Of course the improvement of national waterways offers a powerful means of bringing the railway companies to terms; and in this a great part of the value of waterways lies. Over the border this is not neglected. At Peoria, in Illinois, a "River Convention" has just concluded its sittings, after having adopted a set of vigorously worded resolutions in favor of the nation making the best that can be made of the facilities for waterways which nature has placed within its reach, with special reference to the much advocated Hennepin route for water communications between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi. Senator Dorr of Chicago addressed the convention, and declared that nowhere else in the world was there a chance to make so great and important an improvement at such a small cost as was offered in the project under consideration. With cheap rates the United States could control the commerce of the world, and the way to permanently secure such rates was to improve the waterways. Those already built effect a saving of 14 cents on grain from Chicago to New York, and by the contemplated improvements a vast additional territory would be given the benefit of cheap rates. "If we do not improve our waterways," he said, "our foreign grain trade will be practically lost inside the next five years. Illinois should not be asked to make the improvements alone, as all the Northwest, and in fact the nation, would be benefitted."

The Republic is a bigger country than the Dominion, we must admit. But as regards the possession of a big waterway from west to east, Canada has considerably the advantage. And, however strong the arguments that can be cited by our neighbors in favor of improving their waterways may be, arguments still stronger in favor of improving ours ought to be easily forthcoming. Meantime we find no fault with Senator Dorr's blast of patriotic partiality, blown as it was in a cause with which Canadians can sincerely sympathise. —Toronto World.

MANITOBA FLOUR.

A C. P. R. Boon to Manitoba—Flour in the Far West.

The Ogilvie milling company having received word that their first shipments of flour to China have reached their destination, information as to how the articles received there will be awaited with interest. The opinion is certain to be favourable and a large trade should spring up in consequence. It is gratifying to observe that the demand for Manitoba flour in British Columbia is steadily increasing. Considerable quantities of butter have also been shipped there from this province and there is no reason to doubt that the interprovincial trade of the territory west from Lake Superior to the Pacific will assume large proportions, fully justifying the rapidity with which the construction of the transcontinental line was pushed on.—Winnipeg Call.

A CHEAP COUNTRY.

If everything is made abroad and nothing is made here, where will our people get the money to buy the cheap things the Post-Express praises about?—Rochester, N. Y. Democrat.

T. V. C. AND MONTREAL.

Were the canal finished, grain could be carried from Chicago, Duluth or Port Arthur to the foot of Georgian Bay in large boats, and thence in barges to Montreal, instead of breaking bulk at Kingston as at present.—Montreal Post.

CAUTION TO MOWAT.

We most sincerely hope that Mr. Mowat will not be a party to the provincial grab game, for the Liberals of Canada ought not to give the Tory Government of the Dominion any excuse for keeping the Customs duties high.—Hamilton Times (Reform.)

THE DIFFERENCE.

It appears that 300 policemen charged a New York mass meeting on Sunday with drawn batons and clubed 4,000 free and independent electors out of sight. We await the howl from the United States press which has hitherto always followed police interference with a crowd—in Ireland—Ottawa Journal (Indep.)

In Brief, and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents

Now Open.

Chamberlain's oyster parlor is now open for the season. Oysters will be served at all hours in styles to suit the tastes of our patrons. After this week shell oysters will be kept constantly on hand. Porter-house steaks, chops, etc., prepared on the shortest notice. d69-tf

Remoddled.

Messrs. Rush Bros. grocery store has been recently completely overhauled. Its ceiling and walls have been papered in an artistic manner and the office has been made very neat and cosy. The store is now among the handsomest in appearance in town. Mr. Ralph Carton was the decorator.

'Bus Line.

Mr. Snowdon, proprietor of the Union 'Bus Line, has decided to put on a street service. He has all the plant necessary, the extra expense required being only the cost of running an extra 'bus. He intends to have the 'busses running on the principal streets at regular hours. The 'busses commenced business to day to ascertain how a suitable time table could be arranged.

A Prophecy.

Mr. Alex. Gibson, who does a good deal of the fine horse-shoeing in town, says that there will be an interesting time on the ice this winter. Among the horses which will be hard to leave behind he mentions Johnny Newhall's Gladstone, Daly's pacer and Harry Winch's Sleepy Dan. He says that the Peterborough horses will give a good account of themselves wherever they go.

The Programme.

As soon as the new premises at the old brick factory are ready for Mr. W. H. Law, he will move his bridge works thither. The Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company will step into the vacated bridge works and occupy the two entire buildings. The lock company will put fifty more men at work as soon as the required machinery can be put in.

Bridges.

Mr. W. H. Law has returned from Western Ontario, where he has been putting up bridges and tendering for work. The new bridge at Thamesville, consisting of one span of 164 feet, two of 64 feet and a 16 foot roadway, is being put up. The bridge at Galt, consisting of two 70 feet spans, one 73 foot span, 16 foot roadway and 5 foot sidewalk, is ready for use. Both bridges were made here.

Open for Traffic.

The Simcoe street bridge was opened for traffic this afternoon. The cost for iron work was $2,500 and for stone work and sundries about $1,000. It will be a good deal cheaper in the end than a wooden bridge, and no danger need now be feared from freshets. The Central Iron and Bridge Works had the contract for the iron work and Mr. Henry Sherwood for the stone work.

Personal.

Mr. Jas. W. Taylor, of Taylor Bros., Canadian managers of the Caledonia Fire Insurance Company, and Mr. C. F. Morrison, of Edinburgh, Inspector of Agencies, are in town on business connected with the company. Messrs. Wilson & Morrison are the representatives of the Caledonia here.

Mr. H. W. Buck, of the firm of Poussette & Buck, Sarnia, is in town.

AN IMPORTANT LINK.

AN OPEN ROUTE FROM GEORGIAN BAY TO THE BAY OF QUINTE.

The Stoppage Previously Existing at Peterborough Removed — Seventy Thousand Dollars Spent on the New Link—Other Improvements.

Mr. James Hendrie, formerly of the firm of McDermid & Hendrie, contractors, was awarded this spring the contract for building the "locks line," that is a short link across the lower part of the town, connecting the Grand Junction branch with the Midland.

The newly constructed link digresses near Townsend street and runs nearly due east across the Otonabee River and Beaver Mead Creek till it forms a junction with the other branch at Downer's Corners. The total length of this line is one and one-third miles. It crosses the Otonabee about three hundred yards above the locks bridge. The new iron girder bridge rests on solid stone piers and abutments. The iron work consists of two spans of eighty feet and two spans of fifty feet. The bridge complete is three hundred and twenty feet in length. A swing affords a navigable channel of fifty feet clear, so that there will be no impediment to the river steamers coming and going up and down. The Beaver Mead Creek bridge has only one forty foot span. The girders rest on stone abutments. The construction of the stone work of these bridges was under the superintendence of Mr. Jas. Bogue, a mason of high standing, as his work in Peterborough fully attests.

The construction of the locks line has been pushed forward

AS RAPIDLY AS POSSIBLE.

though obstacles were thrown in the way by some people who owned property through which the right of way the railway were desirous of purchasing. The survey was made several times, and at last a direct line was obtained. There are only a few claims to settle at present. The total cost of the link will be about $70,000.

One object of building this piece of road was to do away with a large amount of laborious work. From the Bethune street station to Downer's corners by the old way is three miles, and from the station to Hilliard's the trains have to be backed. It is a very tedious arrangement when heavy freight trains have to be handled in this manner, and as tedious when passenger trains are concerned also. The new line will shorten the distance between Belleville and Peterborough by 22 minutes.

Another object to be attained was the opening up of the line between Midland and Belleville as a through line for freight. The building of the link between Omemee and Peterborough almost accomplished this end, but it would be next to impossible to haul the large number of trains going over the through line up and down the Peterborough V. Even if there were time to do it the cost would be about equal though the distance was shorter. The little link, however, makes a clear, open roadway, from Georgian Bay to the Bay of Quinte. It is ten miles shorter than the Port Hope way and the through freight will doubtless all, or nearly all, come

OVER THE DIRECT ROUTE.

The volume of produce to be handled by this road promises to be enormous. A steamer from Chicago can come to Midland, unload in the elevator and go back to Chicago, before another of the same speed would be getting past the Welland Canal. Since May 1st until the present, with an elevator having a capacity of 250,000 bushels, 3,000,000 bushels of wheat and corn from Chicago have come over the Midland line, and the railway's agent in Chicago is confident that an elevator of 1,000,000 capacity at Midland could be constantly employed during the shipping season. The officials of the railway are alive to the possible, and even most probable, large increase in their through grain trade, for they are now intent on doubling the capacity of the elevator. As it is now, about twenty-five trains a day are employed as the carriers of the through freight, grain, lumber, and so forth. With greater capacity at the northern port for the reception of business offered off the lakes, the number of trains running back and forth may be increased to 40 or 50.

Preparations have been made in anticipation of this increase of business. The Grand Junction line is being put in first class shape. This summer $35,000 has been spent upon it in ballasting, renewing bridges and culverts, taking out curves, and in other ways improving the line. Two handsome stone and iron bridges are are in course of erection, one at Hastings and the other at Campbellford.

Booming.

The Lindsay Warder says:—"We learn that the managers for Eastern Ontario of the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company have written up over half a million dollars worth of business since the company commenced writing risks a little over two months ago. The total amount done by the company in the Dominion during that period reaches the magnificent sum of two million dollars. In connection we are pleased to learn that A. Gallon, competing for a prize in gold offered for the largest business done in September, has captured the prize. The advertisement of this young and vigorous company appears in another column, to which we direct attention. We understand that several of our prominent citizens have subscribed for stock therein." Messrs. Wilson & Morrison are the managers above referred to. 3d73 1w52.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The Annual Meeting of Central Branch of this Methodist Society.

A Peterborough delegate to the annual meeting of the above Society sends the following report of its proceedings:—

The members of the above branch convened in the Bloor Street Methodist Church, Toronto, for their annual meeting on Thursday and Friday of last week. This gathering is composed of the officers, with representatives from each Auxiliary and Mission Band.

The President, Mrs. Dawson Kerr, of Toronto, occupied the chair. On Thursday afternoon the first session was opened with devotional exercises, after which the roll of delegates was called. Representatives from a number of new Auxiliaries responded, among others that of Peterborough, which was organized last March in the George Street Church. A very beautiful address of welcome was read by Mrs. Brett, of Toronto, and responded to on behalf of the delegates by Mrs. Lewis, of Belleville. One gem of thought from the latter was that, just as in the great organ perfect harmony is obtained only when each part contributes its share of the melody, so this grand anthem, acted, not sung, by the Woman's Missionary Society, is complete only when each Auxiliary and Band brings its quota of praise and helpfulness. To fully appreciate the beauty of this simile one needs to see Mrs. Lewis—a woman with a pale Madonna face, bearing the marks of life's fierce storms—a face suggesting the idea of some finely constructed instrument, upon which the Great Master has laid His hand with the high purpose of attuning it to His righteous will, and each chord having been stretched to its utmost tension, gives back to us the perfect harmony of sanctified emotion and consecrated thought.

The President's annual address followed, with encouraging statements concerning the work in Japan and British Columbia; also strongly urging the scheme of a new school in the North-West.

The Secretary's report showed an increase during the past year of nine Auxiliaries and eight Mission Bands. Number of Auxiliaries now in operation, thirty nine. Mission Bands, nineteen. These contain a membership of over 2,000, of which sixty-four are life members. The payment of $25 constitutes a life member. Total receipts of the year, according to the Treasurer's report, $5,036 92, being an crease over last year of $970.82; expenses, $109.39; balance, $4,927.53. Reports from sister societies were called for. Mrs. Robinson, representing the Woman's Foreign Mission Board of the Presbyterian Church, and Miss Clark, of McCaul Mission Hall, gave statements of facts indicating progress in their work.

This was followed by reports from Auxiliaries and Mission Bands, which continued into the Friday morning session. It was a sight to see the representatives of the bands—young, bright girls, putting the freshness of their youth and energy into this grand enterprize, "The world for Christ." The Band of the Metropolitan Church, Toronto, last pear raised $300. In looking at their President, Mrs. (Dr.) Willmott, wonder ceases that they should accomplish great things. Picture a woman, graceful in person, highly cultured, with a large heart and more than ordinary intellect, wholly consecrated to the Master's service.

Another glowing record was from Madoc Band, represented by Mrs. Clarke—a young married woman, a minister's daughter—whose report of a large membership, good work accomplished and receipts for the year, over $160, was received with marked enthusiasm.

The morning session closed after election of officers for the coming year, and election of delegates to the meeting of the General Board, held this week in Belleville. Following are the officers for this year: President, Mrs. (Dr.) Williams; Vice-Presidents, Mesdames Kerr, Gooderham and Carman; Rec.-Sec., Mrs. J. B. Willmott; Cor.-Sec., Mrs. (Dr.) Briggs; Treasurer, Mrs. R. Brown; Assistant-Sec., Mrs. T. Thompson.

In the afternoon a number of interesting communications from various fields were read by Mrs. Briggs. Reports from Japan show a steadily increasing cry for light. Letters from Mrs. Crosby and Miss Knight, of the Crosby Home at Fort Simpson, give encouragement regarding their work. In September, 1887, there were twenty inmates, the girls being, on the whole, easily managed, and quite happy. Still the work is laborious and an assistant is pleaded for. The accounts of traffic in Chinese girls in Victoria, B.C., are truly heart-rending. While we, as Christian churches, are sending the Gospel to China, numbers of young girls are being either bought for a trifle or stolen there, brought over to our own land and sold into lives of slavery and shame. Let us think of it—we whose homes are hedged about by every protection which law and love can devise—and then ask: "What is my duty?" A refuge for these girls, when rescued, is a new scheme of mission work. A statement was submitted from the McDougall Orphanage showing the cost of maintenance and the purchase of necessary implements and buildings to be $2,095.74; receipts to Sept. 1, 1887, $1,539.70, leaving a deficit of $546.04.

In the face of these facts, and in view of the needs of God's other children (our brothers and sisters) who still sit in the region and shadow of death, how will each one of us answer the question, "How much owest thou unto my Lord?"

In view of the Master's call for workers, strong and earnest—

Who will answer, gladly saying,
"Here am I, Oh, Lord, send ME."

THE RED RIVER RAILWAY.

Arrangement to Have it Built by a Private Company.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 22.—Last spring a charter was granted under the Provincial General Railway Act incorporating a company under the name of the Manitoba Construction Company, the incorporators being Messrs. H. S. Holt, G. S. Mackay and A. M. Morrison, of Toronto, and J. H. D. Munson, C. S. Hoare and Alex. McIntyre, of Winnipeg. It is probable that this company will be reorganized by changes in or addition to its personnel, and that Mr. Holt and his associates will carry on the work in the name of the company. The proceeds of the $300,000 of the treasury bonds now offered are to be used to pay off existing liabilities and the former contractors and for rails, etc. This amount is to be paid back to the Government by the company before the bonds mature. The company will not receive any payment or subsidy from the Province for the completion of the line, but will build it purely as a private enterprise, and will own and operate it, so that practically the road is to be completed without any expense whatever to the Province. The agreement with Mr. Holt provides that rates and all questions as to sale, amalgating, etc., are to be subject to the control of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council.

DISASTROUS FOREST FIRES.

Many Miles Burned Over in California —Destruction of Property.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—A despatch from Los Angelos, in the southern part of the State, says that the whole country for miles around is on fire. Thousands of acres will be burned over. An immense number of cattle have perished.

Forest fires are again raging in Sorona county, one of the most productive counties in the State. The fires have destroyed property in all directions. Whole farms have been swept clear of everything. Loss very heavy.

A despatch just received from Glenwood, Santa Cruz county, says: "Fire is burning for ten miles around. The bridges are all gone. Stanfield's large sawmill is in danger. The mill has shut down and the men are fighting the fire."

A MARTIME MYSTERY.

A Farmer Found Dead in an Unfrequented Road—Shot in the Back.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 22.—A farmer named Peter Doyle, of Lower Masquodoboid, who went on a shooting excursion last Sunday and had been missing since, was found lying dead at the side of an unfrequented road this morning. He had been shot in the back and his body lay in a pool of blood. His gun was lying on the ground a short distance ahead of the body, and the position of both the weapon and the wound showed almost conclusively that the man had not shot himself either accidentally or intentionally. The whole affair is shrouded in mystery, but suspicions are expressed involving a family residing near where the remains were discovered. Doyle was over fifty years old, but was married only six years ago. He had two children.

Pounded with a Gun.

NAPANEE, Oct. 22.—Last night a number of young men, who were carousing through the town, entered the Campbell House and demanded liquor, which Mr. Sandford Johnson, one of the proprietors, refused. The young men became boisterous and threatened to clean out the house, upon which Mr. Johnson endeavored to put them out, and in the melee that ensued one of them fell to the floor, with Johnson on top, upon which a comrade named Richardson struck Johnson over the head with the breech of a double barreled gun, giving him a tremendous wound, from which, at first, it was feared he would not revover. To-day he is reported somewhat better, with hopes of his ultimate recovery.

It is useless to attempt the cure of any disorder, if the blood is allowed to remain impure. Neuralgia and rheumatism are traceable to a disordered condition of the blood, and in numberless cases have been cured by taking a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

OUTLAWS AND VIGILANTES.

Details of the Recent Fight on the North Fork River.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 22.—The following were among the persons killed in Thursday's fight on North Fork River, between outlaws and vigilantes: James Saunders, of Oaks, Cherokee nation; Garfield, cherokee nation; Bed Rock Chap, Lukfata, Bush Sakaisk, Patryk, Chief Parr, Oaks; Sam H Eilster, Enfaula; Walter Ainsworth, ranger, Muskogee; Darling Price, a settler, Camp Creek; John Leech, an outlaw. Five others are said to have been killed. The leader of the Vigilantes was Robert Henderson, a brave halfbreed from the Creek nation. The outlaws found shelter behind the tress which line the banks of the river, so that when the Vigilantes came up they were entirely at the mercy of two score of men who knew not what mercy was. Henderson led his men a short distance up the river where they were as well protected as the outlaws. The river was only one hundred yards wide there, and across this distance from Thursday morning to Thursday night bullets were singing on their mission of death. In obtaining this position the Vigilantes lost two men and five were badly wounded. Trainor, the outlaw leader, next decided to attack the Vigilantes in the rear, but in moving for the position they were met half way and were routed. In endeavoring to rally his men, Bill Cnene was killed: and before the men could be reached, John Leech, of the robber gang, was shot off his horse but not killed. The fight from this on was continued across the stream. No sooner was a head, arm or any part of a body visible on either side than a bullet was seeking to find a lodgement therein. As Thursday night was coming on Henderson called in his men for consultation, when it was found that out of his force eight men were killed outright and eight others had received severe wounds. The force was thus reduced one half, and it was thought best to remove the wounded and obtain reinforcements. The dead were buried and the wounded taken to Wewoka. It is thought that as many of the outlaws were killed as vigilantes. Henderson says he will collect one hundred men and wipe the robbers out. It is believed that Bill Trainor was killed during the fight.

A SPECTACULAR WEDDING.

Only a Rothschild Could Afford Such a Ceremony.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—The wedding at the Jewish synagogue of Mlle Aline de Rothschild with M. Albert Edward Sassoon the other day was attended by a swarm of notables, among whom was the Grand Rabbi of India, who happened to be passing through Paris and who wore in his turban a quarter of a million dollars' worth of diamonds.

Mlle de Rothschild is a brunette, very tall and finely built, with a bred patrician presence. She has most lovely teeth, and when she smiles it seems like a ray of sunshine. She wore a long white satin dress, with flounces of English lace in the form of an apron, trimmed with orange blossoms arranged like the braiding of a hussar jacket. Her headdress was a silver Russian diadem, partly covered beneath her long tulle veil.

Ten paces behind the bride walked the Baroness Gustave de Rothschild in peluche infernale, opening on an underdress of rose coral peluche, embroidered in heavy dead gold, with hood to match. Then came the Baroness Nathaniel de Rothschild, in pansy colored plush, over panels of pale mauve, trimmed with gold: the Baroness Aiphonse, in grayish blue more antique, with an apron of electric blue, covered with Oriental designs traced in dark blue velvet.

At the moment when the grand rabbi pronounced the last words of the benediction, a group of eight young ladies dashed forth into the middle of the synagogue like a squadron of cavalry, all dressed alike in faille rose. Each wore a diamond broach with the five arrows of the maison de Rothchild, with pearl and opal doves bearing an olive branch in their mouths—a present from the bride. Besides these young ladies there were fifteen ladies of honor, all with the same coiffure, namely: a delicious little mouse grey felt hat, trimmed with large pink ribbons and pink feathers. At the moment when the squadron of eight young ladies collected in the centre of the synagogue a large crystal vase was dashed upon the stone floor and scattered in a thousand fragments by the grand rabbi as indicative of the frailty of all things human.

AN AGED ELOPEMENT.

Mrs. Slater Changes her Love at the age of Fifty-Eight.

WILKESBARRE, Penn., Oct. 22.—Thomas Slater and his wife Elizabeth had a happy little farmhouse in Wyoming County, near Tunkhannock. Mr. Slater had a snug little sum of money in bank, some $1,200. On Tuesday he drew out of the bank $100, which he gave to his wife to do some shopping. Mrs. Slater went to town, and while there she met George Flaherty. The two returned to the Slater homestead, and in the absence of the husband Flaherty put on a new suit of clothes. Mrs. Slater and Flaherty left Home and took the train for Wilkesbarre. Mrs. Slater paid the fare. She told a neighbor that she was going to change her love and elope with Flaherty. The neighbor told Slater, and a telegram was sent to Wilkesbarre to arrest the elopers. Upon the arrival of the train they were arrested, and this evening they returned to Tunkhannock in charge of an officer. This is the oldest eloping couple on record, Flaherty is 67 and Mrs. Slater 58 years old.

ANGLO-FRENCH AGREEMENT.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—It is announced to-day that an agreement has been arrived at between France and England for the withdrawal of the French troops from the New Hebrides. This will remove the most serious of England's continental difficulties and will incline Lord Salisbury more and more to the policy of non-intervention to which he is steadily tending. France also, is more conciliatory in regard to Morocco. She broke up a conference in 1880 which had for its object the neutralization of Morocco. It is probably this conference will now be renewed as the Sultan is recovering and is reported to be favorable to a reopening of relations between Morocco and the Powers.

CHAMBERLAIN'S DENIAL.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Joseph Chamberlain in response to an inquiry telegraphs "There is no foundation for the ridiculous statement that I propose to withdraw from the Fisheries Commission."

WE'VE GOT ALONG WELL

They now understand, on the other side of the lines, that it is useless to try to annex us by the means employed with such small success in 1866. When the Americans abrogated the reciprocity treaty of 1854, we did not get discouraged. We had confidence in ourselves. We found new markets. The work of Confederation was accomplished, and the provinces were bound together by a great railway which traversed the continent. The progress of Canada during the last twenty years has been as great, comparatively, as that of the United States.—Le Canadien.

A REMARKABLE SCENE.

A Large and Unruly Mob Attends Service in Westminster Abbey.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Several thousand of the unemployed, with a red flag at their head, marched in procession this afternoon from Trafalgar square to Westminster Abbey, and although no invitation had been extended 1,200 of the crowd were admitted. The flag was left in charge of the vergers. Inside the Abbey many of the unexpected visitors remained covered and indulged in whistling, while others mounted the pedestals of the various statues or mingled with the decent people present, who mostly left the building. The crowd, as a rule, chewed tobacco and expectorted everywhere regardless of the surroundings, until, the first lesson was announced, when the reader was loudly cheered, completely drowning his voice. The second lesson was similarly received. Canon Prothero then preached a sermon, taking for his text Romans xii., 6. In his discourse he argued that the lawbreakers was necessary for the good of the community. This was received with cries of "Oh, oh!" and "Bosh." The preacher earnestly appealed for order, and exhorted his hearer to try and uproot evil and plant good instead. "That's what we are going to do," was shouted, and received with cries of "Hear, hear," and cheers, Canon Prothero now threw his notes aside and addressed himself directly to the roughs. He said, "Legislation could alone provide a remedy for hunger and suffering, but everybody could express sympathy. (Loud laughter, followed by a voice "that's all we shall get.") Canon Prothero continued, "Charitable agencies might do much." (A voice, "We don't want charity, we want work.") The rev. gentleman enlisted the attention of the mob when he advocated State assistance in times of distress. At the close of his remarks the mob hissed and marched out of the Abbey, cordially cheered by their comrades in waiting outside. The whole crowd then proceeded, shouting and hooting, to Trafalgar square, where the leaders denounced the Church and police. Several arrests were made of brawling persons and thieves.

To Embarrass the Dominion.

The Quebec correspondent of the Montreal Star says:—Mr. Edward J. Hodgson, Q. C., of Charlottetown, P. E. I., arrived in town last evening. Being interviewed, he stated that the Government of the Island being in full sympathy with that of Ottawa, will not be represented at the Interprovincial Conference and that the Conservatives of the Island, considering that all the Governments taking part in it are more or less hostile to the Federal authorities regard the movement as calculated to embarrass the Dominion Government, and believe that it will not lead to any practical result.

Blew Out the Gas.

NAPANEE, Oct, 22.—Two young men named McConnel and Hamilton, from near Trenton, registered at the Campbell House last night as from Belleville. Upon retiring, they blew out the gas. Not appearing this morning, and a strong smell of gas coming from their room, the the door was broken open, when both men were found in a unconscious condition. It was at first feared that one of them would not recover, but at noon to day they had both regained consciousness.

A MAIL FORGERY.

BECAUSE we condemned the disloyalty of the Commercial Annexationists in advocating the treatment of the people of Great Britain as aliens and of the United States as fellowcountrymen, the Toronto Mail attacks us with the only weapon it can find. In reply to our objection to discriminating duties against other parts of the Empire in favour of foreigners, it is guilty of the criminal offience of forging an alteration in our statutes. It says that section 9 of the Customs Acts provides that, if the United States reciprocate, Canada may "admit American coal, salt, seeds, animals, and so forth free, though similar drticles from Great Britain remain subject to a duty." This is simply a deliberate forgery by the Mail. Neither section nine of the Customs Act, nor any section of any act in our Statute books contains any such provision. Canadians have not yet degraded themselves by declaring commercial war against the rest of the Empire, though urged to do so by agitators from the United States and the renegade Canadians who for base motives have allied themselves to them.

What section nine of the Customs Act really does is to bear out our contention and to prove that Canada has not dishonored herself by hostility to her fellowcountrymen. It provides, under certain circumstances, for making certain dutiable goods free, but the freedom of importation is given to all the world.

The Mail knows that the point is of vital importance, for the true version shows its falseness in pretending that in advocating discriminatory duties against our fellow countrymen it is only following legislation now existing. So with hideous effrontery it commits a bold forgery, trusting that its readers would not turn to the statute and detect the falsification.

The Mail declares it is not hired to assist the Annexationists. Perhaps not, though the word of a forger is hardly trustworthy. May it not be that the somewhat greater laxity of the United States in punishing crime is the inducement to the Mail to carry Canada under the Stars and Stripes. The man who forges a check, perhaps because his family is starving, is morally not so great a criminal as the man who thus forges an Act of Parliament in order to further his scheme of disintegrating his own country for the advantage of a foreign nation.

This is plain speaking, but there are some crimes that call for plain speaking.

---

AN Annexationist journal derides the idea of settling the fishery question upon any other basis than of Commercial Annexation Desirable as it may be to settle a question which has caused so much bickering, its settlement is by no means essential. We have property which our neighbors covet, but for the use of which they are not prepared to pay. Very well, we can be content to keep our property till we receive a satisfactory offer. There is no such urgency for a settlement that we should be willing to surrender our property on the condition that our neighbors should favor us by crushing out other Canadian industries.

---

SIR JOHN MACDONALD is claimed by an advocate of the disintegration of our Dominion as having been in favor of the movement. This is based on the fact that fifteen years ago Sir John told the House of Commons that it was not for that House to consider whether Provincial legislation was right or wrong, if it was within the limits of the constitution. Sir John being acquainted with our Constitution, is aware of a distinction which the advocates of disruption either cannot or will not see, viz., that the Parliament of Canada has no control over the Provincial Legislatures. By our constitution that is the function of the Executive.

---

THE London Advertiser says;—

"Surely the misconduct of John A. Macdonald of Cape Breton, of Sir Charles Tupper of Cumberland and of Mr. McLelan of Colchester, can hardly be explained by the theory of the Halifax Herald."

The courts after due trial have pronounced that these gentlemen have not been guilty of misconduct. If the press is to act as a court of appeal from the judiciary and to reverse their decision, which we do not think would be an improvement upon our constitution, the judgment might at least be pronounced by some journal having a little knowledge of law and a little regard for truth, not by the London Advertiser.

---

THE Hamilton Times says:—

"Mr. Wiman remarked at Brampton the other day that refrigerator cars carry meat from Chicago to the Atlantic cities and go back empty. They ought to be filled with fish on the western trip."

Is it absolutely necessary to the happiness or prosperity of Canada that we should allow the New England fishermen to take our fish, in order to supply cargoes for their return empties?

---

Now the Globe writer, who is a stickler for his social position, threatens "bloodshed" if the lieutenant of Royal Engineers comes to Canada and is allowed any social precedence. No, No, the Globe writer would do better to stick to his pen and leave the sword to the lieutenant.

It is Absurd

For people to expect a cure for Indigestion, unless they refrain from eating what is unwholesome; but if anything will sharpen the appetite and give tone to the digestive organs, it is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Thousands all over the land testify to the merits of this medicine.

Mrs. Sarah Burroughs, of 248 Eighth street, South Boston, writes: "My husband has taken Ayer's Sarsaparilla, for Dyspepsia and torpid liver, and has been greatly benefited."

A Confirmed Dyspeptic.

C. Canterbury, of 141 Franklin st., Boston, Mass., writes, that, suffering for years from Indigestion, he was at last induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla and, by its use, was entirely cured.

Mrs. Joseph Aubin, of High street, Holyoke, Mass., suffered for over a year from Dyspepsia, so that she could not eat substantial food, became very weak, and was unable to care for her family. Neither the medicines prescribed by physicians, nor any of the remedies advertised for the cure of Dyspepsia, helped her, until she commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "Three bottles of this medicine," she writes, "cured me."

By WALTER BESANT.

Next day we rode over Hounslow Heath, where so many misguided men had committed the acts which led to a violent death; through Uxbridge, past Shepherd's Bush—a coppice in whose recesses there lingered at evening many a cowardly footpad, on the watch for some defenseless old man or woman; by the stately Holland park, standing amidst a lovely country set with trees; along the gardens of Kensington, on the north of which extended mile after mile of nursery and vegetable gardens; past the dreadful tree of Tyburn, at the corner of Hyde park; and thence, by a network of streets and lanes, in which it seemed impossible to find our way, into the city of London.

I was silent with amazement at so much noise, such crowds, and such splendid buildings. I forgot Lady Campion, every thing, in wonder and delight. I rode beside Mr. Huntspill in a dream.

He watched me, riding close at my side and guiding my horse. Presently we turned into a long winding lane with no carts or wagons, but a continuous stream of people. Many of them knew Mr. Huntspill, and took off their hats to him. He gravely returned the salute. The lane led to a small quiet square, in which were only private houses. One of these, the largest, occupied the whole side of the square.

"This," said Mr. Huntspill, "is Great St. Simon Apostle, and this is Lady Campion's town house."

I dismounted in considerable trepidation. Mr. Huntspill led me by the hand into the house and up the stairs. He stopped at a door on the first landing and knocked. Then he opened the door gently, and led me into the presence of Lady Campion.

"Those," said a firm, clear voice, "are the footsteps of John Huntspill; I welcome you, my friend. Is all well?"

"All is well, madam," said John Huntspill. "The interests of the house are prospering. I present to you, madam, the young lady of whom you wrote to me, Pleasance Noel, and commend her to your ladyship's protection."

"Come here, my dear. Closer—closer yet."

I had not dared to raise my eyes. Now I did so. I saw a splendid lady, apparently about 50 years of age, magnificently dressed in black velvet. Round her neck was hung a heavy gold chain. Her collar and wristbands were of costly lace. She was sitting when we came in, and she turned her head in the slow, cautious way peculiar to blind people. Yet there was little look of blindness in her eyes, and she seemed to see me as my eyes met those large, proud orbs of hers. She rose, however, to give me greeting, and continued gazing at me, as it seemed, reading my features in imagination. Seating herself again, I unconsciously knelt at her feet. Then she placed her hands on my shoulders, and began, in a way which made me tremble, gently to pass her fingers over my face and head.

"You are pretty, child, and you are tall. What is your age?"

"I am past 16."

"What color is your hair?"

"It is light brown. My eyes are blue."

All this time her busy, sensitive fingers were passing lightly over my face.

"Your name is Pleasance. Your father, John Huntspill tells me, was a ship's carpenter. Your guardian, one Daniel Gulliver, has gone to sea, and you were left alone. My son William has fallen in love with you. You are betrothed to each other without the formality of asking my consent. It was wrong in my son. I trust, my dear, that what I see of you will induce me to grant that consent. We have time before us, during which we may do the best to learn each other's ways and character. Be sure that in all you do I shall be always watching you, blind as I am. You may kiss me, Pleasance."

I kissed her fingers, but she drew me to herself and kissed my forehead. Presently, to my distress, John Huntspill went away, and I was left alone with madam.

She began by asking me how I used to spend my days, what I used to read, of what character were my religious opportunities, and other questions designed to bring out exactly what I knew and how I thought. Then she told me that John Huntspill had prepared a report of my general ignorance, for which care would be immediately taken. She informed me, further, that a skillful governess, aided by all kinds of masters, would begin their labors with me the very next morning.

She ended in her stately way:

"William did not wait for my consent, nor did you know, perhaps, that it is unbecoming of a maiden to engage herself without that consent. Nevertheless, should you be diligent and prove yourself possessed of the aptitude and the qualities which he believes to be in you, that consent will not be withheld. Understand me, Pleasance, William is of age, and in two years' time or so will be called upon to assume the chief command of this great firm. He can marry without my consent, if he wishes. For your own happiness, and in obedience to the Fifth Commandment, you will study to obtain my approval. I do not deny that I could have wished—yes, that I most strongly wished—my son to form an alliance with one of gentle birth. You must try to remove this disappointment."

Then my new manner of life began. It was, indeed, different from the old.

Every morning I practiced for two hours on the pianoforte, or harpsichord, as madam called it. After breakfast came the masters. There was M. Elie Lemoine, master of dancing and deportment—he was my favorite, because I took to dancing with great readiness; a singing master; a refugee French lady, of courtly manners, to teach me French; one of the clerks, an elderly man with a wife and large family, permitted to increase his income by giving me lessons in writing; and a professor of elocution, who taught me to read with propriety.

With all this work before me, I had little time to think about poor Will. One day, however, John Huntspill came to see me, and requested that I would favor him by walking in the square with him for a few minutes.

He told me that madam was growing anxious about her son. His story, to put her off the scent, was that he was going to the West Indies. And the West Indian mails had come in, but no letter, naturally enough, had arrived from Will Campion.

"Everything depends," he said, "on there being no inquiry. I have, for my own part, ascertained by a Portsmouth correspondent, in whom I can trust, that Mr. William is now at sea. Madam would die of shame were she to learn the truth. I see nothing for it but to feign a letter from him. I have written it, and propose to bring it to-morrow as coming from the office. It will doubtless be for you to read it aloud. We are embarked in a course of falsehoods; from one deceit springs many. Far, far better had Mr. William at once confessed his name and position, and obtained, as he certainly would have done, his majesty's pardon for a boyish escapade."

Yes, we were indeed embarked in a course of falsehood. Not one letter did we write, but many—four every year. John Huntspill wrote them, getting his descriptions of West India scenery from all sorts of sources, avoiding the islands of Jamaica, Barbadoes and St. Kitt's, in which the house had correspondents. Then he would bring in his precious missive, announcing calmly that a mail was in from the West Indies, bringing a letter for madam. Lady Campion always took it, felt it, remarked how the smell of the vessel clung to the paper, and then putting it into my hands, commanded me to read it.

No letter really came from Will at all. He was fighting the French somewhere. That made me tremble at night, thinking of the almost daily news shouted about the streets, of another engagement and another victory, with the dreadful list of killed which followed after. Yet John Huntspill bade me hope. Among the lists, so far, he had not seen the name of William Campion, or those of Dan and hi, boys.

"OLD ABE," THE EAGLE.

Some Interesting Information About the Famous War Relic.

"Old Abe," the whilom war eagle of the Eighth regiment, Wisconsin volunteers, is one of the attractions in the collection of war relics now on exhibition at the Exposition building. He is only stuffed and doesn't look as big as when he accompanied the eagle regiment on southern battle fields. A wooden tablet attached to his perch bears this inscription: "Hatched February, 1861; died March 26, 1881."

E. H. Webster, of Greenbusch, Sheboygan county, lieutenant of Company B, of the Eighth regiment, gave a reporter some information about the old bird. "When our company came into camp at Madison we were told by the men of Company C, who brought the eagle with them from Eau Claire, that he was taken from his nest by an Indian and presented to them by him. I have read a more romantic tale of his capture since then, but this story is undoubtedly correct, as nobody then thought of inventing the pleasant fictions about the famous eagle which have since become so numerous. Our regiment broke camp at Camp Randall, in compliance with an order to go to Missouri, and while marching through St. Louis the eagle broke its string and flew away. We all thought that that was the last we would see of him, and Col. Murphy offered to give $25 to any one who would bring him back. You know Murphy, don't you? He left our regiment and was put in charge of a brigade, and surrendered to the rebels at the battle of Holly Springs. But I am digressing.

"While in Camp Curtis at St. Louis one of the boys pointed up into the air at a large bird which was approaching us, and said that he'd bet that it was 'Old Abe.' We fixed a perch on a camp chest and very soon the eagle sailed down and took his place on the perch. He had been fishing and was as wet as a rat. We put him on a string again and sometimes let him go, as he was always sure of returning. Occasionally we let him loose during an engagement, and then he would fly about overhead or sit quietly on his perch. I believe the Confederates brought down some of his feathers once, and after that he always screamed and acted mad when a fight was going on. Gen. Price, of the Confederates, once said he would rather capture the eagle than the whole regiment.

"'Old Abe' was a nuisance in some respects. He was a thieving bird, and when the rations were distributed had to be watched or he would steal the best morsels away. He liked beef and all kinds of meat, when there was scarcely any for the boys. He was up to all sorts of mischief, and wounded some of the boys who were spared by rebel bullets. They would plague him and he would peg at them, frequently drawing the blood."

After the regiment returned from the war "Old Abe" was well cared for at Madison until his death, which ensued from natural causes.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

The Anti-British Globe.

The Toronto Globe is at present suffering under an anti-British craze. No one knows exactly when it was bitten or why it does not send for Dr. Pasteur, but the rabies appears at uncertain intervals and with more or less vigor at each attack. The Globe complained some time ago at some attempt that someone was making to make Canada "a British country." There was a rather general impression that this is a British country, "it so" desires to remain, and that there is no immediate danger of its changing its nationality; so that the Globe's announcement was read with some surprise. Subsequently to this outcry to which we have alluded, our Toronto contemporary was much disturbed at the prospect of a garrison being established at Vancouver. The dire effects that this was to have on the manners of the "sturdy democracy" of Canada were quite alarming to read, and the mind of the general reader was only quieted by the reflection that it was only the Globe on an anti-British tear. We hope that some local Pasteur will speedily discover some remedy, for it is not only melancholy to see a journal of the Globe's calibre so mentally afflicted, but the ravings of our friend are doing injury to a political party in the Dominion to whom there is reason to believe the Globe wishes well. Is the Liberal party of Canada which the Globe is thought by some to support there are a large number of Englishmen and sons of Englishmen who are by no means disposed to cry "amen" to the Globe's anti-British ravings. They are British and their present intention is to remain British in spite of the Globe's dislike of Britons, or Mr. Joseph Chamberlain's dictum that they must get out if they run foul of his fiscal ideas. They are not very well pleased at seeing the leading organ of their party behaving itself as if it were a Yankee British lion tail-twister, and they think that either the journal is misrepresenting the sentiments of its subscribers, or else that a review of the situation will become necessary. In other words the Globe is shaking the allegiance of a good many of Mr. Blake's supporters.—Montreal Herald Reform.).

In Brief, and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents

Farewell Visit.

The Fenelon Falls Gazette says:—"The Rev. Father McEvay, who, it has been decided, is to remain at Peterborough, was at the Falls this week on a farewell visit. He came on Wednesday and left on Friday morning. His late parishioners, as well as his numerous Protestant friends, are sorry to lose him, but believe he will have a worthy successor in Rev. Father O'Brien."

Operations Commenced

The alterations and enlargement of the premises of Ontonabee Lodge, I. O. O. F., have been commenced, and will be rapidly pushed forward to completion, under the direction of Mr. McLennan, Mr. Cox's foreman. The proposed alterations, which comprises the whole of the third and fourth flats of the "Cluxton Block," will, when completed, make one of the most commodious and handsome lodge premises in the district.

A Severe Injury.

On Saturday, a man with a load of apples, threw some out to boys in front of Mr. Melville Millar's residence. A son of Mr. Millar went under the waggon after an apple, when the horses were started. A wheel went over the boy's arm and shoulder and came down to the lower jaw, breaking the bone in two places. His escape from even more serious injury was a narrow one, though the wounds received are severe and painful.

Personal.

Miss Mary Allen went to London to-day to represent the George Street Methodist Sunday School in the Provincial Convention of Sunday School workers. Sheriff Hall, Miss Tucker and Miss Dixon represented St. Paul's Church Sunday School.

On Sunday reference was made from the pulpit by the Rev. Mr. Tovell to the unlooked for and lamented death of the Rev. Dr Nelles, and announced that next Sabbath evening he would conduct a memorial service in the Charlotte Street Church.

Mr. George Taylor received a telephone message this morning informing him that his daughter, who had been visiting friends in Toronto and Port Hope, was dangerously ill in the latter place. He went to Port Hope on the noon train.

5 SALVATIONISTS

Preaching, Praying and Singing in the Opera House.

Sunday night was wet and windy, but the inclement weather did not deter several hundred people from going to the Opera House to hear the Salvation Quintette. The Salvationists paraded the streets with cornets, bass horns, drums, tambourines, and finally came into the hall.

The stage was soon filled. Capt. Connaught, of the "Marvellous. Quintette," stood up and announced that before the meeting started they would sing a song from the War Cry. Bro. Spenceley would sell the War Crys for 5 cents to each. He gave out the song and added, "Now everybody get a War Cry and help us sing the chorus. God bless you." Capt. Connaught is a very fine cornetist. After the audience got well under way with the song he played tenor on the cornet, with good effect. He acted as leader, signifying emphasis by both his swinging arm and varying the tone of the cornet. He sat down when the song was finished. Staff.-Capt. Griffiths, with three others, was dressed in red coats, with black chevrons on the sleeves, black belt and black trousers, with red stripes. Capt. Brokenshire wore a black suit with red trimmings. Capt. Griffiths took his watch out from the folds of his red coat, looked at it and said "We will sing the old song." He clapped his hands and started it.

Take salvation! take salvation!
Take it now and happy, happy be.

Several prayers, songs and "experiences" followed.

Capt. BROKENSHIRE was called on to speak. He said:—Be ye reconciled to God. Be ye reconciled to God. How long are you going to live? I am unable to say whether your future will be one of joy or sorrow. I am unable to tell you whether in the future you will come into the possession of great riches or live a life of poverty. I am unable to say what the future will bring to any one here. But there is one thing I am able to say and that is that everybody must die sometime. But, you, say, "I am in good health," my body is free from every form of diseases and sickness, apparently I am going to live to a good old age. Well, I am glad of it. I am glad you are enjoying so great a blessing. I wish that I could live to be 90 years of age to do God's service all my years. But granted that you are going to live to a good old age; you have got to die. Methuselah who lived between 900 and 1,000 years had to die. Everybody will have to die. The little school girl that comes skipping home has got to die; that mischievous boy some day will have to lie in a coffin; that business man whose mind is so engrossed in the affairs of the world will have to die too; the busy housewife plying her evening care and thinking of how, by what little device she can please her husband, must some day close her eyes in death; the babe must die; everyone of you in this hall to-night shall surely die. A man once said "I shall not die." Death came. "Oh God" he said "I shall not die." And he fought against death but even while he was fighting he passed away. It has been said that it is a solemn thing to die, but I say it is a solemn thing to live. We here are weaving the carpet upon which we shall stand throughout all eternity. The time of reconing will surely come and an account will have to be given of every deed done in the body. Young men say "its all right for my father and my mother to be religious, their day is past. But I'll sow my wild oats." All right, young man. Go on. Whatever your heart desires do not deny yourself of. But remember that what you sow that you shall reap also. Remember, too, that God does not wait till the day of reconing to punish. Now, God knows the heart of everyone, He knows what we do, and what we think of. He knows the opportunities you have had, each one of you, and He has an expectation of your future conduct. Are you going to come up to that expectation. How much are you doing for God? Ask yourself that question and you will blush, many of you. But the question is what are you going to do? Are you going to continue a course that will lead you to everlasting despair? Are you going to serve God in purity of heart and oneness of aim and come to enter into the reward—everlasting peace? I am going to tell you something you have heard a thousand times, Jesus died for you. May God enable you to accept Him. Amen.

The meeting closed in the usual way.

ZION.

From Our Own Correspondent.

REBUILDING.—The barn of Mr. Charles Kindred, which was destroyed by fire a few weeks ago, is being replaced by another very substantial structure. Mr. Robt. Miller has charge of the work, and deserves great praise for the thoroughness and despatch with which the work is being accomplished.

IMPROVEMENT.—The Methodist Church of Zion, which has been sadly in need of repairs, is undergoing extensive improvements, and in a few weeks Zion hill will be crowned by a very respectable church.

ILLNESS.—We are sorry to have to report the illness of Miss Minnie, eldest daughter of Mr. Wm. Kindred, of this place. As she is a universal favorite with old and young her cheerful smile and sunny face are much missed. Under the skilful treatment of Dr. Harrison and the careful attention of her mother, we trust that the roses will soon return to Minnie's snow-clad cheeks again.

RECOVERING.—Mrs. Jackson, who is suffering from injuries sustained from being thrown from her buggy, is recovering, and in a short time will be all right again.

Holloway's Corn Cure destroys all kinds of corns and warts, root and branch. who then would endure them with such a cheap and effectual remedy within reach?

EULOGY.

Spoken by the Rev. F. H. Wallace on the Character of Dr. Nelles.

In the George Street Methodist Church on Sunday morning, after the sermon, appropriate singing, and the playing of the Dead March by the organist the Rev. F. H. Wallace, M.A., B.D., spoke of the late Dr. Nelles. He said:—

BRETHREN,—I feel to-day that in common with the Methodist Church of this land, you and I stand under the deep shadow of a great grief—a shadow cast over us all by the unexpected death of that distinguished and beloved man of God and Minister of the Gospel, who so often spoke from this pulpit in defence and exposition of the truth as it is in Jesus, the Rev. Dr. Nelles, Chancellor of Victoria University.

I had not the privilege of being a student of Dr. Nelles', but as a young minister of the Methodist Church I soon became acquainted with him; as his pastor in the University Church in Cobourg, I learned to love him, both for his own merits and for his generous consideration and unfailing kindness to me; and now I feel it a melancholy pleasure to lay my humble tribute of loving admiration and regret upon his new-made grave.

It is not needful that I should rehearse the story of Dr. Nelles' life. His career was in the eyes of this church and this land. His name was synonymous with Victoria University from that day thirty-seven years ago when he stood alone to rebuild her from her academical ruins, to the day when the flag of the old College drooped half-mast in mournful honor of his memory. Inspiring students with the love of learning, training young men up into Christian character, pleading the cause of higher education in Methodist Conferences and among the Methodist people, defending the Christian or church ideal of University work, and yet finally with the most magnanimous self-abnegation giving such an impulse to a scheme for the wise and patriotic union of the resources of the church and of the state in the Provincial University that not even his own subsequent hesitation could turn back the tide which had begun to flow obedient to his eloquent persuasions—such was the work of our departed Chancellor, work whose issues shall be recognized with gratitude in generations yet to come.

At his death he had been far longer college president than any other man in America. And for all those thirty-seven years he had without stint lavished upon the work which God and the church had committed to his care all the energies of his noble nature. For Victoria College he lived; in her service he died. The terrible anxieties of this period of transition doubtless hastened his death. He rests now from his labors and his works do follow him. "Work done for God, it dieth not."

As a preacher, I need not tell you how he soared into regions of sublime thought and rapturous emotion, how he developed and illustrated great principles, how his Christian faith set his accurate logic gloriously on fire, and how his exquisite literary taste turned his metaphysics into poetry and thrilled cultured hearers with felicitous phrase, apt quotation and delicate allusion. He was not an even speaker. Sometimes he did not kindle, but when he kindled into a blaze of thought and feeling, I know no man in England or America who gave me, for one, profounder pleasure. He was a very great preacher. He was not a prophet without honor among his own people. He would have been yet better appreciated in London, Edinburgh or New York.

Dr. Nelles was a man of very subtle intellect, of very wide reading, and of sympathies as wide as his reading. His mind was hospitable to all truth. He was no fierce polemic. His thought and sympathy could not be sectarian. He was in the truest sense a Catholic Christian. And even beyond the Christian pale he had his sympathy with all good in all men. The spirit of the good Samaritan—that was his spirit. He loved his neighbor, and his neighborhood was all the world. The words of his favourite poet, Whittier, expressed his broad and loving temper:—

"O brother man! fold to thy heart thy brother;
Where pity dwells, the peace of God is there;
To worship rightly is to love each other,
Each smile a hymn, each kindly deed a prayer."

Such a spirit endeared him to men of every church, every creed, every rank in life. When amid the tolling of the church bells of the town, men representing various institutions of learning, various professions, various denominations of this land followed his remains to the church, where he had worshipped, and to the grave where he now lies, all the people of Cobourg, who had known him, a large proportion of them from their childhood, stood silent-stricken, mourning by. To all who had the rare privilege of knowing him, his loss has come as a personal bereavement. We did not know how much we loved him until he was gone.

Deep beneath the surface of the soul, on which the waves of multifarious thoughts rolled ceaselessly, on whose foam the sunbeams played in the rosy hues of wit, there set the steady current of a life consecrated to God. And when the end approached there was no preparation to be made. His last request to his students was that they should sing those words which expressed so well his faith, "There is a fountain filled with blood." In a letter to Dr. Potts, dictated shortly before his death, he said that God had taken from him that burden of anxiety regarding the future of the University which he had borne so long. Oh, heavy, heavy burden! Oh! happy, happy rest!

One who was with him when he died says that he went off like a bird. Ah! at last the cage was opened, and the liberated spirit took wing to that summer clime "where everlasting spring abides and never withering flowers."

Brethren, let us pray for the stricken wife and children of the dear departed, who amid the general grief, have a grief peculiarly and profoundly their own; let us pray for the University left without a head in the hour of its uncertainty and transition; let us pray for the Methodist Church, bereaved of one of her most brilliant and most useful sons; let us pray for ourselves, that amid the chances and changes of our mortality, we may ever be prepared for God's will concerning us and ours.

I long for household voices gone,
For vanished smiles I long;
But God hath led my dear ones on,
And He can do no wrong.

And so beside the silent sea
I wait the muffled oar;
No harm from Him can come to me
On ocean or on shore.

I know not where His islands lift
Their fronded palms in air;
I only know I cannot drift
Beyond His love and care.

A Game of Rugby Football at the Association Grounds.

On Saturday afternoon the Peterboroughs played the Upper Canada College team a game of Rugby football on the P. A. A. A. Grounds. The Upper Canadas appeared in dark blue and white suits, and the Peterboroughs in Association colors. The thirty fine, athletic looking fellows left the dressing rooms at a few minutes to three, and took their places on the field in the following order:—

UPPER CANADAS.
Back
A McLaren
Half Back

Wing Wing
Parsons Pardee, (Capt.) Smart
Quarters
Ferguson G McLaren
Forwards

PETERBOROUGHS.
Forwards

Half Backs

Mr. Harrold Morrow acted as umpire for Peterborough, Mr. D. J. Armour for Toronto, and Mr. Max. Hamilton as referee.

The ball was kicked off by Pardee and sent flying close to the Peterborough goal line. In another second Crocker put it over and a touch down secured. Pardee kicked for the goal, but was too strong. The ball went up and over. Play was commenced again and after of good deal of tugging and scrimmaging Dr. Brennan at last got it under his arm and made a bold run down the field. Several attempts were made to arrest his progress, but all obstacles went down. He crossed the line. Rogers made an unsuccessful kick for goal. For a good while the ball stayed near the U. C.'s goal. Morris had a free kick, nearly sending the ball over, but it was taken out in time and borne up field. The first half of the time was nearly spent, but before time was called the visitors secured another try (unsuccessful) and a rouge.

In the second half of the game the play was interesting and, at times, exciting. The visitors, however, proved by their play to be much superior in alertness, quick play, and team play. In a scrimmage they were nowhere, the Peterboroughs being considerably heavier. The second half was productive of four rouges and a touch and go. in all 14. Peterboroughs try counted 4.

After the game the visitors returned to the Oriental Hotel and at 5.50 departed over the Canadian Pacific railway for home. They were heartily cheered by the Peterboroughs at the depot as they responded with three and a tiger.

ROMAN CATHOLIC CONGRESS.

A Great Gathering to be Held in London Next Summer.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—It is now decided that next summer there shall be held in London a great congress of lay and clerical delegates from all English speaking communities in the world. Preliminary meetings were recently held at which three main subjects for discussion were suggested, namely: The attitude of the Catholic Church toward education in general, whether it is possible to arrange for greater co-operation of the laity in the work of the church, and to consider what steps should be taken for the diffusion of Catholic literature among the masses. Cardinal Newman, Cardinal Manning and a majority of the Catholic hierarchy in England approved the proposal, which is to be submitted to a full meeting of the principal and most influential Catholics. This scheme has been afoot for two years and now seems likely to be realized.

NEGOTIATIONS CONCLUDED.

Conventions Regarding the New Hebrides Islands and the Suez Canal.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—The negotiations for conventions regarding the new Hebrides Islands and the Suez Canal have been concluded, and the convention will be signed tomorrow. The Suez Canal convention provides that the canal shall be kept open in time of war, that no active hostility shall be permitted at either of its approaches, or on its bank within a time to be determined by an international commission, that the belligerent powers shall neither embark nor disembark troops or war material on the canal or on the ports of access, and that if Egypt proves unable to compel respect for the treaty, she will appeal to Turkey, who, in concert with the other powers, will take the necessary measures to enforce obedience. It is reported that Germany, Austria and Russia already approved the Suez Canal convention. The New Hebrides convention confirms the agreement of 1878 and 1883, and provides that any action necessary to maintain order shall devolve upon the English and French men-of-war, and that French shall evacuate the military posts.

The Temps says that in return for the New Hebrides convention England agrees to recognize French sovereignty over the Leeward Island and the Haytain Archipelago. The conventions afford full satisfaction to French interests, while bearing evidence that a good understanding exists between England and France.

THE DIRECT CABLE.

The Work of Transferring the Station from Torbay to Halifax Completed.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 24.—The work of completing the transfer of the United States Direct Cable Station and staff from Torbay to Halifax has been completed Some two hundred miles of new cable has been laid, connecting Halifax with the main cable and with the Massachusetts section. The Direct is the only cable whose station is at Halifax. The cost of the removal is $150,000. The chief object is said to be to give the Direct Cable Company the inside track in securing an Imperial subsidy for laying the projected cable from Halifax to Bermuda. The work of relaying the cable was performed by the cable steamers Minia and Britannia, under the personal supervision of C. W. Lundy, the new traffic manager, of the Direct Cable Company. Mr. Hamilton will be the manager on this side of the Atlantic. The pool of the French and Mackay-Bennet cables has been accomplished, and it is predicted by inside cable circles here that the two pools will soon come to an understanding, and that within four months the cable rate will be advanced to sixty cents a word.

SUPPOSED MURDER.

A Night Watchman Found Dead at Quebec.

QUEBEC, Oct. 24.—What is believed to have been a murder occurred on Saturday night on the river front. It appears that a boatman was passing the wharf of the Saguenay steamers when he noticed a body apparently concealed under the floating wharf. It was afterwards found to be that of Thomas Moran, night watchman in the employ of the Dominion Immigration service, and about the head were several marks of violence, by which it is believed death was inflicted. Blood stains on the wharf revealed the fact that a struggle had taken place, and it is currently stated that Moran had got into a row with some sailors, and that he was killed in the fray and hidden where he was found so as to give time to his murderers to escape by their ship, which left at eleven o'clock. Crown Prosecutor Fitzpatrick has left to meet the ship at New Carlisle, for the purpose of making enquiry among the crew. An inquest is being held to-day.

Fatal Railway Accident.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 24.—On Saturday morning a large freight train coming into Qu'Appelle broke in two, and the loose cars struck the engine and crushed it. The fireman, Stonehouse, was killed almost instantly. He belonged to St. Thomas, and the body was shipped there last night.

FROM KANSAS TO MONTREAL.

A Man Follows his Eloping Wife and Takes her Home Repentant.

MONTREAL, Oct. 24.—Mr. Yolman, a rich founder of Kansas city, arrived in this city after his fugitive wife, who had eloped with a handsome young travelling ticket agent of the Chicago and Rock Island Railway. The faithless lady is about twenty years his junior and eloped about a week ago. They were traced to Chicago, Toronto and Ottawa and thence to Montreal. Here with the aid of Detective Kellert they were traced to a boarding house on St. Antoine street and the pair were confronted with the indignant husband, who, however, on seeing his wife's tears relented and said: "Bella, if you only ask my pardon I will forgive you and take you home." She burst into tears and pleaded for mercy. Her late lover beat a hasty retreat. Yolman took his wife to his heart again and left by the western train last night.

AWFUL HOLOCAUST.

Three Persons Burned to Death in a New Brunswick Town.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 24.—At Clearwater, N.B., during the hurricane of Friday night, the dwelling of a family named Greer caught fire, and the widowed mother, aged 50, her son William, aged 24, and an adopted daughter, aged nine years, were cremated. John Greer, who escaped the holocaust, says that when the family went to bed there was a fire in the kitchen stove. He was awakened during the night by dense smoke in his room. He roused his brother William and discovered the house ablaze. Both brothers made a rush for the rooms of the mother and sister, but were driven back by the flames. John then jumped out of a window, but William made a second attempt to save his mother, and all three were burned to death. The fire was seen from a lumber camp half a mile distant, and help was soon on hand, but the heat was so intense that they could do nothing but stand off and watch the bodies being cremated.

BEECHER'S CHURCH.

A Young English Clergyman Pleases the Congregation.

BROOKLYN, Oct. 24.—The Rev. Charles A. Berry, of the Queen street Congregational Church, Wolverhampton, England, preached in Plymouth Church yesterday morning and evening, and, from all indications, pleased the congregation more than any one who has filled the pulpit since Mr. Beecher's death. Mr. Berry is a young man about 37 years of age. He is of medium height, well knit, and wears a closely cropped brown beard and moustache. His features are good and he wears his hair brushed back from a high, well shaped forehead. His manner is quiet, his voice musical and cultivated, and the general impression that he gives is that of a man of broad views with a large amount of reserve force at his command. There was not a trace of the theatrical in his delivery and his eloquence was of a simple unaffected kind. After the services Dr. Rossiter R. Raymond said: "This is the strongest man we have had yet. He has more of Mr. Beecher's broad, catholic spirit and more of his characteristics than anyone who has preached since his death. He may be the coming man and how strange it will be if it should be so. Unknown to all of us, but introduced by Mr. Beecher himself." Mr. J. T. Howard, the senior deacon of the church, said: "He is quite a revelation to me. He is the most likely man we have heard yet."

SIR WILFRED BLUNT ARRESTED

Great Excitement Caused in Dublin—Nationalists Gratified.

DUBLIN, Oct 24.—The news of the arrest of Sir Wilfred Blunt caused the greatest excitement in this city. A feeling of intense gratification prevails among the Nationalists. Mr. Harrington last night said he did not believe Sir Wilfred Blunt would be detained or prosecuted, but he added, "It will do good, and I should not wonder if we hear more of it." Mr. William O'Brien was paying a visit to Mr. Dillon when the news of Sir Wilfred Blunt's arrest was received. Both gentlemen expressed great concern for the personal inconvenience to which Sir Wilfred would be subjected, but could not conceal their gratification at the turn events had taken. The interest was intensified when it became known that the telegraph wires between Portumna and Woodford had been cut and the service suspended for several hours. The greatest activity prevailed at Dublin Castle, communications being constantly sent and received. Sir Wilfred Blunt's letter to Magistrate Byrne guaranteed moderate language on the part of the speaker. He warned the Magistrate that he would hold him responsible if he attacked an unarmed and orderly meeting. Over thirty persons were more or less seriously injured at Woodford. The feeling against the police runs very high. It is stated that in many instances they had recourse to unnecessary brutality.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The Standard says: "Sir Wilfred Blunt has unintentionally done good service for the Government, by showing English fomenters of disturbance in Ireland that they are to be treated exactly the same as native agitaters." Says the Standard: "We are bound to admit that but have escaped scot free. The police merely stopped the meeting."

The Daily News says in reference to the arrest of Sir Wilfred Blunt: "The conduct of the Government was absolutely lawless, the meeting at woodford having been called by the English Home Rule Association."

A Terrible Confession.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 24.—Hattie Woolstein made a full confession last night concerning the murder of Dr. Harlan, which has been wrapped in mystery. On the 5th instant she was out riding with the doctor. They came to a deserted orchard on the outskirts of the city. He threatened to leave her and go to Colorado. She thereupon shot him dead, drove on to the barn, removed the body to the inside, then set fire to the place. She watched the building burn to the ground.

THE IRON AND STEEL INSTITUTE.

Growing Dissatisfaction in Great Britain With One-sided Free Trade.

The annual autumn meeting of the Iron and Steel Institute was held lately at Owen College, Manchester. The following extract from the report of the Birmingham Post affords another proof of the growing discontent with so-called free trade:—

The President, Mr. Daniel Adamson, in his address, said that since their last meeting in May of this year the commercial aspect had looked somewhat more cheerful; but before trade could become fairly and reasonably remunerative to the capitalist and owner of the works, a further considerable improvement would have to take place. As to how that was to be brought about he was afraid no strong evidence existed, unless they placed their hopes on a further development of railways in India, with a new extended application in Burmah and China. But supposing such did take place in the near future, England must still be under great disadvantages by the relative trading position which she occupied when compared with the larger States of Europe and America. To illustrate that, let them work out in detail a single transaction—say the purchase of a thousand tons of iron or steel girders at Middlesbrough, either to be used near there or delivered at Manchester, and compare it with the purchase by the same merchant of a thousand tons of Belgian girder iron and steel for importation into London or Manchester. The whole transaction, when reduced to figures, came out to the great disadvantage of the English dealer or manufacturer, who was compelled to pay a considerable sum in the way of taxation, from which his foreign competitor was entirely free. So long as Englishmen were content to tax themselves for the benefit of the foreign producer, and pay all the costs incidental to the carrying on of the Government, thus enabling the foreign merchant to import or manufacture ores at a greater profit than he could realise by purchasing at home, so long would our great trade remain depressed, and our foreign competitors rejoice at our want of foresight. The oppression at the local or home manufactory operated in every direction against the prosperity of the country. The same argument would apply to all manufactured goods imported free, and it was a question for serious consideration whether a more accurate adjustment of the commerce of the country was not only practicable, but in reality an indispensable condition. In what way a fair balance could be struck was a question more for the Legislature than for the Iron and Steel Institute, and he would only remark that the interests of the merchant and the manufacturer did not lie in parallel lines. Under present conditions he who did least got the largest amount of profit, while he who did most might be said practically to receive little or none—a state of affairs that was neither agreeable nor desirable, and the sooner it was rectified the better it would be for the staple trade they represented. Looking at the matter all round, it did not appear to him to be a just arrangement for Englishmen to pay the cost of carrying on the Government of the country for the benefit of our neighbors on the continent, and our friends in America. (Cheers).

DEATH BY STARVATION.

The Awful Destitution of School Children in Vienna.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—A Vienna despatch to the World says: Inquiry recently instituted into the condition of the Vienna poor attending the elementary schools resulted in appalling disclosures. Upward of 4,000 children were suffering the pangs of hunger, some of them being on the verge of starvation. A long list of heartrending cases came to light and no doubt was left that not a few of the unfortunate little ones had died. Their emaciated appearance amply testified to the veracity of the statements extracted from them, which revealed a condition of hopeless destitution unprecedented in the pauper records of this people. It transpired that their principal food consisted of dry bread and occasionally a little soup or coffee. One boy stated that his father was a good man; and that, when he could not give him anything to eat, let him drink as much gin as he liked, and this was why he often went to school drunk. The parents of these starving children are for the most part day labourers, though some belong to a less respectable class. Subscriptions were opened at the offices of the Metropolitan press and seldom has an appeal to public charity been more readily and more generously responded to. The newspapers are full of advertisements from people who offer to give one or two children their daily food. All the hotel and resturant keepers are feeding a certain number of the hungry children.

Fire At Rideau Hall.

OTTAWA, Oct. 24.—A fire was discovered at Government house yesterday afternoon in his Excellencies sitting room, by a footman, who immediately gave the alarm. The household quickly responded, and the flames were speedily extinguished without calling the brigade. The curtains, drapery and furniture were all destroyed, and what threatened to be a serious conflagration was happily prevented. Had it not been for the timely discovery a serious fire would have occurred.

Censuring Governor Campbell.

TORONTO, Oct. 24.—At a meeting of Orange Lodge No. 275, Toronto, the following resolution was passed: "That this lodge expresses its strong disapprobation of the recent reception and entertainment of Cardinal Taschereau at Government house and his reception thereat in his official capacity of a Cardinal of the Roman Catholic Church."

Massacred by Natives.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 24. News was received here to-day stating that the Spanish soldiers who took possession of Ponape, one of the Caroline Islands, recently and garrisoned a fort there, were massacred by natives. Fifty soldiers and six priests were the victims.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

NO EXCESSES COMMITTED.

BERLIN, Oct. 24.—The North German Gazette, referring to the Samoan advices published in a New York newspaper on the 10th October, denies that any excesses were committed by the German troops in Samoa. The conduct of the Germans, says the Gazette, occasioned no complaints.

REDUCED RENT OFFERED.

DUBLIN, Oct. 24.—Mr. Ponsonby, after negotiations with Father Keller, has offered his tenants a reduction of 35 per cent., and the cancellation of their arrears, provided they pay 18 months' rent. They will probably accept.

AN IRISH MURDER.

DUBLIN, Oct. 24.—A man belonging to Monaghan, returning home from the fair at Black Lion, County Cavan, was attacked by a party of men yesterday, and beaten to death. One arrest has been made.

CULPABLE NEGLIGENCE.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—The testimony developed at the inquest into the great loss of life attending the burning of the Opera Comique and the nature of the indictment against M. Carvalho, the manager, and other officials, have just been published through alleged journalistic indiscretion. The evidence taken indicates almost incredible carelessness and want of system in the management of the theatre. M. Carvalho gives a version of the cause of the disaster which, he claims, will exculpate him from blame.

THE PARIS EMBASSY.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The Telegraph's correspondent at Paris asserts that Lord Lyons, the British Ambassador to France, asked Lord Salisbury for permission to retire but as the latter's request consented to remain in office till the end of the year.

LADY BRASSEY'S END.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—It is stated that the death of Lady Brassey, which was reported several days ago, was most tragic. Maddened by fever she jumped overboard from the yacht and her husband, who quickly dived after her, was with difficulty rescued from sharing the fate of his wife.

A ROYALIST BANQUET.

DORDRECHT, Oct. 24.—The Count of Paris gave a banquet here yesterday. The names of the guests are kept a secret. The hotels are crowded with partisans of the Count.

FRANCE AND THE VATICAN.

ROME, Oct. 24.—Mgr. Rotelli, papal nuncio at Paris, has notified the Vatican of the decision of President Grevy, Premier Rouvier and Foreign Minister Flourens to settle definitely the questions pending between France and the Holy See. The Vatican has addressed a note asking that the French proposals be put in concrete form.

MR. GLADSTONE'S HEALTH.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Despite the alarming reports concerning Mr. Gladstone's health, there is absolutely no cause for apprehension. He is suffering from one of his usual colds, consequent upon exposure to drafts, etc., while travelling, which is somewhat aggravated by hoarseness, resulting from the exertions of his series of speeches; but all reports agree that he is much better, and the indications of his complete recovery within a few days are unmistakable.

DRAFTING OFF TROOPS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 24.—The Sultan evidently feels convinced that there is no immediate danger of war, for His Majesty has given orders that all troops recently massed in European Turkey are to be drafted off to their Anatolian homes.

STANLEY'S PROGRESS.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Private advices from Stanley Pool report that Henry M. Stanley had gone 150 miles further up the Aruwhini, and had sent the steamer Florida back to Stanley Pool for more supplies and men. The natives showed no disposition to molest the expedition, and all were in good health. Stanley was waiting for the return of the Florida before advancing.

CHURCHILL REFERS TO THE ARREST.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Lord Randolph Churchill spoke at Stockton last evening. He said that the Nationalist leaders had made a tool of his friend Sir Wilfred Blunt, who was an impulsive man and knew nothing whatever about Irish affairs. He advised his hearers not to attach too much importance to such collisions, of which more might occur, the object being to make the Government of Ireland impossible, and to alienate electoral support from the Unionist party. Looking at the determination and promptitude with which the Government were now acting, he believed that the League and all the forces of disorder in Ireland would be almost got under by the time Parliament resumed work. Some sentimental people were shocked by these collisions with the police, but in America the people had not become so squeamish, knowing that it was impossible to trifle with lawlessness in a country with large democratic institutions; that, for instance, had Mr. Blaine spoken about the American police as Mr. Gladstone had spoken about the Irish police at Kidderminster, he would probably have been expelled from public life. The Legislatures of New York and other American States were fond of passing resolutions expressing sympathy with the disturbers of order in Ireland, but when similar events occurred at home, the police speedily used clubs and the military rifles.

THE LONDON RIOTERS.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—In the Bow street police court to-day one of the men arrested for creating a disturbance in Westminster Abbey yesterday was arraigned. He gave his name as Geo. Budgett, aged 23, by occupation an ostrich feather cleaner. The charges against him were brawling in Westminster Abbey and assaulting the police. Canon Prothoro, whose sermon was interrupted by the mob which invaded the edifice, testified that the prisoner who had previously been noisy, shouted when the sermon was commenced:—"Surrender half your salary, you —— old ——, for the benefit of the poor." When the police removed him he kicked and struggled and made an uproar. Budgett was fined £5.

Forty Lives Lost.

GUAYMAS, Mex., Oct. 24.—The steamer Newberne, from Mazatlon, has brought full details of the storm along the Sinaloa coast. Over forty lives lost. The damage to property is beyond estimation. The cupola of the Mazatlan observatory was blown to pieces, and all the scientific instruments ruined.

TUESDAY. OCTOBER 25, 1887.

OUR TERRITORY THREATENED.

THE fact that Mr. Evanturel, M. P. P. for Prescott, has been admitted to the secret conference of Provincial Ministers at Quebec, which otherwise is secluded from all outside observation as jealously as the meetings of Nihilists or Anarchists, naturally attracts attention. It unavoidably gives a greater air of probability to the report that a proposition is to be made for the mutilation of this Province by abstracting the Counties of Prescott and Russell from Ontario and annexing them to Quebec.

This is an additional reason, beside the threatened raid upon the Canadian treasury and the avowed attack upon the unity and coherence given by our constitution to the Dominion, why this secret conspiracy should be objectionable. Mr. Mowat and his colleagues have before now shown that above all else they are party politicians—that they would go almost any length to attack the Administration which the people of Canada have entrusted with power. They are not to be trusted, while hiding from the eye of the public, to refrain from making some bargain that would give Messrs. Blake and Laurier a chance of office.

The proposed infringement upon the territory of Ontario will assuredly be resisted. Besides the objection to such a mutilation of our territory, still more objectionable is the reason given for it, since, if once admitted, no limit could be set to the dismemberment of our Province. It is urged that because French Canadians have established themselves in Prescott and Russell till they are very numerous they should be allowed to annex themselves to Quebec. To admit this preposterous claim would be to offer an inducement to the people of Quebec to repeat the process and thus absorb any part of our Province which they might organize to settle. Would they listen for a moment to the suggestion that the Eastern Townships, where English speaking Canadians are numerous, should be allowed to transfer themselves to Ontario or New Brunswick? They would scout the idea.

They cannot even advance the plea of necessity—of compulsion through want of space to expand. There is ample unoccupied territory within the Province of Quebec to accommodate a largely increased population and the consequent demand for land. Besides this, there is the claim of the Province to an extension northward, and though this would have to be determined in a regular constitutional manner, there can be little doubt that the result will be an acquisition of territory, since it is difficult to imagine a reason why Quebec should be bounded by the height of land any more than Ontario.

The people of Quebec have ample territory for settlement without attempting to abstract settled territory from the other Provinces. They are welcome in Ontario, but if they come here it must be to cast in their lot with this Province.

---

THE Port Hope Guide objects to our belief that "if we imported little from any country our exports are apt to be small," and avers that Commercial Annexation would not interfere with our trade with Great Britain. The Guide may fight that out with its friend the Toronto Mail—from which we quoted. The Guide also informs us that we would get better prices for all articles exported to the United States. The chief products of our Canadian farms, and it is to the farmers that the Annexationists chiefly address themselves, fetch better prices in Canada than in the United States, or at least as good. The main exception, barley, is far more than counterbalanced by wheat, so the change of market does not promise much gain to offset the certain loss.

---

BEFORE it attempts to enlighten the public the London Advertiser should study a little law—especially the British North America Act, the written constitution of Canada. It says: "The Governor-General has a double official character—that of Governor-General, guided by the advice of those responsible for the carrying on of the Government, and that of an Imperial officer. The Lieutenant-Governor has no such dual character." Our contemporary is mistaken, for the Lieutenant-Governors appointed by the Dominion have a similar dual character. If Lieutenant-Governor Angers attempted such usurpation in regard to Mr. Mercier as Mr. Letellier did in regard to Mr. de Boucherville, he would soon find that he is a Dominion official.

---

AT last the Toronto Mail admits that the United States manufacturers "are unable to withstand English competition on even terms," just as our manufacturers are unable to withstand United States competition. Why, then, does the Mail call Canadian manufacturers cowards and robbers for demanding protection, while it is clamoring for protection for United States manufacturers not only at home but in Canada. According to the Mail we should join in protecting foreign manufacturers against destructive competition, while leaving Canadian manufacturers to be crushed by this foreign protected competitor.

THE WAR CLOUD BUSTED!

Victory has Perched on the Banner of PETERBOROUGH'S GREAT CHEAPSIDE.

And SHEPPARD, by common consent, will get $1,000 for being the Cheapest Clothier in Peterborough, having knocked the Wonderful Cheap Man completely out. "Business is business; dirt is dirt, and when it comes to throwing dirt, then count" the only original teddy out, and he will hand over that $1,000 like a little man, for the following reasons:—

SHEPPARD sells a full size Man's suit for $2.95, and better goods than a suit to fit a child about nine years old sold by the Wonderful Cheap Man on Saturday for $3.00; but marked $3.50. This is how it was.—A lady purchased a child's suit on Saturday last, Sept. 17th, 1887, at the store of the Wonderful Cheap Man. It was marked thusly:—Lot 5375, Breast 27, Waist 26½, Age 9, Price $3.50. It was pure shoddy being held together by cotton threads, and Sheppard is free to say that that was the dearest suit sold in the Town of Peterborough for the last two years. Full particulars are given because of the $1,000 involved, and, further, that this decides who is selling the Cheapest Clothing in Peterborough. SHEPPARD would have sold that lady a suit, pure wool, for that money, and worth two of the one she got.

$1,000 to Go to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

I had first decided to give the agencies a chance of jumping up my rating that $1,000, but after considering the matter and finding that never in any case have I been asked for an endorser to my paper, and that no relative or any other persons have ever endorsed my paper to the extent of one cent, I have come to the conclusion my credit is as good as yours, and will ask you to hand over the $1,000 to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

Now, Sir, there is a good story told, the truth of which can be vouched for, but for the honor of at least making an effort to keep up your self-styled name—The Terror of High Priced Clothiers—do not allow the same to be said of you in the case above. A man purchased a suit for $15.00 at the store of one of the largest advertisers in that section of country. It was guaranteed pure wool; but after examining it carefully at home, he came to the conclusion that he had been dealing with some one sharper than himself. Finding a make of wool, differing some from anything he had ever seen, it dawned upon him that he had heard of wool of that kind, so the suit was returned. The merchant bet $25.00 that it was all wool, and the bet was accepted, the decision being left to a neighboring merchant. He found that the $15.00 suit was wool faced and shoddy back, pure unadulterated shoddy; but what of the $25.00 bet? was it paid? Not much—muchly—as it were.

ACCORDING to trade statistics with which the Mail favours us, in 1885 and 1886 Great Britain took from Canada goods almost sufficient to pay for her exports to us, while the United States took from Canada goods of less than three quarters of the value of those they sent us, leaving us to settle the deficiency, $27,200,000, by means of cash or indebtedness. The same statistics show that our exports to the United States were reduced by more than three million dollars, to Great Britain by less than half a million. Which is our better customer?

For people to expect a cure for Indigestion, unless they refrain from eating what is unwholesome; but if anything will sharpen the appetite and give tone to the digestive organs, it is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Thousands all over the land testify to the merits of this medicine.

A Confirmed Dyspeptic.

C. Canterbury, of 141 Franklin st., Boston, Mass., writes, that, suffering for years from Indigestion, he was at last induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla and, by its use, was entirely cured.

Mrs. Joseph Aubin, of High street, Holyoke, Mass., suffered for over a year from Dyspepsia, so that she could not eat substantial food, became very weak, and was unable to care for her family. Neither the medicines prescribed by physicians, nor any of the remedies advertised for the cure of Dyspepsia, helped her, until she commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "Three bottles of this medicine," she writes, "cured me."

CHAPTER VII.

THE VICTORY OF TRAFALGAR.

Day followed day, and season followed season. I had been with Lady Campion nearly two years. I had been so long in the great, quiet house, where no footfall was ever heard on the thick carpets, so long with the stately lady who saw everything with blind eyes, that the old life seemed quite gone and lost. No more running and singing; and if, as happened sometimes at first, a sense of weariness would fall upon me, madam, who divined everything, would admonish me:

"It is for Will's sake, Pleasance."

And for his dear sake, what labor, what weariness, could not be borne!

We did not stay all the time in the city. Lady Campion had a house at Chertsey, whither for three months in the year we repaired, governess, lessons, and all. There a horse was kept for my own riding, and a groom to protect me. When September vanished, and the leaves were yellow, we left Chertsey and drove back to our city house, in a carriage almost as grand as that of the lord mayor.

No letter from Will all this time; not one line.

We kept up the deceitful correspondence between Will and his mother. What travels we contrived for him! What adventures John Huntspill and I imitated from books, or invented out of our own head! What hair breadth escapes! What romantic incidents! Madam had no suspicion. She watched for the arrival of the letters; she had them read and reread to her; she learned them all by heart; she quoted them as admirable specimens of the best modern style; she dated events from incidents in the letters.

They were all victorious in those days. Surely there was never a time when a nation was so brave as in the time of that long war. There was no note of hesitation then—no timid counsels. Girl as I was, I gloried in the spirit of the country, when, with one consent, the nation flew to arms to resist the threatened invasion. Every day after breakfast I read aloud The Morning Post, especially that portion of the paper which gave the naval intelligence.

One morning I read the news of the battle of Trafalgar.

The list of casualties would be published in a few days. John Huntspill and I went about with heavy hearts. He did not dare to meet my eyes, for his Portsmouth correspondent had found out that all four were on board the Victory.

We had illuminations in the city to celebrate the event on the Day of Rejoicing. We drove in state to church to offer up our far from humble offering; we invited guests for a feast of thanksgiving; we sent money for the poor in token of gratitude, and we gave orders that the rejoicings of the house of Campion & Co. should excel in splendor those of every other private house. The front of the house was covered over with a trellis work, on which were fixed thousands of oil lamps of different colors, arranged in patriotic designs. In the center was the lion and unicorn, with the words "God save King George!" Above was the union jack, with the legend "Honor to the glorious dead!" I drew out the plan by madam's instructions. She thought me wanting in enthusiasm and delivered a little speech on the part which should be borne by women in the glory of their country. Above all, she said—her words fell upon me as a bad omen—above all, women must be ready, for the sake of their country, to imperil without a murmur the lives of husbands, lovers or sons.

On the morning of this joyful day John Huntspill, in paying his daily visit to madam, handed me quietly a letter. It was addressed to me—I had seen the writing once before, in the parish register—by the rector of Rousdon. Could it be from Will? I hastened away and tore it open with trembling fingers. It was not from Will. It was from Dan Gulliver, and it was the saddest letter that ever a girl received.

"My Dear Pretty" (said poor old Dan)—"We have made the port of Portsmouth, with the admiral aboard in his coffin. Jephthah was killed in the action with a round shot, which cut him in two pieces. My poor, pretty Pleasance! don't cry too much, but Mr. Campion fell overboard on the way home, and is consequently drowned. This is bad news for you, I am afraid, and for me too. Job sends his love, and he says he is alive, and he wishes it had been him. Your affectionate Dan Gulliver."

That is the news which greeted me on the day of illumination for the victory of Trafalgar.

My governess came to me. I sent her away with some excuse and sat down by myself, saying over and over again, so that I should be able to feel the whole bitterness of despair: "Will is drowned! Will is drowned! We shall never see him again!"

John Huntspill came in search of me. He saw by my face what had happened. He took the letter from my fingers and read it. "Poor Pleasance!" he said. "Poor, poor child!"

I think he must have sat with me all that morning. I know he talked from time to time, but I forget what he said. Presently I began to understand something. "We must not let madam know," he repeated. "She must never know. We will prepare a letter from—from her son"—he paused, and for a moment his voice broke—"stating that he is going on some expedition up the country; and then no more letters at all will come afterward and you will mourn together—you and his mother. But she must never know her son's real end."

Had I had my will I would have gone straight to madam and told her all. But it seemed more merciful that she should be spared the details, which he wished his mother never to know.

"For his sake, Pleasance," urged John Huntspill, "for his sake be brave; keep your heart before her. Let not my lady's pride, as well as her heart, be broken. She must never know. For his sake she must never know."

He would not leave me till I promised that I would do my best. During the rejoicings I too would seem to rejoice.

Oh, heavy day! Oh, day which seemed as if it would never pass! At 1 I was called to luncheon with madam. She was in excellent spirits, happier than I had ever known her. Presently she asked sharply: "What is the matter, Pleasance? You are crying."

"I was thinking, madam," I sobbed, "of the brave fellows who are killed."

"Yes, but there is a time to mourn and a time to rejoice. You were thinking, my child, of my son." I did not answer. "Come to me, Pleasance." She was sitting after luncheon in her arm chair beside the window. "Come to me."

I knelt at her feet and buried my head in her lap.

"He is a long time away, is he not? But I write to my son and tell him about you, child. When I wrote him last I sent him word that I would not oppose his desire. Yes, Pleasance, I have watched you more narrowly than you know. You will make my son happy. Take my blessing, my dear."

She laid her hand upon my head solemnly. Ah, if she knew—if she only knew!

In the evening, at 5:30, we had a great dinner, which lasted until 9:30, and then we all sallied forth, including madam, into the street, protected by a body guard of the house's porters armed with stout cudgels. The streets were full of people, shouting, fighting and drinking. If they passed a house without illumination they broke the windows. Should we never finish? I thought.

Midnight came at length, and the boat, with the sailors, came back to the square. The puncheon of rum was rolled into the square; there was more shouting, more fighting, until the contents were all gone. We were at the open window, looking on. At last the rum was all drunk up, the mob dispersed, the oil lamps went out one by one and we were able to go to bed.

"Good night, my daughter," said madam, as she retired, exulting and happy, to her room. It was the first time she had called me her daughter. Oh, the bitterness! that such a day of death and bereavement should be chosen for this act of grace and kindness!

This torture endured for a fortnight. Then the end came, in a way which we little expected and had not guarded against.

It was in the forenoon, about 11:30, before John Huntspill had left madam, and before the arrival of my singing master, who was due at 12. I was alone in my own room, free for a moment from tutors, governess, and my lady—free to think of the past, my only solace. My own maid—she was the only one in the house who knew that I had some secret sorrow—came to tell me that there was a sailor, an old sailor in the hall who wished to see me. Who could it be but Dan Gulliver?

It was indeed old Dan himself. He came up stairs in his slow and quiet way. I saw him before he saw me. He was dressed like a common sailor; his hair was grayer and his dear old face graver; there was no other change.

He stood in the doorway. He actually did not recognize me.

"Dan!" I cried, springing into his arms.

"Dan! Don't you know me?"

ZION.

Personal.—Mrs. William Rutherford is visiting friends in Trenton. Mr. and Mrs. Nivyan, of Midland, and Miss Minnie Roberts, of Cobourg, are the guests of Mr. John Kindred. Mr. Patterson, of Norwood, and Miss Wood, of South Monaghan, paid a flying visit to Zion. They were the guests of Mr. Edward Emmerson. Mr. Stuart Dickson, of Portage la Prairie, Manitoba, is visiting friends here. Evidently bachelor life does not agree with him in the Prairie Province, as he intends forming a co-partnership with one of Peterborough's fair daughters. We wish Stuart and his beautiful bride many long years of happiness and prosperity in the far west.

REVIEWS.

The Irish Problem.—Under the non-de-plume of "A Citizen of the Empire," Mr. O. A. Howland contributes to the discussion of "The Irish Problem." Mr. Howland not only deals with his more immediate subject in an intelligent manner, but he also makes important suggestions in regard to Parliamentary government in general. Whether agreeing with the writer or not the thoughtful reader will find in this little work much material for reflection and valuable hints for consideration. The Ontario publishers are the Toronto News Company.

Commercial Union.—A pamphlet entitled "Commercial Union, a study, by a Quebec Liberal," lies before us. In it the writer ably discusses many points as to the proposed Commercial Annexation to the United States, and shows the fallacy of the arguments of its advocates. He dwells especially and with great force upon the financial aspect of the question, showing that by the necessary loss of revenue we would be driven to heavy direct taxation.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

Its Value Acknowledged—United States Opposition to the Work.

The Barrie Northern Advance has the following remark in connection to the Trent Valley Canal:—

"It is a pleasing fact that the great value of the Trent Valley Canal is beginning to be seen as the resources of the great North-West are in process of development. We hope and believe that the Government will make larger grants now and push the work on to completion."

After quoting the announcement by the Department to Mr. Stevenson, M. P., our contemporary proceeds:—

"In view of the fact that there is every prospect of the work being pushed on, and as it would be to a certain extent a rival of the Erie Canal, the Mail as a Wiman-Butterworth-annexation sheet has commenced a crusade against this great work, magnifying the difficulties and amplifying the expense."

The Northern Advance quotes from the attack made by the Toronto Mail, and then continues:—

"As in the case of the C. P. R. everything that could be done by paid agents of the United States to obstruct, retard, and if possible prevent, the building of that road, so now the Mail as a paid agent of Yankee speculators, is trying its best to throw difficulties in the way of the speedy completion of this important water-way. It will, we have no doubt, be pushed to completion at an early day. As the people of this section of country are directly interested in this work, our representative men should see that the route of the canal be not diverted from its natural direction. We hope the commission will be ready to report by the meeting of Parliament, and that a good sum will be placed in the estimates for pushing along the work."

It is useless to attempt the cure of any disorder, if the blood is allowed to remain impure. Neuralgia and rheumatism are traceable to a disordered condition of the blood, and in numberless cases have been cured by taking a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

In Brief, and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Piano Tuning.

Mr. Geo. Gumpricht is in town. Orders may be left at Mr. T. Menzies' or Messrs. Taylor & McDonald's stores. dtf

Battalion.

The 57th Battalion will march to Ashburnham again this evening and drill in the P. A. A. A. grounds.

The S. O. E.

Photographs of Finlay McGregor, who is to appear at the Sons of England concert on Halloween, are on exhibition at McClelland's jewelry store.

Digging.

The town diggers and delvers are busy to-day laying bare the George street sewer between Simcoe street and the REVIEW office. It is to be hoped the cleaning out process will be done as quickly as possible.

The Bertram Banquet.

Several gentlemen from Toronto, Lindsay and other places have intimated their intention to be present at the banquet which will be tendered to Mr. John Bertram this evening, and the attendance will doubtless be large.

Now Open.

Chamberlain's oyster parlor is now open for the season. Oysters will be served at all hours in styles to suit the tastes of our patrons. After this week shell oysters will be kept constantly on hand. Porter-house steaks, chops, etc., prepared on the shortest notice. d69-tf

Fire.

At seven o'clock on Sunday evening a fire broke out in the supply store kept by Mr. T. H. Brophy at Burleigh, and before anything could be done it gained so much headway as to prevent its being checked. The place was burned, together with all the contents, except the books in the safe. A sum in silver amounting to about $150 was destroyed.

Dr. Nelles' Successor.

A meeting will be held at Victoria University two weeks from to-day for the purpose of electing a President for Victoria University, to fill the vacancy made by the death of Dr. Nelles. It is probable that Dr. Burwash, Professor of Theology, will be elected. If he is, a member of the faculty will be required to take part of, or the whole of, Dr. Burwash's present duties.

Manufacturing.

The Canadian Manufacturer, in its last issue, mildly censures local papers for not being more explicit when reporting anything referring to the establishment of new industries; and says that local papers would be of greater value if they would give fuller details. But, in the first place, it is not always possible to do so, and, the next place, it is not always expedient. Giving these full details prematurely sometimes loses a town a valuable industry which it otherwise would have secured. The REVIEW is indebted to the Manufacturer for giving further publicity to paragraphs contained in the former referring to the Lock Works, Mr. Hamilton's foundry and the Lindsay-Seldon furniture factory.

Personal.

General Lindsay, formerly of the Saved Army, has resined his position and is now engaged here in the insurance business.

Mr. W. H. Hill has returned to town. He has been absent on business for two weeks, visiting Quebec, from which place he went to his home at Inverness, Megantic. From Quebec he went to Montreal, where he was acceped at the head office of the Sun Life Insurance Company for some days.

Mr. J. D. Collins and Mrs. Collins have returned home from a trip to England, Ireland and Scotland.

Mr. Edward Blake, of Toronto, is registered at the Grand Central Hotel. He is not the Edward.

JAS. MONTGOMERY ACQUITTED.

No Evidence of His Having Acted as a "Fence."

Jas. Montgomery was brought before the court to have his preliminery trial, being charged with having received stolen goods, well knowing the same to have been stolen.

JAS. COPELAND, of Buckhorn, was sworn. He said that Mrs. Montgomery came to him and asked him for his rig, saying that her son, Gus, wanted to go up to Harvey to collect some money he had earned from Mr. Waram. Gus got the rig and left his place. It was brought back at night. When he got up in the morning the horse was in the stable. He had no conversation with Jas. Montgomery.

AGUSTUS MONTGOMERY, one of the prisoners, testified that after he and the Windovers' stole the pork they took it to a swamp After leaving it there for some time he took part of it home. He brought it at night and threw it on the floor. In the morning he took it upstairs. His father asked how it came there. He said he fetched it. His father said nothing further.

ELIJAH WINDOVER was sworn. He knew nothing of the pork after leaving it in the swamp. He signed his name "Lige" to the evidence.

Thos. Harvey and Ephriam Windover were both sworn, but they knew nothing of the pork after it was deposited in the depths of the swamp.

Mr. EDWARDS, who conducted the case for the prosecution, submitted that there was ample evidence for the prisoner being placed on trial. Property that was proved to have been stolen was found in his house, and this fact alone would be sufficient to have him placed on his defence.

The MAGISTRATE said that if the charge were for larceny it would be sufficient.

Mr. EDWARDS applied to have the information amended so that the prisoner might be put on trial on the charge of larceny.

The MAGISTRATE pointed out that the evidence all went to show that the prisoner had no part in the larceny. He might not, either, have been cognizant of the pork being stolen property. He may have thought that his son had received it for wages. When he had found out of the theft he advised the boys to make a clean breast of it. So that, as far as the evidence went, it was in his favor.

The MAGISTRATE—Montgomery, you are discharged. I think you may congratulate yourself on your discharge for I have given you the benefit of every doubt, I hope—

MONTGOMERY—The boys have told a straight story, sir, everyone of them.

The MAGISTRATE—I hope you will use your influence when they get out—

MONTGOMERY—I always have, sir.

The MAGISTRATE—I hope you will use your influence with the boys to make men of them. Encourage them to some useful work. They have not been doing any hard work. They have long nails, everyone of them. Try to make them honest men when they come home to you.

POLICE COURT.

A COW.

TUESDAY, Oct. 25.—Andrew Moffat was charged by P. C. Adams with having allowed his cow to run at large. Evidence was given by the man whose garden the cow had devestated that the bovine was the property of Mr. Moffat. It was submitted, however, that the cow had broken loose from her mooring in the pasture field and was out on an excursion without the knowledge of the owner.

The MAGISTRATE said that the gentleman whose garden was devastated had a right to impound the cow, but under the cow by-law a fine could not be imposed. The by-law required either negligence in taking care of the cow or the intention to allow her to roam to be proved before a fine could be imposed. Cows might be impounded, however, at any time they were found on the streets if not accompanied by a caretaker.

House Burned.

At a quarter to six o'clock this morning the Fire Brigade was called out, their services being required at a blaze on Simcoe street. It had started in a woodshed at the rear of Mr. Alex. Gibson's house, and before the alarm was sounded had gained ingress to the house. The firemen were promptly on hand, but on account of the excavations along Simcoe street, the hose waggon was delayed. The water was turned on and the house was saved, though it was damaged considerably. The loss will be about $500, which is fully covered by insurance at Mr. Cluxton's agency.

What May be Looked For.

—The "sojers" teeth to chatter at drill to-night.
—People to cast of light overcoats and to don heavy ones.
—Wild geese on the wing south.
—Mr. Bertram to be honoured to-night.
—Montgomery to be satisfied with the judgment.
—Findlay McGreggor.
—The Fall Assizes.
—More snow.

Arrived.

The beautiful new uniforms for the members of Canton Peterborough No. 10, have arrived and are at Habilliment Hall, awaiting their owners. Capt. Morgan, representing the Armstrong furnishing house, Windsor, is here to see that everything is satisfactory in connection with the uniforms.

Holloway's Corn Cure destroys all kinds of corns and warts, root and branch, who then would endure them with such a cheap and effectual remedy within reach?

VESSEL SUNK.

Foundering of a Barge off Port Dalhousie—No Trace of the Crew.

PORT DALHOUSIE, Oct. 24—The barge Oriental went down about two miles off this port about 2 o'clock this morning, and it is feared all hands were lost. The Oriental left Charlotte on Saturday night in tow of the propellor Scotia, bound for Toronto with seven hundred tons of coal The weather being bad the captain of the Scotia tried to reach here, but was not able to do so, and then tried to get into Niagara. Shortly after turning round the tow line parted, and it was with the utmost difficulty the Scotia managed to get into Niagara. It is supposed that the straining of the Oriental in the heavy sea opened her seams, causing her to fill and sink. Captain Fraser, of the Scotia, accompanied by his purser, has driven from Niagara to this port to-day searching for any signs of the Oriental's yawl or crew, but found not traces of them, and it is feared the entire crew were lost. The crew consisted of Captain George Stewart, of Port Dalhousie; Edward Stark, of South Bay, mate; Charles Baker and Herbert Storey, both of Kingston, and Minnie Herbert, of Kingston, cook. The spars of the sunken vessel are above water and plainly visible from here and she appears to by lying on an even keel. The Oriental was owned by Captain Samuel Fraser, of Kingston, and was not insured.

ANOTHER SCANDAL.

Sir Home Seton Gordon Charged With Ruining a Young Girl.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The latest scandal, which has been whispered for some time in the clubs and has now been made public, affects Sir Home Seton Gordon. He is charged with having enticed from her parents and ruined a girl 13 years old, and is now a fugitive from justice. The sworn details of the case, furnished by the girl and her father, are most revolting, and not the slightest excuse or palliation for the offence can be offered. The crime was deliberately planned and carried out by the Baronet, who took the child, a tall girl for her years, in his own family brougham to a disreputable house in Pimlico. A warrant for his arrest was issued by Mr. Curtis Barrett, the Magistrate at the Westminster Police Court, but the Baronet had been warned and had left the country. An extradition warrant was privately obtained on last Saturday through Mr. Partridge, another magistrate, and this has been handed for execution to Detective Inspector Lansdowne, one of the most able men in Scotland Yard. Mr. J. B. Grain, a clever barrister, is watching the interests of the Baronet, who is supposed to be now in Paris, and who is not able to be caught. An attempt has been made to hush the matter up and to have the warrant withdrawn, but the effort has not been successful. The warrant, which is issued under the new Criminal Law Amendment Act, cannot be withdrawn without the consent of the court, which is not likely to be obtained.

McGarigle in Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Oct. 24.—On Thursday last Captain Irving of the schooner Edward Blake, which brought boodler McGarigle away from Chicago, arrived in this city accompained by a stranger who registered as J. C. Dunn, of St. Catharines The stranger resembles the photographs of McGarigle and is believed to be the Chicago boodler. He left the hotel yesterday and is supposed to be with friends in the city. Captain Irving denies that the man is McGarigle and says he comes from New York.

A N M, P. ARRESTED.

DUBLIN, Oct. 24.—Mr. Thomas J. Condon, member of Parliament for East Tipperary and a prominent member of the National League, was arrested at Mitchellstown to-day for emtimidating a witness.

WIMAN DUPLICITY.

Mr. Wiman found himself constrained to tickle the American ear again in his Cincinnati speech. According to the Enquirer's report he said that "the Canadians do not like the sound of 'annexation, but they do want assimilation, which sounds better." This unscrupulous adventuer manipulates words as he does dollars. He palters with the truth as he paltors with his nationality. No matter to him what words mean so long as they sound pleasantly to the ear and come trippingly from the tongue. The Montreal Telegraph shareholders discovered this fact long ago. His trail through Canada is strewn with false promises, equivocations and broken pledges. And this is the man who proposes to bring Canada to increased prosperity through righteousness.—Toronto World!

Give them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air-passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain

LADIES! you will find TURNBULL'S the right house to buy yarns of all shades at Right Prices.

Five Feet of Gravel.

At the place where the men are excavating to reach the sewer on George street the first stratum is gravel, and it is about five feet deep. It was all drawn there and built up during successive years. The waterway at one side of the old street is uncovered at about the same distance down.

Meeting.

A meeting of the Temperance Society in connection with St. Peter's Cathedral congregation will be held this evening for the purpose of the election of officers and the adoption of the constitution and bylaws. The Bishop will be present.

Croup and Throat and Lung Troubles are treated successfully with Allen's Lung Balsam

The Secret Conference.

QUEBEC, Oct. 24—The Inter-Provincial Conference sat both morning and afternoon to-day. Its work will not be finished before Wednesday and it may even sit on Thursday. Most of the delegates will attend Mr. Wiman's lecture on Commercial Union on Wednesday night. Mrs. Fielding, wife of the Premier of Nova Scotia, arrived here to-night. Mr. James McShane entertained at dinner to-night Mr. and Mrs. Mowat, Mr. and Mrs. Shehyn and Judge and Madame Caron. All the delegates will attend the citizens' ball to-morrow.

Advice to Mothers.

It relieves the little suffer at once; it produces natural, quiet slee by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button " It is very pleasant to taste. ## CANADIAN FISHERIES.

A SPEECH BY THE CHIEF ENGLISH COMMISSIONER.

Cordial Amity an Earnest Desire—He Repeats that Commercial Union Would Mean Separation.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—A meeting was held at Islington to-day in honor of Joseph Chamberlain. Resolutions were adopted expressing satisfaction at his appointment to the Fisheries Commission, and the trust that he would be successful in his announced intention to promote harmony and good will between the United States and England.

Mr. Chamberlain replied that he appreciated this reference to the honorable and important mission upon which he would embark in the course of a few days. He was well aware that the task was full of difficulty. The question was a complicated one and involved enormous interests. (Cries of "hear, hear.") On several occasions during the present century it had gone far toward endangering the amicable relations existing between the two great branches of the Anglo-Saxon race, whose cordial amity must be the earnest desire of every friend of peace and civilization. (Cheers). Unfortunately the difficulties in his way were not those inherent in the case or directly involved in the issue to be decided.

They all had seen a telegram stating that Irish Americans would do all in their power to mar his mission and would be able to prevent its success. The source of this statement might be tainted, yet it represented the undoubted fact that Irish Americans were ready to use every effort to prevent a settlement.

There had never been a time during the last thirty years when the Irish in America had not been willing to use the privileges conceded to them by their adopted country in order to sow dissensions and promote ill-feeling between Great Britain and America. (Hear, hear.) More than once they had shown their readiness to jeopardize the interests of their adopted country in order to avenge real or fancied injuries. He was not sanguine enough to anticipate that on the present occasion they would change their policy, but he was encouraged by the belief that the vast majority of native Americans—(cheers)—and every Englishman and Scotchman in the United Kingdom would regard a fratricidal conflict between the two countries as a crime of the deepest dye. They were earnestly desirous of an amicable and honorable settlement and would not allow it to be jeopardized by party rancor or personal feelings. (Hear, hear.)

This would be his last speech before leaving for America, Mr. Chamberlain declared, so he would refer to another telegram stating that the Toronto Globe had commented upon some words in one of his speeches in Ulster, construing them into an insult to all Canadians. There was great misapprehension of his meaning. What he had said was that there was a part of Canada seeking Commercial Union with the United States, which would practically mean free trade between Canada and the United States, while, at the same time, Canada was to continue to impose protective duties on imports from the Mother Country. Canada was to give preference to every article of manufacture from the United States over manufactures from Great Britain. He had said that if the people of Canada had desired an arrangement of that kind he did not doubt that they would be able to secure it. He did not think anybody in England would attempt to prevent such an arrangement by force, but he had remarked that in that case all the advantages of the slender tie which still bound Canada to England would disappear as far as England was concerned, and it was not likely that the people of Great Britain would continue much longer to sustain the obligations and responsibilities of a relationship all the reciprocal benefits of which had been withdrawn. So he had said that Commercial Union of this kind, if it ever came about, would be the first step towards signal and and practical separation. That was a matter of fact. He could not conceive how any human being with a grain of reason could deem that there was anything wrong in this statement. (Hear. hear.)

In concluding he denounced Gladstone's attacks upon the police in Ireland and the police of London. These attacks, he said, had the effect of promoting a spirit of disorder.

During the latter portion of his speech Mr. Chamberlain was disturbed by a band of music stationed outside the hall, and on departing he was hooted by a large crowd.

THE PANORAMA'S GROWTH

BANVARD'S THREE MILES OF CANVAS AND THE SHOW OF TO-DAY.

The Illusions of the Round House Panorama—Why They are So Effective—Mystery of the Cyclorama—A Battle Scene.

The man who will confess to a recollection of the time when Banvard's "Panorama of the Mississippi" was first unfolded to the admiration of the public may be suspected of being either a married man, to whom youth is no object, or a bachelor so long buffeted on the sea of celibacy that he has no hope of ever reaching port. It was a long time ago, so long that even the multitude of imitations that followed the original Banvard, covering journeys by land, ocean, and river over almost half the globe, have all vanished into the attics and been forgotten. It was reported that there were three miles of canvas in Banvard's panorama. That was probably a managerial fiction; but it is none the less certain that there were a great many yards. It took hours to reel the picture off before the eyes of admiring spectators, and a lecturer with practiced lungs was needed to expatiate on its beauties. But there were not many beauties after all. The Mississippi river, though a long river, runs for the most part through a flat country, and is navigated by flat boats which it may or may not be worth while to try and make picturesque. But the motives of Banvard were patriotic and pecuniary rather than artistic. The biggest river in the world was entitled to the biggest picture, and it was reasonable to suppose that the two attractions combined would bring out the biggest throngs of spectators that ever attended an art exhibition.

However far back in the uncertain past the origin of the fixed panorama may be traced, there is no doubt that the panorama on rollers is a modern conception. There could be little doubt either from the beginning that its career was destined to be brief, for life is too short to paint pictures by the acre that will be good enough to endure. But the idea seems to have been susceptible of development. The cyclorama, called also panorama, now holds the field vacated by its predecessor.

Between the panorama and the cyclorama there is a wide distinction. The former carried you upon a long voyage and showed a succession of scenes, and you were supposed to sail by on the deck of some steamer; but the latter sets you down, or rather sets you up, in the middle of a fixed landscape made memorable by some historical event, and gives a picture of incidents that can be recalled only by the imagination. The cyclorama is an invasion of the field of historical painting, therefore, and must be tested by severer canons of criticism than the panorama.

There are plenty of men who believe in the new form of entertainment, and who seem willing to risk their dollars on its success. Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Paul and Denver have each a battle of Gettysburg; and, in this city, a round house is being erected for the exhibition of a picture of the same event. Washington, much to the third confusion of the Union army, has its Bull Run, St. Louis and Kansas City their Missionary Ridge, San Francisco its Vicksburg, New Orleans its siege of Paris, and Minneapolis its Atlanta. Chicago has also a battle of Shiloh.

At the first view of the spectator the cyclorama seems to be a mystery. It is apparently an absolute reproduction of the scene represented, the objects seeming equal in size with the original objects, and the space covered equally great. A circular building, less than 100 feet in diameter, and not much more than fifty feet in elevation, expands to the dimensions of the space that can be covered by the eye in an open landscape, and reaches upward to the clouds. A portion of the foreground, it is very well known, is composed of real figures and objects; but the illusion upon the painted canvas is so perfect that the painted figures seem hardly less objective than the real figures, and without the most careful scrutiny the dividing line cannot be distinguished. Surely, the spectator thinks, there must be some wonderful secret known only to the painter in this illusion.

But there is probably no secret deeper than the secret which has caused all art to be called a mystery. Shut out the real objects in the foreground from the eye and the distances in the perspective will not be diminished nor the figures on the canvas rendered less strong in their relief. The only service that seems to be rendered by the objective portions of the foreground is to bring the entire landscape to the feet of the spectator and to shut out the intervening space of bare floor or carpet that would otherwise help to break the illusion. He is surrounded by the picture above, below and upon all sides, and is permitted to see no other object. He stands upon a platform that seems to be erected in the very center of the field delineated. This doubtless aids to render the scene more realistic, but it adds nothing to relief or perspective. The great size of the picture, reaching practically from the foot of the platform to the roof, a distance of about 100 feet, is probably the chief cause of the apparently wonderful expansion of space.

The cyclorama will not prove a more enduring form of entertainment than the panorama unless it is produced with a more artistic motive than controlled the production of its predecessor. There is no merit in relief. Save to the extent that it results from perfect modeling, where it is more properly termed roundness than relief, it is not to be regarded as an artistic merit. The means for its attainment are merely mechanical, and they do not enter into the motives that govern the production of really fine art. Then, again, the cyclorama is very restricted in its field and demands a constant succession of artistic anachronisms and the misplacing of incidents to be effective.

Thus far the painters of these pictures have essayed only battle scenes, and it is a field of peculiar hardship. A battle field, represented literally as it looks to the eye, would prove a very tame affair. Notwithstanding all that we hear about personal exposure and heroic deeds, the men intent on glorious feats of arms are generally trying to keep out of sight, hiding in the woods and behind ridges and fences for the purpose, of course, of obscuring their numbers. Except when subjected to the painful necessity of going in on a charge a man may fight all day with hardly a look at the face of an enemy. The line of battle made by great armies is usually four or five miles long, with obstructions of various kinds on the line of sight. It is sometimes the case that one flank of an army has a very desperate fight and wins a victory when the men on the other flank can hardly be convinced that anything more than a little skirmishing had been done. Even the charge is not what the imagination paints it. A thin gray, black, blue or green line of troops, one of the extremities so distant as to be hardly visible, does not cut a very imposing figure running across a half mile of open field against an invisible foe. Only the flashing, smoking batteries on the ridges and hilltops are grand. Particular incidents of a battle are about all that can be painted effectively, and they must all be represented in the foreground.—New York Sun.

FIRE BUGS CAPTURED.

Two Kingston Young Men Plead Guilty to the Charge of Incendiarism.

KINGSTON, Oct. 25.—Alexander W. Newman, aged twenty years, and William Andrews, aged thirty years, were arrested this morning and pleaded guilty before the Police Magistrate of having committed arson. Last night three incendiary fires were started, the most disastrous being at the Salvation Army barracks, which was gutted and nearly $3,000 damage done. The building was insured for $5,500. While the fire was in progress, the police had a suspicion of the two young men, having noticed that on their hats was lime and hayseed, two things that were evidently secured in the barn of one Babcock, which had been fired for hours. The men were spotted, then missed, and at four o'clock this morning they were noticed again. The officers proceeded along the street, found the Third Methodist Church broken into, and fire blazing among books, which were piled near the partition. The fire was stamped out and then the officers waited, and soon footsteps were heard. Newman came tiptoeing to the church door to see how the flames were progressing, and was nabbed. Andrews was captured across the street. At court both men said that they had done the acts while intoxicated. In a private confession Newman says he entered the Salvation Army barracks and fired it, and together they went to the Third Methodist Church and ripped up the pulpit carpet, but the fire would not take. Then they heaped up the books. The public confession of guilt of the men has created great indignation. Sentence will be passed to morrow.

THE CONDEMNED ANARCHISTS.

Their Counsel Hold Out no Hopes that a Writ of Error Will be Granted.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The World's Chicago despatch says that Moses Solomon, one of the counsel for the Anarchists, telegraphed his clients from Washington last evening that there was little hope that a writ of error would be granted by the Supreme Court, and that the whole matter would come back to the State or rest with the Governor. The seven men had a conference as soon as they were liberated, and seemed to feel more depressed than at any time since they were incarcerated. Parsons afterwards admitted to a reporter that Solomon's despatch had almost destroyed their last hope, and they were ready for anything now. Nina Van Zant was present when the news came. Spies told her the contents of the message. "Well, if you die," said Nina, "you will not die alone; I will go into the grave with you." Lingg shed tears, and the wife of Engel, who was present, was almost prostrated by the news.

Banquet Echoes.

Mr. Stevenson in replying to the toast in honor of the Dominion Government told the people that representing a constituency in Parliament was not sinecure he thought it was. If he had only known that it would have given him half the worry and work he would never have gone into it.

When it came to Mr. Cox's turn to speak he said it wasn't his fault that Mr. Stevenson was given so much trouble. (Laughter.) He now had his revenge, but he hoped that Mr. Stevenson would get to enjoy the position.

Mr. Wm. Hamilton said in his address that he told Mr Stevenson he should stay at home, and now he (Mr. Stevenson) could see what good advice it was.

Mr. Geo. Bertram related a story of a certain Peterborough manufacturer who did a large business for the past thirty years, and yet he said that he was losing money every year. He wondered how much capital that manufacturer could have had when commencing business. It most have been enormous.

Mr. Peter Hamilton declared himself against Commercial Union, not because he thought he would not be able to compete with all comers, but because he was confident it would be a bad thing for the country at large.

CANADIAN CHEESE.

Mr. Lathrop, United States Consul at Bristol, makes the following report to Washington, which certainly is very flattering to Canadian cheese producers:

"The import trade of Bristol is largely made up of provisions. In this connection I wish to draw special attention to the way Canadian cheese has supplanted the United States product. The Canadian cheese is imported each year in increasing quantities in the Bristol district, and finds each year increasing favor, both with dealers and consumers. While the import of all foreign cheeses fell off in Liverpool in 1886 by 250,000 boxes, the import in Bristol from Montreal increased by 12,000 boxes—total for year 201,000 boxes—and the receipts from New York fell off considerably. Great Britain manufactures each year 135,000 tons—valued at about $35,000,000. Now, the very prince of English cheese is held to be Cheddar, made in Somerset; and yet Canadian cheese made on the Cheddar principle has actually, right here in Somerset, where I write, been sold for a penny a pound more than a cheese actually made in Cheddar Valley. There is a hot controversy now raging in the English papers as to whether Cheddar cheese is the result of particular herbage and pasturage, or of a particular mode of manipulating the milk; and I think that all but Somersetshire men are pretty well agreed that this toothsome cheese is the result of superior methods rather than of special grasses. And the Canadians have gone on improving until they have surpassed their teachers; but the United States do not appear to have proportionately advanced, or if they have they consumed their best makes at home.

AUSTRALIA ADVANCING.

THE news that a resolution has been carried unanimously in the Victoria Legislature in favour of free trade between all the Australian colonies and protection against all the rest of the world is very gratifying. In the first place it affords strong testimony in favour of the Canadian policy of protecting its home industries, and of the growing belief in protection, while it cannot fail to benefit our Australian fellow countrymen. In the second place it removes the greatest difficulty in the way of Australian federation and is a great advance towards the union of the Australian colonies, which we in Canada must regard as a benefit to themselves and to the British Empire as a whole.

In commenting on this welcome news the Toronto Mail actually claims it as telling in favour of its own agitation for the Commercial Annexation of Canada to the United States, and of its new-born craze for free trade—under a higher tariff. The Australian idea is as different as light from darkness from that of the hireling traitor to its own country. The Australian plan is for drawing closer together the British colonies in the great island-continent, and favouring home industries while not discriminating against the rest of the Empire. The agitation fomented by the Mail and other United Sates agents is for the purpose of disintegrating the Canadian Provinces, favouring foreigners over fellow countrymen, ruining Canadian industries and declaring commercial war by differential duties against British subjects in other parts of the Empire. The two objects stand in strong contrast.

Canada will give its best wishes to Australia in the advance it is thus making towards still greater progress and prosperity. Now, thanks to the enterprize that carried the C.P.R. so triumphantly across this continent and to its maritime connections, we are brought so much closer to our Australasian fellow countrymen as to give us a new interest in their welfare even apart from that which we felt for them as belong to the same great Empire.

CABLE despatches say that Gladstonian papers are blaming Mr. Chamberlain for his truthful statement regarding Commercial Union, and are claiming that it will impede him at Washington. Gladstonian papers should remember that it was the gross neglect of Mr. Gladstone and his colleagues that allowed the Fenian Raids to be excluded from the matters referred to the former Joint Commission by their accepting the restriction to matters during the continuance of the civil war, thus shutting out the Fenian raid damages which happened later. Remembering this the Gladstonian papers might be less critical of others.

IN some editorial remarks on the future of Canada the London Advertiser says that even if separated from the United Kingdom, "Canada is surely as able to take care of herself as Mexico." Perhaps a little more able, but we all know that the United States have "annexed" just as much of Mexico as they coveted, witness California, Texas and New Mexico. The Canadian advocates of annexation will not be able to reconcile the people of the Dominion to absorption by the suggestion that the process should be piecemeal.

THE Globe vainly invited popular demonstrations to "convince the Ottawa Government that their fate depends on evolving unrestricted reciprocity from the Fishery negotiations." There is no fear that the people of Canada will prove themselves so idiotic, but if they were seized with a temporary craze the Ottawa Administration would certainly resign power rather than retain it at the price of insulting the rest of the Empire and surrendering to foreigners at once our territorial rights and our trade.

IT seems that the Friendly Islanders have a local Duncan, a Wesleyan missionary named Baker, who has turned upon the society whose paid agent he was, feathering his own nest and usurping authority over the natives. The Toronto Globe describes the situation but does not praise Baker as it did Duncan, perhaps because it is not actuated by political or denominational antipathies in the Tonga case as it was in the Metlalahtlan affair.

WHAT a dishonest quibble it is to call Commercial Union "unrestricted reciprocity." Its very object is to restrict us to reciprocity with one foreign country and to restrict us from reciprocity with all the rest of the world, including our Mother Country and sister colonies.

WINNIPEG'S OPPORTUNITY.

The sincerity of the Manitoba agitators will now be put to the test. The men who have been urging the Government to build the Red River Valley Railroad in defiance of disallowance are asked to put their hands in their own pockets to supply the Government with the funds required to proceed with the work. They have now the opportunity of proving their faith by their works. Will they stand the test? It will be interesting to observe the readiness with which the loudest of the agitators will respond to the call of the Government.—Montreal Star.

Sixty per cent. of the goods I sell I buy at less than the first cost of manufacture, and hence the reason I can defy any wholesale house in Canada to touch my prices.

I was so weak that I could not sit up, was much emaciated, and coughed incessantly. I consulted several doctors, but they were powerless, and all agreed that I was in Consumption. "They knowed our story aboard the Victory. I was Smuggler Dan. The boys were Smuggler Job and T'other Job—because, I'm sorry to say, they mariners aboard his majesty's ships never knew which was which. And so Jephthah, who is now cut in two pieces, was never knowed as such. And Mr. Campion they called Gentleman Jack. Now remember—some young gentlemen after getting a three years' billet in the fo'ksle for smuggling would ha' sat down and grizzled. Mr. Campion wasn't one o' that sort. 'Providin' always,' he says to me—'providin' always, Dan, as my mother never finds out, why, what odds is a three years' cruise?' And merry with it. Once he ketches hold of a fiddle, the fo'ksle's alive: when he began to play you'd ha' thought the fiddle was talkin' not him a playin'. All round him the men would be sittin' an' singin' till the whole ship was as good tempered as if there wasn't nary a bos'n nor petty officer aboard.

"Well, you may depend on it, pretty, that it wasn't long before the officers got to know what an uncommon sailor they'd got shipped aboard the Victory, for a little run as he'd made across the Channel one fine night; and it wasn't long before Capt. Hardy hisself, finding Mr. Campion on the quarter deck, axed him—ay, before the admiral—who he was and how he came aboard. Mr. Campion, no more afraid of speaking to the captain than to the carpenter, he told him, touching his hat, that he had been caught smuggling; that they'd all got off with three years for the information they gave to the Admiralty, and that he hoped to give satisfaction to his honor so long as he was aboard, after which time, he said, he should give up sailoring before the mast. Capt. Hardy he laughed, and the admiral laughed; and then his lordship, who ought to know, said, in his quiet, easy way, that a man was no worse sailor for being a gentleman born, but that gentlemen ought not to run cargoes across the Channel. After that I think the word was passed down to make some sort of difference with us. Anyway, the worst of the bos'ns never laid rope's end on none of us four.

"Come the action off Trafalgar. My pretty, we done our duty—Job and Jephthah and Mr. Campion and me—till that chain shot came, and all I saw o' my boy Jephthah was two halves and a pool of blood.

"When the admiral fell they told me to carry him down. That took best part of a quarter of an hour. The action lasted half an hour longer. When the firing ceased and one could look round, I saw Mr. Campion alongside of Job, alive and hearty. As for Jephthah, that poor boy was throwed overboard in two halves.

"We had nasty weather on the way home. One of the prizes foundered. And one dark night, in that nasty weather, all in the dark, poor Mr. Campion fell overboard and was drowned."

I listened to the story, my head in my hands. When Dan finished I burst out into fresh sobbing and crying. I forgot about Lady Campion and everything. I never looked up. While Dan told his story I lay hiding my face in the sofa and crying, while the door stood wide open, and madam herself stood there listening to every word, and with her John Huntspill, with white cheeks and troubled brow. I looked up in my grief, but sprang to my feet, terrified by the look of madam. She was drawn to her full height, leaning on her stick; her face was perfectly white; her lips trembled; her sightless eyes seemed to pour lightning on poor Dan; she was terrible in her despair and wrath.

"Tell me," she said—"not you, girl; not you—tell me, man, smuggler, sailor, whatever you are, who was this Mr. Campion who fell overboard and was drowned?"

"He was your ladyship's son, and my Pleasance's sweetheart," said Dan, simply.

"And he was a smuggler, too, was he?"

"No, madam, not a smuggler; only once, for a boyish freak, he must needs run across with me for a single venture. And when we were all tried, my lady, at Dorchester Sizes, we got off for three years abroad, 'acause of the news we picked up on our way back."

"Tried!—my son was tried!—with common sailors! He was tried and 'got off'—he was sent to sea!"

"And he is dead," said John Huntspill, in solemn sadness.

"He is dead!" echoed his mother. "And you, girl, knew he was at sea, a common sailor!"

"Alas!" I moaned, "I knew only too well."

"That you concealed from me. Did you know on Illumination Day that my son was dead?"

"I knew that then," I replied.

She was silent for a space. Her eyes were dry and her lips parched. Had she wept one might have had hope.

"All that day," she said, "you gazed upon a rejoicing mother who had lost a son; you, who had lost your lover, rejoiced with the rest."

"Nay, nay!" interposed John Huntspill. "She pretended, to save you. Listen, madam. It was by Mr. William's own wish—nay, command—that you were kept in ignorance of what had happened. I knew; I agreed that it would be better. As no letters came from Mr. William, we wrote letters and pretended they were from him—for his sake; we read them to you for his sake. When the dreadful news came I resolved that we would keep up the deception—for his sake, so that you should never know when and how your son had died."

"Get me my desk, John Huntspill."

He went obediently and brought back her great mahogany desk, in which were Will's pretended letters, all neatly tied up. She opened the desk and found the parcel.

"Take them! Henceforth John Huntspill, you are no longer my confidential friend. I cannot trust you! Trust you! O Heaven! can I trust any one? Is there man, woman or child in this great world that will not lie?"

Poor woman! poor mother! She stood where she had heard the whole, just within the doorway, John Huntspill beside her; before her, Dan Gulliver, amazed, and not knowing what to say or do; and myself overwhelmed with misery.

"We must put some kind of order into our affairs," said madam. "You will send my lawyer to me at once, John Huntspill. Life is precarious, even with the old as well as with the young. I must make new dispositions. And I would be alone—altogether alone—in this house. You will take away the girl. If she wants money, let me know. My son's betrothed must not starve because my son is dead—is dead!" she repeated, with a sad dropping of her voice.

I threw myself at her knees and caught her by the hand.

"Oh, madam! dear madam! forgive me! Say that you forgive me, for Will's sweet sake!"

"Forgive!" she echoed, in a hard voice. "Forgive! what does it mean? I shall not seek to do you harm. You shall have money. What more do you want? You have fooled me and played with me. You have tempted my son to destruction, you and your smuggler friends. My son, who should have been an honor to me, and to this city, like his father before him, has died in disgrace. Forgive you? Yes, I will forgive you—when the sea gives up its dead."

THE NEW NORTHWEST PASSAGE.

A COLLOQUY ON THE CANADIAN SHORE.

Canada. "Westward the course of empire takes its way."
Britannia. The Bishop's famous line, dear, bears to-day
Modified meaning; westward runs indeed
The route of empire,—ours!
Canada. If I succeed
In drawing hither Trade's unfaltering feet
And yours, my triumph then will be complete
Britannia. Across your continent from sea to sea
All is our own, my child, and all is free.
No jealous rivals spy around our path
With watchfulness not far remote from wrath.
The sea-ways are my own, free from of old
To keels adventurous and bosoms bold
Now, from my western cliffs that front the deep
To where the warm Pacific waters sweep
Around Cathay and Zipangu's shore,
My course is clear. What can I wish for more?
To your young enterprise the praise is due.
Canada. The praise and profit I would share with you.
Canadian energy has felt the spur
Of British capital; the flush and stir
Of British patriot blood is in our heart;
Still, I am glad you think I've done my part.
Britannia. Bravely! Yon Arctic wastes no more need slay
My gallant sons. Had Franklin seen this day
He had not slept his last long lonely sleep
Where the chill ice-pack lades the frozen deep
"It can be done; England should do it!" Yes,
That is the thought which urges to success
Our struggling sore-tried heroes. Wagnorn knew
Such inspiration. Many a palsied crew
Painfully creeping through the Arctic night
Have felt it fill their souls like fire and light.
Well, it is done, by men of English strain,
Though in such shape as those who strove in vain
With Boreal cold and darkness never dreamed,
Perpetual challenge.
Canada. Here's your Empire route
A right of way whose value to compute
Will tax the prophets.
Britannia. Links me closer still
With all my wandering sons who tame and till
The world's wild wastes, and throng each paradise
In tropic seas or under southern skies.
See, Halifax, Vancouver, Sydney, set
Fresh steps upon a path whose promise yet
Even ourselves have hardly measured. Lo!
Far China brought within a moon or so
Of tea-devouring London! Here it lies,
The way for men and mails and merchandise,
Striking athwart your sea-dividing sweep
Of land; one iron road from deep to deep!
Well thought, well done!
Canada. No more need you depend
On furtive enemy or doubtful friend.
Your homelands on the deep, and when you come
To the Dominion's land you're still at home.
Britannia. And woe to him the statesman cold or blind,
Of clutching spirit or of chilling mind,
Pedantic prig or purse-string tightening fool,
Who'd check such work and such a spirit cool!
Yours is the praise and may the profit flow
In fullest stream, midst your Canadian snow
A true Pactolus. Trade's prolific fruit
Should freely flourish on our Empire route.
—Punch.

INJURY TO CANADA.

Halifax, St. John and Montreal would lose in wealth and importance as ports of entry; the large mercantile importing houses of Montreal and other cities would be to a greater or lesser degree demoralized; the monetary institutions that back these houses would be to a considerable extent crippled; those wholesale houses no longer able to deal in British importations would have to turn to American manufacturers for their supplies; in payment of these supplies all drafts would be made on New York. Montreal would cease to be, and New York would become the great banking centre of Canadian commerce. It is needless to quote authorities in support of the statement that the great mass of agriculturists, traders, mechanics and labourers, constitute the body of a nation while the monetary institutions and the large mercantile and manufacturing concerns are the vitals. Injure the vitals and you inflict a proportionate injury on the body; destroy the virals and you destroy the body. This is a feature of the negative side of Commercial Union that we would like to see meet.—Mitchell Recorder (Reform)

Purchase of Cattle.

A special despatch from London, Eng., to the Globe says:—"In addition to his former shipment Mr. John Dryden, who sails in the Carthagenian, has left Glasgow with a large draft of shorthorns. Various other breeders in Canada are purchasers, including Mr. Johnson, of Greenwood, Mr. Russell, of Richmond Hill, Mr. Redmond, of Peterborough, and Mr Russell, of Unionville."

The Belleville Intelligencer says:—"The Grand Junction railway has been put in good order, as the Peterborough REVIEW informs us, as a through line for freight, enormous quantities of which will hereafter pass over the road—but, we fear, only to the main line of the Grand Trunk. Otherwise the railway pier here would have been put in good order and the long-promised elevator built."

Mr. John Bertram was honored by the citizens of the town and county of Peterborough on Tuesday evening in the Oriental Hotel at a banquet. About sixty people sat around the tables. The dining room was prettily decorated. On the opposite wall from the entrance was the motto "1862-1887." The device representing a horse shoe, over which was the word "Farewell," hung at the upper end of the room, and at the lower end was "For a Quarter of a Century." Over the entrance were the words, "An Honored Resident."

Mr. Jas. Stevenson, M. P., occupied the chair and Mr. J. R. Stratton, M. P. P., the vice-chair.

Those present were: Messrs. Robt. Jaffray, Toronto; C.D. Barr, of the Canadian Post, D. J. McInryre, Col. Deacon and S. A. McMurtry, Lindsay; T. Blezard, M. P. P., Villiers; W. E. Roxburgh, Norwood; Geo. H. Bertram, Toronto; Hugh Bertram, the guest's father, Dundas; Geo. A. Cox, Wm. Manson, C. McGill, A. Lech, W.W. Johnston, J. H. Roper, W. G. Ferguson, Robt. Innis, J. D. McIlmoyle, Wm. Rudkins, Chas. Cameron, Chas. Stapleton, J. A. Hartley, Wm. Hamilton, Peter Hamilton, Jas. Stratton, J. B. McWilliams, Edward Phelan, John McKee, D. H. Moore, J. J. Hartley, J. W. T. Fairweather, W. A. Stratton, John Moloney, Wm. Lech, A. Rutherford, D. Belleghem, T. Kelly, Chas. Wallis, Geo. Roger, W. H. Moore, D. W. Dumble, J. M. Irwin, Geo. Edmison, J. Nugent, Harry Phelan, T. Dolan, Dr. Bell, Geo. Stevenson, E. D. Gough, V. Best, D. D. Galletly, L. H. Hayes, R. J. Lee, M. J. Tierney, Joseph Griffin and E. E. Henderson, and representatives of the press from Peterborough. The guest of the evening sat at the right of the Chairman.

Communications of regret were received from Sir John A. Macdonald, Hon. Mr. Pardee, Mayor Howland, of Toronto, Melville Millar, Judge Dennistoun, John Lang, M.P., Rev. E. F. Torrance, and others, at their inability to be present at the banquet.

The CHAIRMAN, in proposing the first toast, "The Queen," alluded to Canada's people being contented, prosperous and happy, and to their satisfaction to dwell within Victoria's Dominions and under English law.

The National Anthem was sung.

"The Prince and Princess of Wales and Royal Family" was proposed and duly honored.

The toast, "The Governor-General and Lieutenant-Governor" was proposed and drunk, and the "Maple Leaf Forever" was sung by Mr. D. D. Galletly, with violin and flute obligato.

"The Army and Navy and Canadian Volunteers" was next on the toast list. "The Red, White and Blue" was sung by the company.

Col. DEACON, in reply, referred first to the guest in complimentary terms. In reference to the toast, he said that there were some things in the English service peculiar to itself. One peculiarity was that since they passed the Bill of Rights it was illegal to maintain a standing army, but in order to maintain the Crown in authority and dignity a bill was passed yearly called the Army Service Bill, which gave Parliamentary sanction for the existence of a regular force. Another peculiarity was, that no conscription was allowed. No man was called upon to serve in the army but by his own free will. The speaker then went on to show that the heroic qualities of the British soldier had not waned, making extensive historic quotations to prove this. He spoke of the success of the Canadian militia in their active service in 1866 and in 1885.

Major BELL, in his reply, appealed to the citizens for moral and material support, stating that this was but due them in return for their defence of the country and assistance in upholding law and order.

Lieut. LEE also responded to the toast briefly.

Capt. STAPLETON, of the 3rd Division of Cavalry, returned thanks in a concise manner.

The CHAIRMAN proposed "Our Guest," and in doing so made a speech of considerable length, eulogizing Mr. Bertram in both his public and private capacity. He also read the following address, which was very finely engrossed:—

John Bertram, Esq., ex-M.P.:

DEAR SIR,—On behalf of the people of the town and county of Peterborough, you are welcomed this evening as their guest. Those whom you see around you are assembled on the eve of your departure from this county, to do you honor, and, in so doing, they have reason to feel that they themselves share in the honor of the occasion.

It is considered a privilege to have an opportunity of extending to you in a formal manner an expression of the high esteem in which you are held by all classes of the community.

For a quarter of a century you have been in our midst, and, by virtue of the position you have so efficiently filled in public affairs, have become one of the most prominent men in this district. This fact would, of itself, be scant justification of praise, but occupying, as you have done, a conspicuous position, the object of particular attention on the part of the public, your sterling integrity, public spirit and general excellence of both public and private character, have not only disarmed detraction, but placed you upon an exalted plane of public esteem reached by few men, as a sequence of an active citizenship of twenty-five years.

Such a man it is a pleasure to honor, and the departure of such a man from amongst us creates a keenness of regret, to which any words which might be employed, would serve to give very imperfect expression.

It would hardly be becoming, on the present occasion, to refer with any particular definiteness to your public career; but, while many who now surround you, might not have agreed with you on all public questions, they will doubtless agree in conceding that you discharged the important duties of the public trust in your capacity of representative of the people in Parliament, with an honesty of purpose, and singleness of aim, worthy a patriotic Canadian. As one of our foremost public speakers, whose fluent and incisive eloquence, has been admired and appreciated even by those not in sympathy with the opinions you may have expressed, your removal from us is regretted.

Though your departure makes a wide breach in the ranks of Peterborough citizenship, it is gratifying to believe that this county gives to Toronto a resident worthy of taking a place in the ranks of the leading men of that city, both as regards solidity of personal and commercial character, high principles and intellectual resources.

In conclusion your acceptance is asked, on behalf of the people of Peterborough town and county, of the most cordial assurances of respect and esteem, coupled with the wish that your new home may in time supply you with as many warm friends as you leave behind, and that prosperity may attend you in your business relations and worldly pursuits, and that health and happiness may be the abiding lot of both yourself and of your estimable family.

On behalf of the people of Peterborough town and county,

J. STEVENSON,
Chairman of Committee.
J. R. STRATTON,
Vice-Chairman of Committee.
C. MCGILL,
Secretary of Committee.

Mr. BERTRAM, in reply, expressed his pleasure at being the recipent of such hospitality, and at seeing around the board representatives of all parties and all creeds. Not only were there prominent citizens of the town and county present but those from our sister town of Lindsay and from the neighbouring village of Toronto. He was not vain enough, he said, to accept all that was in the address, but he did accept it as a profound expression of the regard his friends had for him and which he held for them likewise. Twenty-five years of a man's lifetime was a long time, and twenty-five years in the middle of a man's life—from 25 to 50—was the best part of his life. That 25 years he had spent in the good town of Peterborough and he was not sorry for it. He came to this country when a lad, without a single acquaintance and very little money. The first friend he made was Mr. Melville Millar and the second was his friend near him, Mr. W. E. Roxburgh, of Norwood. He then spoke of Peterborough. It had always the reputation of having sharp, shrewd business men. It was now the premier town in Canada. He believed it had more accumulated wealth than any town in Canada. He thought the people here were more lightly taxed than those in any other town in the Dominion. In 1862 it was a bright, smart, stirring place. The principal business men were men of much merit. Many of the old pioneers who founded Peterborough were then alive. He could recall many of the names of those good men—honest and true. He might mention John English as a true type of Peterborough's citizens in the olden time. A fine, decent, honorable man was John English. He was a strong Conservative but a good man for all that. Peterborough of to-day was entirely different from the old town. The old residents were all gone, the old merchants were gone, but their footsteps had been followed by a generation fully as competent as they, and he was glad to be able to pay the younger people this compliment. He hoped the town would never lose her laurels as a busy business place, that it would flourish and continue to prosper. He explained that it was because of an investment he had made had widened and widened that he was drawn away to look after it and as the village of Toronto was more central for him he concluded to locate there. Lumbermen could not always do as they desired. Sometimes they had to go to the backwoods and this was now his position.—(Laughter. He dwelt at length upon the value of toleration and the having respect for other men's opinions and gave some amusing reminiscenses of incidents in former political campaigns. He spoke of the duty of every good citizen to think for himself, and the difficulty of doing so at times. The two leading papers of the Dominion were agitating a question now. It might be said that it was easy to make up our mind when so much infoamation is given. He spoke of the particular interests which Commercial Union would benefit, but on the other hand Canada was like a partner who would not have much interest in the business. Canada would be overborne and out-influenced by much greater wealth and population. She would be obliged to accept any terms the head of the firm chose to dictate. He, as a Canadian, was not prepared to accept that position. (Applause.) Besides, another thing had to be taken into account. A large number of factories had been called into existence by the new policy of the Government and it was the duty of the people to guard those vested interests. He again referred to his friends and their treatment of him and concluded that it might be possible that in after years he would return and live amongst them again. (Applause.)

Mr. C. D. Barr proposed "The House of Commons and the Legislative Assembly," to which Messrs. Stevenson, Blezard and Stratton replied.

"The Learned Professions" were honored with "For They are Jolly Good Fellows" and a hurrah. Messrs. J. D. McIntyre, D. W. Dumble, W. H. Moore, G. M. Roger, W. A. Stratton, L. H. Hayes, Dr. Bell responded.

"The Mercantile and Manufacturing Interests" were proposed. It was replied to by Messrs. Robt. Jaffray, Geo. H. Bertram and E. D. Gough for the mercantile interests, and Messrs. Wm. Lech, Wm. Hamilton and Peter Hamilton for the manufacturing.

Mr. Geo. A. Cox was called upon and received enthusiastically. He referred to his friendship toward Mr. Bertram in a feeling manner and eulogised his character.

Singing "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the Queen" brought the banquet to a close.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER

Announces that Mr. Chamberlain will Not Visit Ottawa.

OXFORD, N.S., Oct. 26.—In a speech to his constituents, Sir Charles Tupper said that Mr. Chamberlain had cabled to him that he could not visit Ottawa before going to Washington. Sir Charles Tupper said that instead of being harrassed with an election contest he ought to be in New York to meet Mr. Chamberlain on his arrival. In this crisis in Canada's history he appealed to the patriotism of the Liberal party not to weaken his hands by compelling him to devote to electioneering time that ought to be given to preparations for the meeting of the commission. As to his views on Commercial Union, Reciprocity, and the settlement of the Fishery Question, he felt he might be doing mischief at this time to make any public declaration regarding them, but at a future time he trusted and felt that he would be in a position to justify his course after the conference was held, and he was not without hope of exchanging congratulations with his people that one of the greatest matters the statesmen of the Anglo-Saxon race have to day to deal with has been finally settled, and in a manner conducive to the progress, prosperity and general well-being of the country he has the honor to represent.

A SEVERE CRITICISM

Of Lord Randolph Churchill, Lord Hartington and Others.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Mr. John Moberley addressed a crowded meeting last night at Halifax. Lord Randolph Churchill, he said, had gone to Newcastle to sow tares on some good man's ground. Lord Randolph Chutchill had declared that those who favored Home Rule favored anarchy; but did anarchy exist in the north of England, where the Liberals held sway? He could see symptoms of anarchy in London where the Tories were in power, but there was no more anarchy in Newcastle than in Windsor Castle. The Liberals, by the Nottingham conference, had taken a distinct step forward, while Lord Hartington, at the same place, had taken a distinct step backwards. The concessions which Lord Hartington asked for had been granted, but Lord Hartington would reject plans brought by an angel from heaven It was not concessions that had won the bye-elections, but the coercive bungling of the Government. A sign of hope for Ireland was the extension of English sympathy with the Irish people.

One Sentenced to Penitentiary for Life and the Other Twenty-One Years.

KINGSTON, Oct. 26.—This morning the police court was crowded to suffocation with curious people to hear the sentences imposed on the incendiaries who were captured, red handed, yesterday morning. The two men were escorted to the dock. Newman displayed bravado, his face alone being paler than usual. Andrews was sad and full of emotion. Both men were called to their feet, and Police Magistrate Duff addressed the young men on the enormity of their crime. He could find no excuse to grant them mercy. When he considered that the safety, confidence and peace of the community was on one hand and the liberty of two bad men on the other, he had no hesitation in doing his duty. Newman was given twenty-one years each on two charges of arson, but to run concurrently. Andrews he considered doubly guilty. As the older man, he had not prevented but encouraged crime. Under these circumstances he would commit him to the penitentiary for life. The sentences fell like thunderbolts on the prisoners. These sentences are the greatest that the Police Magistrate has ever imposed.

Wreck of a Chinese Troop Ship—Three Hundred Persons Drowned.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 26.—The steamer Gaelic arrived from the Orient this morning. She brings tidings that a Chinese troop ship, while making a voyage from Keeling to Tamsa, struck on the Pescadores and became a total loss. Of seven hundred troops and crew aboard, three hundred were drowned.

THE LAST OF HER RACE.

Madame Joly's Death—Her Ancestors and Relatives.

MONTREAL, Oct. 26.—By the death of Madame Joly, a name, that of Lotbiniere, which has figured in the annals of Canada since 1646—four years after the founding of Montreal—became extinct. Madame Joly was born in 1810, in the old house of the Marquis de Lotbiniere, which may still be seen on St. Sacrament street, being now occupied by the Grand Trunk offices. Madame Joly had two sisters, the late Mrs. Harwood, Seigneuresse of Vaudreuil and Cavagnal, and Mrs. Bingham, a sister-in-law of the late Lord Ashburton, of treaty fame. The three sisters were so noted for their beauty as to be styled "the three graces" by old Montreal society. Married in 1829 to Mr. Gustave Joly, a Swiss gentleman, the subject of this sketch had issue: Hon. G. H Joly, Edmund Joly, a lieutenant of the 32nd Regiment, who was cut to pieces by the Sepoys before Lucknow whilst endeavoring to join his ill-fated regiment, and Amelie, wife of Capt. Savage, R. E., and mother of the Vicomtesse de Coux. Decended from the oldest family of Canada, Madame Joly inherited all the bearing and instincts of her race, and observed an etiquette which was a strange contrast with the easy-going matter of fact ways of to-day. Her grandfather, the Marquis de Lotbiniere, was Engineer in Chief of New France, and he it was who built Fort Carillon and Fort Isle Aux-Noix, and it was acting on his advice than Montcalm awaited the coming of the English at Carillon, and won his greatest victory.

In the veins of Madame Joly there coursed some of the highest blood of France, namely that of the Chateaubriands, Chateaurenands, Polignacs, Montforts, Chateaubourgs, Montsauniers, the old Counts of Montat and the royal Dukes of Burgundy while in Canada she traced descent from the d'Amours, Le Gardeurs, de St. Ours, Duchesnays, de Lerys and de Neuvilles. In fact she may be said to have united in herself "the old regime."

The funeral will take place to-morrow at Vaudreuil. The remains left Quebec last night.

THE CZAR'S PERIL.

Mistaken for a Deer and Shot at—Break Down of the Royal Carriage.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—There was a dreadful catastrophe at the King of Denmark's battue party in the forest of Nirup, as the Crown Prince of Sweden was so unfortunate as to shoot one his Majesty's favourite dogs, which he killed on the spot. Nor was this all. Prince Waldemar of Denmark, who is very shortsighted, very nearly bagged more that he could have carried home in the shape of his brother-in-law, the Czar, who narrowly escaped being hit by his relative. The latter, squinting over his gun barrel in the dusk, mistook the Emperor of all the Russians for a deer, as his Majesty was concealed in a hollow among high ferns in order that he might get a shot a a herd of deer which were about to be driven along a neighbouring ride. It was an unlucky day altogether, for just as the party had started to return to Fredensburg the carriage broke down, and, except the Czar and Prince William of Nassau, who walked six miles home, the other royalties were kept waiting for an hour until another conveyance could be obtained.

The New Lieutenant-Governor.

QUEBEC, Oct. 26.—Judge Angers will take the oath of office as Lieut.-Governor on Saturday at 3 p.m. The oath will be administered by Judge Casault, a former legal partner of Mr. Augers. It is probable that His Honor will give a state dinner in the evening. Sir Narcisse Belleau has presented him with the state carriage which was constructed for his use when acting as first Lieut.-Governor of Quebec. It is expected that all the delegates attending the Inter-Provincial Conference will remain in the city to participate in the ceremonial. Hon. Mr. Mercier and other ministers, and a large number of friends of Hon. Mr. Angers will also be in attendance.

The Verdict

QUEBEC, Oct. 26.—The St. Andrew's wharf tragedy was practically cleared up last evening by the medical evidence, which showed that Moran's death had been unquestionably caused by submersion, and not by the wounds on his person, and the latter not being fatal, and having evidently been sustained through a fall, and through striking in the descent an iron spike projecting from the wharf. It was also satisfactorily demonstrated that there was space enough between the slip and the wharf for him to have passed through in falling. A verdict of death by submersion was accordingly returned.

The Doomed Anarchists.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Preparations are being silently made for the hanging of the Anarchists on November 11th. The sheriff has decided to limit the number of those to be present to a very few representatives of the press, and only to others that the law requires. It is said that Governor Oglesby will grant the condemned men a brief respite to prepare themselves for death. The women inmates have been requested by a gaol official to help make the shrouds and caps to be used at the execution.

Heavy Suit Against the C. P. R.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 26.—The Provincial Government to-day entered suit against the C.P.R. to recover the $250,000 guarantee given by the company when the agreement was entered into between the Province and the railway to extend the line from Port Moody to Vancouver. The defence was that the court granted an injunction, which prevented the railway from building the line in the allotted time, through no fault of their own. Judgment was reserved.

YOUNG'S POINT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

A TRIP TO KOSHKEBOGAMOG.—Through the courtesy of Mr. P. P. Young, proprietor of the Fairy, a number of gentlemen were enabled to enjoy an excursion to this delightful place. Leaving Young's Point about 4 o'clock in the evening, a very pleasant trip was made to the head of Stoney Lake and the mouth of Jack's Creek. The obliging Captain Scollard pointed out all the places of interest to the "tender-feet" on board. After tying up the "Commodore" issued orders for supper, and the "supercargo" and "chief of the commissariat" soon had a repast spread, which was done ample justice to, after which pipes and conversation until it was time to "turn in.". In the morning after breakfast the party arrayed themselves in light marching order, and under the guidance of "Mac." took up the trail, Indian file, for the mountain. After a very laborious tramp of about five miles, which severely taxed the pedestrian powers of some of the party, the famous mica mine was reached. Here in the heart of the red granite cliff, which rises abruptly from Mountain Lake, a shaft has been blasted, and the beautiful glittering metal lies exposed in huge veins on the sides, and bottom of the shaft. Our party examined everything very closely and loaded themselves down with specimens, after which we climbed the almost perpendicular rock to the summit to see the view, and the view amply repaid us. At our feet lay Mountain Lake, with its two outlets and no inlet. Farther away lay the beautiful Koshkebogamog Lake, twisting like a silver serpent through the beautiful forests on its shores, and having for a background majestic hills heavily wooded with timber. Turning the other way, Stoney and Clear lakes lay stretched out before us, while to the right, miles upon miles of forest stretched to the horizon. The magnificent height, the beautiful and rugged scenery, enhanced by the variegated colors of the forest, all combined to form a view worth going miles to see. Thanks to our local papers, the famous "North Country" is becoming better known, but your correspondent feels assured that there are still many who are doubting Thomases, or who are ignorant of its beauties. Deer and bear tracks were numerous, but a porcupine, a duck and a partridge were the game our hunters bagged. The return trip was all down hill and was made in an hour. Kishago had steam up and, with a fair wind, the Fairy soon reached the Point, landing her passengers satisfied with sight-seeing and adventure.

Correspondence of the Review.

LECTURE.—The Rev. A. Andrew Wilson, of Toronto, delivered a lecture on the Scottish Covenanters, in the Presbyterian Church on Oct. 19th. The attendance was fairly large. The reverend gentleman showed himself a thorough master of his subject, as he portrayed the early history of the Church of Scotland. The audience showed their interest by the very best attention and a vote of thanks at the close.

COW BY-LAW.—Quite an excitement was created on Queen street one day last week over an unruly cow. It seems that the owner cannot keep it in pasture. The cow in question has a weakness for the neighbour's cabbage, On this day it was caught in the act, and the officer whose duty it is to impound cattle was notified. The owner got wind of the affair, and both officer and owner arrived on the scene at the same time, then the performance opened with a few compliments on each side. Finally the officer undertook to start with his charge to the pound, assisted by the neighbours, but the cow and the owner did not want to go. After see-sawing around the block for half an hour, the cow gave them all the slip and is still at large.

LECTURE.—Professor Kent gave a lecture in the Town Hall on the evenings of the 22nd and 24th of Oct. Subject, "The Chemistry of Human Life." The lecture was both amusing and instructive, and well worthy of a larger audience. At the close the lecturer thanked the audience for their attention and the boys for their good conduct, and signified his intention of visiting our village again at no very distant day.

ON THE ROUNDS.—Our Tax Collector, Mr. Jas. Calder, has commenced paying the ratepayers their annual visit.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

OBIT.—It is with feelings of sadness that we chronicle the death of Mr. James McPherson, of this neighborhood, which took place on Monday, October 17th, after a irremediable illness of a couple of years. The funeral took place on the following Tuesday, at 2 30 p. m., and was attended by a large number of friends and relatives, who followed the remains to the Church of England burying ground near Cavanville, where it was interred.

PERSONAL.—Mr. and Mrs. H Fowler, of Lindsay, are out spending a few days among their friends here. Mr. Fowler has his double barrelled breechloader with him and he is spending his time partridge hunting, and of course it is death to a partridge when he sees one, but that is just the "leedle trick."

HASTINGS

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—On Friday last Mr. D. Black met with rather a painful accident. He had occasion to visit a Mr. Heffernan's, in Seymour, who was at the time engaged in threshing. Desiring to converse with the person engaged in driving, he attempted to step upon the horse power, but his foot slipped and was caught in the gear, which lacerated it in a painful manner. Fortunately no bones were injured.—Star.

Washed Overboard and Drowned.

San Francisco, Oct. 26—A dispatch received at the Merchants' Exchange from Valparaiso states that the British Bark Balaklava from London to San Francisco, was dismasted during a gale and had her deck stove in, off Cape Horn. She is now at Ancud. During the gale nine men, including the mate, were washed overboard and drowned.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.

A BATTLE WITH BRIGANDS.

BELGRADE, Oct. 26.—A sharp engagement has taken place on the frontier of Servia between Albanian brigands, who had attempted a raid into Servia, and a force of frontier guards. Ten Servians and twenty Albanians were killed. Five Servian battalions have been ordered to the frontier.

THE CROWN PRINCE.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—The Vossische Zeitung says the Crown Prince is greatly displeased at the manner in which the German papers have reported and commented upon his health. The Crown Prince has refused the bequest of a "France-hating Frenchman," who made the Prince residuary legatee of a large fortune.

AN ANCIENT CASTLE IN ASHES.

VIENNA, Oct. 26.—Prince Czartoryski's historic castle at Justovska, near Cracow, has been burned. The contents of the picture gallery, which occupied the whole of the second storey, were lost. The gallery contained a valuable collection of art curiosities.

AN "OLD SCHOOL" DYNAMITER.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The dynamiter who died at his lodgings in South London, yesterday, has been ascertained to have been a dynamiter of the old school, whose methods, as shown by the evidences he left behind, were of the kind that no dynamiter of the present day employs. The chief witnesses at the inquest will be the police, but although their information concerning the deceased is full and accurate their testimony will merely rehearse the old, old story. Not a single new scheme is suggested by the belongings and recent history of the dead man, and it is asserted by the Scotland Yard authorities that whatever he might have attempted to do would have been frustrated at the outset, so thoroughly conversant are they with the mode of procedure, adhering to fixed rules, pursued by dynamiters of his class.

THE RIOT ACT READ.

CORK, Oct. 26.—When Mr. Dillon was on his way to the station, yesterday, to take the train for Dublin, he was followed by a crowd, singing "God Save Ireland." While the procession was passing the King street barracks the police charged upon the crowd, using their batons freely. Mr. Dillon was about to deliver an address from his carriage, when Magistrate Gardner, who was in command of the police, read the Riot Act. The Mayor protested against this hasty action on the part of the Magistrate. On the advice of Mr. Dillon, Mr. Tanner and the Mayor, the crowd dispersed without making any further demonstration. Messrs. Cox, Tanner, Healy and other members of parliament were present. Mr. Dillon burned a copy of the Government proclamation.

ANOTHER SURVEY.

SIMLA, Oct. 26.—The Government proposes that an Anglo-Russian commission be dispatched in the spring of 1888, to survey the Afghan frontier on the Upper Oxus.

ASKED TO RESIGN.

FRANKFORT, Oct. 26.—The result of the turbulent meeting at Tours, France, yesterday was the adoption by a small majority of a resolution declaring that M. Wilson had betrayed his trust and must resign. M Wilson declared that he was not willing to do this, as the vote was the result of a coalition of the Monarchists and the intransigeants.

ANGLO-FRENCH CONVENTIONS.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—After a fair and careful discussion of the Anglo-French Convention relating to the Suez Canal, it is generally conceded that the treaty itself, together with its acceptance by both parties thereto, is an enormous triumph for Lord Salisbury, who personally conducted the negotiations, and will go a long way toward compensating for the Government's shortcomings in Ireland, and in the matter of local government, the neglect of Parliament to reform which has caused considerable agitation. The Tory press are jubilant over the signing of the Convention, and a majority of the Frenchnewspapers are equally well pleased though the gratification of the latter springs from entirely different grounds. The Soleil and other Paris journals assert that while the neutrality of the canal is not only desirable, but absolutely necessary, the intent of the treaty and the good results expected from it cannot be reached as long as Egypt is occupied by British troops. Neutral Egypt is quite as necessary as a neutral canal, and it is contended that the one must exist as a means of accomplishing the other beyond question.

A DEFIANT LAW BREAKER.

DUBLIN, Oct. 26.—Edward Harrington Nationalist Member of Parliament, has defied the Government to prevent his publishing reports of meetings of suppressed branches of the League.

A BLACKMAILING BUTLER.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—A man named Hartz, who was formerly butler to Mrs. John W. Mackay, has been sentenced to two years' imprisonment for demanding $2,400 from that lady on pain of divulging the alleged murder of a governess and a porter. Herts admitted his guilt and pleaded poverty.

WILL MEET IN WALES.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—A convention of the National League will open at Cardiff on Saturday next and will last three days. Commoners T. P. O'Conner, J. O'Connor, Cully, Foley and Biggar and a number of Welsh members will speak. The resolutions to be presented to the convention declare that the meeting represents 2,000,000 of the Irish race settled in Great Britain, that "we believe that Ireland will never be peaceful and prosperous until she has control of her own affairs" and that "we will stand with the people at home until their rights are won."

TWO MONTHS MORE

DUBLIN, Oct 26—Mr. Walsh, the editor of the Weekly People, who was sentenced yesterday to a month's imprisonment for publishing reports of meetings of suppressed branches of the National League, was condemned to-day to two months' imprisonment at hard labor on another charge. Four of the summonses gainst him were dismissed.

OUR TERRITORIAL RIGHTS.

In their strange medley of discordant war cries, while some opposition journals are clamouring that the Dominion authorities should give away our territorial rights in Canadian waters in order to induce the United States to crush out our Canadian industries, other opposition journals are raising an outcry that the British Commissioners are going basely to surrender those territorial rights.

Now we frankly admit our respectful regard for the Mother Country. But it is such respect as a son owes to a parent, not that of a slave for his master or even of a subject for his sovereign. It is not such self-effacement as to involve submission to an infringement upon our rights. The Canadian waters are of course technically part of the territory of the British Empire, but so are Canadian lands. If Great Britain proposed to surrender Cape Breton or Vancouver Island to a foreign power we would not submit, neither would we in the case of our waters.

Of course there is not the slightest reason to fear such an outrage, and we discuss it merely to show the utter absurdity of this opposition outcry.

Our territorial waters are part of Canada and our right to them must be respected. If we admit foreigners to participate in the enjoyment of them it should be in return for an adequate money rental or some other compensating advantage. There would be no compensation in an agreement whereby the United States might be free to crush our Canadian industries, or in the undertaking to cease from piracy in the Behring Sea.

If our neighbors think the treaty of 1818 unsatisfactory let it be rescinded, for we are quite contented to take our stand on international law.

THE OLD RECIPROCITY.

If Mr. Wiman is well informed as to public opinion in the United States, he presented in his speech at Brampton a most conclusive argument why Canada should not desire Commercial Union. He is reported by one of the Toronto journals supporting his agitation as speaking of "one half the Democratic States having accepted the President's view that raw materials and the necessaries of life—the very things which now Canada had chiefly to offer—should be admitted free." If this is the policy desired by the people of the United States, and Congress legislates accordingly, all that Canada would have to do would be to give effect to the provisions now in the Dominion statute books, and the old reciprocity would substantially be re-established. This is a policy for which Canada is prepared, and by it we would obtain all the benefits that Commercial Union could offer, without the drawbacks of crushing our home industries, discriminating against our fellow countrymen in other parts of the Empire, and giving to foreigners a voice of at least eleven to one in controlling our tariff.

Even if Mr. Wiman takes too sanguine a view of the readiness of his adopted countrymen to give free access to our raw materials and necessaries of life, it is at least certain that the tariff of the United States, in view of their excessive revenue, will tend in this direction. It is, therefore, injurious to our prospects in the present juncture to be proclaiming any willingness to concede our whole market to our neighbours.

We have made the first advance and now we should wait and see if the United States are not ready to meet us by such tariff changes as Mr. Wiman indicates.

Canada is often told by its would be-advisers that it should have the right to make treaties. It takes two to make a treaty and the difficulty is that nations will not deal with portions of another power. Perhaps these critics mean that we should cut adrift from the British Empire. Or perhaps they mean that we should annex ourselves to the United States, when, however, we would not have the treaty making power. That was settled against the claims of the several States a hundred years ago.

REVIEWS.

The Canadian Methodist Magazine.—A pathetic interest is given to the closing chapters of Lady Brassey's charming sketches of travel in the Magazine for November, "In the Trades, the Tropics and the Roaring Forties," by her recent death on board the Sunbeam, and burial at sea. The Editor contributes a well illustrated account of "Four Italian Cities"—Turin, Genoa, Pisa and Milan. Sophia M. Palmer gives a graphic sketch of "Jerusalem As It Is," with six engravings. "Two Female Poets of Methodism," exhibits a fine critical faculty and discloses rich poetic beauty. The Rev. J. H. Starr contributes a well-written "Story of a Useful Life"—that of the late G. H. Starr, of Halifax, N. S. The growing fame of Mrs. Amelia E. Barr is well sustained by her absorbingly interesting story of Methodist life in the West Riding of Yorkshire. Cannon Farrar's wise discourse on "How to Deal With Social Distress," gives practical suggestions on an important subject. One of the most valuable papers is by Professor Burwash on "The Present Aspect of University Federation," showing how increasingly feasible it is as compared with any other solution of the University question. The Editor contributes an editorial on "The New Victoria," with an excellent engraving of the new buildings in University Park, Toronto. A splendid announcement for 1888 is made.

THE WAR CLOUD BUSTED!

Victory has Perched on the Banner of PETERBOROUGH'S GREAT CHEAPSIDE.

And SHEPPARD, by common consent, will get $1,000 for being the Cheapest Clothier in Peterborough, having knocked the Wonderful Cheap Man completely out. "Business is business; dirt is dirt, and when it comes to throwing dirt, then count" the only original teddy out, and he will hand over that $1,000 like a little man, for the following reasons:—

SHEPPARD sells a full size Man's suit for $2.95, and better goods than a suit to fit a child about nine years old sold by the Wonderful Cheap Man on Saturday for $3.00; but marked $3.50. This is how it was.—A lady purchased a child's suit on Saturday last, Sept. 17th, 1887, at the store of the Wonderful Cheap Man. It was marked thusly:—Lot 5375, Breast 27, Waist 26½, Age 9, Price $3.50. It was pure shoddy being held together by cotton threads, and Sheppard is free to say that that was the dearest suit sold in the Town of Peterborough for the last two years. Full particulars are given because of the $1,000 involved, and, further, that this decides who is selling the Cheapest Clothing in Peterborough. SHEPPARD would have sold that lady a suit, pure wool, for that money, and worth two of the one she got.

$1,000 to Go to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

I had first decided to give the agencies a chance of jumping up my rating that $1,000, but after considering the matter and finding that never in any case have I been asked for an endorser to my paper, and that no relative or any other persons have ever endorsed my paper to the extent of one cent, I have come to the conclusion my credit is as good as yours, and will ask you to hand over the $1,000 to the Charitable Institutions of Peterborough.

Now, Sir, there is a good story told, the truth of which can be vouched for, but for the honor of at least making an effort to keep up your self-styled name—The Terror of High Priced Clothiers—do not allow the same to be said of you in the case above. A man purchased a suit for $15.00 at the store of one of the largest advertisers in that section of country. It was guaranteed pure wool; but after examining it carefully at home, he came to the conclusion that he had been dealing with some one sharper than himself. Finding a make of wool, differing some from anything he had ever seen, it dawned upon him that he had heard of wool of that kind, so the suit was returned. The merchant bet $25.00 that it was all wool, and the bet was accepted, the decision being left to a neighboring merchant. He found that the $15.00 suit was wool faced and shoddy back, pure unadulterated shoddy; but what of the $25.00 bet? was it paid? Not much—muchly—as it were.

SHEPPARD, GEORGE STREET EAST, PETERBORO'

Town Clock Overhead.

Such an idea as a community giving a preference in commerce to foreigners over fellow countrymen is absolutely unprecedented in the world's history. It is true that such a policy has sometimes been adopted, but only as part of a general revolution accepting the foreigners as fellow countrymen and declaring the former fellow countrymen to be aliens.

The First Symptoms

Of all Lung diseases are much the same: feverishness, loss of appetite, sore throat, pains in the chest and back, headache, etc. In a few days you may be well, or, on the other hand, you may be down with Pneumonia or "galloping Consumption." Run no risks, but begin immediately to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Several years ago, James Birchard, of Darien, Conn., was severely ill. The doctors said he was in Consumption, and that they could do nothing for him, but advised him, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine, two or three months, he was pronounced a well man. His health remains good to the present day.

J. S. Bradley, Malden, Mass., writes: "Three winters ago I took a severe cold, which rapidly developed into Bronchitis and Consumption. I was so weak that I could not sit up, was much emaciated, and coughed incessantly. I consulted several doctors, but they were powerless, and all agreed that I was in Consumption. At last, a friend brought me a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. From the first dose, I found relief. Two bottles cured me, and my health has since been perfect."

CHAPTER VIII.

OUT OF THE GOLDEN MIST.

We were back again at Rousdon—Dan Gulliver and Job and I—to begin again such portion of the old life as was possible. "We will go on," said Dan, sadly, "just as we used to go on before ever he came. We will forget that he ever came. You will forget that you are a young lady."

Alas! not only was the old time gone, but nothing like it could ever come again. Will had torn up the old time and thrown it away. It was dead. But the memory was left. One could sit and think till day after day that summer of 1803 unrolled itself again, and I could remember every word he said, even the lightest, with every gesture and every look.

The people at Lyme welcomed us all with a cordiality which meant not only gratitude for the past, but hope for the future. Since that dreadful day of rebuke when Joshua's delivery of goods was discovered to be so much sea-water and nothing else, the town had been without brandy. Campion's fine old Jamaica rum, well enough in its way, was a poor substitute for the right good Nantes which Dan had provided. A taste had been developed which was doomed to disappointment, for no one succeeded Dan. A man cannot suddenly become a smuggler. Relations have to be established on the opposite shore, a connection to be formed at home; it is a business which is the growth of years. Now Dan represented the third, and his sons the fourth generation, of a long career in the trade, during which the whole business for this part of the coast had dropped into the hands of Gulliver & Company, smugglers to the nobility, gentry and clergy of Lyme Regis and the surrounding country. Imagine, therefore, what a blow it was to the district when the fatal arrest happened, followed by the dreadful discovery of the sea water. So that, when we came home again, there were visits paid to us not only of congratulation on our return, and condolence for poor Jephthah, but also of hope and temptation Mr. Mallock, J. P., walked all the way from Lyme on purpose to see his old friend again, and to hint that the naked condition of his cellar, as regarded French brandy, was deplorable. The Rev. Benjamin Burden, who, long before the end of Dan's two years' captivity, had got through his four kegs, came to say that he was reduced to cider, and that of the thinnest. Dan received these visitors with great politeness, but held out no hopes that the old trade would be revived. First, he said, the Dancing Polly was gone; he should never again find a boat he could trust so well; then his nephew, Joshua Meech, was gone, pressed while busy with the kegs; though how them kegs turned out to be sea water he couldn't say; and Jephthah was gone; and he was getting old, and a second conviction meant a capital sentence. Then his money in John Huntspill's hands was bringing him a little income by itself, and he had given his promise not to smuggle any more. I think the old man had learned to look on smuggling, compared with the great game of war, as a small thing.

It was strange to come back to this queer atmosphere, in which crime appeared no sin and law breaking was encouraged by the administrators of the law. The strangeness passed off after awhile, and then the two years of life in the stately house of the old city square appeared, in its turn, dreamy and unreal.

We came back to the old place, and began in a broken winged way to resume the old ways. Then, naturally, I began to make the house and the housekeeping more in accordance with my recently acquired ideas. Dan acquiesced, wondering; Job tried to adapt himself to my ways with the good will which always distinguished him, but with less success. He betook himself to work on the farm, and in assuming the smock frock immediately changed, just as he used to do, the roll of the sailor for the slouch of the laborer.

John Huntspill wrote to me from time to time. Madam made no sign of relenting. She never asked for news of me; she had withdrawn her confidence from him; she never spoke to any one about her son; she sat silent all the day long, pale and stern. Her heart was full of bitterness.

When Dan began to talk about Joshua, and to regret the misfortunes which befell him, I considered that it would be well to conceal my share in them, and the fact of his treachery. When he came home again—should he ever come home—it would be time to consider what steps should be taken. For the present it seemed better to leave the old man in the belief that Joshua's troubles were undeserved. Indeed, it would have been difficult to persuade him that his own nephew could be guilty of so foul and dastardly a crime. For my own part, I hoped that he would never come home again. "A life for a life," I said bitterly. "As he destroyed my Will's life, so let his be taken away."

It was in the dark days of December that we came back to Rousdon. The wintry weather suited the misery of my mind. Yet after a time the old charm of the sea fell upon me and soothed me. Dan painted and calked the little boat. I put out to sea in her again during the soft, smooth mornings common in winter on the south coast, when the sun floats bathed in a soft yellow mist, itself a disk of molten gold; when, if you see a boat, her masts and hull are wrapped round with a yellow haze, like those of a float in a dream. Sometimes Dan came with me, and we sailed or rowed, silent, thinking of the days that could come no more.

"There was no one like him," said Dan, one day when we had been sitting quiet in the boat for an hour and more. "There never was no one like him, and never will be. Joshua had his good points. For a rough night at sea and a ready hand, Joshua never had his equal. But Joshua was grumpy. He took after his father in such respects. Now Mr. Campion, he was always laughing, always talking, always ready to do a hand's turn for everybody. Nobody like him. And to think of!"—

"Don't, Dan! don't!" I murmured with the tears coming into my eyes.

We had a dreary Christmas that winter, though after service in the poor old barn, which had gone nearly roofless since Dan went away, the Rev. Mr. Burden came to take his dinner with us. A turkey from the farm yard furnished the meal, and afterward Dan, with a guilty look, produced a bottle of rum. Mr. Burden shook his head sadly, but spent the rest of the day over the drink in company with Dan, and departed in the evening with legs which showed a tendency to tie themselves into knots.

Then the days began to grow longer, and the spring flowers appeared on the Undercliff, till all the ground was covered with the pale primrose. It must have been about this time that everything began to look as if it belonged to a dream. I am not sure when that strange feeling began; I knew, however, that Dan used to follow me about, and was loath to let me go out of his sight, for fear, I suppose, that, being in this dreamy way, I might fall into mischief and do myself some injury. Also, he began to talk of doctors, and going to Lyme for a change. Poor old Dan!

The place was so quiet, so remote from all external influences, that one fell back easily upon one's own brooding thoughts; I had no duties and no distractions. Dan was not a great talker, and Job was actually dumb, so that I lived in a dream, and it was a dream of the past.

One night I could not sleep. It was in the middle of August, when there is little darkness on the sea, but only a luminous twilight. I rose about midnight, and dressed myself quickly, thinking I should escape Dan's attentions, and stole down stairs into the open air, just as I had done two years and a half before, to watch for the return of the Dancing Polly. It was not, as then, a rough and boisterous night; there had been all day a fresh breeze blowing from the southeast. This had died away and there was little air left. I slowly passed down the well known path, to sit by the shore and think of my poor dead Will. I sat there while the night slipped away. I was facing the mouth of the little creek, looking straight out to sea.

When the morning broke there was a light fog upon the water, which the sun, when it rose, colored with a beautiful hue, changing every minute. I remembered then—heaven knows how!—that it was the 14th of August, and three years, since first I saw my Will. As I gazed seaward, looking through the fog, I became aware of a ghost.

THE J. S. M'LACHLAN INSURANCE.

The following appears in the Shareholder and Insurance Gazette, of October 21st:—

"The wrangle between the Sun and the Citizens' Insurance Companies over the re-insurance by the former with the latter of $5,000, one-half the amount of an accident policy taken by the late J. S. McLachlan with the former company, and which culminated in a law suit, came to an abrupt termination on Wednesday. The trial of the case began on Tuesday morning in the Superior Court. Witnesses were examined to prove the payment by the Sun Company of the amount mentioned in the policy, and certain letters which had passed between the managers of the two companies were produced to show the arrangements which existed between them on the subject of renewals of re-assurances. The pretention of the defendant company was that the re-assurance had expired and had not been renewed, and that consequently there was no contract between the two companies. The production of the letters referred to above and the evidence adduced were of a nature to dispel this impression, and on its disclosure the company defendant at once fyled a declaration confessing judgment for the amount. This puts an end to what seems to us to have been an unnecessary law suit, which the exercise of coolness, judgment and discretion would have avoided. It is to be regretted that recourse was had to law proceedings when it now appears that no necessity for them existed. It is to be hoped that the example thus furnished to managers of insurance and other companies will have a salutary effect upon such as display an undue proclivity to wards litigation. The prompt payment of the full amount of the policy without cavil, on being satisfied of McLachlan's death, has done more than almost anything else could do to raise the Sun Company and its manager in the estimation and confidence of the public. Those who deal with insurance companies want to be satisfied that after their removal there will not be any disputing or delay respecting the payment of the risk."

WORKINGMEN RUINED

At a meeting held in Hyde Park not long ago Mr. Kelley said that fifteen years ago there were thirty-three sugar refineries in East London, employing 18,000 men. Now there are only two of those refineries throughout the whole of that district. All the others had been crushed out by the unfair bounty system of France, Austria, Russia, Belgium, Holland, and other continental countries. By the operation of this bounty system he said that more than 50,000 men were thrown out of employment in the large cities of Great Britain. The docks, too, were suffering from the decline of the sugar trade.—Montreal Star (Indep.)

A PARTIZAN CONSPIRACY

The fact that the Inter-Provincial Conference is to be a private one deprives it greatly of character and importance. It begins to look as though there might be some truth in the aspersions of the Conservatives to the effect that the Conference is largely a partizan conspiracy. If the Conference is meeting to further Liberal co-operation against Sir John Macdonald, there can not be too much secrecy. If it is meeting to discuss the relations between the Dominion and the Provinces with a view to a useful revision of the principle of Confederation, there cannot be too much publicity.—Ottawa Journal (Indep.)

ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP A HOUSE

DUBLIN, Oct. 25.—It is reported from Cavan that an attempt was made to blow up the house of County Inspector Rodger. Powder was rammed tightly in an iron box and placed on the sill of a window. The explosion caused great damage, but no loss of life.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

I. O. O. F.

The degree team of Otonabee Lodge, I. O. O. F., meets this evening.

In a Hole.

This afternoon while one of the men engaged in uncovering the sewer on George street was digging in a trench in front of the REVIEW office the banks fell in and he had some difficulty in escaping burial.

Canton No. 10.

Canton No. 10 drilled on Wednesday night with a full complement of chevaliers. The Canton is progressing well in the intricate parts of the drill. The Captain should bring out his men soon to let the citizens see their discipline and new uniforms.

Improvements.

Mr. Fred Potvin, the progressive tonsorial artist, next door to the Grand Central Hotel, has made alterations and improvements in his shop, and it is now furnished with the best equipments that can be procured.

Hooked his Stovepipe.

A man appeared before Acting Chief Adams at the Police Court this morning and complained that some one had taken the stovepipe out of his chimney. He said he had a good idea who it was and he wanted law. He was referred to Mr. Dumble.

LADIES! you will find TURNBULL'S the right house to buy yarns of all shades at Right Prices.

Now Open.

Chamberlain's oyster parlor is now open for the season. Oysters will be served at all hours in styles to suit the tastes of our patrons. After this week shell oysters will be kept constantly on hand. Porter-house steaks, chops, etc., prepared on the shortest notice. d69-tf

Shanty Supplies.

Mr. Robt. Wainwright has contracted with Mr. Mossom Boyd, Bobcaygeon, to supply the latter's nine lumber shanties in the township of Snowden with beef during the fall and winter. He has also contracted to supply Gilmour & Co. a large quantity of beef. It will take one hundred and fifty cattle to satisfy these wants.

Through the Locks.

Mr. Goodwin's steamer passed through the Burleigh and Buckhorn locks on Wednesday, being the first steam vessel to do so. The boat went up for a dredge, which had been brought to Buckhorn from Lindsay, and towed it to Burleigh to do some dredging at the entrance to the Burleigh locks. The gates on the Burleigh and Buckhorn locks are almost completed.

Fire.

A few minutes to two o'clock this morning a residents living opposite the Wm. Hamilton Co's foundry was awakened by kicking at the door. He got up to find that a small roughcast house near by was ablaze. It was with some difficulty that the flames were prevented from spreading to the adjoining sheds and houses before the Fire Brigade arrived. After this the fire was soon quenched. The place was the property of Mr. T. Stothart and it was not insured.

A Hint.

Housekeepers who have not got in their winter's supply of coal should get it at once. There is scarcely a possibility of a reduction in price and there is a strong probability that there will be an advance. The price charged here for all kinds of house coal is proportionately 90 cents per ton less than the price charged in Toronto. The charge here is $6.50 and the charge in Toronto is the same, while Peterborough coal dealers have to pay 90 cents per ton freight. Either the Toronto men are making a big haul or the Peterborough men are selling at a very narrow margin.

If you want the BEST the VERY BEST boots, go to KIDD'S.

DEED OF A DASTARD.

The Residence of Dr. Fife Fired by an Incendiary—Coal Oil Again Used.

This morning at about half-past one o'clock another attempt was made by a person or persons, unknown to the police officers, to set a citizen's residence on fire.

This time Dr. Fife's house was chosen for attack. Coal oil was poured from a large bottle under the front door, flowing under the oil cloth in the hall a considerable distance back, and even getting into the parlor. It was ignited and the blaze leaped up the height of the door. The doctor was awakened by the smell of smoke before the fire had gone far. He quickly called his sons up, and they made haste to extinguish the flam which was by this time burning up from the inside of the door. A tub of water which was kept at hand was used effectually. When the blaze was put out the house was filled with smoke so as to necessitate the opening of windows and doors The door was charred half way up on each side and blackened almost to the top, while at the bottom of the door the fire had nearly made its way under the floor.

This is the fourth attempt recently made to set fire to residences, and in each case the attempt was made very much in the same way, coal oil being used to ignite the wood. The Mayor's offer of a reward for the apprehension of the incendiaries was a proper act, but in view of the fact that it has not deterred the criminals from again trying to burn the house of a citizen, further steps should be taken with a view to protection. It may be that the front door was not the best place for an incendiary to choose to burn the house, yet the terrible probability is that if the fire had not been discovered for a few minutes long Dr. Fife and his family would have found their home in a blaze and the fire in the stairway, shutting off escape. A system of terrorism even if stupidly carried out, cannot be allowed to prevail, and vigorous action should be taken to discover the perpetrators of the act and to afford adequate protection. Yesterday two incendiaries were sentenced at Kingston, one to twenty years and the other to life imprisonment, and a similar punishment, if the Peterborough fire bugs can be caught, would soon put an end to such doings.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

Opening of the Chancery Sitting by Mr. Justice Robertson.

The autumn sittings of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice was opened at the Court House at one o'clock this afternoon, Mr. Justice Robertson presiding.

The docket was as follows:—

CHARLTON VS. ARMSTRONG et al—Mr. E. B. Edwards for the plaintiff and Mr. John Burnham for the defendant.

MERRIAM VS. MCCREA et al—Mr. E. B. Stone for the plaintiff and Mr. C. R. Irwin, Brighton, for the defendant.

HAMILTON VS. POUSSETTE et al—Messrs. Dumble & Leonard for the plaintiff and Mr. A. P. Poussette, Q.C., for the defendant.

MCMURTRY VS. MCMURTRY—Messrs. Dumble & Leonard for the plaintiff and Mr. E. B. Stone for the defendant.

PETERBOROUGH REAL ESTATE INVESTMENT CO. VS. WATT—Messrs. Hall & Hayes for the plaintiff and Messrs. Smith & Cruikshank, of Cobourg, for the defence.

His Lordship ascended to the Bench at one o'clock.

The bar was represented at the opening of the court by Messrs. N. W. Hoyles, Toronto; E. H. D. Hall, D. W. Dumble, John Burnham, W. H. Moore, C. W. Sawers and E. B. Edwards, Peterborough.

Judging by the scant attendance the docket contained no case of public interest.

The case Charlton vs. Armstrong et al was the first brought before the court.

TURNBULL'S direct importations of Mantle Cloths please everybody. The styles are new and prices are very low.

A Debate.

A meeting of the Literary and Debating Society, organized a short time ago in connection with St. Peter's Cathedral congregation, was held in the Murray Street School on Wednesday evening. The subject of the debate for the evening was:—"Resolved, that the man who reads is a better informed man than the man who travels." Dr. Collins led the affirmative and Mr. Frank Wilson led the negative. The following speakers took the floor advocating alternately the affirmative and negative:—Messrs. Begley, Dr. Brennan, Roach, Doherty, R. Begley, J. Dolon, J. Hurley, M. Hackett, E. D. Gough, J. P. Hurley, W. O'Brien and J. J. Sheehy. The President, Mr. J. D. McIlmoyle, who occupied the chair, summed up and decided in favor of the affirmative. On Wednesday evening next the following will be discussed:—"Resolved, that the fame of Napoleon I. is more lasting than that of Wellington."

Personal.

Mr. J. H. Land, of Hamilton, Dominion Secretary of the Royal Templars of Temperance, is in town attending the Chancery Court as a witness in the case of McMurtry vs. McMurtry.

Mr. S. Clegg is ill with malairal fever.

Mr. A. Hall has been confined to his bed for some time with rheumatism.

Mr. John McPherson and Mrs. McPherson have returned home from their wedding trip.

The First Car Load.

On Wednesday the first car load of iron was delivered at the new premises of the Central Bridge Works. It was brought to Peterborough by the Grand Trunk and, then being transferred to the C. P. R., was shunted in the siding into the works.

REV. MR. SPURGEON

Withdraws From the Baptist Union—His Points of Difference.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Rev. Mr. Spurgeon has withdrawn from the Baptist Union. In announcing his decision to withdraw and replying to his critics, he says:—"To pursue union at the expense of the truth is treason to Jesus. To tamper with His doctrine is to become traitors to Him. We have before us the wretched spectacle of professedly orthodox Christians publicly avowing union with those who deny the faith, call the fall of man a fable and deny the personality of the Holy Goast." Replying to the question why he does not start a new denomination, he says that it is a question for which he has no liking, that there are enough denominations already, and that if another were formed the thieves and robbers who have entered the other gardens walled around would enter it also, so nothing would be gained. The Baptists generally regret Mr. Spurgeon's decision, and are urging him to reconsider it.

Stapleton's Coming Sales.

SATURDAY, Oct. 29th.—General Sale of Horses, Buggies, Harness, Household furniture, &c, on the Market Square. Sale at 10 a. m.

THURSDAY, Nov. 3.—Unreserved Sale of Farm Stock, Implements, &c., of Mr. Jas. McGregor on his premises Lot 10 in 7 con of Otonabee, about two miles west of Keene. Sale at 12.30.

SATURDAY, Nov. 5.—Mortgage sale of farm and stone Quarry Properties in the Township of Dummer, east ½ of 14 in 1st and 13 in 2nd. Sale at Cavanagh's Hotel at 2 p. m.

TUESDAY, Nov. 15.—Important sale of farm stock, implments, &c., of Mr. Robt N. Scott on his premises lot 8 east of communication road in the Township of Smith. Sale at 12.30.

Immigration Returns.

OTTAWA, Oct, 26.—The immigration returns since Jan. 1st show a most gratifying increase over the same period last year, the arrivals so far having been 117,494, as as compared with 92,105. The number of settlers in Canada was 62,185, being an increase of over 11,000 on last year. These figures, however, do not give the total increment, as returns from Victoria, B. C., which is an important point, are not included in this estimate. Manitoba and the North-West Territories drew some 12,000 persons from the new arrivals, or an increase of over 50 per cent. as compared with last year. The statement is all the more gratifying when it is remarked that there have been no assisted passages this year except to female domestics, farm laborers, and those who have actually taken up land.

Very Grave Charges.

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 26.—A Portland special says: "Capt. P. Spear, whose home has been in Portland for some time, makes serious charges against the management of the Sailors' Snug Harbor on Staten Island, N. Y. Capt. Spear alleges that old men are hurried off to the insane asylum for complaining to Capt. Ambrose Snow, and that pension money does not always reach the right pockets.

Afraid of Absolutism.

CITY OF MEXICO, Oct 26.—The Monitor, commenting on the adoption of the constitutional amendment permitting the election of president for two consecutive terms, says: President Diaz has been faithless to his political creed, and declares that the principal of reelection is the first step towards the establishment of absolutism.

The Canes of the Dudes.

The canes of the dudes take on wondrous forms. Ed Knox, who went over to London this summer, told me something about it the other day. The stick itself is nothing. It may be bamboo, rattan or witch hazel. But the head is the thing. The real English fashion is to have the head so large and so odd that no one else can have anything like it. These heads are of carved and stained ivory or silver. Representations of crocodiles' heads, elephants' heads, turbaned Turks, swarthy negroes, dogs, horses, birds and rabbits are all brought into use.

One cane made in London for a special New York order is the head of a member of the Old Guard with his bear skin cap. It is of silver. Another is a globe with a map of the world, and still another is a cigarette and match box combined. Among horseman the fashionable thing is to have a hollow stick like a sword cane, from which may be drawn a measure for the height of horses. The ugly face of Mephistopheles is utilized as a cane ornament by a Fifth avenue saunterer, and some Englishmen carry ivory busts of Queen Victoria since the jubilee. The cost of such canes is $25 to $75.—New York Tribune.

Danger in Flour Dust.

Be careful in handling naked lights around bolting chests. Not long ago a correspondent entered a mill and found the miller searching for his hair, eyebrows and beard. He was inspecting a bolting chest, using an unprotected light to illuminate the interior. No sooner was the light thrust into the chest than the miller was startled by a flash and a shock. When he picked himself up his head was as bald as a celluloid billiard ball and his flowing beard was floating around the mill in gaseous form, sensible only to the nose. Fortunately the fire did not spread and the accident was not reported.—Milling World.

Masonic Portraits.

The Rev. V. Clementi, Past Grand Chaplain of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Canada, has presented to Corinthian Lodge his portrait in the regalia of that office. He has also given the Lodge a portrait of the late Judge Wilson, Past Grand Master of Canada. These gifts will assist in the decoration of the handsome new hall, and the example should be followed. Such portraits will in the future have a great interest for the members.

Conference.

A conference of workers in connection with the Young Men's Christian Association will be held in the rooms this evening.

In the fishery question the rights of Canada are nothing, while the rights of the United States are everything—to The Mail.
